55 Because the Lord hath laid Babel waste and destroyed from her the great voyce, & her waues shal roare like great waters, and a founde was made by their noice.

56 Because the destroyer is come vpon her, euen vpon Babel, and her strong men are taken, their bowes are broken: for the Lord God that recompenceth, shal surely recompence.

57 And I wil ^b make drunke her princes, and her wise men, her dukes, and her nobles, & her strong men: & thei shal slepe a perpetual slepe, and not wake, saith the King, whose Name is the Lord of hostes.

58 Thus saith ^g the Lord of hostes, The ^h thicke wall of Babel shalbe broken, and her hye gates shalbe burnt with fyre, and the people shal labour in vaine, and the folke in the fyre, for thei shalbe weary.

60 So Ieremiáh wrote in a boke all the euil that shulde come vpon Babel: euen all these things, that are written against Babel.

61 And Ieremiáh said to Sheraiáh, When thou comest vnto Babel, and shalt se, and shalt read all these wordes, 62 Then shalt thou say, O Lord, thou hast spokē against this place, to destroye it, that none shulde remaine in it, nether man nor beast, but ^l it shulde be desolate for euer.

63 And when thou hast made an end of reading this boke, thou shalt binde a ^m stone to it, and cast it in the middes of Euphrates,

4 Ierusalem is taken. 10 Zedekiahs sonnes are killed before his face, and his eyes put out. 13 The citie is burned. 11 Iehoiachin is brought forth of prison, and fed like a King.

Zedekiah was one & twentie yere olde when he began to reigne, and he reigned eleuen yeres in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Hamutál, the daughter of Ieremiáh of Libnáh.

5 And he did euil in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Iehoiakim had done.

6 Doubtes because the wrath of the Lord was against Ierusalem and Iudáh, til he had cast them out from his presence, therefore Zedekiah rebelled against ^o King of Babel.

7 But in the ninth yere of his reigne, in the ^p tenth moneth ^q the tenth day of ^r the tenth moneth came Nebuchad-nezzár King of Babel, he & all his hoste against Ierusalem, & pitched against it, & buylt fortes against it rounde about.

8 So the citie was besieged vnto ^s the eleuenth yere of the King Zedekiah.

9 Now in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, the famine was sore in the citie, so that there was no more bread for the people of the land.

10 Then the citie was broken vp and all the men of warre fled, and went out of the citie by night, by the ^t way of the gate betweene the two walles, which was by the Kings garden: (now the Caldeans were by the citie rounde about) and thei went by the way of the wildernes.

11 But the armie of the Caldeans pursued after the King, and toke Zedekiah in the desert of Ierichó, & all his hoste was scattered from him.

12 Then thei toke the King and caryed him vp vnto the King of Babel to Ribláh in the land of Hamáth, ^u where he gaue iudgement vpon him.

13 And ^v the King of Babel slewe the sonnes of Zedekiah, before his eyes: he slewe also all the princes of Iudáh in Ribláh.

14 Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, & the King of Babel bounde him in chaines, and caryed him to Babel, and put him in prison til the day of his death.

15 Now in the fift moneth in the ^w tenth day of the moneth (which was the nintenth yere of the King Nebuchad-nezzár King of Babel) came Nebuzar-adán chief steward ^x which stode before the King of Babel in Ierusalem, 16 And burnt the House of the Lord, and the Kings house, and all the houses of Ierusalem, and all the great houses burnt he with fyre.

17 And all the armie of the Caldeans ^y were with the chief steward, brake downe all the walles of Ierusalem rounde about.

18 Then Nebuzar-adán the chief steward caryed away captiue certaine of the poore of the people, & the residue of the people that remained in ^z the citie, & those that were fled, & fallen to the King of Babel, with the rest of the multitude.

19 But Nebuzar-adán ^{aa} the chief steward left certaine of the poore of the land, to dresse the vines, and to til the land.

20 Also the ^{ab} pillars of brasie that were in the House of the Lord, & the bases, & the brasen Sea, that was in the House of the Lord, the Caldeans brake, and caryed all the brasie of them to Babel.

LAMENTACIONES.

CHAP. I.

1 The Prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Ierusalem. And sheweth that they are plagued because of their finnes. The first and seconde chapter begun e euery Verse according to the letters of the Ebrewe Alphabet. The thrid hath the thre Verses for euery letter, & the fourth is as the first.

2 The Prophet wondereth at the great iudgement of God being Ierusalem, which was so strong & so full of people, to be now destroyed and desolate. Which had chief rule ouer many prouinces and countreys.

c So that she taketh no rest. Meaning, the Egyptians, the Assyrians, & promised help.

How doeth^a the cite remaine solitarie that was full of people? she is as a widow: she that was great among the nations and^b pryncesse among the prouinces, is made tributarie.

2 She wepeth continually in the^c night, & her teares ranne downe by her chekes: among all her^d louers, she hath none to comfort her: all her friends haue delt vnfaithfully with her, & are her enemies.

3 Iudáh is caryed away captiue, because^e of affliction, and because of great seruitude: she dwelleth among the heathē, & findeth no rest: all her persecuters toke her in the^f cities.

like harts that finde no pasture, & thei are gone without strength before the pursuer.

Ierusalem remembered the daies of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and all her pleasant things, that she had in times past, when her people fell into the hand of the enemy, & none did helpe her: y aduersaries sawe her, & did mocke at her sabbaths.

Ierusalem hathe grievously sinned, therefore she is in derision: all y honoured her, despise her, because thei haue sene her filthines: yea, she sigheth and turneth backward.

Her filthines is in her skirtes: she remembered not her last end, therefore she came downe wonderfully: she had no comforter: O Lord, beholde mine affliction: for the enemy is proude.

The enemy hathe stretched out his had vpon all her pleasant things: for she hathe sene the heathen entre into her Sanctuarie, whome thou didest comandē, that they shulde not entre into thy Church.

All her people sigh and seke their bread: they haue giuen their pleasant things for meat to refresh the soule: se, O Lord, & consider: for I am become vile.

Haue ye no regarde, all ye that passe by this way: beholde, & se, if there be any sorrowe like vnto my sorrowe, which is done vnto me, wherewith the Lord hathe afflicted me in the day of his fierce wrath.

From aboue hathe he sent fyre into my bones, which preuaile against them: he hathe spread a net for my fete, & turned me backe: he hathe made me desolate, & daily in heauines.

The yoke of my transgressions is bounde vpon his hand: they are wrapped, and come vp vpo my necke: he hathe made my strength to fall: y Lord hathe deliuered me into their hands, nether am I able to rise vp.

The Lord hathe troden vnder fote all my valiant men in the middes of me: he hathe called an assemblie against me to destroy my yong men: the Lord hathe troden the wine presse vpon the virgine the daughter of Iudah.

* For these things I wepe: mine eye, mine eye casteth out water, because the comforter that shulde refresh my soule, is farre from me: my children are desolate, because the enemy preuailed.

Zion stretcheth out her hands, and there none to comfort her: the Lord hathe appointed the enemies of Iacob rounde about him: Ierusalem is as a menstruous woman in the middes of them.

The Lord is righteous: for I haue rebelled against his commandement: heart, I pray you, all people & beholde my sorrow: my virgines and my yong men are gone into captiuitie.

I called for my louers, but they deceiued me: my Priests and mine Elders perished in the citie while they sought their meat to refresh their soules.

Beholde, O Lord, how I am troubled: my bowels swell: mine heart is turned within me, for I am full of heauines: the sworde spoyleth abroad, as death doeth at home.

They haue heard that I mourne, but there none to comfort me: all mine enemies haue heard of my trouble, & are glad, that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring the day, that thou hast pronounced, and they shalbe like vnto me.

Let all their wickednes come before thee: do vnto them, as thou hast done vnto me, for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, and mine heart is heauie.

CHAP. II.

How hathe the Lord darkened the daughter of Zion in his wrath, and hathe cast downe from heauen vnto the earth the beautie of Israel, & remembered not his fote stole in the day of his wrath!

The Lord hathe destroyed all the habitacions of Iacob, and not spared: he hathe throwen downe in his wrath the strong holdes of the daughter of Iudah: he hathe cast them downe to the ground: he hathe polluted the kingdome and the princes thereof.

He hathe cut of in his fierce wrath all the thorne of Israel: he hathe drawe backe his right hand from before the enemy, and there was kindled in Iacob like a flame of fyre, which deuoured rounde about.

He hathe bet his bowe like an enemy: his right hand was stretched vp as an aduersarie, and slewe all that was pleasant to the eye in the tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he powred out his wrath like fyre.

The Lord was as an enemy: he hathe deuoured Israel, & consumed all his palaces: he hathe destroyed his strong holdes, and hathe increased in the daughter of Iudah lamentacion and mourning.

For he hathe destroyed his tabernacle, as a garden, he hathe destroyed his congregation: y Lord hathe caused the feasts & Sabbaths to be forgottē in Zion, & hathe despised in the indignacion of his wrath the King and the Priest.

The Lord hathe forsaken his altar: he hathe abhorred his Sanctuarie. he hathe giue into the hand of the enemy the walles of her palaces: thei haue made a noyse in the House of y Lord, as in the day of solenitie.

The Lord hathe determined to destroye the wall of the daughter of Zion: he stretched out a line: he hathe not withdrawn his had from destroying: therefore he made the rampart and the wall to lament: they were destroyed together.

f That is, they dyed for hunger.

t Of desiring vengeance against the enemy, read Iere. 17. 20. & 18. 21. Or, gather she like grapes.

 Chap III
 a The Prophet complaineth of the punishments and afflictions that he endured by the false Prophetes & hypocrites, when he declared the destruction of Ierusalém, as Ierem 20, 2-6 He speaketh thus as one y^e felt Gods heauie iudgements, & he greatly feared, & therefore secreteth them out with this difference of wordes
 c This is a great tentation to the godlie, when they see not the frute of their prayers, and cause them to thinke that they are not heard, which thing God vseth to do, that they might praise more earnestly and the oftener:
 d And keepeth me in holde, as a prisoner
 e He hath no puse on me
 f Ebr sonner
 g With great anguish & sorrowe he hath made me to lose my sense.
 h Thus with paine he was driven to and fro betwene hope and despair, as y^e godlie oft times are, yet in the end the Spirit gathereth the victorie
 i He sheweth that God thus vseth to exercise his to the intent that hereby they may knowe themselves and felde his mercies.
 k Considering the wickednes of man, it is maruel that any remaineth aliue: but only that God for his owne mercies sake and for his promises wil neuer take his Church to remaine though they be neuer so fewe
 l We see they be benefited daily
 m The godlie put their whole confidence in God, & therefore luke for none other inheritance, as plal 126

26 It is good both to trust, and to waite for the saluation of the Lord.

27 It is good for a man that he beare the yoke in his youth.

28 He sitteth alone, and kepeth silence, because he hath borne it vpon him.

29 He putteth his mouth in the dust, if there maie be hope.

30 He giueth his cheke to him that smiteth him: he is filled ful with reproches.

31 For the Lord wil not forsake for euer.

32 But thogh he send affliction, yet wil he haue compassion according to the multitude of his mercies.

33 For he doeth not punish willingly, nor afflict the children of men,

34 In stamping vnder his fete all the prisoners of the earth,

35 In ouerthrowing the right of a man before the face of the most high,

36 In subuerting a man in his cause: the Lord seeth it not.

37 Who is he then that saith, and it cometh to passe, & the Lord commandeth it not?

38 Out of the mouth of the most high proceedeth not euil and good.

39 Wherefore then is the liuing man sorrowful? man suffereth for his sinne.

40 Let vs serche and trye our waies, & turne againe to the Lord.

41 Let vs lift vp our hearts with our hands vnto God in the heauens.

42 We haue sinned, and haue rebelled, therefore thou hast not spared.

43 Thou hast couered vs with wrath, and persecuted vs: thou hast flaine & not spared.

44 Thou hast couered thy self wth a cloude, that our prayer shulde not passe through.

45 Thou hast made vs as the * offscouring and refuse in the middes of the people.

46 All our enemies haue opened their mouth against vs.

47 Feare, and a snare is come vpon vs with desolation and destruction.

48 Mine eye casteth out riuers of water, for y^e destruction of y^e daughter of my people.

49 Mine eye droppeth without staie and ceaseth not,

50 Til the Lord loke downe, and beholde from heauen.

51 Mine eye breaketh mine heart because of all the daughters of my citie.

52 Mine enemies chased me sore like a birde, without cause.

53 They haue shut vp my life in the dungeon, and cast a stone vpon me.

54 Waters flowed ouer mine head, then thought I, I am destroyed.

55 I called vpon thy Name, O Lord, out of the lowe dungeon.

56 Thou hast heard my voice: stoppe not thine eare fro^m my sigh & from my crye.

57 Thou drewest nere in the daye that I called vpon thee: thou saidest, Feare not.

58 O Lord, thou hast maintained the cause of my soule, & hast redemed my life.

59 O Lord, thou hast sene my wrong, iudge thou my cause.

60 Thou hast sene all their vengeance, & all their deuises against me,

61 Thou hast heard their reproche, O Lord, & all their imaginations against me:

62 The lippes also of those that rose against me, and their whispering against me continually.

63 Beholde, their sitting downe & their rising vp, how I am their song.

64 * Giue them a recompence, O Lord, according to the worke of their hands.

65 Giue them sorowe of heart, euen thy curse to them.

66 Persecute with wrath and destroye the from vnder the heauen, O Lord.

CHAP. V.

The prayer of Ieremiab.

- R Ememore, o Lord, what is come vpon vs: a confider, and beholde our reproche.
- 1 Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, our houses to the aliantes.
- 2 We are fatherles, euen without father, & our mothers are as widowes.
- 3 We haue dronke our water for money, & our wood is solde vnto vs.
- 4 Our neckes are vnder persecution: we are weary, and haue no rest.
- 5 We haue giuen our hands to the Egyptians, & to Asshur, to be satisfied with bread.
- 6 Our sath is haue sinned, and are not, and we haue borne their iniquities.
- 7 Souldiers haue ruled ouer vs, none wolde deliuer vs out of their hands.
- 8 We gate our bread with the peril of our liues, because of the sworde of the wilderness.
- 9 Our skin was blacke like as an ouen because of the terrible famine.
- 10 They defiled the women in Zión, & the maidens in the cities of Iudáh.
- 11 The princes are hanged vp by their hand: the faces of the Elders were not had in honour.
- 12 They toke the yong men to grinde, and the children fell vnder the wood.
- 13 The Elders haue ceased from the gate, & the yong men from their song.
- 14 The ioye of our heart is gone, our dance is turned into mourning.
- 15 The crowne of our head is fallen: woe now vnto vs, that we haue sinned.
- 16 Therefore our heart is heauy for these things, our eyes are dimme.
- 17 Because of the mountaine of Zión which is desolate: the foxes runne vpon it.
- 18 But thou, o Lord, remainest for euer: thy throne is from generation to generation.
- 19 Wherefore dost thou forget vs for euer, & forsake vs so long time?
- 20 Turne thou vs vnto thee, o Lord, and we shalbe turned: renew our dayes as of olde.
- 21 But thou hast vtterly reiected vs: thou art exceedingly angrie against vs.
- 22 The Lord hath accomplished his indignation: he hath powred out his fierce wrath, he hath kindled a fyre in Zión, which hath deuoured the fundaciós thereof.
- 23 The Kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the worlde wolde not haue beleued that the aduersarie and the enemy shulde haue entred into the gates of Ierusalem:
- 24 For the sinnes of her Prophetes, and the iniquities of her Priests, that haue shed the blood of the iust in the middes of her.
- 25 They haue wandered as blinde men in the stretes, and they were polluted with blood, so they wolde not touche their garments.
- 26 But they cryed vnto them, Departe, ye polluted, departe, departe, touche not: therefore they fled away, and wandered: they haue said among the heathen, They shal no more dwell there.
- 27 The anger of the Lord hath scattered them, he wil no more regarde them: thei reuerenced not the face of the Priests, nor had compasíon of the Elders.
- 28 Whiles we waited for our vaine helpe, our eyes failed: for in our waiting we looked for a nation that coulde not saue vs.
- 29 They hunt our steppes that we cannot go in our stretes: our end is nere, our daies are fulfilled, for our end is come.
- 30 Our persecuters are swifter then the eagles of the heauen: they pursued vs vpon the mountaines, and laied wait for vs in the wilderness.
- 31 The breth of our nostrils, the Anointed of the Lord was taken in their nets, of whome we said, Vnder his shadowe we shalbe preferred alieue among the heathen.
- 32 Reioyce & be glad, o daughter Edóm, that dwellest in the land of Vz, the cup also shal passe through vnto thee: thou shalt be drunken and vomite.
- 33 Thy punishment is accomplished, o daughter Zión: he wil no more carie thee awaie into captiuitie, but he wil visit thine iniquitie, o daughter Edóm, he wil discouer thy sinnes.

g He meaneth that these things are come to passe the before, contrary to all mens expectation. h Some referre this to y blinde men, which as they went, stumbled on the blood, wherof the citie was full. i Meaning, the heathen which came to destroy the, coulde not abyde them. k That is, the enemies. l He sheweth two principal causes of their destruction: the crueltie, & their vaine confidence in man: for they trusted in the helpe of the Egyptians.

m Our King Iohiah, in whome rode our hope of Gods fauour, and on whome depended our state & life, was slayne whome he called anointed, because he was a figure of Christ. n This is spoken by derisio.

o He comforteth the Church by y after seuētie yeres their sorowes shal haue an end, where at the wicked shulde be tormented for euer.

a This prayer as is thought, was made while some of the people were carryed away captiue, others as the poorest remained, and some went into Egypt & other places for succour: albeit it seemeth that y Prophet foretelling their misfortune to come, thus prayed. b Meaning, their extreme seruitude and bondage. c We are toynd in leagues and amitie w them, or haue submitted our selues vnto them. d As our fathers haue bene punished for their sinnes, so we that are culpable of y same sinnes, are punished. e Because of y enemy that came from the wilderness, and wolde not suffer vs to go, & seke our necessities. f That is by y enemies hand. g Their claue was so great, that they were not able to abate it. h There were no more laws nor forme of comune welch. i With weeping. k And therefore thy countenance, and mercie can neuer faile. l Whereby is declared that it is not mans power to turne to God, but is onely his worke to conuerthe vs, and thus God worketh in vs before we can turne to him, Ierem. 31.18.

Also out of the middes thereof came the likenes of foure beasts, & and this was their forme: they had the appearance of a man,

6 And euerie one had foure faces, and euerie one had foure wings.
7 And their fete were freight fete, and the sole.

sole of their fete was like the sole of a calves fete, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brasse.

8 And the hands of a mā came out frō vnder their wings in the foure partes of the, and thei foure had their faces, & their wings.

g The wing of the one touched y wing of the other.

9 They were ioyned by their wings one to another, & when thei went forthe, thei returned not, but euerie one went streight forward.

10 And the similitude of their faces was as the face of man: and they foure had the face of a lyon on the right side, and they foure had the face of a bullocke on the left side: they foure also had the face of an eagle.

h Euerie Cherubim had foure faces, the face of a man, & of a lyon on y right side, and the face of a bullocke, and of an eagle on the left side.

11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were spred out about: two wings of euerie one were ioyned one to another, and two couered their bodies.

i Euer whether their spirit, or will was to go

12 And euerie one went streight forward: they went whether their spirit led them, & thei returned not whē thei wēt forthe.

13 The similitude also of the beastes, and their appearance was like burning coles of fyre, and like the appearance of lampes: for the fyre ran among the beastes, & the fyre gaue a glister, and out of the fyre there went lightening.

i That is, when they had executed Gods will: for afore they returned not, til God had changed the state of things.

14 And the beastes ran, and i returned like vnto lightening.

15 Now as I behelde the beastes, beholde, a whele appeared vpon the earth by the beastes, hauing foure faces.

k The Ebrewe worde is tarshith: meaning, that the colour was like the Cilician sea, or a precious stone so called 16 The faciō of the wheles and their worke was like vnto a k chrysolite: & they foure had one forme, and their facion, and their worke was as one whele in another whele.

17 Whē thei wēt, thei wēt vpo their foure sides, & they returned not when thei wēt.

18 They had also rings, and height, & were fearful to beholde, and their rings were ful of eyes, round about them foure.

19 And when the beastes went, the wheles wēt with them: and when the beastes were lift vp frō the earth, y wheles were lift vp.

20 Whether their spirit led the, they wēt, and thether did the spirit of the wheles lead them, and the wheles were lifted vp besides them: for the Spirit of the beastes was in the wheles.

21 When the beastes went, they went, and when they stode, they stode; & when they were lifted vp from the earth, the wheles were lifted vp besides them: for the spirit of the beastes was in the wheles.

22 And the similitude of the firmament vpo the heads of the beastes was wonderful, like vnto chrystal, spred ouer their heads about.

23 And vnder the firmament were their wings streight, the one toward the other: euerie one had two, which couered the, & euerie one had two, which couered their bodies.

24 And when they went forthe, I heard the noise of their wings, like y noise of great waters, and as the voice of the Almighty, even the voyce of speache, as the noise of an hoste: and when they stode, they let downe their wings.

25 And there was a voyce from the firmament, that was ouer their heades, whē they stode, and had let downe their wings.

26 And about the firmament that was ouer their heades, was the facion of a throne like vnto a saphir stone, and vpon the similitude of the throne was by appearance, as the similitude of a man about vpon it.

27 And I sawe as the appearance of ambre, and as the similitude of fyre a rōnde about within it to lōke to, euen from his loynes vpwarde, and to lōke to, eue from his loynes downewarde: I sawe as a likenes of fyre, and brightnes rōunde about it.

28 As the likenes of the bowe, that is in the cloude in the day of raine: so was the appearance of the light rōunde about.

29 This was the appearance of the similitude of the glorie of the Lord: and when I sawe it, I fel vpon my face, and I heard a voyce of one that spake.

l Which declared the swiftness, & the fearfulness of Gods judgements in Which signified, that they had no power of them selves but onely waited to execute Gods commandement.

CHAP. II.

The Prophet is sent to call the people from their error

And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, stand vp vpon thy fete, & I will speake vnto thee.

2 And the Spirit entred into me, when he had spoken vnto me, and set me vpon my fete, so y I heard him that spake vnto me.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of mā, I send thee to the childre of Isi ael, to a rebellious nation, that hath rebelled against me: for they & their fathers haue rebelled against me: euen vnto this very day.

4 For they are impudent children, and stifhearted: I do send thee vnto them, & thou shalt say vnto the, Thus saith y Lord God.

5 But surely they wil not heare, nether in dede wil they cease: for they are a rebellious house: yett shal they knowe that there hath bene a Prophet among them.

6 And thou sonne of man, feare them not, nether be afrayed of their wordes, althogh rebelles, and thornes be with thee, & thou remainest with scorpions: feare not their wordes, nor be afrade at their lokes, for they are a rebellious house.

7 Therefore thou shalt spake my wordes vnto them: but surely they wil not heare, nether wil they in dede cease: for they are rebellious.

8 But thou sonne of man, heare what I say vnto thee: be not thou rebellious, like this rebellious house: open thy mouth, and eat that I giue thee.

9 And whē I looked vp, beholde, an hād was set vnto me, & lo, a rolle of a booke was ther in.

CHAP. III.

The Prophet being fed with the words of God and with the constant boldnes of the Spirit, as sent vnto the people that were in captiuitie. 17 The office of true ministers.

Moreouer he said vnto me, Sonne of man, eat that thou findest: & eat this rolle, and go, and speake vnto the house of Israel.

2 So I opened my mouth, and he gaue me this rolle to eat.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, cause thy belly to eat, and filthy bowels with this rolle that I giue thee. The did I eat it, and it was in my mouth as sweete as honye.

4 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, go, & enter into the house of Israel, and declare them my wordes.

5 For thou art not sent to a people of an vnknown tongue, or of an hard language, but to the house of Israel,

6 Not to manie people of an vnknown tongue, or of an hard language, whose wordes thou canst not vnderstand: yet if I shulde send thee to them, they wolde obey thee.

7 But the house of Israel wil not obey thee: for they wil not obey me: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent and stiff hearted.

8 Beholde, I haue made thy face strong against their faces, and thy forehead hard against their foreheads.

9 I haue made thy forehead as the adamant, & harder then the flint: feare them not therefore, nether be afraid at their looks: for they are a rebellious house.

10 He said moreouer vnto me, Sonne of man, receiue in thine heart all my wordes that I speake vnto thee, and heare them with thine eares, 11 And go & entre to them that are led away captiues vnto the children of thy people, and speake vnto them, and tel them, Thus saith the Lord God: but surely they wil not heare, nether wil they in dede cease.

12 Then the Spirit toke me vp, and I heard behinde me a noyse of a great rushing, saying, a Blessed be the glorie of the Lord out of his place.

13 I heard also the noyse of the wings of the beasts, that touched one another, and the ratling of the wheles that were by them, euen a noyse of a great rushing.

14 So the Spirit lift me vp, & toke me away and I went in bitterness, & indignation of my spirit, but the hand of the Lord was strong vpon me.

15 The I came to them that were led away captiues to Tel-ábib, that dwelt by the riuier Chebár, and I sate where they sate, and remained there astonished among the seven dayes.

16 And at the end of seven dayes, the worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

17 Sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore heare the worde at my mouth, and gaue the warning from me.

18 When I shal say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt surely dye, and thou giuest him warning, nor speakest to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that he may liue, the same wicked man shal dye in his iniquitie: but his blood wil I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warne the wicked, & he turne not from his wickednes, nor from his wicked way, he shal dye in his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

20 Likewise if a righteous man turne from his righteousness, and commit iniquitie, I wil lay a stumbling blocke before him, and he shal dye, because thou hast not giuen him warning: he shal dye in his sinne, and his righteous dedes, which he hath done, shal not be remebied: but his blood wil I require at thine hand.

21 Neuertheles, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sinne not, and that he doeth not sinne, he shal liue because he is admonished: also thou hast deliuered thy soule.

22 And the hand of the Lord was there vpon me, and he said vnto me, Arise, & go into the field, and I wil there talke with thee.

23 So when I had risen vp, and gone forth into the field, beholde, the glorie of the Lord stode there, as y^e glorie which I sawe by the riuier Chebár, and I fel downe vpon my face.

24 Then the Spirit entred into me, which set me vp vpon my fete, and spake vnto me, and said to me, Come, & shut thy self within thine house.

25 But thou, o sonne of man, beholde, they shal put bandes vpon thee, and shal binde thee with them, and thou shalt not go out among them,

26 And I wil make thy tongue cleaue to the rooffe of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumme, and shalt not be to them as a man that rebuketh: for they are a rebellious house.

27 But when I shal haue spoken vnto thee, I wil open thy mouth, and thou shalt say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, He that heareth, let him heare, and he that leaueth of, let him leaue: for they are a rebellious house.

The signe of the heeres, whereby is signified the destruction of the people.

ANd thou sonne of man, take thee a sharpe knife, or take thee a barbour's razor & cause it ^a to passe vpō thine head, and vpon thy beard: then take thee balances to weigh, and deuide the heere.

^a To shawe thine head & thy beard ^b To wit, of that citie ^c he had poured vpon y bricke, Chap. 4.1 By the fyre and pestilence he meant the famine, wherewith one part perished, during y siege of Nebuchad-nezzar

2 Thou shalt burne with fyre the third part in the middes of ^b the citie, whē the dayes of the siege are fulfilled, & thou shalt take the other third parte, & smite about it with a knife, and the last third parte thou shalt scatter in the winde, and I wil drawe out a sword after them.

3 Thou shalt also take thereof a fewe in number, and binde them in thy ^c lappe.

4 Then take of them againe and cast them into the middes of the fyre, & burne them in the fyre: ^d for thereof shal a fyre come forth into all the house of Israël.

^c Meaning, that a very fewe shulde be left, which y Lord wolde preserve among all these stormes, but not without troubles and tryal

6 And she hath changed my ^e iudgements into wickednes more then the nations, & my statutes more then the countreys, that are rounde about her: for thei haue refused my iudgements and my statutes, and they haue not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because your ^f multitude is greater then the nations that are rounde about you, and ye haue not walked in my statutes, nether haue ye kept my iudgements: no, ye haue not done according to the iudgements of the nations, that are rounde about you,

9 And I wil do in thee, that I neuer did before, nether wil do anie more the like, because of all thine abominations.

13 Thus shal mine angre be accomplished, & I wil cause my wrath to cease in the, & I wil be comforted: & they shal knowe, that I the Lord haue spoken it in my zeale, when I haue accomplished my wrath in them.

14 Moreouer, I wil make thee waste, and abhorred among the nations, that are rounde about thee, in the sight of all that passe by.

15 So thou shalt be a reproche and shame, a chastisement and an astonishment vnto the nations, that are rounde about thee, when I shal execute iudgements in thee, in angre and in wrath, and in shalpe rebukes: I the Lord haue spoken it.

17 *So wil I send vpon you famine, and euil beasts, and they shal spoyle thee, and pestilence and blood shal passe through thee, & I wil bring the sworde vpon thee: I the Lord haue spoken it.

CHAP. VI.

He sheweth that Ierusalem shalbe destroyed for their idolatrie. & he prophesieth the repentance of the remnant of the people and their deliuerance.

A Gaine the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, Set thy face towards the mountaines of Israél, and prophecise against them,

3 And say, Ye mountaines of Israél, heare the worde of the Lord God: thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers and to the valleys, Beholde, I, euen I, wil bring a sworde vpon you, and I wil destroye your hie places:

4 And your altars shalbe desolate, and your images of the sunne shalbe broken: and I wil cast downe your slayne men before your idoles.

5 And I will lay the dead carkeises of the children of Israél before their idoles, and I wil scatter your bones rounde about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling places the cities shal be desolate, and the hie places shalbe laied waste, so y your altars shalbe made waste and desolate, & your idoles shalbe broken, and cease, and your images of the sunne shalbe cut in peeces, and your workes shalbe abolished.

7 And the slayne shal fall in the middes of you, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

8 Yet wil I leaue a remnant, that you may haue some that shal escape the sworde among the nations, when you shalbe scattered through the countreys.

9 And they that escape of you, shal remember me among the nations, where they shalbe in captiuitie, because I am grieved for their whorish hearts, which haue departed from me, and for their eyes, which haue gone awhoring after their idoles, and they shalbe displeased in them selues for the euils, which they haue committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shal knowe that I am the Lord, and that I haue not said in vaine, that I wolde do this euil vnto them.

11 Thus saith the Lord God, ^f Smite with thine hand, and stretche forth with thy fore, and say, Alas, for all the wicked abominations of the house of Israél: for they shal fall by the sworde, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is farre of, shal dye of the pestilence, and he that is nere, shal fall by the sworde, and he that remaineth and is besieged, shal dye by the famine: thus wil I accomplish my wrath vpon them.

13 Then ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord, when their slayne men shalbe among their idoles rounde about their altars, vpon euery hie hill in all the toppes of the mountaines, and vnder euery grene tre, and vnder euery thicke oke, which is the place where they did offer swete sauour to all their idoles.

14 So wil I stretch mine hand vpon them, & make the land waste, and desolate fro the wildernes vnto Diblath in all their habitacions, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VII.

The end of all the land of Israél shal suddenly come.

Moreouer the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Also thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, An end is come vnto the land of Israél: the end is come vpon the foure corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come vpon thee, and I wil send my wrath vpon thee, and wil iudge thee according to thy waies, and wil laye vpon thee all thine abominations.

4 Nether shal mine eye spare thee, nether wil I haue pitie: but I wil laie thy waies vpon thee: and thine abomination shalbe in the middes of thee, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, one euil, euen one euil is come.

^d He sheweth that in all dangers God wil preserve a few which shalbe as the seede of his Church & call vpon his Name.

^e They shalbe ashamed to see that their hope in idoles was but vaine, and so shal repent.

^f By these signes he wolac that the Prophet shoulde signifye the great destruction to come

^g That is, all nations, when you shal see my iudgements.

7 And he caused me to entre at the gate of the court: and when I looked, beholde, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, digge now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, beholde, ^{there was} a dore.

9 And he said vnto me, Go in, and beholde the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in, and sawe, and beholde, ^{there was} euerie similitude of creeping things and ^k abominable beastes and all the idoles of the house of Israël painted vpon the wall rounde about.

11 And there stode before them seuentie ^l men of the Ancients of the house of Israël, and in the middes of them stode Iazaniáh, the sonne of Shaphán, with euerie man his censour in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went vp ^{like} ^m a cloud.

12 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou sene what the Ancients of the house of Israël do in the darke, euerie one in the chambre of his imagerie: for thei saie, The Lord seeth vs not, the Lord hathe forsaken the earth.

13 Againe he said also vnto me, Turne thee againe, & thou shalt se greater abominations that thei do.

14 And he caused me to entre into the entrie of the gate of the Lords house, which was toward the North: and beholde there sate women mourning for ^o Tammúz.

15 Then said he vnto me, Hast thou sene ^{this}, ^o sonne of man? Turne thee againe, & thou shalt se greater abominations then these.

16 And he caused me to entre into the inner court of the Lords house, and beholde, at the dore of the Temple of the Lord, betwene the porche and the altar were about fife and twentie men with their backs toward the Temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the East, and thei worshipped the sunne, toward the East.

17 Then he said vnto me, Hast thou sene ^{this}, ^o sonne of man? Is it a smale thing to the house of Iudáh to commit these abominaciōs w^h thei do here: for thei haue filled the land with crueltie, and haue returned to prouoke me: and lo, thei haue cast out ^p stinke before their noses.

18 Therefore wil I also execute ^{my} wrath:

5 And the d soude of the Cherubims wings was heard into the vtter court, as the voyce of the Almighty God, when he speaketh.

15 Sonne of man; thy brethren, euen thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, and all the house of Israél, wholly are thei vnto whome the inhabitants of Ierusalém haue said, Departe ye faire from the Lord: for the land is giuen vs in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, Although I haue cast them farre of among the heathen, and although I haue scattered them among the countreys, yet wil I be to them as a little Sanctuary in the countreys where they shal come.

17 Therefore saie, Thus saith the Lord God, I wil gather you againe from the people, & assemble you out of the countreys where ye haue bene scattered, and I wil giue you the land of Israél.

18 And thei shal come thether, and thei shal take awaie all the idoles there of, and all the abominations thereof from thence.

Jerem. 32. 39. 19 And I wil giue them one heart, and I wil put a newe spirit within their bowels:

and I wil take the stonie heart out of their bodies, & wil giue them an heart of flesh, 20 That thei maie walke in my statutes, & kepe my iudgements, and execute them: and thei shal be my people, and I wil be their God.

21 But vpon the, whose heart is toward their idoles, & whose affection goeth after their abominations, I will laie their waie vpon their owne heades, saith the Lord God.

22 Then did the Cherubims lift vp their wings, and the wheles besides them, and the glorie of the God of Israél was vpon them on hie.

23 And the glorie of the Lord went vp fro the middes of the citie, and stode vpon the mountaine which is toward the East side of the citie.

24 Afterwarde the Spirit toke me vp and broght me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Caldea to them where were led awaie captiues: so the vision that I had sene, went vp from me.

25 The I declared vnto the that were led awaie captiues, all the things that the Lord had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

The parable of the captiuitie. 18 Another parable whereby the distress of hunger and thirst is signified.

1 The worde of the Lord also came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, thou dwellest in the middes of a rebellious house, which haue eyes to se, and se not: thei haue eares to heare, & heare not: for thei are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore thou sonne of man, prepare thy stuffe to go into captiuitie & go forth by daie in their sight: and thou shalt passe from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that thei maie consider it: for thei are a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth the thy stuffe by daie in their sight as the stuffe of him where he goeth into captiuitie: & thou shalt go forth at euen in their sight, as thei that go forth into captiuitie.

5 Dig thou through the wall in their sight, and carie out thery.

6 In their sight shalt thou beare it vpon thy sholders, & carie it forth in the darke: thou shalt couer thy face that thou se not the earth: for I haue set thee as a signe vnto the house of Israél.

7 And as I was comanded, so I broght forth the my stuffe by day, as the stuffe of one that goeth into captiuitie: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, and broght it forth in the darke, and I bare it vpon my shulder in their sight.

8 And in the morning came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, haue not the house of Israél, the rebellious house, said vnto thee, What doest thou?

10 But saie thou vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, This burden concerneth the chief in Ierusalém, and all the house of Israél that are among them.

11 Saie, I am your signe: like as I haue done, so shal it be done vnto them: thei shal go

c Corarie so their vaine confidence be the with in what sense this citie is the caldron: that is, because of the dead bodies that haue bene murdered therein, and so lie as flesh in the caldron. That is, of the Caldeans

e That is, in Xiblah, read 2 King 25:7

f It seemeth this noble man dyed of some terrible death & therefore the Prophet feared some strange iudgement of God toward the rest of the people. Thei that remained still at Ierusalém thus reproached the that were gone into captiuitie, as though they were cast off and forsaken of God.

h Thei shal be yet a little Church, shewing that the Lord wil euer haue some to call vpon his Name, whome he wil preserve and restore, though they be for a time afflicted.

i Meaning, the heart whereunto nothing can enter, and regenerate them a newe, so that their hearts may be soft, & ready to receive my statutes

k When Iecooniah was led a waie captiue

a That is, thei receive not the fruit of that which thei se and heare. Ebr. make thee visible to go into captiuitie.

12 And the chiefest that is amog them, shal beate vpon his shulder in the darke and shal go forthe: thei shal digge through the wall, to carie out thereby: he shal couer his face & he se not the ground with his eyes.

d When the King shal thike to escape by fleeing, I wil take him in my net, as Chap 17, 10 & 23

13 My net also wil I spread vpon^d him, and he shal be taken in my net, and I wil bring him to Babél to y^e land of the Caldeas, yet shal he not se it, though he shal dye there.

14 And I wil scatter towarde euerie winde all that are about him to helpe him, and all his garisons, and I wil drawe out the sworde after them.

15 And thei shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I shal scatter the amog the nations, and disperse them in the countreis.

e Which shulde beate his Name & shuld be his Church, read Chap 14, 16.

16 But I wil leaue a litle nombre of them from the sworde, from the famine, and fro the pestilence, that thei may declare all these abominations among the heathen, where thei come, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, eat thy bread with trembling, and drinke thy water with trouble, & with carefulnes,

19 And say vnto the people of the land, Thus saith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Ierusalém, and of the land of Israél, Thei shal eat their bread with carefulnes, & drinke their water with desolatíō: for the land shalbe desolate fro her abundance because of the crueltie of them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited, shal be left voide, & the land shalbe desolate, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

21 ¶ And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

22 Sonne of man, what is that prouerbe that you haue in the land of Israél, saying, The dayes^f are prolonged and all visions faile?

f Because thei did not immediately in the prophecies accomplished, thei contemned them as though thei shulde neuer be fulfilled

23 Tel them therefore, Thus saith the Lord God, I wil make this prouerbe to cease, & thei shal no more vse it as a prouerbe in Israél: but say vnto them, The dayes are at hand and the effect of euerie vision.

g Or, dayes now offe.

24 For no vision shalbe any more in vaine, nether shal there be anie flattering diuinaciō within the house of Israél.

25 For I am the Lord: I wil speake, and that thing that I shal speake, shal come to passe: it shalbe no more prolonged: for in your daies, & rebellious house, wil I say the thing, & wil perforce it, saith y^e Lord God.

h That is, it shal not come to passe in our daies, and therefore we care not for it: thus y^e wicked euer abuse Gods patience and benignitie.

26 Againe the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

27 Sonne of man, beholde, thei of the house of Israél say, The vision that he seeth, is for many daies to come, & he prophecieth of the times that are far of.

28 Therefore say vnto the, Thus saith the Lord God, All my wordes shal no longer be delayed, but y^e thing which I haue spoken, shalbe done, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The wordes of the Lord against false prophetes, which teach the people the counsels of their owne hearts.

1 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophetic against the Prophetes of Israél, that prophetic, and say thou vnto the, that prophetic out of their owne hearts, Heare the wordes of y^e Lord.

Chap. 14, 9.

3 Thus saith the Lord God, Wo vnto the foolish prophetes that followe their owne spirit, and haue sene nothing.

a After their owne fantasie, and not as hauing y^e reuelatio of y^e Lord, Iere, 23, 16

4 O Israél, thy Prophetes are like the foxes in the waste places.

5 Ye haue not risen vp in y^e gappes, nether made vp the hedge for the house of Israél, to stand in y^e bartel in the day of the Lord.

b Watching to destroye this vineyard

6 Thei haue sene vanitie, & lying diuinatiō, saying, The Lord saith it, & the Lord hath not sent the: & thei haue made others to hope that thei wolde confirme y^e worde of their prophetic.

c He speaketh to the gouernours and true ministers that shulde haue resisted them.

7 Haue ye not sene a vaine vision? & haue ye not spoken a lying diuinatiō? ye say, The Lord saith it, albeit I haue not spokē.

d Ye promised peace to this people & now ye se their destruction, so that it is manifest, that ye are false prophetes.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye haue spoken vanitie & haue sene lies, therefore beholde, I am against you, saith the Lord God, 9 And mine hand shal be vpo the Prophetes y^e se vanitie, & deuine lies: thei shal not be in the assemblie of my people, nether shal thei be writtē in the writing of the house of Israél, nether shal thei entre into the land of Israél: and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord God.

e That is, in the booke of life, wherein the true Israelites are written 10 And therefore, because thei haue deceived my people, saying, Peace, & there was no peace: & one buyld vp a wall, & beholde, y^e others daubed it wth vntempered mortar, f Read Ierem.

11 Say vnto the which dawbe it wth vntempered mortar, that it shal fall: for there shal come a great shewre, & I wil send haile stones, which shal cause it to fall, and a stormie winde shal breake it.

g Where as y^e true Prophetes prophetic the destruction of the cite to bring y^e people to repentance, the false Prophetes spake the contrarye & flattered them in their vanities, so y^e what one false prophet said, which is here called y^e buylding of y^e wall, an other false Prophet wold affirme, though he had nether occasiō nor good ground to beare him.

12 Lo, when the wall is fallen, shal it not be said vnto you, Where is y^e dawbing wherewith ye haue dawbed it?

13 Therefore thus saith y^e Lord God, I wil cause a stormie winde to breake forthe in my wrath, & a great shewre shalbe in mine anger, & haile stones in mine indignation to consume it.

14 So I wil destroy the wall y^e ye haue dawbed with vntempered mortar, & bring it downe to y^e ground, so y^e the fundaciō thereof shalbe discovered, & it shal fall, & ye shal be consumed in the mides thereof, & ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

17 Likewise thou sonne of man, set thy face against ^y daughters of thy people, which prophesie out of their owne heart: and prophesie thou against them, and say,

18 Thus saith the Lord God, Wo vnto the women that sowe ⁱ pillows vnder all arme holes, and make vailles vpon the head of euerie one that standeth vp, to hunt soules: wil ye hunt the soules of my people, and wil ye giue life to the soules that come vnto you?

22 Because with your lyes ye haue made the heart of the ^a righteous sad, whome I haue not made sad, and strengthened the hands of the wicked, that he shulde not returne from his wicked way, by promising him life,

23 Therefore ye shal se no more vanitie, nor diuine diuinations: for I wil deliuer my people out of your hand, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XIII.

^l The Lord sendeth false prophetes for the ingratitude of the people. 22 He reserveth a small portion for his Church.

^l Then came certeine of the Elders of Israël vnto me, and ^a sate before me. And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying, ce, and cometh to the ^c Prophet, I the Lord wil answer him, that cometh according to the multitude ^d of his idoles:

3 Sonne of man, these men haue set vp their idoles in their ^b heart, & put the stumbling blocke of their iniquitie before their face: shulde I, being required, answer them?

5 That ^e I may take the house of Israël in their owne heart, because thei are all departed from me through their idoles.

6 Therefore say vnto the house of Israël, Thus saith the Lord God, Returne, and withdrawe your selues, and turne your faces from your idoles, and turne your faces from all your abominations.

7 For euerie one of the house of Israël, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israël, which departeth fro me, and setteth vp his idoles in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and cometh to a Prophet, for to inquire of him ^f for me, I the Lord wil answer him ^g for my selfe,

8 And I wil set my face against that man, and wil make him an example and prouerbe, and I wil cut him off from the middes of my people, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

9 And if the Prophet be ^f deceiued, when he hathe spoken a thing, I the Lord haue deceiued that Prophet, and I wil stretche out mine hand vpon him, and wil destroy him fro the middes of my people of Israël.

10 And thei shal beare their punishment: the punishment of ^y Prophet shalbe euen as the punishment of him that asketh, 11 That the house of ^s Israël may go no more astray from me, nether be polluted any more with all their transgressions, but that thei may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord God.

12 ¶ The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

23 And they shal comforte you, when ye se their way and their enterprises: and ye shal knowe, that I haue not done without cause all that I haue done in it, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XV.

As the unprofitable wood of the vine tre is cast into the fyre, so Ierusalem shalbe burnt.

1 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, what cometh of the vine tre about all other trees? and of the vine branche, which is among the trees of the forest?

3 Shal wood be take thereof to do any worke? or wil men take a pyn of it to hang any vessel thereon?

4 Beholde, it is cast in the fyre to be consumed: the fyre consumeth bothe the ends of it, and the middes of it is burnt. Is it mete for any worke?

5 Beholde, when it was whole, it was mete for no worke: how muche lesse shal it be mete for any worke, when the fyre hath consumed it, and it is burnt?

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As the vine tre, that is among the trees of the forest, which I haue giuen to the fyre to be consumed, so wil I giue the inhabitants of Ierusalem.

7 And I wil set my face against them: they shal go out from one fyre, & another fyre shal consume them: & ye shal knowe, that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them,

8 And when I make the land waste, because they haue greatly offended, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVI.

The Prophet declareth the benefites of God toward Ieru-salem 15 Their unkindnes. 46 He iustifieth the wickednes of other people in comparison of the finnes of Ierusalem 49 I be cause of the abominacions, into which the Sodomites fel 60 Mercie is promised to the repentant.

1 A Gaine, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, cause Ierusalem to knowe her abominacions,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God vnto Ierusalem, Thine habitacion & thy kinred is of the land of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.

4 And in thy nativitie whe thou wast borne, thy navel was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou wast not salted with salt, nor swadeled in cloutes.

5 None eye pitied thee to do any of these vnto thee, for to haue compassion vpon thee, but thou wast cast out in the open field to the contempt of thy persone in the day that thou wast borne.

6 And when I passed by thee, I sawe thee polluted in thine owne blood, and I said vnto thee, when thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt liue: euen when y wast in thy blood, I said vnto thee, Thou shalt liue.

7 I haue caused thee to multiplie, as y bud of the field, and thou hast increased, and waxen great, and thou hast gotten excellent ornaments: thy breasts are facioned, thine heere is growen, where as thou wast naked and bare.

8 Now when I passed by thee, and looked vpon thee, beholde, thy time was as the time of loue, & I spred my skirres ouer thee, and couered thy filthines: yea, I swate vnto thee, and entred into a couenant with thee, saith the Lord God, and thou becamest mine.

9 Then washed I thee with water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oyle.

10 I clothed thee also with broidred worke, and shod thee with badgers skinne: and I girded thee about with fine linen, & I couered thee with silke.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and I put brasselets vpon thine hands, & a chaine on thy necke.

12 And I put a frontelet vpon thy face, and earigs in thine eares, & a beautiful crowne vpon thine head.

13 Thus wast thou deckt with golde and filuer, and thy raiment was of fine linen, and silke, & broidered worke: thou didest eat fine fioure, and hony and oyle, & thou wast very beautiful, and thou didest growe vp into a kingdome.

14 And thy name was spred among the heathen for thy beautie: for it was perfite through my beautie which I had set vpon thee, saith the Lord God.

a Thou boastest to be of the seede of Abraham, but thou art degenerate and followest the abominacions of the wicked Canaanites, as children do the manners of their fathers. Isa 1.4. & 57.3. b When I first brought thee out of Egypt, & platted thee in this land to be my Church

c Being thus in thy filthines and forsaken of all me, I toke thee & gaue thee life: whereby as meate that before God was his Church, & gaue life, there is nothing, but filthines and death

d These wordes, as blood, pollution, nakednes & filthines are six times repeated, to beate downe their pride, and to cause them to consider what they were before, God receiued them to mercie, & anointed them & couered their shame

e That thou shouldest be a chaste wife vnto me, and that I shoulde mainteine thee & endue thee with all graces f I walked away thy finnes

g I sanctified thee with mine holy Spirit. h Hereby he sheweth how he saued his Church, enriche it & gaue it power and dominion to reigne. i He declareth wherein the dignitie of Ierusalem stood: to wit, in that the Lord gaue them of his beautie and excellencie.

a Which bringeth forth the no fruite, no more then the other trees of the forest do: meaning that if Ierusalem, which bare the name of his Church, did not bring forth the fruite, it shoulde be utterly destroyed.

b Though they escape one danger, yet another shal take them.

10 Beholde, it was planted: but shal it prosper? shal it not be dried vp, and wither? when the East winde shal touche it, it shal wither in the tréches, where it grew.

i By this drye wynde, he meaneth the Babylonians.

11 Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Say now to this rebellious house, Knowe ye not, what these things meane? tel them, Beholde, the King of Babel is come to Ierusalém, and hath taken the King thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel,

¶ That is, Ierusalem, a king 24. 15.

13 And hath taken one of the Kings sede, and made a couenant with him, and hath taken an othe of him: he hath also taken the princes of the land, i For his subiection and obedience.

14 That the kingdome might be in subiection, and not lift it self vp, but kepe their couenant, and stand to it.

15 But he rebelled against him, and sent his ambassadours into Egypt, that they might giue him horses, & muche people: shal he prosper? shal he escape, that doeth suche things? or shal he breake the couenant, & be deliuered?

16 As I liue, saith the Lord God, he shal dye in the middes of Babel, in the place of the King, that had made him King, whose othe he despised, and whose couenant made with him, he breake.

17 Nether shal Pharaoh with his mightie hoste, & great multitude of people, mainteine him in the warre, when they haue cast vp mounts, and buylded ramparts to destroy many persones.

18 For he hath despised the othe, and broken the couenant (yet lo, he had giuen this hand) because he hath done all these things, he shal not escape.

m Because he toke the Name of God in vaine & brake his othe & he had confirmed by giuing his hand, therefore the Prophet declareth that God wolde not suffer such periurie and infidelitie to escape punishment Chap 22. 13. & 32. 8.

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, As I liue, I wil surely bring mine othe that he hath despised, and my couenant that he hath broken, vpon his owne head.

20 *And I wil spread my net vpon him, & he shal be taken in my net, & I wil bring him to Babel, and wil entie into iudgement with him there for his trespass that he hath committed against me.

21 And all that sle from him with all his hoste, shal fall by the sworde, and they that remaine, shal be scatered toward all the winde: and ye shal knowe that I the Lord haue spoken it.

22 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also take of the toppe of this hie cedre, and wil set it, and cut of the toppe of the tendre plante thereof, and I wil plante it vpon an hie mountaine and great.

23 Euen in the hie mountaine of Israel wil I plante it: and it shal bring forth the boughs and beare frute, and be an excellent cedre, and vnder it shal remaine all birdes, and euery foule shal dwell in the shadowe of the branches thereof.

24 And all the trees of the field shal knowe that I the Lord haue brought downe the hye tre, and exalted the lowe tre, that I haue dried vp the grene tre, and made the drye tre to flourish: I the Lord haue spoken it, & haue done it.

q All the worlde shal knowe that I haue plucked downe the proude enemies and set vp my Church which was lowe and condemned.

3 The fathers haue eaten soure grapes, & the childrens teeth are set on edge?

4 As I liue, saith the Lord God, ye shal vse this prouerbe no more in Israel.

a The people murmured at the chastisings of the Lord & therefore vsed this prouerbe, meaning that their fathers had synned & their children were punished for their transgressions, read Ier 31. 29

5 Beholde, all soules are mine, bothe the soule of the father, and also the soule of the sonne are mine: the soule that sinneth, it shal dye.

6 But if a man be iust, and do that which is lawful, and right,

7 And hath not eaten vpon the mountaines, nether hath he lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israel, nether hath he defiled his neighbours wife, nether hath he liued with a menstruous woman,

11 ¶ If he beget a sonne, that is a thief, or a sheader of blood, if he do any one of these things,

Or, a cruel man

12 Though he do not all these things, but either hath eaten vpon the mountaines, or defiled his neighbours wife,

13 Or hath oppressed the poore and nedie, or hath spoiled by violence, or hath not restored the pledge, or hath lift vp his eyes vnto the idoles, or hath committed abomination,

14 Or hath giuen for the vpon vsurie, or hath taken increase, shal he liue? he shal not liue: seing he hath done all these abominations, he shal dye the death, and his blood shal be vpon him.

e He sheweth how the sonne is punished for his fathers sinne: if he be wicked as his father was, and doeth not repent, he shal be punished as his father was, or els not.

15 ¶ But if he beget a sonne, that seeth all his fathers sinnes, which he hath done, and and feareth, nether doeth suche like, 15 That hath not eaten vpon the mountai-nes, nether hath he lift vp his eyes to the idols of the house of Israël, nor hath defiled his neighbours wife, 16 Nether hath he oppressed anie, nor hath withholden the pledge, nether hath spoiled by violence, but hath he giue his bread to the hungry, and hath couered the naked with a garment,

 17 Nether hath he withdrawen his hand frō the afflicted, nor receiued vsurie nor inease, but hath he executed my iudgements, & hath walked in my statutes, he shal not dye in the iniquitie of his father, but he shal surely liue.
 18 His father, because he cruelly oppressed and spoiled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, lo, euen he dyeth in his iniquitie.
 19 Yet saie ye, Wherefore shal not the sonne beare the iniquitie of the father? because the sonne hath executed iudgement & iustice, & hath kept all my statutes, and done them, he shal surely liue.
 20 * The same soule that sinneth, shal dye:
 the sonne shal not beare the iniquitie of the father, nether shal the father beare the iniquitie of the sonne, but the righteousness of the righteous shal be vpon him, and the wickednes of the wicked shal be vpon him self.
 21 But if the wicked wil retorne from all his sinnes that he hath committed, and kepe all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shal surely liue, & shal not dye.
 22 All his transgressions that he hath committed, thei shal not be mencioned vnto him, but in his righteousness that he hath done, he shal liue.
 23 Haue I anie desire that the wicked shul dye, saith the Lord God? or shal he not liue, if he retorne from his waies?
 24 But if the righteous turne awaie from his righteousness, and commit iniquitie, & do according to all the abominaciōs, that the wicked man doeth, shal he liue? all his righteousness that he hath done, shal not be mencioned: but in his transgression that he hath committed, and in his sinne that he hath sinned, in them shal he dye.
 25 Yet ye saie, The waie of the Lord is not equal: heare now, o house of Israël. Is not my waie equal? or are not your waies vnequal?
 26 For when a righteous man turneth awaie from his righteousness, and committeth in-iquitie, he shal euen dye for the same, he shal euen dye for his iniquitie, that he ha-the done.
 27 Againe when the wicked turneth a way from his wickednes that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shal saue his soule alieue.

 28 Because he considereth, & turneth awaie from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shal surely liue & shal not dye.
 29 Yet saith the house of Israël, The waie of the Lord is not equal. O house of Isra-él, are not my waies equal? or are not your waies vnequal?
 30 Therefore I wil iudge you, o house of Israël, euerie one according to his waies, saith the Lord God: I retorne therefore and cause others to turne awaie from all your transgressions: so iniquitie shal not be your destruction.
 31 Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye haue transgressed & make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why wil ye dye, o house of Israël?
 32 For I desire not the death of him that dyeth, saith the Lord God: cause therefore one another to retorne, and liue ye.

 it became a lion, and it learned to catch y

 he deuoured men.
 7 And he knewe their widowes, and he destroied their cities, and the land was wa-of his roaring.

 8 Then the nations set against him on e-uerie side of the countreis & laid their nettes for him: so he was taken in their pit.

5 In the daie that I lift vp mine hand vnto them to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had prouided for them, flowing with milke & honie which is pleasant among all lands,

6 Then said I vnto them, Let euerie man cast awaie the abominations of his eyes, and defile not your selues with ^h idoles of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

7 But they rebelled against me, and wolde not heare me: for none cast awaie the abominations of ^h their eyes, nether did they forsake ^h idoles of Egypt: then I thought to powre out mine indignacion vpon the, & to accomplish my wrath against them in the middes of the land of Egypt.

8 But I had respect to my ^h Name, that it shulde not be polluted before the heathen, among whome they were, & in whose sight I made my self knowe vnto the in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

17 I wil also smite mine hands together, & wil cause my wrath to cease. I the Lord haue said it.

18 ¶ The worde of the Lord came vnto me againe, saying,

19 Also thou sonne of man, appoint thee ^r two wayes, that the sworde of the King of Babel may come: bothe twaine shal come out of one land, and chuse a place, and chuse it in the corner of the way of ^s yctie.

20 Appoint a way, that the sworde may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and ^t to Iudáh in Ierusalem the strong cite.

And ^y King of Babel stood at the ^u parting of the way, at the head of the two wayes, consulting by diuination, and made his arrowes bright: he consulted with idoles, and looked in ^v the liuer.

21 At his right hand was the diuination for Ierusalem to appoint captaines, to open ^w their mouthe in the slaughter, and to lift vp their voyce with shouting, to lay engines of warre against the gates, to cast a mount, and to buyld a fortres.

22 And it shalbe vnto them ^x as a false diuination in their fight for the othes made vnto them: ^y but he wil call to remembrance their iniquitie, to the intent they shulde be taken.

23 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye haue made your iniquitie to be remembered, in ^z discovering your rebellion, ^a in all your workes: your sinnes might appeare because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shalbe taken with the hand.

24 And thou ^b prince of Israel polluted, & wicked, whose day is come, when iniquitie ^c shal haue an end, 25 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil take away the ^d diademe, & take of the crowne: this shalbe no more the same: I wil exalt the humble, and wil abase him that is high.

26 I wil ouerturne, ouerturne, ouerturne it, and it shalbe no more vntil he ^e come, whose right it is, and I wil giue it him.

27 ¶ And thou, sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemie: say thou, I say, The sworde, the sworde is drawe forth, & fourbished to the slaughter, to consume, because of the glittering.

28 Whiles they se ^f vanitie vnto thee, and prophesied a ^g lye vnto thee to bring thee vpon the neckes of the wicked that are slaine, whose day is come when their iniquitie ^h shal haue an end.

29 Shal I cause it to returne into his sheath? I wil iudge thee in the place where thou wast created, euen in the land of thine habitation.

30 And I wil powre out mine indignacion vpon thee, & wil blowe against thee in the fyre of my wrath, & deliuer thee into the hand of beaustie me, & skilful to destroy.

31 Thou shalt be in ⁱ fyre to be deuoured: thy blood shalbe in the middes of the lad and thou shalt be no more remembered: for I the Lord haue spoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ierusalem is reprobued for crueltie. 25 Of the wicked doctrine of the false prophets and priests, and of their vnfaciable conuoussnes. 27 The tyrannie of rulers. 29 The wickednes of the people.

Moreouer, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Now thou sonne of man, wilt thou iudge, wilt godlier

^q To knowe whether he shulde go against the Ammonites or the of Ierusalem. ^r He vied consulting & sorcerie.

^f Because there was a league betwene ^g Iewes, and the Babylonians, they of Ierusalem shal thinke nothing lesse then, that this thing shulde come to passe. ^h That is, Nebuchadnezzar wil remember the rebellion of Zedekiah, and so come vpon them.

ⁱ Meaning, Zedekiah, who practised with the Egyptians to make him self king, and able to resist the Babylonians.

^j Some referre this to the Priests attire: for Iehozadak the Priest wet into captiuitie with the King.

^k That is, vnto the coming of Messiah: for though ^l Iewes had some signe of gouernment after ward vnder the Persians, Grekes, and Romans, yet this restitution was not til Christs coming, and at length shulde be accomplished, as was promised, Gen. 49. 10

^m Though the Iewes and Ammonites wolde not beleue, ⁿ thou, to wit, the sworde, shuldest come vpon them and said that the Prophets, which threatned, spake lies, yet ^o shal as surely come as thogh thou werest already vpon their neckes.

^p Arie ready to execute thy charge, which I commit vnto thee against Ierusalem, that murdereth ^q Prophets, and them that are wilt godlier wilt y iudge this bloody citie: wilt thou shewe her all her abominacions?

3 Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, The citie sheddeth blood in the middes of it, that her ^b time may come, and maketh idoles ^c against her self to pollute her self.

^b That is, the time of her destruction
^c To her owne widdow.

4 Thou hast offended in thy blood, that thou hast shed, and hast polluted thy self in thine idoles, which thou hast made, and thou hast caused thy dayes to drawe nere, & art come vnto thy terme: therefore haue I made thee a reprocche to the heathē, & a mocking to all countreys.

^d Whose very name all men hate.

5 Those that be nere, and those that be farre from thee, shal mocke thee, which art vile in ^d name & fore in affliction.

6 Beholde, the princes of Israël euery one in thee was ready to his power, to shed blood.

^e He meaneth hereby that there was no kinde of wickednes, which was not committed in Ierusalem, & therefore the plagues of God shalde speedely come vpon her

7 In thee haue thei despised father & mother: in the middes of thee ^e haue they oppressed the strangers: in thee haue thei vexed the fatherles and the widdowe.

8 Thou hast despised mine holy things, & hast polluted my Sabbaths.

9 In thee are men that cary tales to shed blood: in thee are they that eat vpon the mountaines: in the middes of thee they commit abomination.

Leui 20. 11.

10 * In thee haue thei discovered their fathers shame: in thee haue they vexed her that was polluted in her floures.

Iere. 5. 8.

11 And euery one ^{*} hathe committed abomination with his neighbours wife, and euery one hath wickedly defiled his daughter in law, & in thee hathe euery man forced his owne sister, euen his fathers daughter.

12 In thee haue they taken giftes to shed blood: thou hast taken vsurie and the encrease, and thou hast defrauded thy neighbours by extortion, and hast forgotten me, saith the Lord God.

^f In token of my wrath and vengeance.

13 Beholde, therefore I haue ^f smitten mine hands vpon thy couetousnes, that thou hast vsed, and vpon the blood, which hathe bene in the middes of thee.

^g That is, able to defend thy self.

14 Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands ^g be strong, in the daies that I shal haue to do with thee? I the Lord haue spoken it, and wil do it.

15 And I wil scatter thee amōg the heathē, and disperse thee in the countreys, and wil cause thy ^h filthines to cease from thee.

^h I will thus take away y occasiō of thy wickednes: Thou shalt be no more y inherance of the Lord, but forsaken.

16 And thou shalt take thine inheritance in thy self in the sight of the heathen, and thou shalt knowe, that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

^k Which before was as molten precious.

18 Sonne of man, the house of Israël is vnto me as ^k drosse: all they are brasie, & tynne, and yron, and lead in the middes of the furnace: thei are euen the drosse of siluer.

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Because ye are all as drosse, beholde, therefore I wil gather you in the middes of Ierusalem.

20 As they gather siluer and brasie, & yron, and lead, & tynne into the middes of the furnace, to blowe the fyre vpon it to melt it, so wil I gather you in mine angre and in my wrath, and wil put you there ^l & melt you.

^l Meaning hereby, that the godlie shal be tryed and the wicked destroyed.

21 I wil gather you, I say, and blowe the fyre of my wrath vpon you, and you shal be melted in the middes thereof.

22 As siluer is melted in the middes of the furnace, so shal ye be melted in the middes thereof, and ye shal knowe, that I the Lord haue powred out my wrath vpon you.

23 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

24 Sonne of man, say vnto her, Thou art the land, that is vnclane, ^m & not rained vpon in the day of wrath.

^m Thou art like abaren lād which y Lord plagueth with arought
ⁿ The false prophetes haue conspired together to make their do crime more probable.

25 There is a conspiracie ⁿ of her Prophetes in the middes thereof like a roaring lyon, rauening the pray: thei haue deuoured soules: they haue taken the riches & precious thigs: thei haue made her many widdowes in the middes thereof.

26 Her Priestes haue broken my Law, & haue defiled mine holy things: they haue put no difference betwene the holy & prophane, nether discerned betwene the vnclane, and the cleane, and haue hid their ^o eyes ^o from my Sabbaths, and I am prophaned among them.

^o They haue neglected my seruice.

27 Her princes in ^{*} the middes thereof are Mich. 3. 11. like wolues, rauening y pray to shed blood, 2. 16. and to destroye soules for their owne couetous lucre.

28 And her ^p Prophetes haue dawbed them with vnrempred mortier, seing vanities, & diuining lies vnto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord God, when the Lord had not spoken.

^p They which shalde haue reproued thei, flattered in their vices and couered their doings w lies, Chap 18. 10.

29 The people of the land haue violently oppressed by spoyling and robbing, & haue vexed the poore & the needy: yea, they haue oppressed the stranger against right.

30 And I fought for a man among them, that shulde ^q make vp the hedge, & stand in the gap before me for the land, that I shulde not destroy it, but I founde none.

^q Which wolde shewe him self zealous in my cause by resisting vice, Iia 59. 16 & 63 5, & alio pray vnto me to withhold my plagues, Psal 106. 24.

31 Therefore haue I powred out mine indignacion vpon them, & consumed them with the fyre of my wrath: their owne waies haue I rendred vpon their heads, saith the Lord God.

the daughters of one mother.

And they committed fornicacion^b in Egypt, they committed fornicacion in their youth: there were their breasts preſſed, & there thei bruised the teates of their virginitie.

And the names of^c them were Aholáh, the elder, and Aholibáh her ſiſter: & thei were mine, and thei bare ſonnes and daughters:
thus were their names. Samaria is Aholáh, and Ieruſalém Aholibáh.

And Aholáh plaid the harlot^d when^e ſhe was mine, and ſhe was ſet on fyre with her louers, to wit, with the Aſſyrians her neighbours,

Which were clothed with blew ſilke, bo-the captaines & princes: thei were all pleaſant yong men, & horſemen riding vpon horſes.

Thus ſhe comitted her whoredome with them, euen with all them that were the choſen men of Aſſhúr, and with all on whome ſhe doted, & defiled her ſelf with all their idoles.

the Egyptiás: for in her youth thei^e laye with her, & thei bruised the breasts of her virginitie, and powred their whoredome vpon her.

Wherefore I deliuered her into the hands of her louers, euen into the hands of the Aſſyrians, vpon whome ſhe doted.

Theſe diſcouered her ſhame: thei toke away her ſonnes & her daughters, & ſlew her with the ſworde, & ſhe had an evil name among women: for^f thei had executed iudgement vpon her.

And when her ſiſter Aholibáh ſawe this,
ſhe marred her ſelf with inordinate loue, more then ſhe and with her fornicacions more then her ſiſter with her fornicaciõs.

She doted vpon the Aſſyrians her neighbours, bothe captaines and princes clothed with diuers ſutes, horſemen riding vpon horſes: thei were all pleaſant yong men.

Then I ſawe, that ſhe was defiled, and that they were bothe after one ſorte,

And that ſhe encreaſed her fornicacions:
for when ſhe ſawe men^g painted vpon the wall, the images of the Caldeans painted with vermilion,

And girded with girdles vpon their loynes, and with dyed attyre vpon their heads (loking all like princes after the maner of the Babylonians in Caldea, y^e land of their natiuitie)

Aſſone, I ſay, as ſhe ſawe them, ſhe doted vpon them, & ſent meſſengers vnto them into Caldea.

Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of loue, they defiled her with their fornicacion, & ſhe was polluted with them, and her luſt departed from them.

So ſhe diſcouered her fornicacion, & diſ-cloſed her ſhame: then mine heart forſoke her, like as mine heart had forſakē her ſiſter Yet, ſhe encreaſed her whoredome more, & called to remembrance the dayes of her youth, wherein ſhe had plaid the harlot in the land of Egypt.

For ſhe doted vpon their ſeruants whoſe membres are as the membres of aſſes, and whoſe yſſue is like the yſſue of horſes.

Thou calledſt to remembrance the wickednes of thy youth, when thy teates were bruised by the Egyptiás: therefore y^e pappes of thy youth are thus.

Therefore, o Aholibáh, thus ſaith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil raiſe vp thy lo-uers againſt thee, from whome thine heart is departed, and I wil bring them againſt thee on eueiy ſide,

To wit, the Babylonians, and all the Cal-deans, ^h Peking, and Shoáh, and Kóá, & all the Aſſyrians with the: they were all pleaſant yong men, captaines and princes: all thei were valiant & renoumed, riding vp-on horſes.

Euen theſe ſhal come againſt thee with charettes, waggens, and wheles, and with a multitude of people, which ſhal ſet againſt thee, buckler & ſhield, and helmet rounde about: andⁱ I wil leaue the puniſhment vnto them, & they ſhal iudge thee according to their^j iudgements.

And I wil lay mine indignation vpon thee, and thei ſhal deale cruelly with thee:
they ſhal cut of thy^k noſe and thine cares, and thy remnant ſhal fall by the ſworde:
they ſhal cary away thy ſonnes and thy daughters, and thy reſidue ſhal be deuoured

They ſhal alſo ſtrippe thee out of thy

Thus wil I make thy wickednes to ceaſe gypt any more.

wil deliuer thee into the hand of them, whome thou hateſt: euen into the hands of them from whome thine heart is departed.

And they ſhal handle thee diſpitefully, and ſhal take away all thy^l labour, & ſhal leaue thee naked and bare, and the ſhame of thy fornicaciõs^m ſhal be diſcouered, bo-the thy wickednes, and thy whoredome.

I wil do theſe things vnto thee, becauſe thou haſt gone a whoring after the heathē, & becauſe y^e art polluted with their ido-

 33 Thou shalt be filled with ^a drunkenes & sorowe, euen with the cup of destruction, and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.

^a Meaning, y^e the afflictions shulde be so great that they shulde cause them to lose their senses, & reason

34 Thou shalt euen drinke it, and wing it out to the drigges, & thou shalt breake the sherdes thereof, & teare thine owne breastes: for I haue spokē it, saith y^e Lord God.

35 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast forgotten me, and cast me behind thy backe, therefore thou shalt also beare thy wickednes & thy whoredome.

36 ¶ The Lord said moreover vnto me, Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge Aholáh & Aholibáh? and wilt thou declare to them their abominations?

37 For they haue played the whores, and blood is in their hands, and with their idoles haue they committed adulterie, and haue also caused their sonnes, whome they bare vnto me, to passe by the fyre to be their meat.

^o That is, to be sacrificed to their idoles, read Chap. 16, 20.

38 Moreover thus haue they done vnto me: they haue defiled my sanctuarie in the same day, & haue prophaned my Sabbaths.

39 For when they had slaine their children to their idoles, they came the same day into my Sanctuarie to defile it: and lo, thus haue they done in y^e middes of mine house.

^p They Tent into other countries to haue such as shulde teache the seruice of their idoles.

40 And how much more is it that they sent for men to come from ^p farre vnto whome a messenger was sent, & lo, they came: for whome thou didest wash thy self, and painted thine eyes, & deckedst thee with ornaments,

^q He meaneth the altar, that was prepared for the woles

41 And satest ^q vpon a costlie bed, and a table prepared before it, whereupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oyle.

42 And a voyce of a multitude being at ease, was with her: and with the men to make the companie great were brought men of ^r Sabá from the wildeines, which put bracelets vpon their hands, and beautiful crownes vpon their heads.

^r Which shulde teache the maner of worshipping their gods.

43 Then I said vnto her, that was olde in adulteries, Now shal she and her fornications come to an end.

44 And they went in vnto her as they go to a comune harlot: so wēt they to Aholáh and Aholibáh the wicked women.

45 And the righteous men they shal iudge them, after the maner of ^s harlotes, and after the maner of murderers: for they are harlotes, and blood is in their hands.

46 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I wil bring a multitude vpon them, and wil giue them vnto the tumulte, and to the spoyle, 47 And the multitude shal stone them with stones, and cut them with their swords: they shal slay their sonnes, and their daughters, & burne vp their houses with fyre.

48 Thus wil I cause wickednes to cease out of the lād, that all ^t women may be taught not to do after your wickednes.

^t Meaning, all other cities, & countries.

49 And they shal lay your wickednes vpō you, and ye shal beare the finnes of your idoles, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXIII.

¹ He sheweth the destruction of Ierusalem by a parable of a seething pot. 16 The parable of Ezekiels wife being dead.

¹ A Gaine in the ^a ninth yere, in the tēth moneth, in the tenth day of the ^b month came the worde of the Lord vnto me, saying,

^a Of Ierusalem captiuitie, and of the reigne of Zedekiah, ² King 25, 1 ^b Called Tebeth, which containeth parte of December and parte of Ianuarie: in y^e which moneth and day Nebuchad-nezzar besieged Ierusalem

² Sonne of man, write thee the name of the day, euen of this same day: for the King of Babel set him self against Ierusalem this same day.

³ Therefore speake a parable vnto y^e rebellious house, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Prepare a ^c pot, prepare it, and also power water into it.

^c Whereby was meut Ierusalem

⁴ Gather the ^d pieces thereof into it, euen euerie good piece, as the thigh and the shuldre, & fill it with the chief bones.

^d That is, the citizens, & the chief men thereof

⁵ Take one of the best shepe, and ^e burne also the ^e bones vnder it, & make it boy-le wel, and sethe the bones of it therein,

^e Or, he ipe ^f Meaning, of the innocents, whome they had slaine, who were the cause of the kindeling of Gods wrath against them

⁶ Because the Lord God saith thus, Wo to the bloodie citie, euen to the pot, ^f whose skome is therein, and whose skome is not gone out of it: bring it out ^g piece by piece: let no ^h lot fall vpon it.

^f Whose iniquities, & wicked citizens there yet remaine

⁷ For her blood is in the middes of her: she set it vpon an high ⁱ rocke, and powred it not vpon the grounde to couer it wth dust,

^g Signifying, that they shulde not be destroyed all at once, but by litle & litle

⁸ That it might cause wrath to arise, & take vengeance: euen I haue set her blood vpon an high rocke y^e it shulde not be couered.

^h Spare none estate or condition.

⁹ Therefore thus saith the Lord God, ⁱ Wo to the bloodie citie, for I wil make ⁱ the burning great.

ⁱ The citie shewed her cruelty to all the worlde, & was not ashamed thereof, neither yet hid it

¹⁰ Heape on muchewood: ^k kindle the fyre, consume the flesh, and cast in spice, and let the bones be burnt.

^k Nah. 3, 1, habak. 3, 12

¹¹ Then set it emptie vpon the coles thereof, that ^l the brasie of it may be hot, and may burne, and that the filthines of it may be molten in it, and that the skome of it may be consumed.

^l Or, as heape of wood

¹² ¹ She hath wearied her self with lies, & her great skome went not out of her: therefore her skome shalbe consumed with fyre.

^m Meaning, y^e the citie shalbe utterly destroyed, and that he wolde giue the enemies an appetite thereunto.

ⁿ Or, become ^o The citie hath flattered her self in vaine

¹⁴ I the Lord haue spoken it: it shal come to passe, and I wil do it: I wil not go backe, nether wil I spare, nether wil I repent;

^o I labored by sending my Prophetes to call thee to repentance, but thou woldst not according to thy wayes, and according to thy workes shal ^a they iudge thee, saith the Lord God.

15 ¶ Also the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

^c Meaning, this wife is whome he desired, as ver. 16.

16 Sonne of man, beholde, I take away fro thee the pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou nether mourne nor wepe, nether shalt thy teares runne downe.

^p For in mourning they went bare headed and bare footed, and also couered their lippes.

^q That is, wth the neighbour sent to them ^y mourned.

^r Meaning, the morning following.

17 Cease from sighing: make no mourning for the dead, & binde the tyre of thine head vpon thee, & put on thy shoes vpon thy fete, & couer not thy lippes, and eat & not the bread of men.

18 So I spake vnto the people in the morning, and at euen my wife dyed: and I did in the morning, as I was commanded.

19 And the people said vnto me, Wilt thou not tel vs what these things meane toward vs, that thou doest so?

20 Then I answered them, The worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying, ^f By sending ^y Gileads to destroy it, as Chap 7. 22. Wherein you boast and delight.

21 Speake vnto the house of Israël, Thus saith ^y Lord God, Beholde, I wil pollute my Sanctuarie, ^{euen} the pride of your power, the pleasure of your eyes, and your hearts desire, & your sonnes, & your daughters whome ye haue left, shal fall by the sworde.

22 And ye shal do as I haue done: ye shal not couer your lippes, nether shal ye eat the bread of men.

23 And your tyre shalbe vpon your heads, & your shoes vpon your fete: ye shal not mourne nor wepe, but ye shal pine away for your iniquities, & mourne one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is vnto you a signe: according to all that he hath done, ye shal do: and when this cometh, ye shal knowe that I am the Lord God.

25 Also, thou sonne of man, shal it not be in the day when I take from the their power, the ioye of their honour, the pleasure of their eyes, and the desire of their heart, their sonnes and their daughters?

26 That he that escapeth in that day, shal come vnto thee to tel thee that which he hath heard with his eares?

27 In that day shal thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speake, and be no more domme, and thou shalt be a signe vnto them, and they shal knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

^c The worde of the Lord against Ammon, which reioyced at the fall of Ierusalem. ^e Against Moab and Seir, Aduma and the Philistims.

1 The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against ^y Ammonites, and propheticie against them,

3 And say vnto the Ammonites, Heare the worde of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saydest, Ha, ha, against my Sanctuarie, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israël, when it was desolate, and against the house of Iudáh, when they went into captiuitie, 4 Beholde, therefore I wil deliuer thee to ^y me of the East for a possession, and they shal set their ^c palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shal eat thy frute, and they shal drinke thy milke.

5 And I wil make ^d Rabbáh a dwelling place for camels, and the Ammonites a shep-cote, & ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast clapped the hands, and stamped with the fete, and reioyced in heart with all thy despite against the land of Israël,

7 Beholde, therefore I wil stretche out mine hand vpon thee, and wil deliuer thee to be spoiled of the heathen, & I wil roote thee out from the people, and I wil cause thee to be destroyed out of the countreis & I wil destroye thee, & thou shalt knowe that I am the Lord.

8 Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Moab and Seir do say, Beholde, the house of Iudáh is like vnto all the heathen, 9 Therefore, beholde, I wil open the side of Moab, ^{euen} of the cities of his cities, I say, in his frontiers with the pleasant countrey, Beth-ieshimóth, Báal-meon, and Kariatháim.

10 I wil call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and wil giue them in possession, so that the Ammonites shal no more be remembred among the nations, 11 And I wil execute iudgements vpon Moab, & thei shal knowe ^y I am the Lord.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Edóm hath done ^{euen} by taking vengeance vpon the house of Iudáh, and hath committed great offence, and reuenged him self vpon them, 13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I wil also stretche out mine hand vpon Edóm, and destroye man, and beast out of it, and I wil make it desolate fro Témán, and they of Dedán shal fall by ^y sworde.

14 And I wil execute my vengeance vpon Edóm by the hand of my people Israël, & they shal do in Edóm according to mine angre, and according to mine indignatió, and they shal knowe my vengeance, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the Philistims haue executed vengeance, and reuenged the selues with a desperate heart, to destroye it for the olde hatred, 16 Therefore thus saith ^y Lord God, Beholde, I wil stretche out mine had vpon ^y Philistims, & I wil cut of the ^f Cherethims, & destroye the remnant of the sea coast.

^a Because ye reioyced whē the enemy destroyed my citie and temple.

ANd in the eleuenth yere, in the first daie of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

1 Sonne of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Ierusalem, A ha, the gate of the people is broken: it is turned vnto me: for seing she is desolate, I shalbe replenished,

2 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, O Tyrus, and I wil bring vp manie nations against thee, as the sea mounteth vp with his waues.

3 And thei shal deströie the walles of Tyrus & breake downe her towers: I wil also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the toppes of a rocke.

4 Thou shalt be for the spreading of nettes in the middes of the sea: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God, and it shalbe a spoyle to the nations.

5 And her daughters which are in the fielde, shalbe slaine by the sworde, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God, beholde, I wil bring vpon Tyrus Nebuchad-nazzar King of Babel, a King of Kings from the North, with horses and with charets, and with horsemen, with a multitude and muche people.

7 He shal slaine with the sworde thy daughters in the fielde, and he shal make a forte against thee, and cast a mount against thee, and lift vp the buckler against thee.

8 He shal set engines of warre before him against thy walles, and with his weapons breake downe thy towres.

9 The dust of his horses shal couer thee, for their multitude: thy walles shal shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheles, & of the charets, whē he shal entre into thy gates as into the entrie of a citie that is broken downe.

10 With his houses of his horses shal he tread downe all thy stretes: he shal slaine thy people by the sworde, and the pillars of thy strength shal fall downe to the grounde.

11 And thei shal robbe thy riches and spoile thy marchandise, and thei shal breake downe thy walles, and deströie thy pleasant houses, and thei shal cast thy stones and thy timbre and thy dust into the middes of the water.

12 Thus wil I cause the sounde of thy songs to cease, and the sounde of thine harpes shalbe no more heard.

13 I will laie thee like the toppes of a rocke: thou shalt be for a spreading of nettes: thou shalt be buylt no more: for I the Lord haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

14 Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shal not the yles tremble at the sounde of thy fall, and at the crye of the wounded, when thei shalbe slaine and murdered in the middes of thee?

15 Then all the princes of the sea shal come downe from their thrones: thei shal laie awaye their robes, & put of their broyded garments, and shal clothe them selues with astonishment: thei shal sit vpon the grounde, and be astonished at euery moment, and be amased at thee.

16 And thei shal take vp a lamentacion for thee, and saie to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited of seamen, the renowned citie which was strong in the sea, both she & her inhabitants, which cause their feare to be on all the haunts therein!

17 Now shal the yles be astonished in the daie of thy fall: yea, the yles that are in the sea, shalbe troubled at thy departur.

18 For thus saith the Lord God, Whē I shal make thee a desolate citie, like the cities that are not inhabited, & whē I shal bring the deape vpon thee, and great waters shal couer thee,

19 When I shal cast thee downe with them that descende into the pit, with the people of olde time, and shal set thee in the lowe partes of the earth, like the olde ruines, w^{ch} them, I say, which go downe to the pit, so that thou shalt not be inhabited, and I shal shewe my glorie in the land of the liuing, 20 I wil bring thee to nothing, and thou shalt be no more: thogh thou be sought for, yet shalt thou neuer be founde againe, saith the Lord God.

CHAPTER. XXVII.

2 The worde of God against the King of Tyrus for his pride. 21 The worde of the Lord against Zidon. 22 The Lord promiseth that he wil gather together the children of Israel.

1 The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sone of mā, say vnto thy prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thine heart is exalted, and thou hast said, I am a god, I sit in the seat of God in the middes of the sea, yet thou art but a man and not God, & though thou didest thinke in thine a I am safe & none can come to hurt me, for God is in the heaven Though thou see thine heere as the heere of God.

b Thus he speaketh by derision: for Daniél had declared notable signes of his wisdom in Babylon, when Ezekiel wrote this chine heart, & thou wast equal with God,

 3 Beholde, thou art wiser then Daniél: there is no secret, that they can hide from thee.
 4 With thy wisdom and thine understanding thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast gotten gold and silver into thy treasures.
 5 By thy great wisdom and by thine occupying hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted up because of thy riches.
 6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou didst think in thine heart, that thou wast equal with God,
 7 Beholde, therefore I will bring strangers upon thee, even the terrible nations: and they shall draw their swordes against the beautie of thy wisdom, and they shall defile thy brightness.
 8 They shall cast thee downe to the pit, and thou shalt dye the death of them, that are slaine in the middes of the sea.
 9 Wilt thou say then before him, & slaieth thee, I am a god: but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the hands of him that slaieth thee.

c Like & rest of & heathen and infidels, & are Gods enemies.

10 Thou shalt dye the death of the uncircumcised by the hands of strangers: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

11 Moreover the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentacion vpon the King of Tyrus, and say vnto him, Thus saith the Lord God, Thou sealest vp the summe, & art full of wisdom and perfic in beautie.

d He derideth the vaine opinion and confidence that Tyrus had in their riches strength and pleasures

13 Thou hast bene in Eden & gard of God: euerie precious stone was in thy garment. & rubie, & topaze & the diamod, & chrysolite, & onix, & the iasper, & saphir, & emeraud, & the carbuncle & golde: & worke manship of thy timbrels, & of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created.

e He meaneth & royal state of Tyrus, & for the excellencie and glory thereof he compareth to Cherubims

14 Thou art the anointed Cherub, that couereth, and I haue set thee in honour: thou wast vpō & holy mountaine of God: & thou hast walked in the middes of the stones of fyre.

f Or, carbuncle. He meaneth & royal state of Tyrus, & for the excellencie and glory thereof he compareth to Cherubims & couered & Arke: and by this word anointed he figuratiuely the same f I did thee this honour to make thee one of the buylders of my Temple, which was when Hiram sent vnto Salomon things necessary for the worke

15 Thou wast perfic in thy waies from the day that thou wast created, til iniquitie was founde in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy marchandise, they haue filled the middes of thee with cueltie, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as prophane out of thy mountaine of God: & I wil destroy thee, & couering Cherub from the middes of the stones of fyre.

g To wit, among my people Israel, & shal as precious stones which was when I first called thee to this dignitie

17 Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beautie, & thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness: I wil cast thee to the ground: I wil lay thee before Kings that they may beholde thee.

h Thou shalt haue no parte among my people i That is, the honour, when I first called thee to this dignitie

18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctification by thy multitude of thine iniquities, & by the iniquitie of thy marchandise: therefore wil I bring forth a fyre fro the middes of thee, which shall deuoure thee: & I wil bring thee to ashes vpon the earth, in the sight of all them that beholde thee.

19 All they that knowe thee among the people, shall be astonished at thee: thou shalt be a terrour, & neuer shalt thou be any more.

20 Again, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

21 Sonne of man, set thy face against Zidon, and propheticie against it,

22 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, O Zidon, & I wil be glorified in the middes of thee: & they shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I shall haue executed iudgements in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

i By executing my iudgements against thy wickednes.

23 For I wil send into her pestilence & blood into her stretes, and the slaine shall fall in the middes of her: the enemies shall come against her with the sword on euerie side, & they shall knowe that I am the Lord.

m That is, Nebuchadnezzar

24 And they shall be no more a pricking thorne vnto the house of Israel, nor any grievous thorne of all that are rounde about them, and despised they, and they shall knowe that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus saith the Lord God, When I shall haue gathered the house of Israel fro the people where they are scattred, & shall be sanctified in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in the land, that I haue giuen to my seruant Iakob.

n He sheweth for what cause God wil assemble his Church, and preserve it still though he destroy his enemies: to wit, they shall praise him, & give thanks for his great mercies.

26 And they shall dwell safely therein, & shall buyld houses, & plant vineyardes: yea, they shall dwell safely, when I haue executed iudgements vpon all rounde about them, & they shall despise them, & they shall knowe that I am the Lord their God.

CHAP. XXXIX.

He propheticie against Pharaoh and Egypt. 13 The Lord promiseth that he wil restore Egypt after fouretyer. 18 Egypt is the reward of King Nebuchadnezzar for the labours, which he toke against Tyrus.

1 IN the tenth yere, & in the tenth moneth in the twelfth day of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying, b Of the order of these propheticies and how the forther some time standeth after the latter, read Iere. 27.

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against Pharaoh the King of Egypt, and propheticie against him, and against all Egypt.

3 Speake, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, Pharaoh King of Egypt, & great dragon, that lieth in the middes of his riuers, & hath said, The riuer is mine, & I haue made it for my self.

b He comparereth Pharaoh to a dragon & hideth him self in the riuer Nilus, as Isa 51.9

4 But I wil put hokes in thy chawes, & I wil cause the fish of thy riuers to sticke vnto thy scales, & I wil drawe thee out of the middes of thy riuers, & all the fish of thy riuers shall sticke vnto thy scales.

c I wil send enemies against thee, & they shall plucke thee & thy people & trust in thee out of thy sure places.

5 And I wil leaue thee in the wilderness, both thee & all the fish of thy riuers: they shall fall vpon the open field: they shall not be broght together, nor gathered: for I haue giuen them for meat to the beastes of the field, and to the fowles of the heauen.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I wil giue the land of Egypt vnto Nebuchad-nezzár the King of Babél, and he shal take her multitude, and spoile her spoile, and take her pray, and it shal be the wages for his armie.

10 I haue giuen him the land of Egypt for his labour, that he serued agāst it, because thei wrought for me.

21 In that day wil I cause the horne of the house of Israël to growe, and I wil giue thee an open mouth in the middes of the, and thei shal knowe that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXX.

The destruction of Egypt & the cities thereof.

1 The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophecie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Houle & crye, Wo be vnto this day.

3 For the day is nere, and the day of y Lord is at hand, a cloudie day, and it shalbe the time of the heathen.

4 And the sworde shal come vpon Egypt, and feare shalbe in Ethiopia, whē the flaine shal fall in Egypt, when thei shal take away her multitude, and when her fundacions shalbe broken downe.

5 a Ethiopie, and Phut, & Lud, and all the commune people, and Cub, and the mē of the land, that is in league, shal fall with them by the sworde.

6 Thus saith y Lord, Thei also that mainteine Egypt, shal fall, and the pride of her power shal come downe from the towre of b Seuenéh shal thei fall by y sworde, saith the Lord God.

7 And thei shalbe desolate in the middes of the counteis that are desolate, and her cities shalbe in y middes of the cities that are wasted.

8 And thei shal knowe that I am the Lord, when I haue set a fyre in Egypt, and when all her helpers shalbe destroyed.

9 In that day shal their messengers goe forthe from me in shippes, to make the cares Mores afraied, and feare shal come vpo them, as in the day of Egypt: for lo, it cometh.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hād of Nebuchad-nezzár King of Babél.

11 For he and his people with him, euen the terrible nacions shal be broght to destroy the land: and thei shal drawe their swordes agāst Egypt, & fil the land with y flaine.

12 And I wil make the riuers drye, and sel the land into the hands of the wicked, and I wil make the land waste, and all that therein is by the hands of strangers: I the Lord haue spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, I wil also destroy the idoles, and I wil cause their idoles to cease out of Noph, and there shal be no more a prince of the land of Egypt, & I wil send a feare in the land of Egypt.

23 And I wil scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and wil disperse the through the countreis.

24 And I wil strengthen the arme of the King of Babel, and put my sworde in his hand, but I wil breake Pharaohs armes, & he shal cast out sighings as the sighings of him, that is wounded before him.

25 But I wil strengthen the armes of the King of Babel, and the armes of Pharaoh shal fall downe, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord, ^h when I shal put my sworde into the hand of the King of Babel, & he shal stretch it out vpon the land of Egypt.

^{i Whereby we see that tyrants haue no power of them selues, nether can do any more harme, but God appointeth, & when he wil, they must cease.} 26 And I wil scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them among the countreys, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXI.

^a A comparison of the prosperitie of Pharaoh with the prosperitie of the Assyrians 10 He prophesieth a like destruction to them bothe.

^{a Of Zedekiah's reigne or of Ieremiáh's captiuitie.} 1 And in the ^a eleuenth yere, in ^y third moneth, & in the first day of the moneth the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, speake vnto Pharaoh King of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whome art thou ^b like in thy greatnes?

^{b Meaning, that he was not like in strength to the King of the Assyrians, whome the Babylonians overcame.} 3 Beholde, Asshur was like a cedre in Lebanon with faire branches, and with thicke shadowing boughes, and shot vp verie hie, and his top was among the thicke boughes.

4 The waters nourished him, and the depe exalted him on hie with her riuers running rounde about his plants, and sent out her ^c litle riuers vnto all the trees of the field.

^{c Many other nations were vnder their dominion d, causety.} 5 Therefore his height was exalted about all the trees of the field, & his boughes were multiplied, and his branches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the depe sent out.

6 All the foules of the heauen made their nests in his boughes, and vnder his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their yong, and vnder his shadow dwelt all mightie nations.

7 Thus was he faire in his greatnes, and in the length of his branches: for his roote was neie great waters.

8 The cedres in the garden ^d of God colde not hide him: no fine tre was like his branches, and the cheffenu trees were not like his boughes: all the trees in the garden of God were not like vnto him in his beautie.

9 I made him faire by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, enuied him.

10 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ^e he is lift vp on high, and hath shot vp his toppe among the thicke boughes, & his heart is lift vp in his height,

^{e Or, then wast lift vp.} 11 I haue therefore deliuered him into the hands of the ^e mightiest among the heathen: he shal handle him, for I haue cast him away for his wickednes.

^{e That is, of Nebuchad-nezzár, who afterward was the monarche and onlie ruler of the worlde.} 12 And the strangers haue destroyed him, ^{euen} the terrible nations, and they haue left him vpon the mountaines, and in the valleys his branches are fallen, & his boughes are ^f broken by all the riuers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shaddowe, and haue forsaken him.

^{f Hereby is signified the destruction of the power of the Assyrians by the Babylonians.} 13 Vpon his ruine shal all the foules of the heauen remaine, and all the beasts of the field shalbe vpon his branches,

14 So that none of all the trees by the waters shal be exalted by their height, nether shal shoote vp their toppe among the thicke boughes, nether shal their leaues stand vp in their height, which drinke so muche water: for they are all deliuered vnto death in the nether partes of the earth in the middes of the children of men among the that go downe to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, In the daye when he went downe to hel, I caused them to mourne, & I covered ^g the depe for him, and I did restreine the floods thereof, and the great waters were staied: I caused Lebanon to mourne for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

16 I made the nations to shake at the sounde of his fall, when I cast him downe to hell, with them that descend into the pit, & all the excellent trees of Eden, and the best of Lebanon: euen all that are nourished with waters, shal ^h be comforted in the nether partes of the earth.

^h To cause this destruc^o of the King of Assyria to seeme more horrible, he setteth forth the other Kings and princes which are dead, as though they rejoyced at the fall of suche a tyrant.

¹⁸ To whome ⁱ art thou thus like in glorie & in greatnes amog the trees of Eden? yet thou shalt be cast downe with the trees of Eden vnto the nether partes of the earth: thou shalt slepe in ^y middes of the ^k vncircumcised, with them that be slaine by the sworde: this is Pharaoh & all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXII.

ANd in ^y twelfth yere in the twelfth moneth, & in the first day of the moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

² Sonne of man, take vp a lamentacion for Pharaoh King of Egypt, & say vnto him, Thou art like a ^b lyon of the nations & art as a ^a dragon in the sea: thou castest out thy riuers ^c and troublest the waters with thy fete, and stampest in their riuers.
³ Thus saith the Lord God, * I wil therefore spread my net ouer thee with a great multitude of people, & they shal make thee come vp into my net.

⁵ And I wil laye thy flesh vpon the mountaines, & fil the valleis ^d with thine height.

⁶ I wil also water with thy blood the land, wherein thou ^e swimmest, euen to the mountaines, and the riuers shalbe full of thee.

⁸ All the lights of heauen wil I make darke for thee, and bring ^g darkenes vpon thy land, saith the Lord God.

For thus saith the Lord God, The sworde of the King of Babel shal come vpō thee.

¹² By the swordes of the mightie wil I cause thy multitude to fall: they all shalbe terrible nations, and they shal destroye the ^h pompe of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shalbe consumed.

¹⁵ When I shal make the land of Egypt desolate, and the countrey with all that is therein, shalbe laied wast: when I shal smite all them, which dwell therein, then shal they knowe, that I am the Lord.

¹⁶ This is the mourning wherewith they shal lament her: the daughters of the nations shal lament her: they shal lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXIII.

s The office of the gouernours and ministers. 14 He strengtheneth them that dispaire, and boldeneth them with the promes of mercie. 30 The worde of the Lord against the mockers of the Prophet.

1 Again, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

40r, of their cos

a He sheweth that y^e people ought to haue continually gouernours & teachers, w^h may haue a care ouer them, and to warne them euer of the dangers which are at hand.

2 Sonne of man, speake to the children of thy people, and say vnto them, When I bring the sworde vpon a land, if the people of the land take a man^r from among them, and make him their watchman,

3 If when he seeth the sworde come vpon the land, he blowe the trumpet and warne the people,

4 Then he that heareth the sounde of the trumpet, and wil not be warned, if the sworde come, & take him away, his blood shalbe vpon his owne head.

5 For he heard the sounde of the trumpet, and wolde not be admonished: therefore his blood shalbe vpon him: but he that receiueth warning, shal saue his life.

6 But if the watchman se the sworde come, and blowe not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the sworde come, and take any persone from among them, he is taken away for his^b iniquitie, but his blood wil I require at the watchmans hand.

7 * So thou, o sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israél: therefore thou shalt heare the worde at my^c mouth, and admonishe them from me.

8 When I shal say vnto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt dye the death, if thou doe it not speake, and admonish the wicked of his way, that wicked man shal dye for his iniquitie, but his blood wil I^d require at thine hand.

9 Neuertheles, if thou warne the wicked of his way, to turne from it, if he do not turne from his way, he shal dye for his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

10 Therefore, o thou sonne of man, speake vnto the house of Israél, Thus ye speake and say, If our transgressions and our sinnes be vpon vs, and we are consumed because of them, how shulde we then liue?

11 Say vnto them, as I liue, saith the Lord God, I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turne from his way and liue: turne you, turne you from your euil wayes, for why wil ye dye, o ye house of Israél?

12 Therefore thou sonne of man, say vnto the children of thy people, The righteousnes of the righteous shal not deliuer him in the day of his transgression, nor the wickednes of the wicked shal cause him to fall therein, in the day that he retuine th from his wickednes, nether shal the righteous liue for his^e righteousnes in the day that he sinneth.

13 When I shal say vnto the righteous, that he shal surely liue, if he trust to his owne righteousnes, and commit iniquitie, all his righteousnes shalbe no more remembered, but for his iniquitie that he hath committed, he shal dye for the same.

14 Againe when I shal say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt dye the death, if he turne from his sinne, & do that which is lawful and^h right,

15 To wit, if the wicked restore the pledge, and giue againe that he had robbed, and walke in the statutes of life, without committing iniquitie, he shal surely liue, and not dye.

16 None of his finnes that he hath committed, shal be mencioned vnto him: because he hath done that, which is lawfull, & right, he shal surely liue.

17 Yet the children of thy people say, Chap. 18. 25. * The way of the Lord is not equal: but their owne way is vnequal.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquitie, he shal quenche thereby.

19 But if the wicked returne from his wickednes, and do that which is lawfull, and right, he shal liue thereby.

20 Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israël, I wil iudge you euerie one after his wayes.

1 When ¶ Prophet was led away captiue withleconiah

23 Againe the worde of the Lord came vnto me, and said,

24 Sonne of man, these that dwell in the desolate places of the land of Israël, talke and say, m Abraham was but one, and he possessed y land: but we are many, therefore the land shalbe giuen vs in possession.

25 Wherefore say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Ye eat with the blood, and lift vp your eyes toward your idoles, and sheade blood: shulde ye then possesse the land?

26 Ye leane vpon your swordes: ye worke abominacion, and ye defile euerie one his neighbours wife: shulde ye then possesse the land?

27 Say thus vnto them, Thus saith y Lord God, As I liue, so surely thei that are in the desolate places, shal fall by the sword: and him that is in the open field, wil I giue vnto the beastes to be deuoured: and thei that be in the fortres and in the caues, shal dye of the pestilence.

Chap. 7. 24. & 24. 21. & 30. 8.
28 For I wil lay the land desolate and waste, and the pompe of her strength shal cease: and the mountaines of Israël shalbe desolate, and none shal passe through.

29 Then shal thei knowe that I am y Lord, when I haue laide the land desolate and waste, because of all their abominacions, that thei haue committed.

¶ In derision.
30 Also thou sonne of man, the children of thy people that talke of thee by the walles and in the dores of houses, and speake one to another, euerie one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and heare what is the worde that commeth from the Lord.

31 For thei come vnto thee, as the people *y*seth to come: and my people sit before thee, and heare thy wordes, but thei wil not do them: for with their mouthes thei make y iestes, and their heart goeth after their couetousnes.

32 And lo, thou art vnto them, as a iesting song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can sing wel: for thei heare thy wordes, but thei do them not.

33 And when this commeth to passe (for lo, it wil come) then shal thei knowe, that a Prophet hath bene among them.

CHAP. XXXIII.

2 Against the shepherdes that despised the flocke of Christ, & seke their owne gain 7 The Lord saith that he wil visite his dispersed flocke, and gather them together. 23 He promiseth the true shepherd Christ, and wish him peace.

1 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophetic againt the shepherdes of Israël, prophetic and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God vnto the shepherdes, * Wo be vnto the shepherdes of Israël, that fede them selues: shulde not the shepherdes fede the flockes?

3 Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the woll: ye kil them that are fed, but ye fede not the shepe.

4 The weake haue ye not strengthened: the sicke haue ye not healed, nether haue ye bounde vp the broken, nor brought againe that which was driue away, nether haue ye sought that which was lost, but with crueltie, & with rigour haue ye ruled the.

5 And they were scattred without a shepherd: and when thei were disperfed, thei were deuoured of all the beastes of the field.

6 My shepe wādred through all the mountaines, and vpon euerie hye hil: yea, my flocke was scattred through all the earth, and none did seke or serche after them.

7 Therefore ye shepherdes, heare the worde of the Lord.

8 As I liue, saith the Lord God, surely because my flocke was spoiled, and my shepe were deuoured of all beastes of the field, hauing no shepherd, nether did my shepherdes seke my shepe, but the shepherdes fed them selues, and fed not my shepe, 9 Therefore, heare ye the worde of y Lord, o ye shepherdes.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I

12 As a shepherd seicheth out his flocke, when he hath bene among his shepe that are scattered, so wil I seke out my shepe & wil deliuer them out of all places, where thei haue bene scattered in the cloude &

13 And I wil bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countreis, and wil bring them to their owne land, and fede them vpon the mountaines of Israél, by the riuers, and in all the inhabi-

14 I wil fede the in a good pasture, and vpon the hie mountaines of Israél shal their and in fat pasture shal thei fede vpon the 15 I wil fede my shepe, and bring them to 16 I wil seke that which was lost, and bring again that which was driuen awaie, and wil binde vp that which was broken, and wil strengthen the weake, but I wil destroy the fat and the strong, & I wil fede them with iudgement.

17 Also you my shepe, thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I iudge betwene shepe, and shepe, betwene the rams & the goates.

18 Semeth it a smale thing vnto you to haue eaten vp the good pasture, but ye must tread downe with your fete the residue of your pasture: & to haue dronke of the depe waters, but ye must trouble the residue with your fete?

19 And my shepe eat that which ye haue troden with your fete, and drinke that w ye haue troubled with your fete.

them, Beholde, I, euen I wil iudge be-twene the fat shepe and the leane shepe.

21 Because ye haue thrust with side & with shulder, and pusht all the weake with your hornes, til ye haue scattered them abroade,

22 Therefore wil I helpe my shepe, and and he shal fede them, euen my seruant

14 Thus saith the Lord God, So shal all the worlde reioyce when I shal make thee desolate.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 He promisseth to deliuer Israel from the Gentiles.

2 The benefites done vnto the Iewes, are to be ascribed to the mercie of God, and not vnto their desertings.

3 God reneweth our hearts, that we may walke in his commandements.

Chap 63.

1 Also thou sonne of man, prophesie vnto the mountaines of Israel, and saie, Ye mountaines of Israel, heare the worde of the Lord.

2 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the enemy hathe said against you, Aha, euen the high places of the worlde are ours in possession,

3 Therefore prophesie, and saie, Thus saith the Lord God, Because that they haue made you desolate, and swallowed you vp on euery syde, that ye might be a possession vnto the residue of the heathen, and ye are come vnto the lippen & tongues of men, and vnto the reproche of the people,

4 Therefore ye mountaines of Israel, heare the worde of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the vales, and to the waste, & desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken: which are spoiled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are rounde about.

5 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Surely in the fyre of mine indignation haue I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which haue taken my land for their possession, with the ioye of all their heart, & with despiteful myndes to cast it out for a praie.

6 Prophecie therefore vpon the land of Israel, and saie vnto the mountaines, and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the vales, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I haue spoken in mine indignation, and in my wrath, because ye haue suffered the shame of the heathen, 7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I haue lifted vp mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you, shal beare their shame.

8 But you, o mountaines of Israel, ye shal shoothe forth your branches, and bring forth your frute to my people of Israel: for they are ready to come.

9 For beholde, I come vnto you, and I wil turne vnto you, and ye shal be tilled and sown.

10 And I wil multiplie the men vpon you, euen all the house of Israel wholly, & the cities shalbe inhabited, & the desolate places shalbe buylded.

11 And I wil multiplie vpon you man and beast, and they shal encrease, and bring frute, and I wil cause you to dwell after your olde estate, & I wil bestowe benefites vpon you more then at the first, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

12 Yea, I wil cause men to walke vpon you, euen my people Israel, & they shal possesse you, and ye shal be their inheritance, and ye shal nomore hence forth be depriued of men.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, Because they saie vnto you, Thou land deuourest vp men, and hast bene a waste of thy people,

14 Therefore thou shalt deuoure men nomore, nether waste thy people hence forth, saith the Lord God, 15 Nether wil I cause men to heare in thee the shame of the heathen any more, nether shalt thou beare the reproche of the people any more, nether shalt cause thy folke to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

16 Moreover the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

17 Sonne of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their owne land, they defiled it by their owne waies, & by their dedes: their waie was before me as the filthines of the menstruous.

18 Wherefore I powred my wrath vpon them, for the blood that they had shed in the land, and for their idoles, where with they had polluted it.

19 And I scattred them among the heathen, and they were disperfed through the countreys: for according to their waies, and according to their dedes, I iudged them.

20 And when they entred vnto the heathen, whether they wet, they polluted mine holy Name, when they said of them, These are the people of the Lord, and are gone out of his land.

But I fauoured mine holy Name which the house of Israél had polluted among the heathen, whether they went.
Therefore say vnto the house of Israél, Thus saith y^e Lord God, I do not thus for your sakes, o house of Israél, but for mine holie Names sake, which ye polluted among the heathen whether ye went.
And I wil sanctifie my great Name, w^{ch} was polluted among the heathen, among whome you haue polluted it, & the heathen shal knowe that I am the Lord, saith the Lord God, when I shalbe sanctified in you before their eyes.
For I wil take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countreys, and wil bring you into your owne land.
Then wil I powre cleane water vpon you, and ye shalbe cleane: yea, fro all your filthines, and fro all your idoles wil I cleanse you.
A new heart also wil I giue you, and a new spirit wil I put within you, and I wil take away the stonie heart out of your bodye, & I wil giue you an heart of flesh.
And I wil put my Spirit within you, & cause you to waike in my statutes, & ye shal kepe my iudgements and do them.
And ye shal dwell in the land, that I gaue to your fathers, and ye shal be my people and I wil be your God.
I wil also deliuer you from all your filthines, and I wil call for corn, and wil increase it, and lay no famine vpon you.
For I wil multiplie the frute of the trees, and the encrease of the field, that ye shal beare no more the reproche of famine among the heathen.
The shal ye remeber your owne wicked wayes, & your dedes that were not good, & shal iudge your selues worthe to haue bene destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominacions.
Be it known vnto you that I do not thus for your sakes, saith the Lord God: therefore, o ye house of Israél, be ashamed, and confounded for your owne wayes.
Thus saith the Lord God, What time as I shal haue cleansed you from all your iniquities, I wil cause you to dwell in the cities, and the desolate places shal be buylded.
And the desolate land shalbe tilled, where as it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by.
For they said, This waste land was like the garden of Eden, and these waste and desolate and ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited.
Then the residue of the heathen that are left round about you, shal knowe that I the Lord buylde the ruinous places, and plant the desolate places: I the Lord haue spoken it, and wil do it.

Thus saith the Lord God, I wil yet for this be fought of the house of Israél, to possess me it vnto them: I wil encrease them with men like a flocke.
As the holie flocke, as the flocke of Ierusalem in their solemne feastes, so shal the desolate cities be filled with flockes of men, and they shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVII.

He prophesieth the bringing againe of the people, being in captiuitie: 16 He sheweth the vnion of the ten tribes with the two.

The hand of the Lord was vpon me, & caryed me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and set me downe in the middes of the field, which was full of bones.

And he led me round about by them, and beholde, there were very many in the open field, and lo, they were verie drye.

And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, can these bones liue? And I answered, o Lord God, thou knowest.

Againe he said vnto me, Prophecie vpon these bones and say vnto them, O ye drye bones, heare the worde of the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord God vnto these bones, Beholde, I wil cause breath to entre into you, and ye shal liue.

And I wil say sinewes vpon you, and make flesh growe vpon you, and couer you with skin, and put breath in you, that ye may liue, and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

So I prophecied, as I was commanded: and as I prophecied, there was a noise, and beholde, there was a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

And when I behelde, lo, the sinewes, and the flesh grew vpon them, and aboue, the skin couered them, but there was no breath in them.

Then said he vnto me, Prophecie vnto the winde: prophecie, sonne of man, and say to the winde, Thus saith the Lord God, Come from the four winds, o breath, and breathe vpon these slaine, that they may liue.

So I prophecied as he had commanded me: and the breath came into them, and they liued, and stood vp vpon their fete, an exceeding great armie.

Then he said vnto me, Sonne of man, these bones are the whole house of Israél. Beholde, they say, Our bones are dryed, and our hope is gone, & we are cleane cut off.

Therefore prophecie, and say vnto them, thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, my people, I wil open your graues, and cause you to come vp out of your sepulchres, and bring you into the land of Israél,

15 ¶ The worde of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

16 Moreover thou sonne of man, take thee a piece of wood, and write vpon it, Vnto Iudáh, and to the children of Israél his companions: then take ^d another piece of wood and write vpon it, Vnto Ioséph the tre of Ephráim, and to all the house of Israél his companions.

22 And I wil make them one people in the land, vpon the mountaines of Israél, *and one King shalbe King to them all: & they shalbe no more two peoples, nether be deuided anie more hence forth into two kingdomes.

23 Nether shal they be polluted anie more with their idoles, nor with their abominations, nor with anie of their trásgressiōs: but I wil saue them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they haue sinned, and wil cleanse them: so shal they be my people, and I wil be their God.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 He prophesieth that Gog and Magog shal fight with great power againſt the people of God. 21 Their destruction.

1 And the worde of y Lord came vnto me, saying,

^a Which was a people that came of Magog the sonne of Iaphet, Gen 10.2. Magog also here signifieth a certaine countrey, so that by these two countreys, w had the gouernement of Grece & Italia, he meaneth the principall enemies of the Church, Reuel 20.8.

2 Sonne of man, let thy face againſt * Gog and againſt the land of Magog, the chief prince of Méſhech and Tubál, & prophesie againſt him,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come againſt thee, & Gog the chief prince of Méſhech and Tubál.

4 And I wil destroye thee, and put hokes in thy chawes, and I wil bring thee forth, and all thine hoste bothe horses, and horsemen, all clothed with all sortes of armour, euen a great multitude with bucklers, and shields, all ^b handling swordes.

^b He sheweth that the enemies shoulde bend them selues againſt the Church, but it shoulde be to their owne destruction.

^d Gomér was Iaphets sonne, and Togarmáh the sonne of Gomér, and are thought to be they that inhabit Asia minor.

7 Prepare thy self, and * make thee ready, bothe thou, and all thy multitude, that are assembled vnto thee, and be their sauegarde.

^e Signifying, y all the people of the worlde shoulde assemble them selues against the Church, and Chriſt their head.

8 After manie dayes thou shalt be visited: for in the latter yeres thou shalt come into the land, that hath bene destroyed with the sworde, and is gathered out of manie people vpon the mountaines of Israél, which haue long lien waste: yet they haue bene brought out of the people, and they shal dwell all safe.

^f Or, meaning, the land of Israél.

9 Thou shalt ascend and come vp like a tēpest, & shalt be like a cloude to couer the land, bothe thou, and all thy bandes, & manie people with thee.

^f That is, to molest, and destroye the Church.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, Euen at the same time shal manie things come into thy minde, and thou shalt thinke ^f euil thoughts.

^g Meaning, Israél which had now bene destroyed, & was not yet buyld againe: declaring hereby y simplicity of the godlie,

11 And thou shalt say, I wil go vp to the lād that hath no walled towres: & I wil go to them that are at rest, and dwell in safetie, which dwell all without walles, and haue nether barres nor gates, who seke not so muche to fortifie them selues by outward force, as to depende on the providēce & goodness of God.

13 Shebá and Dedán, and the marchantes of Tarsish with all the lions thereof shal say vnto thee, ^b Art thou come to spoile y pray^d hast thou gathered thy multitude to take a bootie? to cary away siluer and golde, to take away cattel & goods, & to spoile a great pray?

^b One enemy shal come another because eueryone shal thinke to haue the spoile of the Church

14 Therefore, sonne of man, prophcie, and say vnto Gog, Thus saith the Lord God, In y day when my people of Israél dwell safe, shalt thou not knowe it?

I shalt not y spee thine occasions to come against my Church, when they suspect nothing?

15 And come from thy place out of the North partes, thou & muche people with thee: all shal ride vpon horses, even a great multitude and a mightie armie.

16 And thou shalt come vp against my people of Israél, as a cloude to couer the land: thou shalt be in the ^k latter daies, and I wil bring thee vpon my land that the heathen may knowe me, when I ^l shalbe sanctified in thee, o Gog, before their eyes.

17 Thus saith the Lord God, Art not thou he, of whome I haue spoken in olde time ^m by the hand of my seruants the Prophetes of Israél which prophcied in those dayes and yeres, that I wolde bring thee vpon them?

^l Signifying y God, wilbe sanctified by mainteining his Church, and destroyig his enemies, as Chap 36, 23 & 37, 28 in Hereby he declarer that none affliction can come to y Church, whereof they haue not bene aduertised afore time, to teache the to endure all things with more patience when they knowe y God hathe so ordered,

18 At the same time also whē Gog shal come ⁿ against the land of Israél, saith y Lord God, my wrath shal arise in mine angre.

19 For in mine indignation & in the fyre of my wrath haue I spokē it: surely at that time there shalbe a great shaking in the lād of ^o Israél.

20 I wil send the fishes of the sea, & the foules of the ayre, and the beastes of the field

21 And I wil send the moue & crepe vpon the earth, and all ^p men that are vpon the earth, shal tremble at my presēce, & the mountaines shalbe ouerthrowen, & the ^q itaies shal fall, and euery wall shal fall to the ground.

ⁿ All meanes whereby man shulde thinke to saue him self shal faile, the affliction in those daies shalbe so great & the enemies destruction shalbe so terrible. ^o Against the people of Gog and Magog.

22 For I wil call for a sworde against him ^r othtough out all my mountaines, saith the Lord God: euery mans sworde shal be against his brother.

23 And I wil pleade against him with pestilence, and with blood, and I wil cause to raine vpon him and vpon his bandes, and vpon the great people, that are with him, a fore raine, and haile stones, fyre, & brimstone.

Chap 36, 23 & 37, 28

24 Thus wil I be ^s magnified, and sanctified, and known in the eyes of many nacions, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

1 Therefore, thou sonne of man, prophcie against Gog, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I come against thee, o Gog, the chief prince of Méshech and Tubál.

2 And I wil destroy thee ^a & leaue but the sixt part of thee, & wil cause thee to come vp from the North partes and wil bring thee vpon the mountaines of Israél:

^a Or, destroy thee with six plagues, as Chap 38, 22.

3 And I wil smite thy bowe out of thy left hand, and I wil cause thine arrowes to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou ^b shalt fall vpon the mountaines of Israél, and all thy bāds and the people, that is with thee: for I wil giue thee vnto the birdes and to euery feathered foule & beast of the field to be deuoured.

^b Meaning, y by the vertue of Gods worde shalbe destroyed where so euer he shall be in his Church.

5 Thou shalt fall vpon the open field: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

6 And I wil send a fyre on Magóg, and among them that dwell safely in the cyles, and thei shal knowe, that I am the Lord.

^c That is, among all nations where y enemies of my people dwell, tyme they neuer so farre from there.

7 So wil I make mine holy Name knowē in the middes of my people Israél, and I wil not suffer them to pollute mine holy Name anie more, and the heathen shal knowe that I am the Lord, the holie one of Israél.

8 Beholde, ^d it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God: this is the day whereof I haue spoken.

^d That is, this plague is fully determined in my counsel & can not be changed

9 And thei that dwell in the cities of Israél, shal ^e go forthe, and shal buine and set fyre vpon the weapons, and on the shields, and bucklers, vpon the bowes, and vpon the arrowes, and vpon the stauies in their hands, and vpon the speares, and thei shal burne them with fyre seuen yeres.

^e After this destruction y Church shal haue great peace and tranquillite, and burne all their weapons because they shal no more more feare the enemies: and this is chiefly mee of the accomplishment of Christs kingdom, & henby their head Christ all enemies shalbe overcome

11 And at y same time wil I giue vnto Gog ^f a place there for buryal in Israél, even the valley whereby men go toward y East part of the Sea: and it shal cause the that passe by, to stop their noses, and there shal they burye Gog with all his multitude: & they shal call it the valley of Hamón-Gog.

^f For the sake of y carcases ^g Or, of the multitude of Gog

12 And seuen moneths long shal the house of Israél be burying of the, that they may cleanse the land.

^g Meaning, a long tyme.

13 Yea, all the people of the land shal bury them, and they shal haue a name when I shalbe glorified, saith the Lord God.

14 And they shal chuse out men to go continually through the land with them that traueil, to burye those that remaine vpon the land.

ⁱ Partely that the holy lād shulde not be polluted, and partely for the compassion y the children of God haue euen on their enemies.

on the groundes, and cleanse it: they shal searche to the end of seuen monerhs.

15 And the trauailers that passe through the land, if anyise a mans bone, then shal he set vp a signe by it, til the buryers haue buried it, in the valley of Hamón-Gog.

16 And also the name of the citie shal be Hamonáh: thus shal they cleanse the land.

17 And thou sonne of mán, thus saith the Lord God, Speake vnto euerie feathered fowle, and to all the beasts of the field,

Assemble your selues, and come: ^k gather your selues on euerie side to my sacrifice: for I do sacrifice a great sacrifice for you vpon the mountaines of Israél, that ye may eat flesh, and drinke blood.

18 Ye shal eat the flesh of the valiant, and drinke the blood of the princes of the earth, of the weathers, of the lambes, and of the goates, and of bullockes, even of all fat beasts of Bashán.

19 And ye shal eat fat til you be full, and drinke blood, til ye be drunken of my sacrifice, which I haue sacrificed for you.

20 Thus you shal be filled at my table with horses and chariots, with valiant men, and with all men of warre, saith the Lord God.

21 And I wil set my glorie among the heathen, and all the heathen shal se my iudgement, that I haue executed, and mine hand, which I haue layed vpon them.

22 So the house of Israél shal knowe, that I am the Lord their God from that day and so forth.

23 And the heathen shal knowe, that the house of Israél went into captiuitie for their iniquitie, because they trespassed against me: therefore hid I my face from them, and gaue them into the hand of their enemies: so fel they all by the sworde.

24 According to their vncleannes, and according to their transgressions haue I done vnto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Now wil I bring againe the captiuitie of Iakób, and haue compassion vpon the whole house of Israél, and wil be ielous for mine holy Name, 26 After that they haue borne their shame, and all their transgression, whereby they haue transgressed against me, when they dwelt safely in their land, and without feare of any.

27 When I haue brought them againe from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies lands, and am sanctified in them in the sight of manie nacions,

28 Then shal they knowe, that I am the Lord their God, which caused them to be led into captiuitie among the heathen: but

I haue gathered them vnto their owne land, and haue left none of them any more there, 29 Nether wil I hide my face anie more from them: for I haue powred out my Spirit vpon the house of Israél, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XL.

The restoring of the citie and the Temple.

IN the sixe and twentieth yere of our being in captiuitie in the ^a beginning of the yere, in the tenth day of the moneth, in the fourtenth yere after that the citie was smitten, in the self same day, the hand of the Lord was vpon me, & broght me thether.

2 Into the land of Israél broght he me by ^a a diuine vision, and set me vpon a verie hie mountaine, whereupō was as the buylding of a citie, toward the South.

3 And he broght me thether, and beholde, there was a ^b man, whose similitude was to loke to, like brasse, with a linen threde in his hand, and a rede to measure with: and he stode at the gate.

4 And the man said vnto me, Sonne of man, beholde with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, and set thine heart vpon all that I shal shew thee: for to the intent, that they might be shewed thee, art thou broght hether: declare all that thou seest, vnto the house of Israél.

5 And beholde, I sawe a wall on the outside of the house rounde about: and in the mans hand was a rede to measure with, of six cubites long, by the cubite, and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the buylding with one rede, and the height with one rede.

6 Then came he vnto the gate, which looketh toward the East, and went vp the stairres thereof, and measured the ^c poste of the gate, which was one rede broad, and ^c the other poste of the gate, which was one rede broad.

7 And euerie chamber was one rede long, & one rede broad, and betwene the chambers were six cubites: and the poste of the gate by the porche of the gate within was one rede.

8 He measured also the porche of the gate within with one rede.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubite on this side, & the space was one cubite on that side, and the chambers were six cubits on this side & six cubits on that side.

13 He measured then the gate frö the rouse of a chamber to the top of the gate: the breadth was fyue and twentie cubites, dore against dore.

14 He made also postes of threscore cubites, and the postes of the court, & of the gate had one measure round about.

15 And vpon the forefront of the entrie of the gate vnto the fore front of the porche of the gate within were fiftie cubites.

16 And there were narrow windowes in the chambers, and in their postes within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and the windowes went round about within: and vpon the postes were palme trees.

18 And the pauement was by the side of the gates ouer against the length of the gates, & the pauement was benethe.

19 Then he measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate without, vnto the forefront of the court within, an hundred cubites East ward and Northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court, that looked toward the North, measured he after the length and breadth thereof.

21 And the chambers thereof were, thre on this side, & thre on the side, & the postes thereof & the arches thereof were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fyue cubites, & the breadth fyue and twentie cubites.

48 And he brought me to the porche of the house, and measured the postes of the porche, five cubites on this side, and five cubites on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubites on this side, and three cubites on that side.

49 The length of the porche was twentie cubites, and the breadth eleuen cubites & he brought me by the steps whereby they went vp to it, & there were pillars by the postes, one on this side, and another on that side.

CHAP. XLII.

The disposition and order of the building of the Temple and the other things thereto belonging.

1 AFTERWARDE, he brought me to the Temple, and measured the postes, six cubites broad on the one side and six cubites broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the entrie was ten cubits, & the sides of the entrie were five cubits on the one side, & five cubits on the other side, & he measured the length thereof fortie cubites, & the breadth twentie cubites.

3 THEN went he in, and measured the postes of the entrie two cubites, and the entrie six cubites, and the breadth of the entrie seven cubites.

4 So he measured the length thereof twentie cubites & the breadth twentie cubites before the Temple. And he said vnto me, This is the most holie place.

5 After, he measured the wall of the house, six cubites, and the breadth of euery chamber foure cubites rounde about the house, on euery side.

6 And the chambers were chambre vpon chambre, thre and thirtie fote high, & they entered into the wall made for the chambers which was rounde about the house: the postes might be fastened therein, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.

7 And it was large and went round mounting vpwarde to the chambers: for the staire of the house was mounting vpward, rounde about the house: therefore the house was larger vpwarde: so they went vp from the lowest chambre to the highest by the middes.

8 I sawe also the house hie rounde about: the foundations of the chambers were a ful rede of six great cubites.

9 The thickness of the wall which was for the chamber without, was five cubites, and that which remained, was the place of the chambres that were within.

chambres that were within.

10 And betwene the chambers was the wyndenes of twentie cubites rounde about the House on euery side.

11 And the dores of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one dore toward the North, & another dore toward the South, and the breadth of the place that remained, was five cubites rounde about.

12 Now the building that was before the separte place toward the West corner, was seuentie cubites broad, and the wall of the building was five cubites thicke, rounde about, & the length ninetie cubites.

13 So he measured the house an hundred cubites long, & the separte place and the building with the walles thereof were an hundred cubites long.

14 Also the breadth of the forefront of the house and of the separte place toward the East, was an hundred cubites.

15 And he measured the length of the building ouer against the separte place, which was behinde it, and the chambers on the one side and on the other side an hundred cubites with the Temple within, and the arches of the court.

16 The postes and the narowe windowes, & the chambers rounde about, on thre sides ouer against the postes, filed with cedar wood rounde about and from the ground vp to the windowes, and the windowes were filed.

17 And from about the dore vnto the inner house and without, and by all the wall rounde about within and without it was filed according to the measure.

18 And it was made with Cherubims and palme trees, so that a palme tree was betwene a Cherub and a Cherub: and euery Cherub had two faces.

19 So that the face of a man was toward the palme tree on the one side, & the face of a lion toward the palme tree on the other side: thus was it made through all the house rounde about.

20 From the ground vnto about the dore were Cherubims and palme trees made as in the wall of the Temple.

21 The postes of the Temple were squared, & thus to loke vnto was the similitude of forme of the Sanctuarie.

22 The altar of wood was three cubites hie, & the length thereof two cubites, and the corners thereof and the length thereof & the sides thereof were of wood. And he said vnto me, This is the table that shal be before the Lord.

23 And the Temple & the Sanctuarie had two dores.

24 And the dores had two wickets, euery two turning wickets, two wickets for one dore, and two wickets for another dore.

Of the chambers of the Temple for the Priests, and the holie things.

Then brought he me into y vtter court by the waie towarde the North, and he brought me into the chamber that was ouer against the separate place, & which was before y buylding towarde y North.

Before y length of an hundred cubites was y North dore, & it was fiftie cubites broad.

Ouer against y twentie cubites which were for the inner court, & ouer against the pauement, which was for the vtter court, was chambre against chambre in thre rowes.

4 And before y chābres was a galerie of ten cubites wide, & within was a waie of one cubite, and thei dores towarde y North.

5 Now the chambres aboue were narrower: for those chambres seemed to eat vp these, to wit, the lower, and those that were in the middes of the buylding.

6 For thei were in thre rowes, but had not pillars as the pillars of the court: therefore there was a difference frō the beneth & frō the middlemost, euen frō the ground.

7 And the wall y was without ouer against y chābres, towarde y vtter court on y fore front of y chābers, was fiftie cubites long.

8 For the length of the chambres that were in the vtter court, was fiftie cubites: & lo, before y Tēple were an hundred cubites.

9 And vnder these chambres was the entrie, on the East side, as one goeth into the frō the outwarde court.

10 The chambres were in the thickenes of the wall of the court towarde y East, ouer against the separate place, & ouer against the buylding.

11 And the waie before them was after the maner of the chambres, which were toward y North as long as thei, & as broad as thei: & all their entries were like, bothe according to their facions, and according to their dores.

12 And according to the dores of y chambres that were towarde y South, was a dore in the corner of the waie, euen the waie directly before the wall towarde the East, as one entreth.

13 Then said he vnto me, The North chambres & the South chambres which are before the separate place, thei be holy chambers, wherein the Priests that approche vnto the Lord, shal eat the moste holie things: there shal thei laie the moste holie things, and the meat offering, and the sinoffring, and the trespasse offering: for the place is holy.

14 When the Priests entre therein, thei shal not go out of the holie place into the vtter court, but there thei shal laie their garmets wherein thei minister: for thei are holie, & shal put on other garmets, & so shal approche to those things, w are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring y inner house, he brought me forth toward y gate whose prospect is towarde the East, and measured it rounde about.

16 He measured the East side with the measuring rod, fise hundred redes, euen with the measuring rede rounde about.

17 He measured also y North side, fise hundred redes, euen with the measuring rede rounde about.

18 And he measured the South side fise hundred redes with the measuring rede.

19 He turned about also to the West side, & measured fise hundred redes with the measuring rede.

20 He measured it by the foure sides: it had a wall rounde about, fise hundred redes long, and fise hundred broad to make a separation betwene the Sanctuarie, and y prophane place.

CHAP. XLIII.

He seeth the glorie of God going into the Temple, from whence it had before departed. 7 He mencioneth the idolatrie of the childre of Israel for the which thei were consumed and brought to nought 9 He is commanded to call them againe to repentance.

Afterward he brought me to the gate, euen the gate that turneth towarde y East.

g Thoroꝝ which doer: they muſt go in, or come out of the Temple, &c.

Verſ 1 The inner court gate Q whe- reunto they went vp by eight ſteps, as appeareth in ſ great figure.

THUS ſaith the Lord God, The gate of the inner court, that turneth toward the Eaſt, ſhalbe ſhut the fix working daies: but on the Sabbáth it ſhalbe opened, and in the daye of the new moone it ſhal be opened.

2 And the prince ſhal entre by the waye of the porche of that gate without, and ſhal ſtand by the poſte of the gate, & ſeuen Priests ſhal make his burnt offering, and his peace offerings, & he ſhal worſhip at the thresholde of the gate: after, he ſhal go forth, but the gate ſhal not be ſhut til the evening.

3 Likewise the people of the land ſhal worſhip at the entrie of this gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths, and in the new moones.

4 And the burnt offering that the price ſhal offe vnto the Lord on the Sabbáth daye, ſhalbe fix lambs without blemiſh, & a ram without blemiſh.

5 And the meat offering ſhalbe an Epháh for a ram: and the meat offering for the lambes a gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Epháh.

6 And in the daye of the new moone it ſhal be a yong bullocke without blemiſh, and fix lambs and a ram: they ſhalbe without blemiſh.

7 And he ſhal prepare a meat offering, euen an Epháh for a bullocke, and an Epháh for a ram, and for the lambes according as his hand ſhal bring, and an Hin of oyle to an Epháh.

8 And when the prince ſhal entre, he ſhal go in by the way of the porche of that gate, & he ſhal go forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the land ſhal come before the Lord in the ſolemne feaſts, he that entereth in by the way of ſ North gate to worſhip, ſhal go out by the way of the South gate: and he that entereth by the way of the South gate, ſhal go forth by the way of the North gate: he ſhal not returne by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but they ſhal go forth ouer againſt it.

10 And the prince ſhalbe in the middes of them: he ſhal go in when they go in, & when they go forth, they ſhal go forth together.

11 And in the feaſts, and in the ſolemnnities the meat offering ſhalbe an Epháh to a bullocke, and an Epháh to a ram, and to the lambs, the gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Epháh.

12 Now when the prince ſhal make a fre burnt offering or peace offerings frely vnto the Lord, one ſhal then open him the gate, ſeuen Priests ſhal be with him, and he ſhal make his burnt offering and his peace offerings, as he did on the Sabbáth day: after, he ſhal go forth, and when he is gone forth, one ſhal ſhut the gate.

13 Thou ſhalt dailey make a burnt offering vnto the Lord of a labe of one yere without blemiſh: thou ſhalt do it euery morning.

14 And thou ſhalt prepare a meat offering for it euery morning, the fix parte of an Epháh, and the third parte of an Hin of oyle, to mingle with the fine floure: this meat offering ſhalbe continually by a perpetual ordinance vnto the Lord.

15 Thus ſhal they prepare the lambe, and the meat offering and the oyle euery morning, for a continual burnt offering.

16 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, If the prince giue a gift of his inheritance vnto any of his ſonnes, it ſhalbe his ſonnes, & it ſhal be their poſſeſſion by inheritance.

17 But if he giue a gift of his inheritance to one of his ſeruants, then it ſhalbe his to the yere of libertie: after, it ſhal returne to the prince, but his inheritance ſhal remaine to his ſonnes for them.

18 Moreouer the prince ſhal not take of the peoples inheritance, nor thruſt them out of their poſſeſſion: but he ſhal cauſe his ſonnes to inherit of his owne poſſeſſion, that my people be not ſcattered euery man from his poſſeſſion.

19 ¶ After, he brought me through the entrie, which was at the ſide of the gate, into the holy chambers of the Priests, which ſtoode toward the North: and beholde, there was a place at the Weſt ſide of them.

20 Then ſaid he vnto me, This is the place where the Priests ſhal ſee the tieſpaffe offering and the ſinne offering, where they ſhal bake the meat offering, that they ſhalde not beare them into the viter court, to ſanctifie the people.

21 Then he brought me forth into the viter court, and cauſed me to go by the foure corners of the court: and beholde, in euery corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the foure corners of the court there were courtes ioyned of fortie cubites long, and thirtie broad: theſe foure corners were of one meaſure.

23 And there was a wall about them, euen about thoſe foure, and kitchins were made vnder the wall round about.

24 Then ſaid he vnto me, This is the kitchin where the miniſters of the houſe ſhal ſee the ſacrifice of the people.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand, went forth the Eastwarde, he measured a thousand cubites, & he broght me through the waters: the waters were to the ancles.

4 Againe he measured a thousand, & broght me through the waters: the waters were to the knees: againe he measured a thousand, and broght me through: the waters were to the loines.

5 Afterward he measured a thousand, and it was a ^b riuer, that I colde not passe ouer: for the waters were risen, & the waters did flowe, as a riuer that colde not be passed ouer.

10 And then the ^f fishers shal stand vpon it, and from En-gēdi euen vnto En-eglāim, thei shal spreade out their nettes: for their fish shalbe according to their kindes, as the fish of ^h y maine sea, exceeding many.

11 But the myrie places thereof, & the marishes thereof shal not be holosome: thei shal be made salt pittes.

12 And by this riuer vpon the brinke thereof, on this side, & on that side shal growe all ⁱ fruteful trees, whose leafe shal not fade, nether shal the frute thereof faile: it shal bring forth the new frute according to his moneths, because their waters rūne out of the Sanctuarie: and the frute thereof shalbe meat, & the leafe thereof shalbe for ^j medicine.

13 ¶ Thus saith y Lord God, This shal be the border, whereby ye shal inherit the land according to y twelue tribes* of Israel: Ioseph shal haue two porcions.

14 And ye shal inherit it, one aswel as another: *concerning the which I list vp mi-

15 And this shalbe the border ^k of the land toward the North side, frō the maine sea toward Hethlōn as men go to Zedādah:

16 Hamāth, Berōthāh, Sibrāim, which is betwene the border of Damascus, and the border of Hamāth, and Hazār, Hatticōn, which is by the coast of Hauān.

17 And the border from the sea shalbe Hazār, Enān, & the border of Damascus, and the residue of the North, Northwarde, & the border of Hamāth: so shalbe the North parte.

18 But the East side shal ye measure from Hauān, and from Damascus, and from Gileād, and from the land of Israēl by Iordēn, & from the border vnto the East sea: and so shalbe the East parte.

19 And the Southside shalbe toward Temān from Tamāi to the waters of ^l M ribōth in Kadēth, & the riuer to the maine sea: so shalbe y South parte toward Temān.

20 The West parte also shalbe the great sea frō the border, til a mā come ouer against Hamāth: this shalbe the West parte.

21 So shal ye deuide this land vnto you, according to the tribes of Israēl.

22 And you shal deuide it by lot for an inheritāce vnto you, & to the strangers that dwell among you, which shal beget children among you, & thei shalbe vnto you, as borne in the countrei amōg the childre of Israēl, ^m thei shal parte inheritance with you in the middes of the tribes of Israēl.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe great providence of God, and his singular mercie toward his Church are moſte lively here ſet forth, who neuer leaueh his deſtitute, but now in their greateſt miſeries and afflictions gaueh them Prophets, as Ezechiel, & Daniél, whome he adorned with ſuche graces of his holie ſpirit, that Daniél above all other had moſte ſpecial reuelations of ſuche things as ſhulde come to the Church, euen from the time that thei were in captiuitie, to the laſt end of the worlde, as to the general reſurrection, as of the foure Monarches and empires of all the worlde, to wit, of the Babylonians, Perſians, Grecians, & Romanes. Alſo of the certaine nombre of the times euen vnto Chriſt, when all ceremonies and ſacrifices ſhulde ceaſe, becauſe he ſhulde be the accompliſhement thereof: moreover he ſheweth Chriſtes office and the cauſe of his death which was by his ſacrifice to take away ſinnes, and to bring eueraſting life: And as from the beginning God neuer exerciſed his people vnder the croſſe, ſo he teacheth here, that after that Chriſt is offered, he wil ſtil leaue his exerciſe to his Church vntil the dead riſe againe, and Chriſt gather his into his kingdome in the heauens.

f The King required three things, that thei ſhulde be of noble byre, that thei ſhulde be witty & learned, and y thei ſhulde be of a ſtró & comelie nature that thei might do him better ſeruiſe: this he did for his owne commoditie therefore it is not to praiſe his liberalitie: yet in this he is worthy praiſe, that he eſteemed learning, and knewe that it was a neceſſarie meane to gouerne by

In the thirde yere of the reigne of Iehoiakim King of Iudáh, came Nebuchad-nezzár, King of Babel vnto Ierusalem, & beleiged it.

And the Lord gaue Iehoiakim King of Iudáh into his hand, w part of the veſſels of the houſe of God, which he caried into the land of Shinar, to the houſe of his god, and he brought the veſſels into his gods treaſurie.

And the King ſpake vnto Aſpenáz the maſter of his Eunuches, that he ſhulde bring certaine of the children of Iſraél, of the Kings ſeſe, and of the princes:

Children in whome was no blemiſh, but wel fauoured, & inſt. nct in all wiſdome, and wel ſene in knowledge, and able to vtter knowl. dge, and ſuche as were able to ſtand in the Kings palace, and whome thei might teache the learning, and the tongue of the Caldeans.

And the King appointed them prouiſion euerie daie of a portion of the Kings meat, and of the wine, which he dranke, ſo nourishing thei three yere, that at the end thereof, thei might ſtand before the King.

Now among theſe were certaine of the children of Iudáh, Daniél, Hananiáh, Miſhaél and Azariáh.

But Daniél had determined in his heart, that he wolde not defile him ſelf with the porcion of the Kings meat, nor with the wine which he dranke: therefore he requirred y chief of the Eunuches that he might not defile him ſelf.

(Now God had brought Daniél into fauour, and tender loue with the chief of the Eunuches)

And the chief of the Eunuches ſaid vnto Daniél, I feare my lord the King, who hath appointed your meat and your drinke: therefore if he ſe your faces worſe looking then the other children, which are of your ſorte, thei ſhal you make me loſe mine head vnto the King.

Then ſaid Daniél to Melzár, whome the chief of the Eunuches had ſet ouer Daniél, Hananiáh, Miſhaél, and Azariáh, Proueth ſeruants, I beſeeche thee, ten daies, and let them giue vs pulse to eat, and water to drinke.

Then let our countenances be looked vpon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the porcion of the Kings meat: and as thou ſeeſt, deale with thy ſeruants.

So he conſented to them in this matter, and proued them ten daies.

And at the end of ten daies, their countenances appeared fairer, and in better looking then all the children, which did eat the porcion of the Kings meat.

CHAP. II.

1 The dreame of Nebuchad-nezzár. 13 The King commandeth all the wise men of Babylon to be slaine because they coulde not interpret his dreame. 16 Daniél requirerth time to solute the question. 24 Daniél is brought vnto the King and sheweth him his dreame & the interpretation thereof. 44 Of the everlasting kingdom of Christ.

And in y^e second yere of y^e reigne of Nebuchad-nezzár, Nebuchad-nezzár dreamed b^dreames wherwith his spirit was troubled, & his slepe was vpon him.

Then the King commanded to call y^e inchanters, and the astrologians and the forcerers, and the Caldeans for to shew the King his dreames: so thei came and stode before the King.

And the King said vnto them, I haue dicamed a dreame, & my spirit was troubled to knowe the dreame.

Then spake the Caldeans to the King in the Aramites language, O King, liue for euer: shewe thy seruants thy dreame, and we shal shewe the interpretation.

And the King answered and said to the Caldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye wil not make me vnderstand the dreame with the interpretation thereof, ye shalbe drawn in picces, and your houses shalbe made a iakes.

But if ye declare the dreame and the interpretation thei of, ye shal receiue of me gifts and rewardes, and great honour: therefore shewe me the dreame and the interpretation of it.

Thei answered againe, and said, Let the King shewe his seruants the dreame, and we wil declare the interpretation thereof.

Then the King answered, and said, I knowe certainly that ye wolde gaine the time, because ye se the thing is gone from me.

And therefore the learned vsed to speake it: as the Iewish writers do to this day. This is a mite rewarde of their arrogancie (which wanted of the felues that they had the knowledge of all things) thei shoulde be prouen fooles & y^e to their perpetual shame and confusion. Here in appeared their ignorance that notwithstanding their brags, yet were thei not able to tel the dreame, except he entred them into the matter, & therefore thei wolde pretende knowledge where was but meie ignorance and so as leaders of the people, thei were worthy to dye. Chr. redeme the time.

But if ye wil not declare me the dreame, there is but one iudgement for you: for ye haue prepared lying and corrupt wordes, to speake before me til y^e time be changed: therefore tel me the dreame, that I maie knowe, if ye can declare me the interpretation thereof.

Then the Caldeans answered before the King, and said, There is no man vpon earth that can declare y^e Kings matter: yea, there is nether King nor prince nor Lord that asked suche things at an inchanter or astrologian or Caldean.

For it is a rare thing that the King requieth, & there is none other that can declare it before the King, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh.

For this cause the King was angrie and in great furie, and commanded to destroe all the wise men of Babél.

And when sentence was giuen, the wise men were slaine: and thei sought Daniél & his felowes to be put to death.

Then Daniél answered with counsel & wisdom to Arióch the Kings chief steward, which was gone forth to put to death the wise men of Babél.

Then he answered and said vnto Arióch the Kings captaine, Why is the sentence so hastie from the King? Then Arióch declared the thing to Daniél.

So Daniél went and desired the King y^e he wolde giue him leasure & that he wolde shewe the King y^e interpretation thereof.

Then Daniél went to his house, and shewed the matter to Hananiáh, Mishaél, and Azariáh his companions,

That thei shoulde beseeche the God of heauen for grace in this secret, that Daniél & his felowes shoulde not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babél.

Then was the secret reueiled vnto Daniél in a vision by night: therefore Daniél praised the God of heauen.

And Daniél answered & said, *The Name of God be praised for euer and euer: for wisdom and strength are his, Psal 113.2 & 115.18.

And he changeth the times and seasons: he taketh awaie Kings: he setteth vp Kings: he giueth wisdom vnto the wise, & vnderstanding to those that vnderstand.

He discouereth the depe & secret thigs: he knoweth what is in the darkenes, and the light dwelleth with him.

I thanke thee & praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast giuen me wisdom and strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that we desired of thee: for thou hast declared vnto vs the Kings matter.

Therefore Daniél went vnto Arióch, whome the King had ordeined to destroe the wise men of Babél: he went and said

Which declareth, y^e God wolde not haue his seruants ioyned in y^e companye of these forcerers, and astrologers, whose artes were wicked, and therefore iustly ought to dye, though y^e King did it vpon a rage, and no zeale

then anie other liuing, but onely to ſhewe the King the interpretació, and that thou mighteſt knowe y thoughts of thine heart.

31 O King, thou ſaweſt, and beholde, there was a great image: this great image whoſe glorie was ſo excellent, ſtode before thee, and the forme thereof was terrible.

32 This images head was of fine & golde, his breaſt and his armes of ſiluer, his bellie
and his thighs of braſſe,

33 His legges of yron, & his fete were parte of yron, and parte of clay.

34 Thou beheldeſt it til a ſtone was cut without hands, which ſmote the image vpon his fete, that were of yron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the yron, the clay, the braſſe, the ſiluer & the golde broken all together, and became like the chaffe of the ſommer floores, and the winde caryed them away, that no place was founde for them: and the ſtone that ſmote the image, became a great mountaine, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dreame, and we wil declare before the King y interpretació the: cof.

37 ¶ O King, thou art a King of Kings: for the God of heauen hathe giuen thee a kingdome, power, and ſtrength, & glorie.

38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beaſts of the field, and the fowles of the heauen hathe he giuen into thine hand, and hathe made thee ruler ouer them all: thou art & this head of golde.

39 And after thee ſhal riſe another kingdome, inferior to thee, of ſiluer, and another third kingdome ſhalbe of braſſe, which ſhal beare rule ouer all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdome ſhalbe ſtróg as yron: for as yron breaketh in pieces, & ſubdueth all things, and as yron bruſeth all theſe things, ſo ſhal it breake in pieces and bruſe all.

41 Where as thou ſaweſt the fete and toes, parte of potters clay, and parte of yron:
the kingdome ſhalbe & deuided, but there ſhalbe in it of the ſtrength of the yron, as thou ſaweſt the yron mixt with the claye, and earth.

42 And as the toes of the fete were parte of yron, and parte of clay, ſo ſhal the kingdome be partly ſtrong, and partly broken.

43 And where as thou ſaweſt yron mixt with clay & earth, they ſhal mingle them ſelues with y the ſede of men: but they ſhal not ioine one with another, as yron can not be mixed with clay.

44 And in the dayes of theſe Kings, ſhal the God of heauē ſet vp a kingdome, which ſhal neuer be deſtroyed: and this kingdome ſhal not be giuen to another people, but it ſhal breake, and deſtroye all theſe kingdomes, and it ſhal ſtand for euer.

45 Where as y ſaweſt, that the ſtone was cut of the mountaine without hands, and that it brake in pieces the yron, the braſſe, the clay, the ſiluer and the golde: ſo the great God hathe ſhewed the King, what me is true, and the interpretacion thereof is ſure.

46 ¶ Then the King Nebuchad-nezzár fel vpon his face, and bowed him ſelf vnto Daniél, and commanded that they ſhulde offer meat offerings, & ſwete odoures vnto him.

47 Alſo the King answered vnto Daniél, & nor considering in the meane season what Gods worde did permit d These are y two dāgerous weapons wherewith Satā sēt to fight against y childre of God, y colēt of the multitude & y crueltie of y punishment: for rhogh some feared God, yet y multitude, w consented to the wickednes, astonished thē: & here y King required not an inward colēt, but an outward gesture, that y Iewes might by litle & litle learne to forge their true religion.

1 Nebuchad-nezzár the King made an image of golde, whose height was threescore cubites, & the breadth thereof six cubites: he set it vp in the plaine of Durá, in the prouince of Babel.

2 Then Nebuchad-nezzár the King sent forth to gather together the nobles, the princes & the dukes, the iudges, the receiuers, the counsellors, the officers, & all the gouerners of the prouinces, that they shulde come to the b dedication of the image, which Nebuchad-nezzár the King had set vp.

3 So the nobles, princes, and dukes, the iudges, the receiuers, the counsellors, the officers, and all the gouerners of the prouinces were assembled vnto the dedicating of the image, that Nebuchad-nezzár the King had set vp: and they stode before the image, which Nebuchad-nezzár had set vp.

4 Then an herald cryed aloud, Be it knowē to you, o people, d nations, and langages,

5 That when ye heare the sōūd of the cornet, trūpet, harpe, sackebut, psalteries, dulcimer, and all instrumēt of musicke, ye fall downe and worship the goldē image, that Nebuchad-nezzár the King hath set vp.

6 And whosocuer falleth not downe and worshippeth, shal the same houre be cast into the middes of an hote fyrie fornace.

7 Therefore assone as all the people heard y sōūd of the cornet, trūpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, & all instrumēt of musicke, all y people, nations, & langages fel downe, and worshiped the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzár the King had set vp.

8 ¶ By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Caldeas, and gricuously accused the Iewes.

9 For they spake and said to the King Nebuchad-nezzár, O King, liue for euer.

10 Thou, o King, hast made a decre, that euerie man that shal heare the sōūd of the cornet, trumpet, harpes, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instrumēt of musicke, shal fall downe & worship the golden image, 11 And whosocuer falleth not downe, and worshippeth, that he shulde be cast into the middes of an hote fyrie fornace.

12 There are certeine Iewes whome thou hast set ouer the charge of the prouince of Babel, e Shadrách, Meshách, and Abednegó: these men, o King, haue not regarded thy commandement, nether wil they serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, that thou hast set vp.

13 ¶ Then Nebuchad-nezzár in his angre and wrath commanded that they shulde bring Shadrách, Meshách, and Abednegó: so these men were brought before the King.

14 And Nebuchad-nezzár spake, and said vnto thē, What disordr wil not you, Shadrách, Meshách, and Abednegó serue my god, nor worship the goldē image, that I haue set vp?

15 ¶ Now therefore are ye ready whē ye heare the sōūd of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instrumēt of musicke, to fall downe, & worship the image, which I haue made: for if ye worship it not, ye shalbe cast immediatly into the middes of an hote fire fornace: for who is that God, that can deliuer you out of mine hand?

16 Shadrách, Meshách, and Abednegó answered & said to the King, O Nebuchad-nezzár, we are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

17 Beholde, our God whome we serue, is able to deliuer vs frō the hote fyrie fornace, and he wil deliuer vs out of thine hand, o King.

18 But if not, be it knowen to thee, o King, y we wil not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set vp.

19 ¶ Then was Nebuchad-nezzár ful of rage, and the forme of his visage was changed against Shadrách, Meshách, & Abednegó: therefore he charged and commanded that they shulde heate the fornace at once seuen times more then it was wont to be heat.

20 And he charged the moste valiant men of warie y were in his armie, to binde Shadrách, Meshách, and Abednegó, & to cast them into the hote fyrie fornace.

21 So these men were bounde in their coates, their hosen, & their clokes, with their other garments, and cast into the middes of the hote fyrie fornace.

22 Therefore, because the Kings commandement was straite, that the furnace shulde be exceeding hote, the flame of y fyrie flew those men y brought forthe Shadrách, Meshách, e I remeth, y thei named not Daniél because he was greatly in the Kings fauour, thinking if these thre had bene destroyed, they might haue had better occasion to accuse Daniél: and this declareth that this policie of erecting this image was inuēted by y malicious flatterers, & sought nothing but y destruction of y Iewes, whome they accused of rebellio & ingratitude. f Signifying, y he wolde receiue them to grace, if they wolde now at the length obey his decre. g For they shulde haue done iniurie to God, if they shulde haue doubted in this holie cause, & therefore they say, that they are resoluēd to dye for Gods cause. h They groude on two pointes, first in the power, & prouidence of God ouer them, and secondly on their cause, w was Gods glorie, and y testi- fying of his true religiō, w their blood & so make open confession, that they wil not so muche as outwardly consent to idolatrie. i This declareth that the more, that tyrants rage, & the more witty they shewe them selues in inuēting strāge, and cruel punishments, the more is God glorified by his seruāts to whome he giueth patience and constācie to abide y crueltie of their punishment: for ether he deliuereth them frō death or els for this life giueth thē a better.

Mefhách and Abednegó.

23 And these thre men Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó fel downe bounde into the middes of the hote fyre for nace.

24 ¶ The Nebuchad-nezzár the King was astonied and rose vp in haste, & spake, and said vnto his counsellers, Did not we cast thre men bounde into the middes of the fyre? Who answered and said vnto the King, It is true, ô King.

25 And he answered, and said, Lo, I se foure men loose, walking in the middes of the fyre, and they haue no hurt, and the forme of the fourth is like the^k sonne of God.

26 Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar came nere to the mouth of the hote fyre for nace, & spake and said, Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó, the seruants of the hie God, go forthe & come hether: so Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó^l came forthe of the middes of the fyre.

27 Then the nobles, princes and dukes, and the Kings counsellers came together to se these men, because the fyre had no power ouer their bodies: for not an heere of their head was burnt, nether was their coats changed, nor any smel of fyre came vpon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzár spake and said, ^m Blessed be the God of Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó, who hathe sent his Angel, and deliuered his seruants, that put their trust in him, and haue changed the Kings commandement, & yelded their bodies rather thē they wolde serue or worship anie god, saue their owne God.

29 Therefore I make a decre, that euery people, nacion, and langage, which speake anyⁿ blasphemie against the God of Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó, shal be drawen in piéces, and their houses shal be made a iakes, because there is no god that can deliuer after this sorte.

30 Then the King promoted Shadrách, Mefhách and Abednegó in the prouince of Babél.

31 Nebuchad-nezzár King vnto all people, nations and langages, that dwell in all the^o world, Peace be multiplied vnto you:

32 I thought it good to declare the signes and wonders, that the hie God hathe wrought toward me.

33 How great are his signes, and how mighty are his wonders! His kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome, and his dominion is from generacion to generacion,

CHAP. IIII.

2 Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzár, which Daniél declareth 29 The Prophet declareth how of a proude King he shoulde become as a beast. 31 After he confesseth the power of God and is restored to his former dignitie.

1 Nebuchad-nezzár being at a rest in a mine house, and flourishing in my palace,

2 Sawe a^b dreame, which made me afraied, and the thoghtes vpon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me.

3 Therefore made I a decre, that thei shulde bring all the wise men of Babél before me, that they might declare vnto me the interpretation of the dreame.

4 So came the enchanters, the astrologians, the Caldeans and the southsayers, to whom I tolde the dreame, but^c they colde not shewe me the interpretation thereof,

5 Til at the last Daniél came before me, (whose name was^d Belteshazzár, accordig to the name of my god, which hathe the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I tolde the dreame, saying,

6 O Belteshazzár, chief of the enchanters, because I knowe, that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, & no secret troubleth thee, tel me the visions of my dreame, that I haue sene and the interpretation thereof.

7 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed. And beholde, I sawe a^f tre in the middes of the earth and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tre & strong, and the height thereof reached vnto heauen, & the sight thereof to the ends of all the earth.

9 The boughes thereof were faire and the frute thereof muche, and in it was meat for all: it made a shadowe vnder it for the beastes of the field, and the foules of the heauen dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all flesh fed of it.

10 I sawe in the visions of mine head, vpon my bed, and beholde, a^g watchman & an holy one came downe from heauen,

11 And cryed aloud, and said thus, Hewe downe the tre, and breake of his branches: shake of his leaues, and scattre his frute, that the beafts may flee from vnder it, & the foules from his branches.

12 Neuertheles leaue the stumpe of his rootes in the earth, and with a band of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his porcion be with the beastes among the grasse of the field.

13 Let his heart be changed from mans nature, & let a beastes heart be giuen vnto him, and let seuen times be passed ouer him.

14 The sentence is according to the decre of the watchmen, and according to the worde of the holy ones: the demande is made by God. h Hereby he meaneth y Nebuchad-nezzár shoulde not onely for a tyme loose his kingdome, but be like a beast. i God hath decreed this iudgement and the whole arme of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also thei desire the execution of his decre against all them that lift vp them selues against God.

a There was no trouble that might cause me to dreame, and therefore it came onely of God. b This was another dreame besides that which he sawe of the foure empires: for Daniél bothe declared what that dreame was, and what it meant: and here he onely expoundeth the dreame. c In that that he sent abroad to others who he had experience in times past he had experienced, and left Daniél who was ever ready at hand, to declare the nature of the vngodlie, & neuer seke to the seruantes of God, but for very necessity, and then they spare no flatteries. d This no doubt was a great grief to Daniél not onely to haue his name changed, but to be called by y name of a vile idole, which thing Nebuchad-nezzár did to make him forget the true religion of God. e Which also was a great grief to the Prophet to be nombred among the sorcerers & men whose practises were wicked and contrary to Gods worde. f By the tre, is signified the dignitie of a King, whome God ordeineth to bea defence for all kinde of men, & whose state is profitable for mankind. g Meaning, the Angel of God, which nether eateth nor slepeth, but is euer ready to do Gods will & is not infected with corruption but is euer holy: and in that that he cometh downe this tre, he knewe y it shoulde not be cut downe by men but by God. h Hereby he meaneth y Nebuchad-nezzár shoulde not onely for a tyme loose his kingdome, but be like a beast. i God hath decreed this iudgement and the whole arme of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also thei desire the execution of his decre against all them that lift vp them selues against God.

k For the Angels were called the Ioues of God, because of their excellencie; therefore the King called this Angel, whome God sent to comfort his in these great torments, the Ioue of God. l This comendeth their obedience vnto God that they wolde not for any feare departe out of this furnace til the tyme was appointed, as Noah remained in y Arke til the Lord called him forthe. m He was moued by y greatnes of the miracle to praise God, but his heart was not touched And here we see that miracles are not sufficient to convert men to God, but y doctrine must chiefly be adioyned, without the which there can be no faith. n If this heathen King moued by Gods Spirit, wolde not so blasphe mie vnpunished, but made a Law and set a punishment to suche transgressors, muche more ought all they that professe religion, take order that suche impie religion not, left accordig as their knowledge & charge is greater, so they suffer double punishment. o Meaning, so farre as his dominion extended. p Read Chap 344.

was answered, to the intent that liuing mé may knowe, that y^e moſte high hath the pow- er ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomeſoeuer he wil, and appointeth ouer it the moſte abieſt among men.

15 This is the dreame, that I King Nebuchad-nezzár haue ſene: therefore thou, ó Belteſhazzár, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wiſemen of my kingdome are not able to ſhewe me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the ſpirit of the holy gods is in thee.

16 ¶ Then Daniél (whoſe name was Belteſhazzár) held his ^k peace by the ſpace of one houre, and his thoghts troubled him, & the King ſpake and ſaid, Belteſhazzár, let nether the dreame, nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belteſhazzár answered and ſaid, My lord, the dreame be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof, to thine enemies.

17 The tre y^e thou ſaweſt, which was great and mightie, whoſe height reached vnto the heauen, and the ſight thereof throught all the worlde,

18 Whoſe leaues were faire & the frute thereof muche, and in it was meat for all, vnder the which the beaſts of the field dwelt, and vpon whoſe branches the foules of the heauen did ſit,

19 It is thou, ó King, y^e art great & mightie: for thy greatnes is growen, & reacheth vnto heauen, & thy dominion to the ends of the earth.

20 Where as the King ſawe a watchman, & an holy one, that came downe from heauen, and ſaid, Hewe downe the tre & deſtroy it, yet leaue the ſtump of the rootes thereof in the earth, and with a bande of yron and braſſe bnde it among the graſſe of the field, & let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his porcion be with the beaſts of the field, ⁱ til ſeuentimes paſſe ouer him,

21 This is the interpretation, ó King, and it is the decie of the moſte high, which is come vpon my lord the King,

22 That they ſhal driue thee from men, & thy dwelling ſhalbe with the beaſts of the field: they ſhal make thee to eat graſſe as y^e oxen, & they ſhal wet thee with the dewe of heauen: and ſeuentimes ſhal paſſe ouer thee, til thou knowe, that ^a the moſte high beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomeſoeuer he wil.

23 Where as they ſaid, that one ſhulde leaue the ſtump of the tre rootes, thy kingdome ſhal remaine vnto thee: after that, thou ſhalt knowe, that the heauens haue the rule.

24 Wherefore, ó King, let my counſel be acceptable vnto thee, and ^o breake of thy ſinnes by righteousnes, & thine iniquities by mercie toward the poore: lo, let there be an healing of thine errour.

25 All theſe things ſhal come vpon y^e King Nebuchad-nezzár.

26 ¶ At the end of twelue moneths, he walked in the royal palace of Babel.

27 And the King ſpake and ſaid, Is not this great Babel, that I haue buylt for the houſe of the kingdome by the might of my power, and for the honour of my maiestie?

28 While y^e worde was in the Kings mouth, a voyce came downe from heauen, ſaying, O King Nebuchad nezzár, to thee be it ſpoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee, 29 And they ſhal driue thee from men, and thy dwelling ſhalbe with the beaſts of the field: they ſhal make thee to eat graſſe, as the oxen, and ſeuentimes ſhal paſſe ouer thee, vntil thou knoweſt, that y^e moſt high beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, & giueth it vnto whomeſoeuer he wil.

30 The very ſame houre was this thing fulfilled vpon Nebuchad-nezzár, and he was driuen from men, and did eat graſſe as the oxen, and his bodie was wet with the dewe of heauen, til his heeres were growen as egles feathers and his nailes like birds clawes.

31 And at the end of theſe ^r dayes I Nebuchad-nezzár liſt vp mine eyes vnto heauen, and mine vnderſtanding was reſtored vnto me, and I gaue thanks vnto the moſte high, and I praied and honored him that liueth for euer, ^a whoſe power is an euerlaſting power, and his kingdome is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his ^r wil he worketh in the armie of heauen, & in the inhabitants of the earth: and none can ſtay his hand, nor ſay vnto him, What doeſt thou?

33 At the ſame time was mine vnderſtanding reſtored vnto me, and I returned to the honour of my kingdome: my glorie and my beautie was reſtored vnto me, and my counſellours ^r and my princes ſought vnto me, & I was eſtabliſhed in my kingdome, and my glorie was augmented toward me.

34 Now therefore I Nebuchad-nezzár praieſe, and extoll & magnifie the King of heauen, whoſe workes are all true, and his wayes iudgement, and thoſe that walke in pride, he is able to abaſe.

i Read Chap 4: 6: and this declareth, that bothe this name was odious vnto him and also that he did not vie these vile practises, because he was not among them when all were called.

King Belshazzár made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine before the thousand.
And Belshazzár while he tasted the wine, commanded to bring him the golden and siluer vessels, which his father Nebuchad-nezzár had brought from the Temple in Ierusalém, that the King and his princes, his wife, and his concubines might drinke therein.
Then were brought the goldé vessels, that were takē out of the Temple of the Lords house at Ierusalém, and the King and his princes, his wiues, and his concubines drake in them.
They drōke wine and praised the gods of golde, and of siluer, of brasē, of yron, of wood and of stone.
At the same house appeared fingers of a mans hand, which wrote ouer against the candlestick vpon the plaister of the wall of the Kings palace, & the King sawe the palme of the hand that wrote.
Then the Kings countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the ioyntes of his loines were loosed, and his knees smote one against the other.
Wherefore the King cryed loud, that they shulde bring the astrologians, the Caldeans and the soothsayers. And the King spake, and said to the wise men of Babel, Whosoever can read this writing, and declare me the interpretaciō thereof, shalbe clothed with purple, & shal haue a chaine of golde about his necke, and shalbe the third ruler in the kingdome.
Then came all the Kings wise men, but they coulde nether read the writing, nor shewe the King the interpretacion.
Then was King Belshazzár greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonished.
Now the Queene by reason of the talke of the King, and his princes came into the banquet house, and the Queene spake, and said, O King, liue for euer: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed.
There is a mā in thy kingdome, in whome is the spirit of the holie gods, and in the dayes of thy father light and vnderstanding & wisdom like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him: whome the King Nebuchad-nezzár thy father the King, I say, thy father, made chief of the enchanters, astrologians, Caldeans, and soothsayers, Because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and vnderstanding (for he did expound dreames, and declare hard sentences, and dissolued doubts) were founde in him, euen in Daniél, whome the King named Belshazzár: now let Daniél be called, and he wil declare the interpretation.

Then was Daniél brought before the King, and the King spake and said vnto Daniél, Art thou that Daniél, which art of the children of the captiuitie of Iudáh, whome my father the King brought out of Iewrie?
Now I haue heard of thee, that the spirit of the holie gods is in thee, & that light and vnderstanding and excellent wisdom is found in thee.
Now therefore wisemen, & astrologians haue bene brought before me, that they shulde read this writing, and shewe me the interpretation thereof: but they coulde not declare the interpretation of the thing.
Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest shewe interpretations, and dissolue doubts: now if thou canst read the writing, & shewe me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, & shalt haue a chaine of golde about thy necke, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdome.
Then Daniél answered, and said before the King, Kepe thy rewardes to thy self, & giue thy giftes to another: yet I wil read the writing vnto the King and shewe him the interpretation.
O King, heare thou, The moste high God gaue vnto Nebuchad-nezzár thy father a kingdome, and maiestie and honour and glorie.
And for the maiestie that he gaue him, all people, nations, and languages trembled, & feared before him: he put to death whome he wolde: he smote whome he wolde: whome he wolde he set vp, & whome he wolde he put downe.
But when his heart was puffed vp, and his minde hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kinglie throne, and they toke his honour from him.
And he was driuen from the sonnes of men, & his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wilde asses: they fed him with grasse like oxen, and his bodie was wet with the dewe of the heauen, til he knewe, that the moste high God bare rule ouer the kingdome of mé, and that he appointeth ouer it, whome soeuer he pleaseth.
And thou his sonne, O Belshazzár, hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all these things,
But hast lift thy self vp against the Lord of heauen, and they haue brought the vessels of his House before thee, & thou and thy princes, thy wiues and thy concubines haue drunke wine in them, and thou hast praised the gods of siluer and golde, of brasle, yron, wood and stone, which nether se, nether heare, nor vnderstand: and the God in whose hand thy breath is and all thy wayes, him hast thou not glorified.

61 After that 24 God had so long time deferred his anger, & patiently waited for this amendment. n This worde is twise writte for the certein tie of y thing: shewing, that God had more surely counted: signify- ing also that God hath appointed a terme for all king domes, & y a miserable end shal come on all that raise them selues against him

24 Then was the palme of the hand sent from him, and hath written thus writing.

25 And this is the writing that he hath written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, VPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing, MENE, God hath nobred thy kingdome, and hath finished it:

27 TEKEL, thou art wayed in the balance, and art founde to light.

28 PERES, thy kingdome is diuided, and giuen to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then at the commandement of Belshazzar they clothed Daniél with purple, and put a chaine of golde about his necke, and made a proclamacion concerning him that he shulde be the thirde ruler in the kingdome.

30 The same night was Belshazzar y King of the Caldeans slaine.

31 And Darius of the Medes toke y kingdome, being threescore and two yere olde.

CHAP. VI.

Daniél is made ruler ouer the gouernours. 1 An acte against Daniél 16 He is put into a denne of Lyons by the commandement of the King 23 He is deliuered by faith in God 24 Daniels accusers are put vnto the Lyons. 25 Darius by a decre magnifieth the God of Daniél

1 It pleased Darius to set ouer the kingdome an hundredth and twentie gouernours, which shulde be ouer y whole kingdome.

2 And ouer these, thre rulers (of whome Daniél was one) that the gouernours might giue accompts vnto them, and the King shulde haue no damage.

3 Now this Daniél was preferred aboue the rulers and gouernours, because the spirit was excellent in him, and the King thought to set him ouer the whole realme.

4 Wherefore the rulers and gouernours sought an occasion against Daniél concerning the kingdome: but they coulde finde none occasiō nor faute: for he was so faithful that there was no blame nor faute founde in him.

5 Then said these mé, We shal not finde an occasion against this Daniél, except we finde it against him concerning the Law of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and these gouernours went together to the King, and said thus vnto him, King Darius, liue for euer.

7 All the rulers of thy kingdome, the officers and gouernours, the counsellors, and dukes haue consulted together to make a decre for the King and to establish a statute, that whosoever shal aske a petition of anie god or man for thirtie dayes saue of thee, o King, he shalbe cast into the denne of Lyons.

8 Now, o King, confirme the decre, and seale the writing, that it be not changed according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore King Darius sealed the writing and the decre.

10 ¶ Now when Daniél vnderstode that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and his windowe being open in his chamber toward Ierusalém, he kneeied vpon his knees thre times a day, & prayed and praised his God, as he did afore time.

11 Then these men assembled, and founde Daniél praying, and making supplicacion vnto his God.

12 So they came, and spake vnto the King concerning the Kings decre, Hast thou not sealed the decre, that euerie man that shal make request to anie god or mā within thirtie dayes, saue to thee, o King, shalbe cast into the denne of Lyons? The King answered, and said, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and said vnto the King, This Daniél which is of the children of the captiuitie of Iudáh, regardeth not thee, o King, nor the decre, that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition thre times a day.

14 When the King heard these wordes, he was sore displeased with him self, and set his heart on Daniél, to deliuer him: and he laboured til the sunne went downe, to deliuer him.

15 Then these men assembled vnto the King, and said vnto the King, Vnderstand, o King, that the law of the Medes and Persians is, that no decre nor statute, which the King confirmeth, may be altered.

16 ¶ Then the King commanded, and they brought Daniél, and cast him into the denne of Lyons: now the King spake, and said vnto Daniél, Thy God, whome thou alway seruest, euen he wil deliuer thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and layed vpon the mouthe of the denne, and the King sealed it with his owne signet, & with the signet of his pynces, that the purpose might not be changed, concerning Daniél.

18 Then the King went vnto his palace, and remained fasting, nether were the instruments of musick brought before him, and his slepe went from him.

19 ¶ Then the King arose early in the morning, and went in all haste vnto the denne of Lyons.

d Herein is condemned the wickednes of the King, who wolde be set vp as a god, & passed not what wicked lawes he approved for the maintenance of the same
e Because he wolde not by his silence shew that he consented to this wicked decre, he set open his windowes toward Ierusalém, when he prayed: bothe to stirre vp himself with the remembrance of Gods promises to his people when they shulde pray toward that Temple, & also y others might see that he wolde nether consent in heart nor dede for these fewe dayes to anie thing that was contrary to Gods glorie.

f Thus the wicked maintenance of lawes by constancie, and avaritie, which is oft times either lightenes, or stubbernes when as the innocents thereby perish: & therefore gouernours nether ought to feare nor be ashamed to breake such.

60 Cyrus his sonne in lawe gaue him this title of honour although Cyrus in effect had y dominion 60r, not be troubled.

b This heathen King preferred Daniél a stranger to all his nobles & familiars, because the graces of God were more excellent in him then in others

c Thus the wicked can not abide the graces of God in others, but seek by all occasions to deface them: therefore against such there is no better remedie then to walke uprightly in y feare of God, and to haue a good conscience.

20 And when he came to the denne, he cryed with a lamentable voyce vnto Daniél: & the King spake, and said to Daniél, O Daniél, the seruant of the liuing God, is not thy God (whome thou alwaie seruest) able to deliuer thee from the lions?

21 Then said Daniél vnto ^h King, O King, liue for euer.

22 My God hath sent his Angel and hath shut the lions mouthes, that they haue not hurt me: for ^h my iustice was found out be fore him: & vnto thee, ^o King, I haue done no hurte.

23 Then was the King excedding glad for him, and commadeth that they shoulde take Daniél out of the denne: so Daniél was brought out of the denne, and no mane of hurte was founde vpon him, because he ^k beleued in his God.

24 And by the commandement of the King these men which had accused Daniél, were brought, & were cast into ^h denne of lions, euē they, their children, and their wiues: and the lions had the maistrie of them, and brake all their bones a pieces, or euei they came at the grounde of the denne.

25 Afterwarde King Darius wrote, Vnto all people, nations & langages, that dwell in all the worlde: Peace be multiplied vnto you.

26 I make a decre that in all the dominion of my kingdome, men tremble and feare ^m before the God of Daniél: for he is the ⁿ liuing God, and remaineth for euer: and his kingdome shal not perish, and his dominion shal be euerlasting.

27 He rescueth and deliuereth, & he worketh signes and wonders in heauen & in earth: who hath deliuered Daniél from the power of the lyons.

28 So this Daniél prospered in ^h reigne of Darius & in ^h reigne of Cyrus of Persia.

of his head like the pure woll: his throne was like the fyrie flame, & his wheles as burning fyre.

10 A fyrie streame yssued, and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered vnto him, and ten thousand thousands stode before him: the iudgement was set, and the bookes opened.

11 Then I behelde, y because of the voyce of the presumptuous wordes, which the horne spake: I behelde, euen til the beast was slaine, and his bodie destroyed, and giuen to the burning fyre.

12 As concerning the other beastes, thei had taken awaie their dominion yet their liues were prolonged for a certeine time and season.

13 ¶ As I behelde in visions by night, beholde, a one like the Sonne of man came in the cloudes of heauen, and approached vnto the Ancient of daies, & thei brought him before him.

14 And he gaue him dominion, & honour, and a kingdome, that all people, nations and languages shulde serue him: his dominion is an euerlasting dominion, which shal neuer be taken awaie: and his kingdome shal neuer be destroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniél was troubled in my spirit, in the middes of my bodie, and the visions of mine head made me afraied.

16 Therefore I came vnto one of them that stode by, and asked him the trueth of all this: so he tolde me, and shewed me the interpretation of these things.

17 These great beastes which are foure, are foure Kings, which shal arise out of the earth,

18 And thei shal take the kingdome of the Sainctes of the moste high, and possesse the kingdome for euer, euen for euer and euer.

19 ¶ After this, I wolde knowe the trueth of the fourth beast, & was so vnlike to all the others, very feareful, whose teeth were of yron, and his nailes of brasse: which deuoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the residue vnder his fete.

20 Also to knowe of the ten hornes that were in his head, & of the other which came vp before whome thre fell, and of the horne that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumptuous things, whose loke was more stoute then his felowes.

21 I behelde, & the same horne battled against the Sainctes, yea, and preuailed against them,

22 Vntil the Ancient of daies came, and iudgement was giuen to the Sainctes of the moste high: and the time approached, that the Sainctes possessed the kingdome.

23 The he said, The fourth beast shal be the fourth kingdome in the earth, which shal be vnlike to all the kingdomes, and shal deuoure the whole earth, and shal treade it downe and breake it in pieces.

24 And the ten hornes out of this kingdome are ten Kings that shal rise: & another shal rise after the, and he shal be vnlike to the first, and he shal subdue thre Kings,

25 And shal speake wordes against the moste high, & shal consume the Sainctes of the moste high, & thinke y he maie change times and lawes, and thei shal be giuen into his hand, vntil a time, and times & the deuiding of time.

26 But the iudgement shal sit, & thei shal take awaie his dominion, to consume and destroye it vnto the end.

27 And the kingdome, and dominion, and the greatnes of the kingdome vnder y whole heauen shal be giuen to the holie people of the moste high, whose kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome & all powers shal serue and obeie him.

28 Euen this is the end of the matter, I Daniél had manie cogitations which troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

A vision of a battel betwene a ramme and a goat.
20 The understanding of the vision.

1 IN the thirde yere of the reigne of King Belshazzar, a vision appeared vnto me, euen vnto me Daniél, a after that which appeared vnto me at the first.

2 And I sawe in a vision, & when I sawe it, I was in the palace of Shushán, which is in the prouince of Elám, & in a vision mea After the general vision, he cometh to certaine particular visions: as touching y destruction of the monarchies of the Persians, and Macedonians: for the ruine of the Babylonians was at hand, and also he had sufficiently spoken thereof. b That is, of Persia.

a That is, an infinite number of Angels, & were ready to execute his commandement.

x This is ment of the first coming of Christ when as y will of God was plainly reueiled by his Gospel.

y Meaning, y he was ashamed, when he sawe these Emperours in such dignities, & pride, & so suddenly destroyed at the coming of Christ when this fourth monarchie was subiect to men of other nations.

z As the thre former monarchies had an end at the time that God appointed, although thei flourished for a time, so shal this fourth haue & they that patiently abide Gods appointment, shal inioye the promises.

a Which is ment of Christ who had not yet taken vpon him mans nature, neither was the sonne of David according to y flesh, as he was afterwards: but appeared then in a figure, and shal in y cloudes. b That is, being separate from the common sorte of men by manifeste signes of his diuinitie.

b To wit, when he ascended into the heauen, and his diuine maiestie appeared, and all power was giuen vnto him in respect of that that he was our Mediator.

c This is ment of the beginning of Christs kingdome when God the Father gaue vnto him all dominion, as to the Mediator, to the intent that he shulde gouerne here his Church in earth continually til the time that he brought the to eternal life.

d Through the stragones of the vision. e Meaning, of the Angels, as ver 10. f Because Abraham was appointed heire of all y worlde. g That is, in him all the faithful, therefore y kingdome thereof is theirs by right, which these foure beastes or tyrants shulde invade, and usurpe vntil the worlde were restored by Christ: and this was to confirme them that were in troubles, that their afflictions shulde haue an end at length.

h That is, of the moste he things, because God hath chosen them out of this worlde, y they shulde loke vp to the heauens, whereon all their hope dependeth. i For the other thre monarchies were gouerned by a King, and the Romain empire by Consuls: the Romans changed their gouernours yerely, & the other monarchies retained them for terme of life: also the Romans were the strongest of all the other, and were neuer quiet among them selues. Read ver 7.

I Which was Antiochus E-thought I was by the riuer of Vlái.

3 Then I looked vp and sawe, and beholde, there stode before the riuer a ramme, which had two hornes: and these two hornes were hie: but one was hier then another, & the hiest came vp last.

4 I sawe the ram pushing against y West and against the North, and against the South: so that no beastes might stande before him, nor colde deliuer out of his hand, but he did what he listed, and became great.

5 And as I considered, beholde, a goat came from the West ouer the whole earth, & touched not the ground: & this goat had an horne that appeared betwene his eyes.

6 And he came vnto the ram that had the two hornes, whome I had sene standing by the riuer, and ranne vnto him in his fierce rage.

7 And I sawe him come vnto the ramme, & being moued against him, he smote the ramme, and brake his two hornes: & there was no power in the ramme to stand against him, but he cast him downe to the groude, and stamped vpon him, & there was none that colde deliuer the ramme out of his power.

8 Therefore y goat waxed exceedig great, and when he was at the strongest, his great horne was broken: and for it came vp foure that appeared towarde the foure windes of the heauen.

9 And out of one of them came forth a litle horne, which waxed very great towarde the South, and towarde the East, and towarde the pleasant land.

10 Yea, it grewe vp vnto the hoste of heauen, and it cast downe some of the hoste, & of the starres to the grounde, and trode vpon them,

11 And extolled him self against the prince of the hoste from whome the daile sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his Sanctuarie was cast downe.

12 And a time shal be giue him ouer the daile sacrifice for the iniquities: & it shal cast downe the trueth to the grounde, & thus shal it do, and prosper.

13 Then I heard one of the Sainctes speaking, & one of y Sainctes spake vnto a cer-teine one, saying, How long shal endure the vision of the daile sacrifice, and the iniquitie of the desolation to tread bothe the Sanctuarie and the armie vnder fote?

14 And he answered me, Vnto the euening and the morning, two thousand and thre hundredth: then shal the Sanctuarie be clenfed.

15 ¶ Now when I Daniél had sene the vision, and sought for the meaning, beholde, there stode before me like the similitude of a man.

16 And I heard a mans voyce betwene the bankes of Vlái, which called and said, Gabriél, make this man to vnderstand the vision.

17 So he came where I stode: and when he came, I was afraied, and fel vpon my face: but he said vnto me, Vnderstand, o sonne of man: for in the last time shal be the vision.

18 Now as he was speaking vnto me, I being a slepe fel on my face to the grounde: but he touched me, and set me vp in my place.

19 And he said, Beholde, I wil shewe thee what shal be in the last wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it shal come.

20 The ramme which thou sawest hauing two hornes, are the Kings of the Medes & Persians.

21 And the goat is the King of Grecia, & the great horne that is betwene his eyes, is the first King.

22 And that that is broken, and foure stode vp for it, are foure kingdomes, which shal stand vp of that nacion, but not in his strength.

23 And in the end of their kingdome, when the rebellious shal be consumed, a King of fierce countenance, and vnderstanding darke sentences, shal stand vp.

24 And his power shal be mightie, but not in his strength: and he shal destroe wonderfully, & shal prosper, and practise, and shal destroe the mightie, and the holy people.

25 And through his policie also, he shal cause craft to prosper in his hand, and he shal extoll him self in his heart, and by peace shal destroy many; he shal also stand vp against the prince of princes, but he shal be broken downe without hand.

26 And the vision of the euening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therefore seale thou vp the vision, for it shal be after many daies.

27 And I Daniél was stricken & sicke a certeine daies: but when I rose vp, I did the Kings busines, and I was astonished at the vision, but none vnderstode it.

CHAP. IX.

Daniél desireth to haue that performed of God, which he had promised concerning the returne of the people from their banishment in Babylon 5 A true confession 20 Daniels prayer is heard 21 Gabriel the Angel expoundeth vnto him the vision of the seuentie weekes 24 The anointing of Christ. 25 The burying againe of Ierusalém. 26 The death of Christ.

IN the first yere of Darius the sonne of Ahasuerus, of the sede of the Medes, which was made King ouer the realme of the Caldeans,

2 Euen in the first yere of his reigne, I Daniél vnderstode by bookes the nombre of the yeres, whereof the Lord had spoken vnto Ieremiáh the Prophet, that he wolde accomplish seuentie yeres in the desolation of Ierusalém.

3 And I turned my face vnto the Lord God, and fought by praier and supplications with fasting & sackecloth & ashes.

4 And I praied vnto the Lord my God, & made my confession, saying, Oh Lord God, which art great and feareful, and kepest couenant and mercie toward them which loue thee, & toward them which kepe thy commandements,

5 We haue sinned, & haue committed iniquitie & haue done wickedly, yea, we haue rebelled, and haue departed from thy precepts, and from thy iudgements.

6 For we wolde not obei thy seruants the Prophetes, which spake in thy Name to our Kings, to our princes, & to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, righteousness belongeth vnto thee, and vnto vs open shame, as appeareth this day vnto euery man of Iudah, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalém: yea, vnto all Israel, both nere and farre of, though all the countreys, whether thou hast driuen them, because of their offenses, that they haue committed against thee.

8 O Lord, vnto vs appertaineth open shame, to our Kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we haue sinned against thee.

9 Yet compassion and forgiuenes is in the Lord our God, albeit we haue rebelled against him.

10 For we haue not obeied thy voice of the Lord our God, to walke in his lawes, which he had laid before vs by the ministerie of his seruants the Prophetes.

11 Yea, all Israel haue transgressed thy Lawe, and are turned backe, and haue not heard thy voice: therefore the curse is powred vpon vs, & the othe that is written in the lawe of Moses the seruant of God, because we haue sinned against him.

12 And he hath confirmed his wordes, which he spake against vs, and against our iudges that iudged vs, by bringing vpon vs a great plague: for vnder the whole heauen hath not bene the like, as hath bene brought vpon Ierusalém.

13 All this plague is come vpon vs, as it is written in the Lawe of Moses: yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God, that we might turne from our iniquities and vnderstand thy trueth.

14 Therefore hath the Lord made readie the plague, and brought it vpon vs: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his workes which he doeth: for we wolde not heare his voice.

15 * And now, O Lord our God, that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mightie hand, and hast gotten thee renoume, as appeareth this day, we haue sinned, we haue done wickedly.

16 O Lord, according to all thy righteousness, I beseeche thee, let thine angre and thy wrath be turned away from thy citie Ierusalém thine holy Mountaine: for because of our sinnes, & for the iniquities of our fathers, Ierusalém and thy people are a reproche to all that are about vs.

17 Now therefore, O our God, heare the prayer of thy seruant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to shine vpon thy Sanctuarie, that lyeth waste for the Lords sake.

18 O my God, encline thine eare and heare: open thine cies, and beholde our desolations, and the citie whereupon thy Name is called: for we do not present our supplications before thee for our owne righteousness, but for thy great tendre mercies.

19 O Lord, heare, O Lord forgiue, O Lord consider, and do it: differre not, for thine owne sake, O my God: for thy Name is called vpon thy citie, and vpon thy people.

20 ¶ And whiles I was speaking & praying, and confessing my sinne, and the sinne of my people Israel, and did present my supplication before the Lord my God, for the holy Mountaine of my God, 21 Yea, while I was speaking in praier, euen the man *Gabriel, whome I had sene before in the vision, came flying, and touched me about the time of the euening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Daniél, I am now come forth to giue thee knowledge & vnderstanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the commandement came forth, and I am come to shewe thee, for thou art greatly beloued: therefore vnderstand the matter and consider the vision.

IN the third yere of Cyrus King of Perſia, a thing was reueiled vnto Daniél (whoſe name was called Belſhezzár) and the worde was true, but the time appointed was long, and he vnderſtoode the thing, & had vnderſtanding of the viſion.
At the ſame time, I Daniél was in heauines for three weekes of daies.
I ate no pleaſant bread, nether came fleſh, nor wine in my mouth, nether did I anoint my ſelf at all, til three weekes of daies were fulfilled.

and his face (to loke vpon) like the lighting, and his eyes as lampes of fyre, and his armes and his fete were like in colour to poliſhed braſſe, and the voyce of his wordes was like the voyce of a multitude.

7 And I Daniél alone ſawe the viſion: for the me that were with me, ſawe not the viſion: but a great feare fell vpon them, ſo that they fled away and hid them ſelues.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and ſawe this great viſion, & there remained no ſtrength in me: for my ſtrength was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no power.

9 Yet heard I the voyce of his wordes: and when I heard the voyce of his wordes, I ſlept on my face: and my face was toward the ground.

10 And beholde, an hand touched me, which ſet me vp vpon my knees and vpon the palmes of mine hands,

11 And he ſaid vnto me, O Daniél, a man greatly beloued, vnderſtand the wordes that I ſpeake vnto thee, and ſtand in thy place: for vnto thee am I now ſent. And when he had ſaid this worde vnto me, I ſtoode trembling.

12 Then ſaid he vnto me, Feare not, Daniél: for from the firſt daye that thou diſdeſt ſet thine heart to vnderſtand, and to humbly thy ſelf before thy God, thy wordes were heard, and I am come for thy wordes.

13 But the prince of the kingdome of Perſia withſtoode me one and twentie dayes: but lo, Michaél one of the chief princes, came to helpe me, & I remained there by the Kings of Perſia.

14 Now I am come to ſhewe thee what ſhal come to thy people in the latter dayes: for yet the viſion is for manie daies.

15 And when he ſpake theſe wordes vnto me, I ſet my face toward the ground, & helde my tongue.

16 And beholde, one like the ſimilitude of the ſonnes of man touched my lippes: then I opened my mouth, and ſpake, and ſaid vnto him that ſtoode before me, O my Lord, by the viſion my ſorowes are returned vpon me, and I haue retained no ſtrength.

17 For how can the ſeruāt of this my Lord talke with my Lord being ſuche one? for as for me, ſtraight way there remained no ſtrength in me, nether is there breth left in me.

CHAP. XI.

A prophetic of the kingdomes, which shoulde be enemies to the Church of God, as of Persia, 3 Of Grecia, 5 Of Egypte, 28 Of Syria, 36 And of the Remaines

Also I, in the first yere of Darius of the Medes, euen I stood to encourage and to strengthen him.

And now wil I shewe thee the trueth. Be-holde, there shal stand vp yet three Kings in Persia, and the fourth shalbe farre richer then they all: and by his strength, & by his riches he shal stur vp all against the realme of Grecia.

But a mightie King shal stand vp, that shal rule with great dominion, and do according to his pleasure.

And when he shal stand vp, his kingdome shalbe broken, and shalbe deu-ided towarde the foure windes of heauen: & not to his posteritie, nor according to his dominion, which he ruled: for his kingdome shalbe pluckt vp, euen to be for others besides those.

And the King of the South shalbe mightie, and one of his princes, and shal preuaile against him, and beare rule: his dominion shalbe a great dominion.

And in the end of yeres they shalbe ioyned together: for the Kings daughter of the South shal come to the King of the North to make an agreement, but she shal not retein the power of the arme, nether shal he continue, nor his arme: but she shalbe deliuered to death, and thei that brought her, and he that begate her, & he that comforted her in these times.

But out of the budde of her rootes shal one stand vp in his stead, which shal come with an armie, and shal entre into the forteresse of the King of the North, and do with them as he list, and shal preuaile,

And shal also carye captiues into Egypt their gods with their molten images, and with their precious vessels of siluer and of golde, and he shal continue a mo yeres then the King of the North.

So the King of the South shal come into his kingdome, & shal returne into his owne land.

Wherefore his sonnes shalbe stirred vp, and shal assemble a mightie great armie: and one shal come, and ouerflowe, & passe through: then shal he returne, and be stirred vp at his forteresse.

And the King of the South shalbe an-grie, and shal come forthe, and fight with him, euen with the King of the North: for he shal set forthe a great multitude, and the multitude shalbe giuen into his hand.

Then the multitude shalbe proude, and their heart shalbe lifted vp: for he shal cast downe thousands: but he shal not stil preuaile.

For the King of the North shal retur-ne, and shal set forthe a greater multitude then afore, and shal come forthe (after cer-tein yeres) with a mightie armie, & gear riches.

And at the same time there shal manie stand vp against the King of the South:
also the rebellious children of thy people shal exalte them selues to establish the vision, but they shal fall.

So the King of the North shal come, and cast vp a mounte, & take the strong citie:
and the armes of the South shal not resist, nether his chosen people, nether shal there be anie strength to withstand.

But he that shal come, shal do vnto him as he list, and none shal stand against him:
& he shal stand in the pleasant land, which by his hand shalbe consumed.

Againe he shal set his face to enter with the power of his whole kingdome, & his confederates with him: thus shal he do, and he shal giue him the daughter of women, to destroye her: but she shal not stande on his side, nether be for him.

meat, shal destroy him. & his armie shal ouerflowe: & many shal fall, & be slaine.
27 And bothe these Kings hearts shalbe to do mischief, & they shal talke of disceite at one table: but it shal not auaille: for yet the end shalbe at the time appointed.
28 Then shal he returne into his land with great suostice: for his heart shalbe agaiſt the holie couenant: so shal he do and retur-ne to his owne land.
29 At the time appointed he shal returne, and come toward the South: but the last shal not be as the first.
30 For the shippes of Chittim shal come against him: therefore he shalbe sorie and returne, and fret against the holie couenant: so shal he do, he shal euen returne & haue intelligence with them that forsake the holie couenant.

31 And armes shal stand on his parte, and thei shal pollute the Sāctuarie of strēgth, & shal take away the dailie sacrifice, & they shal set vp the abominable defoliation.
32 And suche as wickedly breake the couenant, shal he cause to sinne by flatterie: but the people that do knowe then God, shal preuaile and prosper.
33 And they that vnderstand among the people, shal instruct many: yet they shal fall by sworde, and by flame, by captiuitie and by spoile many dayes.
34 Now whē they shal fall, they shal be hol-pen with a litle helpe: but many shal cleaue vnto them & faignedly.
35 And some of the of vnderstanding shal fall to trye them, and to purge, & to make them white, til the time be out: for there is a time appointed.
36 And the King shal do what him list: he shal exalte him self, & magnifie him self against all, that is God, & shal speake mar-ueilous things against y^e God of gods, & shal prosper, til y^e wrath be accōplished:
for the determination is made.
37 Nether shal he regarde the God of his fathers, nor the desires of women, nor care for any God: for he shal magnifie him self aboue all.
38 But in his place shal he honour the god
Mauzzim, & the god whome his fathers knewe not, shal he honour with golde and with siluer, and with precious stones, and pleasant things.
39 Thus shal he do in the holdes of Mauzim with a strange god whome he shal acknowledge: he shal increase his glorie, and shal cause them to rule ouer many, & shal diuide the land for gaine.
40 And at the end of time shal the King of the South push at him, and the King of the North shal come against him like a whirle winde with charets, & with horsemen, and with many shippes, and he shal entre into the countreys, & shal ouerflowe and passe through.

Chap xii.
^a The Angel here warneth two things: first ³ the Church shalbe in great affliction & trouble at Christs coming, and next that God wil send his Angel to deliver it, whome here he calleth Michaël, meaning Christ, & is published by ³ Gospel b Meaning all shal rise at ³ general resurrection, & thing he here nameth, because ³ faithful shalbe have euer their respect to ³ for in ³ earth there shalbe no sure comfort c Who have kept the true feare of God & his religion d He chiefly meaneth the ministers of Gods worde, & next, all the faithful which instruct ³ ignorant, and bring them to the true knowledge of God e Though the moste parte despise this prophesie, yet kepe thou it sure and esteeme it as a treasure. f Til the time that God hath appointed for the full reuelation of these things: and then many shal runne to and fro to searche the knowledge of these mysteries, which things they obtaine now by the light of the Gospel

He shal entre also into the pleasant lād, & many countres shalbe ouerthrowen: but these shal escape out of his hād, ^{enē} Edō & Moāb, & the chief of ³ childre of Ammō. He shal stretch forth his hāds also vpo the countiers, and the land of Egypt shal not escape.

But he shal haue power ouer ³ treasures of gold & of siluer, & ouer all ³ precious things of Egypt, & of the Lybians, and of the blacke Mores where he shal passe.

But the tidings out of the East and the North shal trouble hi: therefore he shal go forth with great wrath to destroy & roote out many.

And he shal plante ³ tabernacle of his palace betwene ³ seas in the glorious and holie mountaine, yet he shal come to his end, & none shal helpe him.

CHAP. XII.

Of the deliuerance of the Church by Christ.

And at that time shal Michaël stand vp, the great prince, which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shalbe a time of trouble, suche as neuer was since there began to be a nation vnto that same time: & at that time thy people shalbe deliuered, euerie one that shal be founde written in the boke.

And many of the that slepe in the dust of ³ earth, shal awake, some to euerlasting life, & some to shame & perpetual cōtēpt.

And thei that be wise, shal shine, as the brightness of the firmament: & they that turne many to righteousness, shal shine as the stāres, for euer and euer.

But thou, o Daniël, shut vp the wordes, and seale the boke til the end of the time: many shal runne to and fro, & knowledge shalbe increased.

¶ Then I Daniël looked, and beholde, there stode other two, the one on this side of the brinke of the riuer, and the other on that side of the brinke of the riuer.

^g Which was Tygris.

And ^{or} said vnto the mā clothed in linnen, which was vpon the waters of the riuer, When shalbe the end of these wōders?

And I heard the man clothed in linnen, which was vpon the waters of the riuer, when he held vp his right hand, & his left hand vnto heauen, and sware by him that liueth for euer, that it shal tarie for a time, two times & an halfe: and when he shal haue accomplished to scatter the power of the holie people, all these things shalbe finished.

^h Which was as it were a double othe & did ³ more cōfirme the thing i Meaning, a long time, a longer time, & at length a short time: signifyng that their troubles shulde haue an end.

¶ Then I heard it, but I vnderstode it not: then said I, O my Lord, what shal be the end of these things?

^k When the Church shalbe scattered & diminished in suche sorte as it shal seme to haue no power l Fro the time that Christ by his sacrifice shal take away ³ sacrifice & ceremonies of ³ Law. m Signifying that the time shalbe long of Christs secōde coming, and yet the children of God ought not to be discouraged, though it be deferred

And he said, Go thy way, Daniël: for the wordes are closed vp, and sealed, til the end of the time.

Many shalbe purified, made white, and tried: but the wicked shal do wickedly, & none of the wicked shal haue vnderstanding: but the wise shal vnderstand.

And from the time that the dailie sacrifice shalbe taken away, and the abominable desolation set vp, there shalbe a thousand, two hundred and ninetie dayes.

Blessed is he that waiteth and commeth to the thousand, thre hundred and a five and thirtie dayes.

But go thou thy way til the end be: for thou shalt rest and stand vp in thy lot, at the end of the dayes.

ⁿ In this number he addeth a moneth and an halfe to the former nōber, signifyng ³ le is not in mā to appoint the time

me of Christs coming, but ³ they are blessed that paciently abide his appearing o The Angel warneth the Prophet paciently to abide, til the time appointed come, signifyng that he shulde departe this life, and rise againe with the elect, when God had sufficiently bumbled & purged his Church

HOSEA.

HOSEA.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that the ten tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked and subtil counsel of Iero-boam the sonne of Nebat, and in steede of his true seruice commanded by his worde worship- ped him according to their owne fantasies and traditions of men, giuing them selues to moste vile idolatrie and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them Prophetes to call them to repentan- ce: but they grewe euer worse and worse, and stil abused Gods benefites. Therefore now when their prosperitie was at the highest vnder Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites: (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Iudah) to cōdemne them of their ingratitude: and where as they thought them selues to be greatly in the fauour of God, and to be his people, the Prophet calleth them bastards and children borne in adulterie: and therefore sheweth them that God wolde take away their kingdome, and giue them to the Assyrians to be led away captiues. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seuentie yeres, though they remained stil in their vices & wickednes, & derided the Prophetes, & contemned Gods iudgements. And because they shulde nether be discouraged with threatnings onely, nor yet flatter them selues by the sweetenes of Gods promises, he setteth before them the two principal parties of the Law, which are the promes of saluation, and the doctrine of life: for the first parte he directeth the faithfull to Messiah, by whome onely they shulde haue true deliuerance: and for the seconde, he vseth threat- nings and menace: to bring them from their wicked manners and vices, & thus is the chief scope of all the Prophetes, ether by Gods promises to allure them to be godlie, els by threatnings of his iudgements to feare them frō vice: & albeit that the whole Law containe these two pointes, yet the Pro- phetes morouer note peculiarly bothe the time of Gods iudgements and the maner.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Hosea prophesied. 2 The idolatrie of the people. 3 The calling of the Gentiles. 4 Christ is the head of all people.

^a Called also Azariah, who being a lepre was deposed from his kingdome. ^b So y it may be gathered by the reigne of these foure Kings, that he preached aboue thre score yere

^c That is, one that of long ti me hath accustom- ed to play the har- lot: nor that y Prophet did this thing in effect, but he sawe this in a vision, or els was commanded by God to set forth the vnder this para- ble or figure y idolatrie of y Synagogue, & of the people her children. ^d Gomer signifieth a con- sumption or corruption, & Diblaim clu- sers of figges, declaring, that they were all corrupt like rotten figges

^e Meaning, y they shulde be no more called Israelites, of the which name they boasted, be- cause Israel did preuaile with God: but that they were as bastards, & there- fore shulde be called Izreelites, that is, scattered people, alluding to Izreel, which was y chief cite of y ten tribes vnder Ahab where Iehus killed so mu- che blood. ² King 10.8 ^f I will be reuenged vpon Iehu for the blood that he shed in Izreel: for albeir God stirred him vp to execute his iudgements, yet he did them for his owne ambitio, & not for the glorie of God, as the end de- clared: for he buyt vp that idolatrie, which he had destroyed ^g When the measure of their iniquitie is ful, and I shal take vengeance and destroye all their policie and force ^h That is, not obtaining mercie: whereby he sig- nifieth, that Gods fauour was departed from them.

He worde of the Lord that came vnto Hosea the sonne of Beerí, in the dayes ^a of Vzziáh, Iotham, Aház, & Heze- kiah ^b Kings of Iudáh, & in y dayes of Ieroboám the sonne of Ioash King of Israél.

² At the beginning the Lord spake by Ho- seá, and the Lord said vnto Hoseá, Go, take vnto thee a wife of fornications, and children of fornicatiōs: for the land hath committed great whoredome, departing frō the Lord.

³ So he went, and toke ^d Gómer, the daugh- ter of Dibíam, which conceived and bare him a sonne.

⁴ And the Lord said vnto him, Call his na- me ^e Izreél: for yet a litle, and I wil visite the blood of Izreél vpon the house ^f of Ie- hú, and wil cause to cease the kingdome of the house of Israél.

⁵ And at that day wil I also breake y bow of Israél in the valley of Izreél.

ly ⁱ take them away.

⁷ Yet I wil haue mercie vpon the house of Iudáh, and wil ^k saue them by the Lord their God, and wil not saue thē by bowe, nor by sworde nor by battel, by horses, nor by horsemen.

⁸ Now when she had wained Lo-ruhámah, she conceived, and bare a sonne.

¹⁰ Yet the number of the ^m children of Is- raél shalbe as the sand of the sea, which cā not be measured nor tolde: and in the pla- ce where it was said vnto them, Ye are not my people, it shal be said vnto them, Ye are the sonnes of the liuing God.

ⁿ To wit, after the captiuitie of Babylon when the Iewes were restored: but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who shulde be the head bothe of the Iewes and Gentiles ^o The calamitie and destruction of Izreel shalbe so great, that to restore them shalbe as a miracle

CHAP. II.

1 The people is called to repentance. 2 He sheweth their idolatrie and threateneth them except they repent.

¹ Say vnto your ^a brethren, Ammí, and to your sisters, Ruhámah,

² Plaid with you ^b mother: plaid with her: for she is not my wife, nether am I her housband: but let her take away her forni- cations out of her sight, and her adulteries ^c from betwene her breastes.

haue mercie ^b God sheweth that the faute was not in him but in their synagogue, and their idolatries, that he forsoke them, Iñ 50.1. ^c Meaning, that their idolatrie was so great, that they were not ashamed, but boasted of it, Ezek 16.25.

ⁱ For the Isra- elites neuer re- turned, after y they were ta- ken captiues by the Assy- rians ^k For after their captiui- tie he restored the miraculou- sly by y mea- nes of Cyrus, Ezr 1.1 ^l That is, not my people ^m Because thei thought that God coulde not haue bene true in his promes except he had preferred thē, he declareth, y though they were destroyed yet the true Is- raelites, w are the sonnes of the promes, shulde be with- out number, y stand bothe of the Iewes, and the Gent- les, Rom 9.26

^a Seing, that I haue promi- sed you deliue- rance, it remain- eth that you encourage one another to im- brace the sa- me, considerig that ye are my people on whom I wil d For though this people were as an harlot for their idolatries, yet he had left them with their apparel and dowrie and certaine signes of his fauour, but if they continued still, he wolde utterly destroy them. e When I broght her out of Egypt, Exek 16, 4

f That is, barren and begotten in adultery
g Meaning the idoles which they serued & by whom they thought they had welch and abundance
h I wil punish thee that then y maist crye whether thine idoles can helpe thee, & bring thee into such streynes, that thou shalt haue no lust to play the wanton i This he speaketh of y faithfull, which are truly conuerted, and also sheweth the use and profite of Gods rods.
k This declarereth y idolaters defraude God of his honour wher they attribute his benefites to their idoles.
l Signifying y God wil take away his benefites wher man by his ingratitude doeth abuse them
m That is, all her seruice, ceremonies and inuocations wherby she worshipped her idoles.
n I wil punish her for her idolatrie
o By shewing how harlots trimme themselves to please others, he declarereth how the superstitious idolaters set a great price of their religion in decking themselves with holie dayes p By my benefites in offering her grace and mercie, euen in y place where she shal thinke her self destitute of all helpe and comfort.
q Which was a plentiful valley, and wherein they had great comfort when they came out of the wilderness, as Ios 7, 18 and is called the dore of hope, because it was a departing from death, and an entrie into life r She shal then praise God as she did when she was deliuered out of Egypt.
s That is, mine husband, knowing that I am ioyned to thee by an inuincible couenant t That is, my maker: which name was applied to their idoles.

1 Left I strippe her naked, & set her as in y day that she was borne, & make her as a wilderness, & leaue her like a drye land, and slaye her for thirst.
2 And I wil haue no pitie vpon her children: for they be the children of fornications.
3 For their mother hath played the harlot: she that conceived them, hath done shamefully: for she said, I wil go after my louers that giue me my bread & my water, my woll and my flaxe, mine oyle and my drinke.
4 Therefore beholde, I wil stoppe h thy way with thornes, & make an hedge, y she shal not finde her paths.
5 Though she followe after her louers, yet shal she not come at them: though she seke them, yet shal she not finde them: then shal she say, I wil go & returne to my first housband: for at y time was I better then now.
6 Now she did not know that I k gaue her corne, and wine, and oyle, and multiplied her siluer and golde, which they bestowed vpon Baal.
7 Therefore wil I returne, and take away my corne in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and wil recouer my woll and my flaxe lent, to couer her shame.
8 And now wil I discouer her m lewdnes in the sight of her louers, and no man shal deliuer her out of mine hand.
9 I wil also cause all her myrth to cease, her feast dayes, her newe moones, & her Sabbaths, and all her solemne feasts.
10 And I wil destroy her vines and her fig-trees, whereof she hath said, These are my rewardes that my louers haue giue me: & I wil make them as a forest, and the wilde beasts shal eat them.
11 And I wil visit vpon her the dayes of Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to the: and she decked her self with her earrings and her iewels, & she followed her louers, and forgate me, saith the Lord.
12 Therefore beholde, I wil p allure her, & bring her into the wilderness, and speake friendly vnto her.
13 And I wil giue her her vineyardes from thence, and the valley of Achor for the dore of hope, and she shal sing there as in the dayes of her youth, & as in the day when she came vp out of the land of Egypt.
14 And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me f Ishi, and shalt call me no more Baalim.

17 For I wil take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shal be no more remembred by their names.
18 And in that day wil I make a couenant for them, with the wilde beasts, and with the foule of the heauen, and with that that crepeth vpon the earth: and I wil breake the bowe, and the sworde and the bartel out of the earth, & wil make them to slepe safely.
19 And I wil marie thee vnto me for euer: yea, I wil marie thee vnto me in righteousness, and in iudgement, and in mercie and in compassion.
20 I wil euen marie thee vnto me in faithfulness, and thou shalt know the Lord.
21 And in that day I wil heare, saith the Lord, I wil euen heare the heauens, and they shal heare the earth, 22 And the earth shal heare the corne, and the wine, and the oyle, and they shal heare Izreel.
23 And I wil sowe her vnto me in the earth, and I wil haue mercie vpon her, that was not pitied, & I wil say to the which were not my people, * Thou art my people. And they shal say, Thou art my God.

u No idolatrie shal once come into their mouth, but they shal serue me purely according to my worde x Meaning, y he wil so blese them that all creatures shal fauour them.

y With a couenant that neuer shal be broken z Then shal the heauen desire raine for y earth which shal bring forth the for the vse of man

Rom 9, 15.
1 Pet. 2, 10.

CHAP. III.

1 The Iewes shalbe cast off for their idolatrie. s Afterwarde they shal returne to the Lord.

1 Then said the Lord to me, a Go yet, and loue a woman (beloued of her husband, and was an harlot) according to the loue of the Lord toward the childre of Israell: yet they looked to other gods, & bloued the wine bottels.
2 So I bought her to me for fiftene pieces of siluer, and for an homer of barley and an halfe homer of barley.
3 And I said vnto her, Thou shalt abide with d me manie dayes: thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt be to none other man, and I wil be so vnto thee.
4 For the children of Israell shal e remaine manie dayes without a King and without a prince, and without an offering, & without an image, & without an Ephod and without Teraphim.
5 Afterwarde shal the children of Israell conuert, and seke the Lord their God, and Dauid their King, & shal feare the Lord, and his goodnes in the latter dayes.

a Herein the Prophet representeth y person of God, which loued his Church before he called her, & did not withdrawe the same when she gaue her selfe to idoles.
b That is, gaue them selues wholly to pleasures, and colde not take vp, as they y are giuen to drunkenness.
c Yet I loued her & payed a small portion for her, lest she perceiue the greatness of my loue, shulde haue abused me and not bene vnder iustice for fiftene pieces of siluer were but half the price of a slave, Exod. 21, 32.

d I wil erie thee a long time as in thy widowehode whether thou wilt be mine or no e Meaning, not only all the time of their captiuitie, but also vnto Christ.
f That is, they shulde neither haue pollicie nor religion, and their idoles also wherein they put their confidence, shulde be destroyed.
g This is ment of Christs kingdome, which was promised vnto Dauid to be eternal, Psal 72, 38

CHAP. IIII.

A complaint against the people, and the Priests of Israell.

1 Heare

^a Because the people wolde not obey the admonitions of the Prophet, he curreth the before the iudgement seat of God, against whome they chiefly offended, Isa 7, 12 zech 12, 10
^b In euery place appeareth a liberite to moſte heinous vices, so y^e one followeth in y^e necke of another
^c Asthough he wolde say, y^e it were in vaine to rebuke the: for no mā can abide it: yea, they wil speake against the Prophetes and Priests whose office it is chiefly to rebuke them
^d Ye shal perishe all together: y^e one, because he wolde not obeie, & the other because he wolde not admonish
^e That is, the Synagogue wherein thou boasteſt
^f That is, the Priests shal be cast of because, y^e for lacke of knowledge, they are not able to execute their charge, and v^e strait orders, Deu 33, 3 malach 2, 7
^g Meaning, y^e whole bodie of the people, which were wearie with hearing the worde of God ^h The more I was beneficial vnto the ⁱ To wit, the Priests seke to eat y^e peoples offrits & flatter them in their finnes.
^k Signifying, that as they haue sinned together, so shal they be punished together
^l Shewing, that their wickednes shal be punished on all sort: for though they thinke by the multitude of wises to haue many childre, yet they shal be deceived of their hope
^m In giuing them selues to pleasures, thei become like brute beasts. n Thus he speaketh by derision in calling them his people, which now for their finnes they were not: for they sought helpe of stockes and sickes
^o They are caried away with a rage
^p Because they take away Gods honour, and giue it to idoles, therefore he wil giue them vp to their lustes, that they shal dishonour their owne bodies, Rom 1, 28
^q I wil not correct your shame to bring you to amendement, but let you runne headlong to your owne damnation.

HEare the worde of the Lord, ye children of Israël: for the Lord^a hathe a cōtrouerſie with y^e inhabitants of the lād because there is no trueth, nor mercie nor knowledge of God in the land.

² By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring they breake out, and blood toucheth blood.

⁴ Yet let none rebuke, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the Priest.

⁵ Therefore shalt thou fall in the^d day, and the Prophet shal fall with thee in y^e night, and I wil destroye thy^e mother.

⁶ My people are destroyed for lacke of knowledge: because^f thou hast refused knowledge, I wil also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to me: and seing^g thou hast forgotten the Law of thy God, I wil also forget thy children.

⁷ As they were^h increased, so they sinned against me: therefore wil I change their glorie into shame.

⁸ They eat vp the finnes of my people, & lift vp their mindes in their iniquitie.

⁹ And there shalbe like people, like^k Priest: for I wil visit their wayes vpon them, & rewarde them their dedes.

¹⁰ For they shal eat, and not haue ynough: they shal^l commit adulterie, and shal not increase, because they haue left of to take hede to the Lord.

¹¹ Whoredome, and wine, and newe wine take away their heart.

¹² My^a people aske counsell at their stockes, and their staffe teacheth them: for the^o spirit of fornications hathe caused them to erre, and they haue gone a whoring from vnder their God.

¹⁵ Though thou, Israël, playe the harlot, yet let not Iudáh sinne: come not ye vnto Gilgál, nether goye vp to^r Beth-áuen, nor sweare, The Lord liueth.

¹⁶ For Israël is rebellious as an vnrule heifer. Now the Lord wil fede them as a^u lambe in a large place.

¹⁷ Ephráim is ioyned to idoles: let him alone.

¹⁸ Their drunkennes stinketh: they haue committed whoredome: their rulers loue to say with shame, Bring ye.

¹⁹ The winde hathe^v bounde the vp in her wings, and they shalbe ashamed of their sacrifices.

²⁰ The house of God, Beth-áuen, that is, the house of iniquitie, because of their abominations set vp there, signifying that no place is holie where God is not purely worshipped. ^u God wil so disperse them that they shal not remaine in any certayne place ^x They are so impudent in receiuing bribes, that they wil commande men to bring them vnto them. ^y To carie them suddenly away.

¹ Against the Priests and rulers of Israël ² The helpe of man is in vaine.

² Yet they were profounde, to decline to slaughter, though I haue bene a^c rebuker of them all.

³ I knowe^d Ephráim, and Israël is not hid from me: for now, o Ephráim thou art become an harlot, & Israël is defiled.

⁴ They wil not giue their mindes to turne vnto their God: for y^e spirit of fornication is in the middes of them, & they haue not knowen the Lord.

⁵ And the pride of Israël doeth testifie to his face, therefore shal Israël and Ephráim fall in their iniquitie: Iudáh also shal fall with them.

⁶ They shal go with their shepe, and with their bullockes to seke the Lord: but they shal not finde him: for he hathe withdrawé him self from them.

⁷ They haue^t trespassed against the Lord: for they haue begotten^f strange children: now shal^s a moneth deuoure them w^h their porcions.

⁸ Blowe ye the trumpet in Gibeáh, & the shame in Ramáh: crye out at Beth-áuen, after thee, o^h Benjamin.

⁹ Ephráim shalbe desolate in y^e day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israël haue I caused to¹ knowe the trueth.

¹⁰ The princes of Iudáh were like the^e that remove the bondes: therefore wil I powre out my wrath vpon them like water.

¹¹ Ephráim is oppressed, & broken in iudgement, because he willingly walked after the^l commandement.

2 And they consider not in their hearts, ^{that} I remeber all their wickednes: now their owne inuencions haue beset them about: they are in my sight.
3 They make y^e ^b King glad with their wickednes, and the princes with their lies.
4 Thei are all adulterers, & as a verie coué heated by the baker, which ceaseth fro raising vp, & from kneding the dowe vntil it be leauened.
5 ^{Thus} the day of our King: the princes haue made him sicke with flagons of wine: he stretcheth out his hand to scornors.
6 For thei haue made readie their heart like an ouen whiles they lie in waite: their baker slepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fyre.
7 They are all hote as an ouen, and haue deuoured their Iudges: all their Kígs are fallen: there is none among them that calleth vnto me.

10 And the pride of Israél testifieth to his face, and they do not returne to the Lord their God, nor seke him for all this.
11 Ephráim also is like a dowe deceiued, without ^h heart: they call to Egypt: they go to Affhúr.
12 But whé they shal go, I wil spred my net vpon them, & drawe them downe as the fowles of the heauen: I wil chastise the as their congregation hath heard.

a God incourageth the Prophet to signifie the speedie coming of the enemy against Israel, which was once the people of God. b They shall cry like hypocrites, but not from the heart, as their deeds declare. c That is, Ieroboam, by whom they fought the ir owne libertie, and not to obey my will.

d That is, vpright iudgement, and godlie life. e Meaning, the calfe was invented by the selues, and of their fathers in the wilderness. f Shewing that their religion hath but a shewe, and in it self is but vanity.

g They must cease but runne to and fro so seke helpe. h That is, for the tribute to the King and the princes shall lay vpon them: which means the Lord visit to bring them to repentance. i Thus the idolaters counte the worde of God as strage in respect of their owne inventions. k Saying that they offer it to the Lord, but he accepteth no seruice, & he him self hath not appointed.

Chap IX
a For though all other people shulde escape, yet thou shalt be punished. b Thou hast committed idolatrie in hope of reward, & to haue thy barnes filled. Iere 44.17. as an harlot that had rather liue by playng, & whore then to be intertained of her owne husband. c These outward things y thou seest, shall be taken from thee.

1 SEt the trumpet to thy^a mouth: ^bhe shall come as an eagle against the House of the Lord, because they haue transgressed my couenant, & trespassed against my Law.

2 Israel shall^b cry vnto me, My God, we knowe thee.

3 Israel hath cast of the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him.

4 They haue set vp a^c King, but not by me: they haue made princes, and I knewe it not: of their siluer and their golde haue they made them idoles: therefore shall they be destroyed.

5 Thy calfe, o Samaria, hath cast thee off: mine anger is kindled against them: how long wil they be without^d innocencie!

6 For it came euen from Israel: the workeman made it, therefore it is not God: but the calfe of Samaria shall be broken in pieces.

7 For they haue^e sowne the winde, & they shall reape the whirlwinde: it hath no stalk: the budde shall bring forth no meale: if so be it bring forth, the strangers shall deuoure it.

8 Israel is deuoured, now shall they be among the Gentiles as a vessel wherein^f no pleasure.

9 For they are gone vp to Asshur: they are as a wilde ass alone by him self: Ephraim hath hired louers.

10 Yet though they haue hired among the nations, now wil I gather them, and they shall sorowe a litle, for the^h burde of the King, & the princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made many altars to sinne, his altars shall be to sinne.

12 I haue writen to them the great things of my Law: but they were counted as aⁱ strange thing.

13 They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it: but the^k Lord accepteth them not: now wil he remember their iniquitie, and visite their sinnes: they shall returne to Egypt.

14 For Israel hath forgotten his maker, & buyldeth temples, and Iudah hath increased strong cities but I wil send a fyre vpon his cities, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captiuitie of Israel.

1 REioyce not, o Israel for ioye^a as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God: thou hast loued^b a reward vpon euery corne floore.

2 The floore, and the wine presse shall not feede them, and the new wine shall faile in her.

3 They wil not dwell in the Lords land, but Ephraim wil returne to Egypt, & they wil eat vnclane things in Asshur.

4 They shall not offer^d wine to the Lord, neither shall their sacrifices be pleasant vnto him: but they shall be vnto the as the bread of mourners: all that eat thereof, shall be polluted: for their bread^e for their soules shall not come into the House of the Lord.

5 What wil ye do^f then in the solene day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord?

6 For lo, they are gone from^g destruction: but Egypt shall gather them vp, and Memphis shall burye them: the nettles shall possess the pleasant^h places of their siluer, & the thorne shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The daies of visitacion are come: the dayes of recompense are come: Israel shall knowe it: ⁱ the Prophet is a foole: the spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquitie: therefore the hatred is great.

8 The watchmen of Ephraim shall be with my God: but the Prophet is the snare of a fouler in all his waies, & hatred in^j y House of his God.

9 They^k are depely set: they are corrupt as in the daies of Gibeah: therefore he wil remeber their iniquitie, he wil visite their sinnes.

10 I founde Israel like^l grapes in the wilderness: I sawe your fathers as the first ripe in the fig tre at her first time: but they went to Baal-Peór, and separated them selues vnto that shame, and their abominacions were according to^m their louers.

11 Ephraim their glorie shall flee away like a birde: from the birthⁿ and from the wombe, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring vp their children, yet I wil depriue them from being men: yea, wo to them, when I departe from them.

13 Ephraim, as I sawe, is as a tre^o in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shall bring forth the his children to the murderer.

14 O Lord, giue them: what wilt thou giue them? giue them a^p barren wombe & drye breasts.

15 All their wickednes is in^q Gilgal: for there do I hate them: for the wickednes of their inuencions, I wil cast them out of mine House: I wil loue them no more: all their princes are rebelles.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their roote is dried vp: they can bring no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet wil I slaie euen the dearest of their bodie.

17 My God wil cast the away, because they did not obey him: and they shall wander among the nations.

They haue spoken wordes, swearing falsely in making ^e a couenant: thus ^f judgement groweth as wormewood in the furrowes of the field.

The inhabitants of Samaria shal ^g feare because of the calfe of Beth-áuen: for the people thereof shal mourne ouer it, & the ^h Chemarims thereof, that reioyced on it for the glorie thereof, because it is departed from it.

It shalbe also brought to Asshúr, for a present vnto King Iaréb: Ephráim shal receiue shame, & Israél shalbe ashamed of his owne counsell.

Of Samaria, the King thereof is destroyed, as the fume vpon the water.

The hie places also of ⁱ Auen shalbe destroyed, ^{even} the sinne of Israél: the thorne and the thistle shal growe vpon their altars, and they shal say to the mountaines, * Couer vs, and to the hilles, Fall vpon vs.

O Israél, thou hast ^j sinned from the daies of Gibeáh: there they ^k fited: the battel in Gibeáh against the children of iniquitie did not ^l touche them.

It is my desire ^m that I shulde chastise them, & the people shalbe gathered against them, when they shal gather them selues in their two ⁿ furrowes.

And Ephráim ^o as an heifer vsed to delite ^p in threshing: but I wil passe by her ^q faire necke: I wil make Ephráim to ride: Iudáh shal plowe, and Iaakób shal breake his cloddes.

But you haue plowed wickednes: ye haue reaped iniquitie: you haue eaté the frute of lies: because ^t y didest trust in thine owne waies, & in the multitude of thy strong men,

Therefore shal a tumult arise among thy people & all thy munitions shalbe destroyed, as ^u Shalmán destroyed Beth-aibél in the day of battel: the mother with the child to cease from their finnes. ^v Because they are so desperate, I will delite to destroy them. ^w That is, when they haue gathered all their strength together. ^x Wherein is pleasure, as in plowing is labour and paine. ^y I will lay my yoke vpon her fat necke. ^z Read Ierem 4.4. ^{aa} That is, shall maner in the destruction of that citie spared neither kinde nor age.

So shal Beth-él do vnto you, because of your malicious wickednes: in a morning shal the King of Israél be destroyed.

CHAP. XI.

The benefites of the Lord toward Israél. s Their ingratitude against him.

When Israél ^a was a childe, then I loued him, and called my sonne out of Egypt.

They called them, but they ^b went thus forth: they sacrificed vnto Baalím, & burnt incense to images.

I led Ephráim also, ^{as one} shulde beare them in his armes: but they knewe not that I healed them.

I led them with cordes ^c of a man, ^{even} with bandes of loue, and I was to them, as he that taketh of the yoke from their lawes, and I laied the meat vnto them.

He shal no more returne into the land of Egypt: but Asshúr shalbe his ^d King, because they refused to conuert.

And the sworde shal fall on his cities, & shal consume his barres, and deuoure the, because of their owne counsels.

And my people are bent to rebellion against me: though ^e they called them to the most hie, yet none at all wolde exalt him.

How shal I giue thee vp, Ephráim? how shal I deliuer thee, Israél? how shal I make thee, as ^f Admáh? how shal I set thee, as Zebóim: mine heart is turned within me: ^g my repentings are rouled together.

I wil not execute the fiercenes of my wrath: I wil not returne to destroy Ephráim: for I am God, and not man, the holy one in the middes of thee, & I wil not ^h entrie into the citie.

They shal walke after the Lord: he shal roare like a lyon: when he shal roare, then the children of the West shal feare.

They shal feare as a sparowe out of Egypt, and as a doue out of the land of Asshúr, and I wil place them in their houses, saith the Lord.

Ephráim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israél with deceit: but Iudáh yet rulerth ⁱ with God, and is faithful with the Sainctes.

14 I wil redeme them from the power of the graue: I wil deliuer them frō death: o death, I wil be thy death: o graue, I wil be thy destruction: i repentance is hid from mine eyes.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Prophet Ioél firſt rebuketh them of Iuda, that being now puniſhed with a great plague of famine, remaine ſtil obſtinat. Secondly he threateneth greater plagues, becauſe they grewe daily to a more hardenēſſe of heart, & rebellion againſt God notwithstanding his puniſhments. Thirdly he exhorteth them to repentance, ſhewing that it muſt be earneſt, and procede from the heart becauſe they had grievouſly offended God. And ſo doing, he promiſeth, that God wil be merciful, & not forget his covenant that he made with their fathers but wil ſend his Chriſt who ſhal gather the ſcat-tered ſhepe, and reſtore them to life, and libertie, though they ſemed to be dead.

CHAP. III.

Of the iudgement of God against the enemies of his people.

^a For beholde, in those daies and in y^e time, whē I shal bring againe the captiuitie of Iudāh and Ierusalem,

2 I wil also gather all natiōs, and wil bring them downe into the vallei of Ichosaphāt, and wil plead with hē there for my people, and for mine heritage I s^aēl, whome thei haue scattered amōg the nations, and parted my land.

3 And thei haue cast lottes for my people, & haue giuen the child for the harlot, & solde the girle for wine, that they might drinke.

4 Yea, & what haue you to do with me, o Tyrus & Zidon and all the coastes of Palestina? wil ye render me a recompense? and if ye recompense me, swiftly & speedely, wil I render your recompense vpon your head:

5 For ye haue taken my siluer and my gold, and haue caryed into your temples my goodlie & pleasant things.

6 The children also of Iudāh and the children of Ierusalem haue you solde vnto y^e Grecians, that ye might send them farre from their border.

7 Beholde, I wil raise them out of the place where ye haue sold them, and wil render your rewarde vpon your owne head,

8 And I wil sell your sonnes and your daughters into the hand of the children of Iudāh, and thei shal sell them to the Sabeans, to a people faire of: for the Lord himself hathe spoken it.

9 Publish this among the Gentiles: prepare warre, wake vp the mightie men: let all the men of warre drawe nere & come vp.

10 Breake your plowshares into swordes, and your sheeths into speares: let the weakes saie, I am strong.

11 Assemble your selues, and come all ye heathen and gather your selues together rounde about: there shal y^e Lord cast downe thy mightie men.

12 Let the heathen be wakened, and come vp to the vallei of Ichosaphāt: for there wil I sit to iudge all the heathen rounde about.

13 Put in your sheeths, for the haruest is ripe: come, get you downe, for y^e winepresse is full: yea, the winepresses runne ouer, for their wickednes is great.

14 O multitude, o multitude, come into the vallei of threshing: for the daie of the Lord is nere in the vallei of threshing.

15 The sunne and moone shalbe darkened, and the starres shal withdrawe their light.

16 The Lord also shal roare out of Ziön, and vtter his voice from Ierusalem, & the heauens, and the earth shal shake, but the Lord wil be the hope of his people, and y^e strength of the children of I s^aēl.

17 So shal ye knowe that I am y^e Lord your God dwelling in Ziön, mine holie Mountaine: then shal Ierusalem be holy, & the she shal no strangers go thorow her any more.

18 And in that daie shal the mountaines droppe downe newe wine, and the hilles shal flowe with milke, and all the riuers of Iudāh shal runne with waters, and a fountaine shal come forth of the House of the Lord, and shal watter the vallei of Shittim.

19 Egypt shalbe waste, and Edōm shalbe a desolate wildernes, for the iniuries of the children of Iudāh, because thei haue shed innocent blood in their land.

20 But Iudāh shal dwell for euer, and Ierusalem from generation to generation.

21 For I wil cleanse their blood, that I haue not cleansed, and the Lord wil dwell in Ziön.

^f For afterwards God sold the by Nebuchad-nar, and Alexander the great, for the louche bare to his people, and thereby they were comforted as though y^e price had bene theirs.

^g Whē I shal execute my iudgements against mine enemies, I wil cause euery one to be ready, and to prepare their weapons to destroy one another, for my Church sake.

^h Thus he shal encourage the enemies, when their wickednes is full ripe to destroy one another, which he calleth the vallei of Gods iudgement.

ⁱ God assureth his against all troubles, that when he destroyeth his enemies, his children shalbe deliuered.

^k The strangers shal no more destroy his Church: if they do, it is the people & by their finnes make the breach for the enemies.

^l He promisseth to his Church abundance of graces, read Ezek 47, 1 which shulde watter and comfort y^e moste barren places, Amos. 9, 13

^m The malicious enemies shal haue no parte of this grace.

ⁿ He had suffered his Church hitherto to lye in their filthines, but now he promisseth to cleanse them and to make them pure vnto him.

^a When I shal deliuer my Church, & gather the Jewes, and of the Gentiles.

^b It appeareth that he attendeth to that great victorie of Ichosaphāt, when as God without mans helpe destroyed the enemies, 2 Kin 20, 26 also he hath respect to this worde, Ichosaphāt, which signifyeth pleading or iudgement, because God wolde iudge the enemies of his Church as he did there.

^c That which the enemies gate for the sale of my people, he bestowed it vpon harlots and drinke.

^d He taketh cause of his Church in hād against y^e enemies, as though the iniurie were done to himself.

^e Haue I done you wrong, that ye wil render me the like?

A M O S.

THE ARGUMENT.

Among many other Prophetes that God raised vp to admonish the Israelites of his plagues for their wickednes and idolatrie, he stirred vp Amós, who was an herdman or shepherd of a poore towne, and gaue him bothe knowledge and constancie to reprove all estates and degrees, and to denounce Gods horrible iudgements against them, except they did in time repent: shewing them, that if God spare not the other nations about them, who had liued as it were in ignorance of God in respect of them, but for their sinnes wil punish them, that they coulde loke for nothing, but an horrible destruction, except they turned to the Lord by vsfained repentance. And finally, he comforteth the godlie with hope of the comming of the M^{ssiah}, by whome they shoulde haue perfite deliuerance and saluacion.

^c Which, as Iosephus writeth, was when Vzziah wolde haue vsurped the Priests office, and therefore was smitten with the leprosie.

^d Whatsoever is fruitful and pleasant in Israel, shal shortly perishe.

^e He sheweth first that all people rounde about shoulde be destroyed for their manifold sinnes: which are ment by three and foure which make seuen, because the Israelites shoulde the more deeply consider Gods iudgements toward them.

^f If Syrians shal not be spared for committing this crueltie against one citie, it is not possible for Israel shoulde escape punishment which hath committed so many & grievous sinnes against God & man.

² And he said, The Lord shal roare from Zión, and vtter his voyce from Ierusalém, and the dwelling places of the shepherds shal perishe, and the top of^d Carmél shal wither.

⁴ Therefore wil I send a fyre into the house of Hazaél, and it shal deuoure the palaces of Ben-hadád.

⁷ Therefore wil I send a fyre vpon the walles of Azzáh, and it shal deuoure the palaces thereof.

⁹ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Tyrus, and for foure, I wil not turne to it, because they shut the whole captiuitie in Edóm, and haue not remem-bred the^k brotherlie couenant.

He reproveth the house of Israel of ingratitude 11 For the which God wil punish them.

1 H EARE this worde that the Lord pro- nounce agānst you, o children of Israël, enē agānst the whole familie which I broght vp frō the land of Egypt, saying, You s onely haue I knowen of all the families of the earth: therefore I wil visite you for all your iniquities.

4 Can a birde fall in a snare vpon y earth, where no fouler is? or wil he take vp the snare from the earth, and haue taken nothing at all?

5 Or f shal a trumpet be blowen in the citie, and the people be not afraid? or shal there s be euil in a citie, and the Lord ha- the not done it?

6 Surely the Lord God wil do nothing, but he reueileth his secret vnto his seruāts the Prophetes.

8 The lion hath roared: who wil not be afayed? the Lord God hath spoken: who can but prophetic?

9 Proclame in the palaces at Ashdōd, & in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble your selues vpō the mountaines of Samaria: so beholde the great tumultes in the middes thereof, and the oppressed in the middes thereof.

10 For thei knowe not to do right, saith the Lord: thei store vp violence, and robberie in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, An aduersarie shal come euen rounde about the cōntrei, and shal bring downe thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shalbe spoiled.

12 Thus saith the Lord, As the shepherd taketh m out of the mouth of the lion two legges, or a piece of an eare: so shal the children of Israël be taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus, as in a couche.

13 Heare, and testifie in the house of Iakōb, saith the Lord God, the God of hostes.

14 Surely in the day that I shal visite the transgressions of Israël vpon him, I wil also visite the altars of Beth-él, & the hornes of the altar shalbe broken of, and fall to the grounde.

15 And I wil smite the winter house with the sommer house, and the houses of yorie shal perish, and the great houses shalbe consumed, saith the Lord

Against the gouernours of Samaria.

1 H EARE this worde, ye kine of Bashān: which are in the mountaine of Samaria: which oppresse the poore, and distroy the nedie, & thei say to their matters, Bring, and let vs drinke.

k They coulde not finde water ynough where they had heard say it had rained.

7 And also I haue withholden the raine fro you, when there were yet thre moneths to the haruest, and I caused it to raine vpon one citie, and haue not caused it to raine vpon another citie: one piece was rained vpon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered.

8 So two or thre cities wandered vnto one citie to drinke water, but they were not satisfied: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

A lamentacion for the captiuitie of Israél.

1 HEARE ye this worde, which I lift vp vpon you, euena lamentacion of the house of Israél.

a He so calleth them because they so boasted of the felices, or because they were giuen to wantonnes & deuities

b Meaning, y the tenth part shoulde fearfully be saved

c In these places they worshipped new idoles, which afore time served for y true honour of God: therefore he saith y these shal not save them.

d In stead of iudgement & equitie they execute crueltye & oppression.

2 The virgine Israél is fallen, and shal no more rise: she is left vpon her land, & there is none to raise her vp.

3 For thus saith the Lord God, The citie which went out by a thousand, shal leaue an hundredth: and that which went forth by an hundredth, shal leaue ten to the house of Israél.

4 For thus saith the Lord vnto the house of Israél, Seke ye me, and ye shal liue.

5 But seke not Beth-él, nor enter into Gilgál, and go not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgál shal go into captiuitie, and Beth-él shal come to naught.

6 Seke the Lord, and ye shal liue, lest he breake out like fyre in the house of Ioséph and deuoure it, & there be none to quenche it in Beth-él.

7 They turne iudgement to wormewood, and leaue of righteousness in the earth.

8 He maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and he turneth the shadowe of death into the morning, and he maketh the day darcke as night: he calleth the waters of the sea, and powreth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

e He describeth y power of God, Job. 9, 9.

9 He strengtheneth the destroyer against the mightie: and the destroyer shal come against the fortresse.

10 They haue hated him, that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorre him that speaketh vprightly.

f They hate y Prophetes, & reprove them in the open assemblies.

11 For asmuch then as your treading is vpon the poore, and ye take from him burdens of wheat, ye haue buylt houses of hewen stone, but ye shal not dwell in them: ye haue planted pleasant vineyardes, but ye shal not drinke wine of them.

g Ye take both his money & also his fode wherewith he shoulde liue

12 For I knowe your manifold transgressions, and your mightie sinnes: they afflict the iust, they take rewardes, & they oppresse the poore in the gate.

13 Therefore the prudent shal kepe silence in that time, for it is an euil time.

h God wil so plague them, that they shal not suffer the godlie ouce to open their mouthes to admoynish them of their fautes

14 Seke good and not euil, that ye may liue: and the Lord God of hostes shal be with you, as you haue spoken.

15 Hate the euil, and loue the good, and establish iudgement in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hostes wil be merciful vnto the remnant of Ioséph.

16 Therefore the Lord God of hostes, the Lord saith thus, Mourning shal be in all streets: and they shal say in all the hie waies, Alas, alas: and they shal call the housbādman to lamentacion, & suche as can mourne, to mourning.

i So that all degrees shal haue matter of lamentacion for the great plagues.

17 And in all the vines shal be lamentacion: for I wil passe through thee, saith y Lord.

18 Wo vnto you, that desire the day of the Lord: what haue you to do with it? the day of the Lord is darkenes and not light.

k Thus he speaketh because the wicked & hypocrites said that were content to abide Gods iudgements, where as the godlie tremble & feare, Iere. 30, 7. iohel 2, 16. zeph 1, 15.

19 As if a man did flee from a lyon, and a beare met him, or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shal not the day of the Lord be darkenes, and not light? euen darkenes and no light in it?

21 I hate & abhorre your feast daies, and I wil not smel in your solemne assemblies.

l Because ye haue corrupt my true seruice & remaine obdurate in your iees, I sa 1, 11. Iere. 6, 10

22 Thogh ye offer me burnt offerings and meat offerings, I wil not accept them: neither wil I regarde the peace offering of your fat beasts.

23 Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs: for I wil not heare the melodie of thy viols)

m Do your dutie to God & to your neighbor, & so ye shal fele his grace plentifully, if you shew your abundant affection according to Gods words.

24 And let iudgement runne downe as waters, and righteousness as a mightie riuier.

25 Haue ye offered vnto me sacrifices & of-frings in the wildernes fortie yeres, o house of Israël?

16 But you haue borne a Siccúth your King and Chiun your images, and the starre of your gods, which ye made to your selues.

17 Therefore wil I cause you to go into captiuitie beyonde Damascus, saith the Lord, whose Name is the God of hostes.

CHAP. VI.

Against the princes of Israël living in pleasures.

1 W O to them that are at ease in Zion and trust in the mountaine of Samaria, which were famous at the beginning of the nations: and the house of Israël came to them.

2 Go you vnto Calnéh, & se: & from thence go you to Hamáth the great: the go downe to Gath of the Philistines: be the better then these king domes: or the border of their land greater then your border, Ye that put farre away the euil day, and approche to the seat of iniquitie?

3 Thei lie vpon beddes of yuorie, & stretch them selues vpon their beddes, and eat the lambes of the flocke, and the calves out of the stall.

4 They sing to the sounde of the viole: thei inuent to them selues instruments of musick like Dauid.

5 They drinke wine in bowls, and anoint them selues with the chief ointments, but no man is sorry for the affliction of Ioséph.

6 Therefore now shal thei go captiue with the first that go captiue, and the sorowe of them that stretched them selues, is at hand.

7 The Lord God hath sworn by him self, saith the Lord God of hostes, I abhorre the excellencie of Iakób, and hate his palaces: therefore wil I deliuer vp the citie with all that is therein.

8 And if there remaine ten men in one house, thei shal dye.

9 And his vnkle shal take him vp & burie him to cary out the bones out of the house, and shal say vnto him, that is by thy sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? And he shal say, None. Then shal he say, Holde thy tongue: for we may not remembre the Name of the Lord.

10 For beholde, the Lord commandeth, and he wil smite the great house with breaches, and the litle houses with clefts.

11 Shal nor shall runne vpon the rocks: or will one plowe there with oxen: for ye haue turned iudgement into gall, and the frute of righteousness into wormewood.

Yereioyce in a thing of nought: ye say, Haue not we gotté vs? hoines by our owne strength.

But beholde, I wil raise vp against you a nacion, o house of Israël, saith the Lord God of hostes: and thei shal afflict you, fi o the entring in of Hamáth vnto the riuer of the wildernes.

CHAP. VII.

God sheweth certaine visions, whereby he signifieth the destruction of the people of Israël. 10 The false accusation of Amaziáh 12 His crafty counsel

1 Thus hathe the Lord God shewed vnto me, and beholde, he formed a greshoppers in the beginning of the shutring vp of the latter groeth: and lo, it was in the latter groeth after the Kings mowing.

2 And whé they had made an end of eating the grasse of the land, then I said, O Lord God, spare, I beseeche thee: who shal raise vp Iakób: for he is smale.

3 So the Lord repented for this. It shal not be, saith the Lord.

4 Thus also hathe the Lord God shewed vnto me, and beholde, the Lord God called to iudgement by fyre, and it deuoured the great depe, and did eat vp a parte.

5 Then said I, O Lord God, cease, I beseeche thee: who shal raise vp Iakób: for he is smale.

6 So the Lord repented for this. This also shal not be, saith the Lord God.

7 Thus againe he shewed me, and beholde, the Lord stode vpon a wall made by line with a line in his hand.

8 And the Lord said vnto me, Amós, what seest thou? And I said, A line. Then said the Lord, Beholde, I wil set a line in the middes of my people Israël, and wil passe by them no more.

9 And the hie places of Ishák shalbe desolate, and the temples of Israël shalbe destroyed: and I wil rise against the house of Ieroboám with the sworde.

10 Then Amaziáh the Priest of Beth-él sent to Ieroboám King of Israël, saying, Amós hathe conspired against thee in the middes of the house of Israël: the land is not able to beare all his wordes.

11 For thus Amós saith, Ieroboám shal dye by the sworde, and Israël shalbe led away captiue out of their owne land.

12 Also Amaziáh said vnto Amós, O thou the Seer, go, flee thou away into the land of Iudáh, and there eat thy bread and propheticke there.

13 But propheticke no more at Beth-él: for it is the Kings chappel, and it is the Kings court.

c That is, stained this plague at my prayer

d Meaning of Gods indignation was inflamed against the stubbornness of this people.

e Signifying that this shoulde be the last measuring of the people, and he wolde deferre his iudgement no longer.

f That is, whé Amós had propheticke that King shoulde be destroyed: for this wicked Priest more for hatred he bare to the Prophet then for loue toward the King, thought this accusation sufficient to condemn him, where as none other coulde take place

g When this instrument of Satan was not able to compass his purpose by the King, he assayed by another practise: that was, to feare the Prophet, that he might departe, and not reprove their idolatrie there openly, and so hinder his propheticke.

^h Thus he sheweth by his extraordinary vocacion, y^e God had giue him a charge which he must needs execute.

14 Then answered Amós, and said to Amaziah, I was no ^h Prophet, nether was I a Prophetes sonne, but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of wilde figges.

15 And the Lord toke me as I followed the flocke, and the Lord said vnto me, Go, prophetic vnto my people Israël.

16 Now therefore heare thou the worde of the Lord. Thou saist, Prophecie not against Israël, and speake nothing against the house of Ishak.

ⁱ Thus God v^e sed to approve the autoritie of his Prophetes by his plagues & iudgements against them, & were malicious enemies, Ier 28 12 & 29, 21 & 25 as this day he doeth against them y^e persecute the ministers of his Gospell

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Thy wife shal be an harlot in the citie, and thy sonnes and thy daughters shal fall by the sworde, and thy land shal be deuied by line: and thou shalt dye in a polluted land, and Israël shal surely go into captiuitie forthe of his land.

^a Which signified the ripenes of their finnes and the readines of Gods iudgements

1 And he said, Amós, what seest thou? And I said, A basket of somer frute. Then said the Lord vnto me, The end is come vpon my people of Israël, I wil passe by them no more.

2 And the songs of the Temple shal be howlings in that day, saith the Lord God: many dead bodies shalbe in euerie place: they shal cast them forthe with ^b silence.

3 Heare this, o ye that swallow vp the poore, that ye may make the nedie of the land to faile, saying, When wil the ^d new moneth be gone, that we may sell corne? & the Sabbath, that we may set forthe wheat, & make ^e the Ephah smale, and the shekel great, and falsifie the weights by deceit?

4 That we may bye the poore for siluer, and the nedie for shooes: yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat.

5 The Lord hathe sworne by the excellencie of Iaakób, Surely I wil neuer forget any of their workes.

6 Shal not the land tremble for this, and euerie one mourne, that dwelleth therein? and it shal rise vp wholly as a flood, and it shalbe cast out, & ^f drowned as by y^e flood of Egypt.

7 And in that day, saith the Lord God, I wil euen cause the ^g sunne to go downe at noone: and I wil darken the earth in the cleare day.

8 And I wil turne your feastes into mourning, and all your songs into lamentacion: and I wil bring sackcloth vpon all loines, and baldnes vpon euerie head: and I wil make it as the mourning of an onelie sonne, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 Beholde, the daies come, saith the Lord God, that I wil send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the worde of the Lord.

12 And they shal wander from sea to sea, and from the North euen vnto the East shal they runne to & fro to seke the ^h worde of the Lord, and shal not finde it.

13 In that day shal the fayre virgines and the yong men perishe for thirst.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Idumeans, which came of Eſáu, were mortal enemies alway to the Iſraelites, which came of Iakób, & therefore did not onely rexe them continually with ſondry kindes of crueltie, but alſo ſtirred vp others to fight againſt them. Therefore when they were now in their greateſt proſperitie, and did moſte triumphe againſt Iſraél, which was in great affliction and miſerie, God raiſed vp his Prophet to comfort the Iſraelites, for aſmuch as God had now determined to deſtroy their aduerſaries, which did ſo ſore rexe them, and to ſend them ſuche as ſhulde deliuer them, and ſet vp the kingdome of Mefſiáh, which he had promiſed.

He viſion of Obadiáh. Thus ſaith ^h Lord God againſt Edóm, ^a We haue heard a rumor ſiō the Lord, and an ambafadour is ſent amōg the heathen: ariſe, and ^b let vs riſe vp againſt her to battel.

^a God hath certainly reuelled to his Prophetes ^h he wil riſe vp the heathē to deſtroy the Edomites, whereof ^h rumor is now publiſhed, Ierem. 49, 14

^b Thus ^h hea the incourage them ſelues to riſe againſt Edóm.

^c Which deſpiſeth all others in reſpect of thyſelf & yet art but an handſul in compariſon of others, and art ſhut vp amōg the hilles as ſeparate from the reſt of the worlde.

^d God wil ſo deſtroy them ^h he wil leaue none, though theues when they come, take but til they haue ynough, and they that gather grapes, euer leaue ſome behinde them, Ierem. 49, 9

^e They in whom thou didſt truſt, for to haue helpe and friendſhip of them ſhal be thine enemies and deſtroy thee.

Beholde, I haue made thee ſmale among the heathen: thou art vtterly deſpiſed.

The ^c pride of thine heart hath deceiued thee: thou that dwelleſt in the cleſtes of the rockes, whoſe habitacion is hie, that ſaith in his heart, Who ſhal bring me downe to the ground?

Yea though thou exalt thy ſelf as the eagle, & make thy neſt among the ſtarres, thence wil I bring thee downe, ſaith the Lord.

Came theues to thee or robbers by night? how waſt thou brought to ſilence? woldeſt thou not haue ſtollen, til they had ynough? if the grapegatherers came to thee, woldeſt thou not leaue ſome grapes?

How are the things of Eſáu ſoght vp, & his treaſures ſearched?

All the men of thy confederacie ^e haue driuen thee to the borders: the men that were at peace with thee, haue deceiued thee, and preuailed againſt thee: thei that eat thy ^f bread, haue laid a wōde vnder thee: there is none vnderſtanding in him.

Shal not I in that day, ſaith the Lord, eue deſtroy the wiſe men out of Edóm, and vnderſtanding from the mount of Eſáu.

And thy ſtrong men, o Temán, ſhal be afrated, becauſe euerie one of the mount of Eſáu ſhal be cut of by ſlaughter.

For thy crueltie againſt thy ^g brother Iakób, ſhame ſhal couer thee, and thou ſhalt be cut of for euer.

When thou ſtoodeſt ^h on the other ſide, in the day ^h the ſtrangers caryed away his ſubſtance, and ſtrangers entred into his gates, and caſt lottes vpon Ieruſalém, euen thou waſt as one of them.

But thou ſhuldeſt not haue beholden the day of thy brother, in the day that he was made a ſtranger, nether ſhuldeſt thou haue reioyced ouer the children of Iudáh, in the day of their deſtruction: thou ſhuldeſt not haue spokē proudly in the day of affliction.

Thou ſhuldeſt not haue entred into the gate of my people in the day of their deſtruction, nether ſhuldeſt thou haue once looked on their affliction in the day of their deſtruction, nor haue laid hands on their ſubſtance in the day of their deſtruction.

Nether ſhuldeſt thou haue ſtand in the croſſe waies to cut of them, that ſhulde eſcape, nether ſhuldeſt thou haue ſhut vp ^f That is, thy familiar friends and gheſtes haue by ſecret practices deſtroyed thee.

^g He ſheweth the cauſe why the Edomites were ſo ſharply puniſhed: to wit, becauſe they were enemies to his Church, whom now he coſporeth by puniſhing their enemies

^h Whē Nebuchad-nezzār came againſt Ieruſalém, ^h ſoynded with him & haded part of ^h ſpoile, & ſo dided reioyce when my people, ^h is, thy brother were afflicted, where as thou ſhuldeſt haue pitied & holped thy brother.

IONAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

When Ionah had long prophesied in Iſraél and had little profited, God gaue him expreſſe charge to go, and denounce his iudgements againſt Ninueh, the chief citie of the Affyrians, becauſe he had appointed, that thei which were of the heathen, ſhoulde conuert by the mightie power of his wordes, and that within thre daies preaching, that Iſraél might ſe how horribly thei had provoked Gods wrath, which for the ſpace of ſo many yerres, had not conuerſed to the Lord for ſo many Trophetes and ſo diligent preaching. He prophesied vnder Ioſh, and Ieroboam, as 2 King. 14, 25.

CHAP. I.

3 Ionah fled when he was ſent to preache. 4 A tempeſt ariſeth, and he is caſt into the ſea for his diſobedience.

a After that he had preached along time in Iſraél: and ſo Ezechiél, after that for a time he had prophesied in Iuda, he had viſions in Babylon, Ezek 11

b For ſeing y great obſtination of y Iſraelites, he ſent his Prophet to the Gentiles y they might proue the to repentance or at leaſt make the inexcusable: for Ninueh was the chief citie of the Affyrians

c For as authors write, it continued in circuit about eight & fortie mile & had a thouſand and ſyue hundred rowres, and at this time there were an hundred & ewerie thouſand childre therein, Chap 4:11. d Whereby he declared his weakens, that wolde not promptly follow the Lords calling, but gaue place to his owne reaſon, which perſuaded him that he ſhoulde nothing at all profite there, ſeing he had done ſo much good among his owne people. Chap 4:2 e Which was the haue, and port to take ſhipping thither, called alſo Ioppe. f From that vocacion whereunto God had called him, and wherein he wolde haue aſſiſted him g As one y wolde haue caſt of this care, and ſollicitude by ſeking reſt and quietnes

He worde of the Lord came^a alſo vnto Ionah the ſonne of Amittai, ſaying, Arise, and go to^b Ninueh, that^c great citie, and crye againſt it: for thei wickednes is come vp before me.

3. But Ionah roſe vp to^d flee into Tarſhiſh from the preſence of the Lord, and went downe to^e Iaphó: & he founde a ſhip going to Tarſhiſh: ſo he paid the fare thereof, and went downe into it, that he might go with them vnto Tarſhiſh, from the^f preſence of the Lord.

4 But the Lord ſent out a great winde into the ſea, and there was a mightie tempeſt in the ſea, ſo that the ſhip was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were aſaied, and cryed euerie man vnto his god, and caſt the wares that were in the ſhip, into the ſea to lighten it of them: but Ionah was gone downe^g into the ſides of the ſhip, and he laie downe, and was aſt a ſleeper.

6 So the ſhipmaſter came to him, and ſaid vnto him, What meaneſt thou, ô ſleeper! Arise, call vpon thy^h God, if ſo be y God wil thinke vpon vs, that we periſh not.

7 And thei ſaid euerie one to his ſelowes, Come, and let vs caſtⁱ lottes, that we maie knowe, for whoſe cauſe this euil is vpon vs. So thei caſt lots, & the lot fel vpon Ionah.

8 Then ſaid thei vnto him, Tel vs for whoſe cauſe this euil is vpon vs: what is thine occupation? and whence comeſt thou? which is thy countrei? and of what people art thou?

9 And he answered them, I am an Ebrew, & I feare the Lord God of heauen, which hath made the ſea, and the drye land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and ſaid vnto him, Why haſt thou done this? (for the men knewe, that he fled from the preſence of the Lord, becauſe he had tolde them)

11 Then ſaid thei vnto him, What ſhal we do vnto thee, that the ſea maie be calme vnto vs? (for the ſea wrought and was troublous)

12 And he ſaid vnto them, Take me, and caſt me into the ſea: ſo ſhal the ſea be calme vnto you: for I knowe that for my ſake this great tempeſt is vpon you.

13 Neuertheles, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but thei coulde not: for the ſea wrought, and was troublous againſt them.

h As they had called on their idoles, which declareth that idolaters haue noſay nor certainte, but in their troubles ſeke, thei can not tel to whome i Which declared that y matter was in great extremite, and doute, which thing was Gods motion in them for the trial of the cauſe: and this may not be done but in matters of great importance the gourde, that it withered.

8 And when the sunne did arise, God prepared also a feruent East winde: and the sunne bet vpon the head of Ionah, that he fainted, and wished in his heart to dye, and said, It is better for me to dye, then to liue.

9 And God said vnto Ionah, Doeſt thou wel to be angrie for the gourde? And he said, I do wel to be angry vnto thy death.

MICAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Micah the Prophet of the tribe of Iudah serued in the worke of the Lord, concerning Iudah and Israel, at the least thirtie yeres at what time Iſaiah prophesied. He declareth the destruction first of the one kingdome, and then of the other, because of their manifold wickednes, but chiefly for their idoltrie. And to this end he noteth the wickednes of the people, the crueltie of the princes and gouernours, and the permission of the false prophetes, and the deliuing in them. Then he setteth forth the coming of Christ, his kingdome, & the seruantie thereof. This Prophet was not that Micah which resisted Ahab, & all his false prophetes, as 1. King. 22. 8, but another of the same name.

CHAP. I.

1 The destruction of Iudah & Israel because of their idolatrie.

a Some in Mareſhah a citie
of Iudah

He worde of the Lord, that came vnto Micah the Morashite in the dayes of Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Iudah, which he sawe concerning Samaria and Ierusalem.

2 Heare, all ye people: hearken thou, O earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God be witnes against you, euen the Lord from his holie Temple.

3 For beholde, the Lord cometh out of his place, and wil come downe, & tread vpon the high places of the earth.

4 And the mountaines shal melt vnder him (so shal the valles cleaue) as waxe before the fyre, & as the waters that are powred downeward.

5 For the wickednes of Iacob is all this, & for the sinnes of the house of Israel: what is the wickednes of Iacob? Is not Samaria? & which are the high places of Iudah? Is not Ierusalem?

6 Therefore I wil make Samaria as an heape of the field, & for the planting of a vineyard, and I wil cause the stones thereof to tumble downe into the valley, & I wil discouer the fundacions thereof.

7 And all the grauen images thereof shal be broken, and all the gifts thereof shal be burnt with the fyre, and all the idoles thereof wil I destroye: for she gathered it of the hyre of an harlot, and they shal retrine to the wages of an harlot.

8 Therefore I wil moune & houle: I wil go without clothes, and naked: I wil make lamentacion like the dragons, & mourning as the ostriches.

9 For her plagues are grievous: for it is come into Iudah: the enemy is come vnto the gate of my people, vnto Ierusalem.

10 Declare ye it not at Gath, nether wepe ye: for the house of Ephraim roule thy self in the dust.

11 Thou that dwellest at Shaphir, go together naked with shame: she that dwelleth at Zaanan, shal not come forth in mourning of Beth-el: the enemy shal receiue of you for his standing.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but euil came from the Lord vnto the gate of Ierusalem.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachish, binde the chariot to the beasts of price: she is the beginning of the sinne to the daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were founde in thee.

14 Therefore shalt thou giue presents to Morsheth of Gath: the houses of Achzib shal be as a lie to the Kings of Israel.

15 Yet wil I bring an heire vnto thee, O inhabitant of Mareſhah, he shal come vnto Adullam, the glorie of Israel.

16 Make thee balde: and shau thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldenes as the eagle, for they are gone into captiuitie from thee.

17 Thou first receiuest idolatrie of Ieroboam, & so didst infect Ierusalem. Thou shalt bribe Philistines thy neighbours, but they shal deceiue thee, as well as thou of Ierusalem. He prophesieth against his owne citie, & because it signified an heritage, he saith God wolde send an heire to possesse it. For so they thought them selues for the strength of their citie.

CHAP. III.

Againſt the tyrannie of princes and falſe prophetes.

And I ſaid, Heare, I pray you, ^xheads of Iaakób, and ye princes of the houſe of Iſraél: ſhulde not ye knowe ^ya iudgement?

But they hate the good, & loue the euil: thei plucke of their ſkinnes from them, & their fleſh from their bones.

And they eat alſo the ^zfleſh of my people, and flay of their ſkinne from them, & they breake their bones, & chop them in pieces, as for the pot, & as fleſh within the caldron.

Then ^aſhal they crye vnto the Lord, but he wil not heare them: he wil euē hide his face from them at that time, becauſe they haue done wickedly in their workes.

Thus ſaith the Lord, Concerning the prophetes that diſceiue my people, and ^bbite them with their teeth, and crye peace, but if a man put not into their mouthes, they ^cpreſpare waire againſt him,

ⁱ Read Iſa 2, 2

^j Yea,

^a He sheweth that there is no true Church but where as the people are taught by Gods pure worde d by his corrections and threatnings he wil bring the people into subjection which are in the vermost corners of the worlde. ^e They shal abstaine from all euil doing, and exercise them selues in godlines & in wel doing to others. ^f Read Isa 2, 4. ^g He sheweth that the people of God ought to remaine constant in their religion, albeit all the worlde giue them selues to their superstition & idolatrie. ^h I wil cause that Israel, which is now as one lame & halting, and so almost destroyed, shal liue againe & growe into a great people. ⁱ Meaning Ierusalem where the Lords flocke was gathered. ^k The flourishing state of the kingdom, as it was vnder David & Salomon. ^l thing was accomplished to the Church by the coming of Christ. In the meane season he sheweth that they shulde indure great troubles and tribulations when they sawe the selues neither to haue King nor counsell. ^m He sheweth that the faithful ought not to measure Gods iudgements by the bragges and threatnings of the wicked, but that they are admonished to liue vpon their hearkens to God to call for deliuerance. ⁿ God giueth his Church this victorie so oft as he ouercometh their enemies: but the accomplishment hereof shalbe at the last coming of Christ.

- ^a Yea, many nacions shal come and say, Come, and let vs go vp to the Mountaine of the Lord, and to the House of the God of Iakób, and he wil teache vs his waies, & we wil walke in his paths: for the Law shal go forth of Zión, and the worde of the Lord from Ierusalem.
- ^b And he shal iudge among many people, & rebuke mightie nacions a faire of, & thei shal breake their swordes into mattocks, and their speares into sickles: nacion shal not lift vp a sworde against nacion, nether shal they learne to fight any more.
- ^c But thei shal sit euery mā vnder his vine, and vnder his fig tre, and none shal make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hostes hath spoken it.
- ^d For all people wil walke in the name of his god, and we wil walke in the Name of the Lord our God, for euer and euer.
- ^e At the same day, saith the Lord, wil I gather her that halteth, and I wil gather her that is cast out, & her that I haue afflicted.
- ^f And I wil make her that halted, a remnant, & her that was cast farre of, a mightie nacion: and the Lord shal reigne ouer them in Mount Zión, from hence forth euen for euer.
- ^g And thou, daughter of the flocke, strong holde of the daughter Zión, vnto thee shal it come, euen the first dominion, & kingdom shal come to the daughter Ierusalem.
- ^h Now why dost thou crye out with lamentation? there no King in thee: is thy counsell perished? for sorow hath taken thee, as a woman in trauail.
- ⁱ Sorow and mourne, daughter Zión, like a woman in trauail: for now shalt thou go forth of the citie, and dwell in the field, & shalt go into Babel, but there shalt thou be deliuered: there the Lord shal redeme thee from the hand of thine enemies.
- ^j Now also many nacions are gathered against thee, saying, Zión shalbe condemned and our eye shal loke vpon Zión.
- ^k But they knowe not the thoughts of the Lord: they vnderstand not his counsell, for he shal gather them as the sheaues in the barne.
- ^l Arise, and thresh, daughter Zión: for I wil make thine hoine yron, and I wil make thine hookes brasse, & thou shalt breake in pieces many people: and I wil consecrate their riches vnto the Lord, and their substance vnto the ruler of the whole worlde.

CHAP. V.

^a The destruction of Ierusalem. ^b The excellencie of Bethleem.

- ^a Now assemble thy garisons, daughter of garisons: he hath laied siege against vs: they shal smite the iudge of Israel with a rodde vpon the cheke.
- ^b And thou Beth-leem Ephráthah art little to be among the thousands of Iudáh, yet out of thee shal he come forth vnto me, that shal be the ruler in Israel: whose goings forth haue bene from the beginning & from euerlasting.
- ^c Therefore wil he giue them vp, vntil the time that she which shal beare, shal trauail: then the remnant of their brethren shal returne vnto the children of Israel.
- ^d And he shal stand, and fede in strength of the Lord, & in the maiestie of the Name of the Lord his God, & they shal dwell still: for now shal he be magnified vnto the ends of the worlde.
- ^e And he shal be our peace, whene Ashtur shal come into our land: when he shal tread in our palaces, then shal we raise against him seven shepherds, and eight principal men.
- ^f And they shal destroy Ashtur with the sworde, & the land of Nimrod with their swordes: thus shal he deliuer vs from Ashtur, when he cometh into our land, & when he shal tread within our borders.
- ^g And the remnant of Iakób shal be among many people, as a dewe from the Lord, and as the showres vpon the grasse, that waiteth not for man, nor hopeth in the sonnes of Adam.
- ^h And the remnant of Iakób shal be among the Gentiles in the middes of many people, as the lyon among the beasts of the forest, and as the lyons whelp among the flockes of shepe, who when he goeth thorow, treadeth downe and reareth in pieces, and none can deliuer.
- ⁱ Thine hand shal be lift vp vpon thine aduersaries, & all thine enemies shalbe cut of.
- ^j And it shal come to passe in that day, saith the Lord, that I wil cut of thine horses out of the middes of thee, and I wil destroy thy charrets.
- ^k And I wil cut of the cities of thy land, and ouerthrowe all thy strong holdes.
- ^l And I wil cut of thine inchanters out of thine hand: and thou shalt haue no more soothsayers.
- ^m Thine idoles also wil I cut of, & thine images out of the middes of thee: and thou shalt no more worship the worke of thine hands.
- ⁿ And I wil plucke vp thy groues out of the middes of thee: so wil I destroy thine enemies.
- ^o And I wil execute a vengeance in my

^a He forewarneth them of the dangers which shal come, before thei enioy these comforts, shewing that forasmuche as Ierusalem was accustomed to her garisons to trouble others the Lord wolde now cause other garisons to vex her, and that her rulers shulde be smitten on the face most contemptuously. ^b For so the Iewes desired their countrey, that for euery thousand there was a chief captain, and because Bethleem was not able to make a thousand, he calleth it little, but yet God wil raise vp his captain and gouernour therein: & thus it is not the least by reason of this benefit, as mat 2, 6. ^c He sheweth that the coming of Christ & all his waies were appointed of God from all eternitie. ^d He compareth the Iewes to women which childe, who for a time shulde haue great sorowes, but at length they shulde haue a comfortable deliuerance, Ioh 16, 21. ^e That is, Christes kingdom shalbe stable and euerslasting, and his people, as wel the Gentiles as the Iewes shal dwell in safetie. ^f This Mefsiáh shalbe a sufficient sauegarde for vs, and though the enemy made vs for a time, yet shal God riere vp many which shal be able to deliuer vs. ^g These whom God shal raise vp for deliuerance of his Church, shal destroy all the enemies thereof, which are ment here by the Assyrians and Babylonians which were the chief at that time. ^h By these gouernours wil God deliuer vs when the enemy cometh into our land. ⁱ The remnant of Church which God shal deliuer, shal onely depend on Gods power and defence, as doeth the grasse of the field, and not on the hope of man. ^k I wil destroy all things wherein thou puttest thy confidence, as thy yaine confidence and idolatrie, and so wil helpe thee.

CHAP. VI.

An exhortacion to the dumme creatures to heare the iud-gement against Israel being vnkende. 6 What manner of sacrifices do please God.

HEarken ye now what the Lord saith, Arise thou, and contend before the mountaines, and let the hilles heare thy voyce.

Heare ye, o moûtaines, the Lords quarel, and ye mightie fundacions of the earth:
for the Lord hathe a quarel against his people, and he wil pleade with Israël.

O my people, what haue I done vnto thee?
or wherein haue I grieved thee? testifie against me.

Surely I brought thee vp out of the land of Egypt, & redeemed thee out of the house of seruants, and I haue sent before thee, Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

O my people, remember now what Ba-lák King of Moab had diuised, and what Balaam the sonne of Beor answered him, from Shittim vnto Gilgal, that ye may knowe the righteousness of the Lord.

Wherewith shal I come before y Lord, & bowe my self before the hie God? Shal
I come before him with burnt offrings, & with calves of a yere olde?

Wil the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, or w ten thousand riuers of oyle?
shal I giue my firstborne for my trasgres-sion, euen the frute of my bodie for the sin-ne of my soule?

He hathe shewed thee, o mā, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: surely to do iustely, and to loue mercie, and to humble thy self, to walke with thy God.

The Lords voyce cryeth vnto the citie,
and the man of wisdom shal se thy name:
Heare the rod, and who hathe appointed it.

Are yet the treasures of wickednes in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure, that is abominable?

Shal I iustifie the wicked balances, and the bag of deceitful weights?

For the riche men thereof are ful of cru-eltie, & the inhabitants thereof haue spoken lies, & their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

Therefore also wil I make thee sicke in smiting thee, & in making thee desolate because of thy sinnes.

Thou shalt eat and not be satisfied, & thy casting downe shalbe in the middes of thee, and thou shalt take holde, but shalt not deliuer: & that which thou deliuerest, wil I giue vp to the sworde.

1 Meaning, that the citie shoulde go about to save her men, as they that lay holde on that which they wolde preserve.

15 Thou shalt sowe, but not reape: thou shalt treade the oliues, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oyle, and make swete wine, but shalt not drinke wine.

16 For the statutes of Omri are kept, and all the manner of the house of Abab, and ye walke in their counsels, that I shoulde make thee waste, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shal beare the reproche of my people.

CHAP. VII.

1 A complaint for the small number of the righteous. 2 The wickedness of these times. 3 The prosperitie of the Church.

WO is me, for I am as the sower gatherings, & as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to ear: my soule desired the first ripe frutes.

The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among men: thei all lie in waite for blood: euery man hunteth his brother with a net.

To make good for the euil of their hands, the prince asked, and the iudge iudgeth for a rewarde: therefore the great man bespeaketh out the corruption of his soule:
so they wrap it vp.

The best of them is as a brier, and the most righteous of them is sharper then a thorne hedge: the day of thy watchmen & the visitacion cometh: then shalbe their confusion.

Trust ye not in a friend, nether put ye cofidence in a counseller: kepe the dores of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bo-some.

For the sonne reuileth the father: the daughter riseth vp against her mother: the daughter in law against her mother in law, and a mans enemies are y men of his owne house.

Therefore I wil loke vnto the Lord: I wil waite for God my Sauour: my God wil heare me.

Reioyce not against me, o mineemie:
thogh I fall, I shal arise: when I shal sit in darknes, the Lord shal be a light vnto me.

I wil beare the wrath of the Lord because I haue sinned against him, vntil he pleade my cause, and execute iudgement for me:
then wil he bring me forth to the light, &
I shal se his righteousness.

Then shal he that is mineemie, shal loke vpon it, and shame shal couer her, which said vnto me, Where is the Lord thy God?
Mine eyes shal beholde her: now shal she be troden downe as the myre of the stetes.

NAHUM.

THE ARGUMENT.

AS they of Nineuē shewed them selues prompt and ready to receiue the worde of God at Ionahs preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance so after a certeine tyme rather giuing the selues to worldlie meanes to increase their dominion, then seeking to continue in the feare of God, and trade wherein they had begone, they cast off the care of religion, and so returned to their vomite, and prouoked Gods iuste iudgement against them, in afflicting his people. Therefore their citie Nineuē was destroyed, and Merōch-baladan King of Babel (or as some thinke Nebuchad-nazzar) enioyed the empire of the Assyrians. But because God haile a continual care of his Church, he stirreth vp his Prophet to comfort the godlie, shewing that the destruction of their enemies shulde be for their consolation. And as it semeth, he prophesied about the time of Heczekiah, and not in the time of Manasseh his sonne, as the Iewes write.

For now I wil breake his yoke from thee, and wil burst thy bondes in sondre.

CHAP. II.

He describeth the victories of the Caldeans against the Assyrians.

The destroyer is come before thy face: kepe thy munitiõ, loke to the way:
make thy loynes strong: increase thy strenght mightily.

For the Lord hath turned away the glorie of Iakób, as the glorie of Israël:
for the emptiers haue emptied them out, & marred their vine branches.

The shield of his mightie men is made red: the valiant men are in skarlet: the charretts shalbe as in the fyre & flames in the day of his preparation, and the fire trees shal tremble.

The charretts shal rage in the stretes: thei shal runne to and fro in the hie wayes: thei shal seme like lampes: they shal shote like the lightning.

He shal remember his strõg men: they shal stumble as they go: they shal make haste to the walles thereof, and the defense shalbe prepared.

The gates of the riuers shalbe opened,
and the palace shal melt.

And Huzzáb the Queene shalbe led away captiue, and her maidens shal leade her as with the voyce of doues, smiting vpon their breasts.

But Nineuch is of olde like a poole of water: yet they shal flee away. Stand, stand, shal they crye: but none shal loke backe.

Spoyl ye the silver, spoyl the golde:
for there is none end of the store, & glorie of all the pleasant vessels.

She is emptie and voyde and waste, & the heart melteth, and the knees smite together, and sorow is in all loines, and the faces of them all gather blackenes.

She shalbe scattered, & shal not loke backe though wolde call them. h God comandeth the enemies to spoile Nineuch, & promisseth the infinite riches, & treasures. i 2. King 19.35, & the men thereof shal be after this sort. k Read Isai 2.6.

Where is the dwelling of the lions, & the pasture of the lyõs whelpes? where the lyon, & the lyoness walked, and the lyons whelpes, and none made them afraied.

The lyon did reare in pieces ynough for his whelpes, and woryed for his lyoness,

Of the fall of Nineuch. No power can escape the hand of God.

Bloodie citie, it is all ful of lies, and robberie: the pray departeth not:

The noyce of a whippe, & the noyce of the mowing of the wheles, and the beating of the horses, and the leaping of the charretts.

The horsman listeth vp bothe the bright sworde, and the glittering speare, and a multitude of slaine, and the dead bodies are manie: there is none end of their corpses:
they stumble vpon their corpses.

Because of the multitude of the fornications of the harlot that is beautiful, and is a mastresse of witchcraft, and selleth the people thorowe her whoredome, and the nations thorowe her witchcraftes.

Beholde, I come vpon thee, saith the Lord of hostes, and wil discover thy skirtes vp thy face, and wil shewe the nations thy filthines, and the kingdomes thy shame.

And I wil cast filth vpon thee, and make thee vile, and wil set thee as a galing stocke.

And it shal come to passe that all they that loke vpõ thee, shal flee from thee, and say, Nineuch is destroyed, who wil haue pitie vpon her? where shal I seke comforters for thee?

Art thou better then? No, which was ful of people, that laye in the riuers, and had the waters round about it: whose ditche was the sea, & her wall was from the sea?

Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength & there was none end. Put and Lubim were her helpers.

Yet was she caryed away, & went into captiuitie: her yong children also were dashed in pieces at the head of all the stre-tes: & thei cast lottes for her noble mē, & all her mightie mē were bound in chaines.

Also thou shalt be drunken: thou shalt hide thy self, and shalt seke helpe because

The Prophet complained vnto God, considering the great felicitie of the wicked, and the miserable oppression of the godlie, which endure all kinde of affliction & crueltie, and yet can see none end. Therefore he had this reuelation shewed him of God, that the Caldeans shoulde come and take them awaie captiues, so that they coulde loke for none end of their troubles as yet, because of their stubbernes and rebellion against the Lord. And lest the godlie shoulde despaine, seeing this horrible confusion, he comforteth them by this that God wil punish the Caldeans their enemies, when their pride and crueltie shalbe at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithfull to patience by his owne example, and sheweth them a forme of prayer, wherewith they shoulde comfort themselves.

C H A P. I.

- 1 A complaint against the wicked that persecute the iust.

He burden, which Habakkuk y^e Prophet did see. O Lord, how long shal I crye, and thou wilt not heare! euen crye out vnto thee for violence, and thou wilt not helpe!

- 2 Why doest thou shewe me iniquitie, and cause me to beholde sorowe for spoyling, and violence are before me: and there are that raise vp strife and contention.

- 3 Therefore the Law is dissolued, and iudgement doeth neuer go forth: for the wicked doeth compass about the righteous: therefore wrong iudgement procedeth.

- 4 Beholde among the heathen, and regarde, & wonder, & marueil: for I wil worke a worke in your daies: ye wil not beleue it, though it be tolde you.

- 5 For lo, I raise vp the Caldeans, that bitter and furious nacion, which shal go vpon the breadth of the land to possesse the dwelling places, that are not theirs.

- 6 They are terrible & feareful: their iudgement and their dignitie shal procede of them selues.

- 7 Their horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more fierce then the wolues in the euening: & their horsemen are many: & their horsemen shal come fro farre: they shal flie as y^e eagle hastening to meat.

- 8 They come all to spoyle: before their faces shalbe an Eastwinde, and they shal gather the captiuitie, & as the sand.

- 9 And they shal mocke the Kings, and the princes shalbe a skorne vnto them: they shal deride euery strong holde: for they shal gather dust, and take it.

- 10 Then shal they take a courage, & transgresse & do wickedly, imputing this their power vnto their god.

- 11 Art not thou of olde, o Lord my God mine holy one? we shal not dye: O Lord, y^e hast ordeined them for iudgement, and o God, thou hast established them for correction.

- 12 Thou art of pure eyes, and canst not see euil: y^e canst not beholde wickednes: wherefore doest thou loke vpon the transgressors, & holdest thy tongue when the wicked deuoureth the man, that is more righteous then he?

- 13 And makest men as the fish of the sea, & as the creeping things, that haue no ruler ouer them.

- 14 They take vp all with the angle: they catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarne, whereof they reioyce & are glad.

- 15 Therefore they sacrifice vnto their net and burne incense vnto their yarne, because by them their porcion is fat & their meat plenteous.

- 16 Shal they therefore stretch out their net & not spare continually to slay y^e nation?

f For y^e Iewes more feared this winde, because it destroyed their trutes

g They shalbe so many in number

h They shal cast vp mountes against it.

i The Prophee comforteth the faithful that God wil also destroy the Babylonians, because they shal abuse his victorie and become proud and insolent, attributing the praise hereof to their idoles k He assureth the godlie of Gods protection, shewing that the enemy can do no more then God hathe appointed, and also that their sinnes required such a sharpe rod.

l So that the great deuoureth the small and the Caldeans destroy all the world

A vision, & Against pride, conetousnes, drunkennes and idolatrie.

a I will reuolue mine owne iudgement, and onely depend on God to be instructed what I shal answer them that abuse my preaching, and to be armed against all temptations.

b Write it in great letters, that he that runneth, may read it.

c Which contained the destruction of the enemy, & the comfort of the Church: which thing though God execute not according to mans haile of fictions, yet the issue of both is certaine at his time appointed.

d To trust in him self or in any worldlie thing, is neuer to be quiet: for the onelie rest is to stay vpon God by faith, Rom. 7. 17. galat. 3. 11. ebr 10. 38.

e He compareth the proude, and conetous man to a drunkard that is without reason and sense, whome God will punish, & make him a laughing stocke to all the world: & thus he speaketh for the comfort of the godlie, and against the Caldeans.

f Signifying, that all the world shal with the destruction of tyrants, and that by their oppression, & conetousnes they heape but vpon them felices more heauie burdens: for the more they get, the more are they troubled.

g That is, the Medes and Persians, that should destroye the Babylonians.

h Signifying, that the conetous man is the ruine of his owne house, when as he thinketh to enriche it by crueltie and oppression. i The stones shal crye, and say that they are buylt of blood, and the wood shal answer and say the same of it self. k Meaning, that God wil not deferre his vengeance long, but wil come, and destroye all their labours, as though they were consumed with fyre. l In the destruction of the Babylonians his glorie shal appere through all the world.

I Wil stand vpon my watche, and set me vpon the towre, and wil loke & see what he wolde say vnto me, & what I shal answer to him that rebuketh me.

And the Lord answered me, & said, Write the vision, and make it plaine vpon tables, that he may runne that readeth it.

For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the last it shal speake, & not lie: though it tary, waite: for it shal surely come, & shal not stay.

Beholde, he that lifteth vp him self, his minde is not vpright in him, but the iuste shal liue by his faith.

Yea, in dede the proude man is as he that transgresseth by wine: therefore shal he not endure, because he hath enlarged his desire as the hel, and is as death, and can not be satisfied, but gathereth vnto him all nacions, and heapeth vnto him all people.

Shal not all these take vp a parable against him, and a taunting prouerbe against him, and say, Ho, he that increaseth that which is not his: how long, and he that ladeth him self with thicke claye?

Shal they not rise vp suddenly, that shal bite thee, and awake, that shal stinne thee: and thou shalt be their pray?

Because thou hast spoiled manie nacions, all the remnant of the people shal spoile thee, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, & vnto all that dwell therein.

Ho, he that coueteth an euil conetousnes to his house, that he may set his nest on hie, to escape from the power of euil.

Thou hast consulted shame to thine owne house, by destroying manie people, and hast sinned against thine owne soule.

For the stone shal crye out of the wall, and the beame out of the timber shal answer it.

Wo vnto him that buyldeth a towne with blood, and erecteth a citie by iniquitie.

Beholde, is it not of the Lord of hostes that the people shal labour in the very fyre: the people shal euen weary them selves for very vanitie.

For the earth shal be filled with the knowledge of the glorie of the Lord, as the waters couer the sea.

Wo vnto him that giueth his neigboure to drinke: thou ioynest thine heate, & makest him drunken also, that thou maist see their priuities.

Thou art filled with shame for glorie: drinke thou also, and be made naked: the cuppe of the Lords right hand shal be turned vnto thee, and shameful spuing shal be for thy glorie.

For the crueltie of Lebanón shal couer thee: so shal the spoile of the beastes, which made them as a side, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, and vnto all that dwell therein.

What profiteth the image for the maker thereof hath made it an image, and a teacher of lies, though he that made it, trust therein, when he maketh dumme idoles.

Wo vnto him that faith to the wood, Awake, and to the dumme stone, Rise vp, it shal teache thee: beholde, it is laide ouer with golde and siluer, and there is no breath in it.

But the Lord is in his holie Temple: let all the earth kepe silence before him.

like crueltie shalbe executed against them. He sheweth that the Babylonians gods colde nothing auail them: for they were but blockes or stones, read Ierem 10. 8. If thou wilt consider what it is, and how that it hath nether breath nor life, but is a dead thing.

God commeth from Temán, and the holie one from mounte Parán, Sélah. His glorie couereth the heauens, & the earth is ful of his praise,

And his brightnes was as the light: he had hornes coming out of his hands, and there was the hiding of his power.

Before him went the pestilence, and burning coles went forth before his fete.

He stode and measured the earth: he behelde and dissolued the nacions and the euerlasting mountaines were broken, & the ancient hilles did bowe: his waies are euerlasting.

He reprooeth thus the King of Babylon, who as he was drunken with couetousnes and crueltye, so he promoued others to the same & inflamed them by his rage, & so in the end brought them to shame. n Where as y thoughtest to haue glorie of these thy doings, they shal turne to thy shame: for y shalt drinke of the same cup & others in thy turne. o Because the Babylonians were cruel not only against other nacions, but also against the people of God, which is ment by Lebanón, and the beastes therein, he sheweth that the

ZEPHANIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Seeing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was now no hope of amendement, he denounceth the great iudgement of God, which was at hand, shewing that their countrey shoulde be utterly destroyed, and they caried away captiues by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithful he prophesied of Gods vengeance against their enemies, as the Philistims, Moabites, Assyrians and others, to assure them that God had a continual care over them. And as the wicked shoulde be punished for their finnes and transgressions: so he exhorteth the godlie to patience, and to trust to finde mercie by reason of the fre promises of God made vnto Abraham: and therefore quietly to abyde til God shewe them the effect of that grace, whereby in the end they shoulde be gathered vnto him, and counted as his people and children.

Kings children, and all such as are clo-

9 In the same day also wil I visit all those that dance vpon the thresholde so proud-

10 And in that day, saith the Lord, there shal-be a noyse, and crye from the fish gate, & an howling from the seconde gate, & a great destruction from the hillies.

11 Howe ye inhabitants of the lowe pla-

12 And at that time wil I searche Ierusa-

13 Therefore their goods shalbe spoiled, shal plant vineyardes, but not drinke the wine thereof.

14 The great day of the Lord is nere: it is nere, and hasteth greatly, euen the voyce of the day of the Lord: the strong man shal crye there bitterly.

15 That day is a day of wrath, a day of troudesolation, a day of obscuritie and darkenes, a day of cloudes & blackenes,

16 A day of the trumpet and alarime against the strong cities, & against the high towres.

17 And I wil bring distress vpon men, that they shal walke like blinde men, because they haue sinned against the Lord, and their blood shalbe powred out as dust, and their flesh as the dongue.

come vpon you.

3 Seke ye the Lord all the meke of the earth, which haue wrought his iudgement: seke righteousnes, seke lowlines, if so be that ye may be hid in the day of the Lords wrath.

4 For Azzáh shalbe forsaken, and Ashkelon desolate: they shal drive out Ashdod at the none day, & Ekron shalbe rooted vp.

5 Wo vnto the inhabitants of the sea coast:
the nation of the Cherethims, the worde of the Lord is against you: ó Canaan, the land of the Philistims, I wil euen destroy thee without an inhabitant.

6 And the sea coast shalbe dwellings & co-rages for shepherdes and shepfoldes.

7 And the coast shalbe for the remnant of the house of Iudáh, to fede thereupon: in the houses of Ashkelon shal they lodge towards night: for the Lord their God shal visite them, & turne away their captiuitie.

8 I haue heard the reproche of Moab, and the rebukes of the children of Ammón, whereby they vbraided my people, and magnified themselves against their borders.

9 Therefore, as I liue, saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israél, surely Moab shal be as Sodom, and the children of Ammón as Gomorrah, euen the breeding of nettles and salt pittes, and a perpetual desolation:
the residue of my folke shal spoile them, & the remnant of my people shal possesse them.

10 This shal they haue for their pride, because they haue reproched and magnified the selues against the Lord of hostes people.

11 The Lord wil be terrible vnto them: for he wil consume all the gods of the earth, and euerie man shal worship him from his place, euen all the yles of the heathen.

12 Ye Moabites also shalbe slaine by my swor-de with them.

13 And he wil stretch out his hand against the North, and destroy Ashúr, and wil make Nineueh desolate, and waste like a wildernes.

14 And flockes shal lie in the middes of her, and all the beastes of the nations, and the pellicane, & the owle shal abide in the vp-per postes of it: the voyce of birdes shal sing in the windowes, and desolations shalbe vpon the postes: for the cedres are vncouered.

15 This is the reioycing citie that dwelt there is none besides me: how is she made waste, and the lodging of the beastes: eue-rie one that passeth by her, shal hiss and

THE ARGUMENT.

When the time of the seruentie yeres captiuitie prophesied by Ieremiāh, was expired, God raised vp Haggái, Zechariah and Malachi to comforte the Iewes and to exhorie them to the buylding of the Temple, which was a figure of the spiritual Temple and Church of God, whose perfection and excellencie stod: in Christ. And because that all were giuen to their owne pleasures & commodities, he declareth that that plague of famine, which God sent then among them, was a iuste rewarde of their ingratitude, in that they contemned Gods honour, who had deliuered them. Yet he comforteth them, if they wil returne to the Lord, with the promises of greater felicitie, forasmuche as the Lord wil finish the worke that he hathe begonne, and send Christ whome he had promised, and by whome they shulde attaine to pursue ioy and glorie.

CHAP. I.

The time of the prophesie of Haggái. & An exhortaciō to buyld the Temple againe.

IN the secōde yere of King^a Darius, in the sixt moneth, the first day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord (by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggái) vnto^b Zerub-babél the sonne of Shealtiel, a prince of Iudáh, and to Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehoadák the hie Priest, saying,

Thus speaketh y^e Lord of hostes, saying,
This people say, The time is not yet come,
c that the Lords House shulde be buylded.

Then came the worde of the Lord by the ministerie of y^e Prophet Haggái, saying,

Is it time for your selues to dwell in your^d filsd houses, & this House lie waste?

Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne waies in your hearts,

e Ye haue sowne muche, & bring in litle:
ye eat, but ye haue not ynough: ye drinke, but ye are not filled: ye clothe you, but ye be not warme: and he that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bagge.

Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne waies in your hearts.

Go^f vp to the mountaine, & bring wood, & buyldethis House, & I wil be fauorable in it, and I wil^h be glorified, saith the Lord.

Ye looked for muche, and lo, it came to litle: and when ye brought it home, I did blowⁱ vpon it. And why, saith the Lord of hostes? Because of mine House that is waste, and ye runne euery man vnto his owne house.

Therefore the heauen ouer you staied itself from dewe, and the earth staied her frute.

And I called for a drougt vpon the lād, and vpon the mountaines, and vpon the corne, and vpon the wine, and vpon the oyle, vpon all that the grounde bringeth forthe: bothe vpon men and vpon cattel, and vpon all the labour of the hands.

When Zerubbabél the sonne of Shealtiel, and Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehoadák the hie Priest with all the remnāt of the people, heard the^k voyce of the Lord their God, & the wordes of the Prophet Haggái (as the Lord their God had sent him)
then the people did feare before y^e Lord.

Then spake Haggái the Lords messenger in the Lords message vnto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord.

And the Lord stirred vp^l the spirit of Zerubbabél, the sonne of Shealtiel a prince of Iudáh, and the spirit of Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehoadák the hie Priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the worke in the House of the Lord of hostes their God.

CHAP. II.

He sheweth that the glorie of the seconde Temple shal en-coude the first.

IN the foure and twentieth daye of the sixt moneth, in the seconde yere of King Darius,

In the seuenth moneth, in the one & twentieth day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggái, saying,

Speake now to Zerubbabél the sonne of Shealtiel prince of Iudáh, & to Iehoshúa the sonne of Iehoadák the hie Priest, & to the residue of the people, saying,

Who is left among you, that sawe this a House in her first glorie, & how do you se it now? Is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it as nothing?

Yet now be of good courage, o Zerubba-bél, saith the Lord, and be of good comfort, o Iehoshúa, sonne of Iehoadák the hie Priest: and be strong, all ye people of the land; saith the Lord, and^b do it: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hostes,

According to the worde that I couenanted with you, when ye came out of Egypt:
so my Spirit shal remaine among you,
feare ye not.

For thus saith the Lord of hostes, c Yet a litle while, and I wil shake the heauens and the earth, and the sea, and the drye
land:

And I wil moue all nacions, and^d the defire of all nacions shal come, and I wil fil this House with glorie, saith the Lord of hostes.

The^e siluer is mine, and the golde is mine,
saith the Lord of hostes.

The glorie of this last House shal be greater then the first, saith the Lord of hostes:
and in this place wil I giue^f peace, saith the Lord of hostes.

g In the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, in the seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto y^e Prophet Haggái, saying,

Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Aske now the Priests concerning the Law, and say,

If one beare^h a holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skut do touche the bread, or the potage, or the wine, or oyle, or any meat, shal it be holy? And the Priests answered and said, No.

Thē said Haggái, If a polluted persone touche any of these, shal it be vnclane?
And the Priests answered, & said, It shal be vnclane.

Then answered Haggái, and said, So

cious things,

is this people, and so is this nacion before me, faith the Lord: and so are all the workes of their hands, and that which they offer here, is vncleane.

h Consider how God did plague you with famine afore you began to buyde the Temple. That is, before the building was begun.

16 And now, I pray you, consider in your mindes: from this day, and afore, euen afore a stone was laid vpon a stone in the Temple of the Lord:

17 Before these things were, when one came to an heape of twentie measures, there were but ten: when one came to the wine presse for to drawe out fiftie vessels out of the presse, there were but twentie.

18 I smote you with blasting, and with mildewe, and with haile, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to me, faith the Lord.

h From the time they began to buyde the Temple, he promitteth God wolde blise them: & albeit as yet the frute was not come forth, yet in the gathering they shulde haue plenty.

19 Consider, I pray you, in your mindes from this day, and afore from the foure and twetieth day of the ninth moneth, euen from the day that the fundacion of the Lords Temple was laid: consider it in your mindes.

20 Is the seed yet in the barne? as yet the vines, and the figre, & the pome grante, and the oliue tre hath not brought forth: from this day wil I blisse you.

h He exhorteth them to patience and to abide til the baruch came and then they shulde see Gods blessings.

21 And againe the worde of the Lord came vnto Haggái in the foure & twentieth day of the moneth, saying,

22 Speake to Zerubbabél the prince of Iudáh, and say, I wil shake the heauens and the earth, m I will make a change and renue all things in Christ, of whome Zerubbabél here is a figure. Hereby he sheweth that there shalbe no let or hinderance when God will make this wonderful restitution of his Church. Signifying that his dignitie shulde be most excellent, which thing was accomplished in Christ.

23 And I wil ouerthrowe the throne of kingdomes, and I wil destroy the strength of the kingdomes of the heathen, & I wil ouerthrowe the charrets, & those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shal come downe, euerie one by the sworde of his brother.

24 In that day, faith the Lord of hostes, wil I take thee, o Zerubbabél my seruant, the sonne of Shealtiel, faith the Lord, & wil make thee as a signet: for I haue chosen thee, faith the Lord of hostes.

T H E A R G U M E N T.

Two moneths after that Haggái had begonne to prophesie, Zechariáh was also sent of the Lord to helpe him in the labour, and to confirme the same doctrine. First therefore he putteth them in remembrance, for what cause God had so sore punished their fathers: and yet comforteth the, if they wil repent vnfeignedly, & not abuse this great benefite of God in their deliuerance, which is a figure of that true deliuerance, that all the faithful shulde haue from death and sinne by Christ. But because they stil remained in their wickednes and coldenes to see the Gods glorie, & were not yet made better by their long banishment, he rebuketh the moste sharply: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he euer mixeth the promes of grace, that they might by this meanes be prepared to receiue Christ, in whome all shulde be sanctified to the Lord.

C H A P. I.

h He exhorteth the people to returne to the Lord, & to eschewe the wickednes of their fathers. h He signifieth the restitution of Ierusalem and the Temple.

a Who was the sonne of Hysaiis. b This was not Zechariáh, whereof is mention 2 Chron 24, 20, but had the same name, & is called the sonne of Berechiah, as he was, because he came of those progenitors, as of Ioiada or Berechiah and Iddo. c He speaketh this to feare the with Gods iudgements, they shulde not prouoke him as their fathers had done, whome he so grievously punished. d Let your frutes declare, if you are Gods people & that he hath wrought in you by his Spirit & mortified you: for els mā hath no power to returne to God, but God must conuert him, as Ier 31, 18 Iam 5, 25 2/6 21, 8, & 31, 6 & 45, 21 Ier 31, 12 & 44, 12, 30, 6/14, 2, 20, 12.

IN the eight moneth of the seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto Zechariáh the sonne of Berechiah, the prophet, saying,

The Lord hath bene sore displeased with your fathers.

Therefore say thou vnto the, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Turne ye vnto me, faith the Lord of hostes, & I wil turne vnto you, faith the Lord of hostes.

Be ye not as your fathers, vnto whome former Prophets haue cryed, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Turne you now from your euil wayes, & from your wicked workes: but they wolde not heare, nor hearken vnto me, faith the Lord.

Your fathers, where are they? and do the Prophetes liue for euer?

e Though your fathers be dead, yet Gods iudgements in punishing the ought stil to be before your eyes: & though the Prophetes be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for euer, 2 Pet. 1, 19.

But did not my wordes and my statutes, which I commanded by my seruants the Prophetes, take holde of your fathers? & they returned, & said, As the Lord of hostes hath determined to do vnto vs, according to our owne wayes, & according to our workes, so hath he delt with vs.

Vpon the foure and twentieth day of the eleueth moneth, which is the moneth Shebat, in the seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lord vnto Zechariáh the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo the Prophet, saying,

I sawe by night, and beholde a man riding

As men astonished with my iudgements, and not that they were touched with true repentance. h Which containeth parte of Ianuarie and parte of Februarie. This vision signifieth the restitution of the Church, but as yet it shulde not appeare to mans eyes, which is here ment by the night, by the bottomes & by the mirre trees, which are blacke and giue a darke shadowe: yet he compareth God to a King, who hath his postes and messengers abroad, by whome he stil worketh his purpose and bringeth his matters to passe. k Who was the chief among the rest of the horie men.

5 And I said, Let them set a faire diademe vpon his head. So they set a faire diademe vpon his head, and clothed him with garments, & the Angel of y Lord stood by.

6 And the Angel of the Lord testified vnto Iehoshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, If thou wilt walke in my waies, and kepe my watche, thou shalt also iudge mine House, & shalt also kepe my courtes, and I will giue thee place among these that stand by.

7 Who art thou, ó great mountaine, before Zerubbabél: thou shalt be a plaine, & he shall bring forth the head stone thereof, w showings, crying, Grace, grace vnto it.

4 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, There shal yet olde men and olde women dwell in the stretes of Ierusalém, and euerie man with his staffe in his hand for very age.

5 And the stictes of the citie shalbe ful of boyes and girles, playing in the stretes thereof.

6 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Though it be vnpossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these dayes, shulde it therefore be vnpossible in my sight, saith the Lord of hostes.

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Beholde, I wil deliuer my people from the East countrey, and from the West countrey.

8 And I wil bring them, & they shal dwell in the middes of Ierusalém, and they shal be my people, and I wil be their God in trueth and in righteousness.

9 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Let your hands be strong, ye that heare in these dayes these wordes by the mouth of the Prophetes, which were in the day, that the fundacion of the House of the Lord of hostes was laide, that the Temple might be buylded.

10 For before these dayes there was no hier for a man nor anie hier for a beast, nether was there anie peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men, euerie one against his neighbour.

11 But now, I wil not intreate the residue of this people as afore time, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 For the sede shalbe prosperous: the vine shal giue her frute, and the ground shal giue her increase & the heauen shal giue their dewe, & I wil cause the remnant of this people to possesse all these things.

13 And it shal come to passe, that as ye were a curse among the heathen, o house of Iudáh, and house of Israel, so wil I deliuer you, & ye shalbe a blessing: feare not, but let your hands be strong.

14 For thus saith the Lord of hostes, As I thought to punish you: when your fathers prouoked me vnto wrath, saith the Lord of hostes, and repented not,

15 So againe haue I determined in these dayes to do wel vnto Ierusalém, and to the house of Iudáh: feare ye not.

16 These are the things that ye shal do. Speake ye euerie man the trueth vnto his neighbour: execute iudgement truly and vprihtly in your gates.

f Let nether respect of your priuate comodities, nether counsel of others, nor feare of enemies discourage you in the going forward with the buylding of the Temple, but be constant & obey the Prophetes, & encourage you thereto.

17 And let none of you imagine euil in your hearts against his neighbour, & loue no false othe: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

18 And the worde of the Lord of hostes came vnto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The fast of the fourth moneth, and the fast of the fift, and the fast of the seuenth, and the fast of the tenth, shal be to the house of Iudáh ioye and gladnes, and prosperous hie feastes: therefore loue the trueth and peace.

20 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, That there shal yet come ¹ people, and the inhabitants of great cities.

21 And they that dwell in one citie, shal go to another, saying, Vp, let vs go and pray before the Lord, and seke the Lord of hostes: I wil go also.

22 Yea, great people and mightie nations shal come to seke the Lord of hostes in Ierusalém, and to pray before the Lord.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, In those dayes shal ten men take holde out of all langages of the nations, euen take holde of the skirt of him that is a Iewe, & say, We wil go with you: for we haue heard, that God is with you.

For I wil gather all natiōs against Ierusalēm to battel, and the citie shal be taken, & the houses spoyled, and the women defiled, & half of the citie shal go into captiuitie, & the residue of the people shal not be cut of from the citie.

Then shal the Lord go forth, and fight against those naciōs, as when ^b he fought in the day of battel.

And his fete shal stand in that day vpon the ^c mount of oliues, which is before Ierusalēm on the East side, and the mount of oliues shal cleaue in the middes thereof: toward the East & toward the West there shal be a very great ^d valley, & halfe of the mountaine shal remoue toward the North, and halfe of the mountaine toward the South.

And ye shal flee vnto the ^e valley of the mountaines: for the valley of the mountaines shal reache vnto Azál: yea, ye shal flee like as ye fled from the ^f earthquake in the dayes of Vzzáh King of Iudáh: and the Lord is my God shal come & all the Saints with thee.

And in that day shal there be no cleare light, but darke.

And there shal be a day (it is known to ^g Lord) ^h neither day nor night, but about the euening time it shal be light.

And in that day shal there be waters of life go out from Ierusalēm, halfe of the toward the East sea, & halfe of them toward the vttermoſt sea, & shal be, bothe in sommer and winter.

And the Lord shal be King ouer all the earth: in that day shal there be one ^k Lord, and his Name shal be one.

All the land shal be turned ^l as a plaine: for Géba to Rimmón, toward the South of Ierusalēm, and it shal be lifted vp, & inhabited in her place: from Beniamins gate

^a He armeth the godlie against the great tentaciōs, that shulde come, before they enjoyed this prosperous estate promised vnder Christi, that when these dangers shulde come, they might knowe that they were warned of them afore

^b As your fathers, and you haue had experience bothe at the red Sea and at all other times

^c By this manner of speache the Prophet sheweth Gods power, and care ouer his Church, and how he wil as it were by miracle saue it

^d So that out of all the partes of the worlde they shal see Ierusalēm, as before hid wth this mountaine: and thus he meaneth of the spiritual Ierusalēm & Church.

^e He speaketh of the hypocrites, which coulde not abide Gods presence, but shulde flee into all places where they might hide them among the mountaines

^f Read Amos, 1.1

^g Because they did not credit the Prophetes wordes, he turneth to God, and comforteth him self in ^h that he knewe ⁱ these things shulde come, & saith, Thou, o God, with thine Angels wilt come to performe this great thing

^h Signifying, that there shulde be great troubles in the Church, and that the time hereof is in the Lords hands, yet at length (which is here ment by the euening) God wolde send comfort.

ⁱ That is, the spiritual graces of God, which shulde euer continue in moſte abundance

^k All idolatrie and superstition shal be abolished, and there shal be one God, one faith, and one religion

^l This newe Ierusalēm shal be sene through all the worlde & shal excell the first in excellencie, wealth and greatnes.

te vnto the place of the first gate, vnto the corner gate, and from the towre of Hananiél, vnto the Kings wine presses.

And men shal dwell in it, and there shal be no more destruction, but Ierusalēm shal be safely inhabited.

And this shal be the plague, wherewith the Lord wil smite all people, that haue fought against Ierusalēm: their flesh shal consume away, though they stand vpon their fete, and their eyes shal consume in their holes, & their tongue shal consume in their mouth.

But in that day ^m a great tumult of the Lord shal be among them, and euerie one shal take ⁿ the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shal rise vp against the hand of his neighbour.

And Iudáh shal fight also against Ierusalēm, and the arme of all the heathen shal be gathered round about, with ^o golde and siluer, and great abundance of apparel.

Yet this shal be the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camel and of the asse and of all the beasts that be in these tentes as this ^p plague.

But it shal come to passe that euerie one that is left of all the naciōs, which came against Ierusalēm, shal go vp from yere to yere to worship the King the Lord of hostes, and to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.

And who so wil not come vp of all the families of the earth vnto Ierusalēm to worship the King the Lord of hostes, euen vpon them shal come no raine.

And if the familie of ^q Egypt go not vp, and come not, it shal not ^r raine vpon them. This shal be the plague wherewith ^s Lord wil smite all the heathen, that come not vp to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.

This shal be the punishment of Egypt, & the punishment of all the naciōs that come not vp to kepe the feast of Tabernacles.

In that day shal there be ^t written vpon the ^u bridels of ^v horses, The holines vnto the Lord, and the ^w pottes in the Lords House shal be like the bowles before the altar.

Yea, euerie pot in Ierusalēm and Iudáh shal be holie vnto the Lord of hostes, and all they that sacrifice, shal come and take of them and seeth therein: and in that day there shal be no more the ^x Canaanite in the House of the Lord of hostes.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Trophet was one of the thre, which God raised vp for the comfort of his Church after the captiuitie, and after him there was no more until Iohn Baptist was sent, which was eies a token of Gods wrath, or an admonition that they shulde with more feruent desires loke for the comming of Messiah. He confirmeth the same doctrine, that the two former do, but chiefly he reproveth the Priests for their couetousnes, and for that they serued God after their owne fantasies, and not according to the prescript of his worde. He also noteth certain peculiar sinnes, which were then among them, as marrying of idolatrous and manie wnes, murmurings against God, impatience, and such like. Notwithstanding for the comfort of the goodlie he declared that God wolde not forget his promes made vnto their fathers, but wolde send Christ his messenger, in whome the covenant shulde be accomplished, whose comming shulde be terrible to the wicked, and bring all consolation and ioye vnto the goodlie.

CHAP. I.

A complaint against Israel and chiefly the Priests.

Read Isa. 1.

IHE burde of the worde of y Lord to Israel by y ministerie of Malachi.

I haue loued you, saith the Lord: yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loued vs? Was not Esau Iakobs brother, saith y Lord: yet I loued Iakob,

And I hated Esau, and made his mountaines waste, and his heritage a wilderness for dragons.

Thogh Edom say, We are impouerished, but we wil retorne and buyld the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hostes, they shal buyld, but I wil destroye it, and they shal call them, The border of wickednes, and the people, with whome the Lord is angrie for euer.

And your eyes shal se it, and ye shal say, The Lord wil be magnified vpon the border of Israel.

A sonne honoreth his father, and a seruant his master. If then I be a father, where is mine honour? & if I be a master, where is my feare, saith the Lord of hostes vnto you, O Priests, that despise my Name? and ye say, Wherein haue we despised thy Name?

Ye offer vncleane bread vpon mine altar, & you say, Wherein haue we polluted thee? In that ye say the table of the Lord is not to be regarded.

And if ye offer the blinde for sacrifice, it is not euil: and if ye offer the lame and sicke, it is not euil: offer it now vnto thy prince: wil he be content w thee, or accept thy persone, saith the Lord of hostes?

And now, I pray you, pray before God, that he may haue mercie vpon vs: this hathe bene by your meanes: wil he regarde your persones, saith the Lord of hostes?

Who is there euen among you, that wolde shut the dores, and kinde not fire on mine altar in vaine, I haue no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hostes, neither wil I accept an offering at your hand.

For from the rising of the sunne vnto the going downe of the same, my Name is great among the Gentiles, and in euerie place incense shalbe offered vnto my Name, and a pure offering. for my Name is great among the heathen, saith the Lord of hostes.

But ye haue polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is polluted, and the frute thereof, euen his meat is not to be regarded.

Ye said also, Beholde, it is a wearines, and ye haue snuffed at it, saith the Lord of hostes, and ye offered that which was torne & the lame and the sicke: thus ye offered an offering: shulde I accept this of your hand, saith the Lord?

But cursed be the deceiuer, which hathe in his flocke a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth vnto y Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great King, saith the Lord of hostes, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

vice of God, which shulde be vnder the Gospel, when an end shulde be made to all these legal ceremonies by Christs onely sacrifice. n Bothe y Priests and y people were infected w this error, y they passed not what was offered: for they thought y God was aswell content w the leane as with the fat: but in the meane season they shewed not that obedience to God, which he required, & so committed bothe impietie, and also shewed their contempt of God & couetousnes. o The Priests & people were bothe weary with seruing God, & passed not what manner of sacrifice & seruice they gaue to God, for that it was least profitable, was thought good ynough for the Lord. p That is, hathe babylite to serue the Lord according to his worde, and yet wil serue him according to his couetous miade.

CHAP. II.

Threatenings against the Priests being seducers of the people.

And now, O ye Priests, this commandement is for you.

i He derideth y Priests who bare y people in had, y they praised for the, & sheweth y they were the occasion, that these euils came vpon the people.

k Will God consider your office and state, seeing you are so couetous, & wicked?

l Because the Leuites who kept y dores, did not trye whether y sacrifices that came in, were according to the Law, God wished, that thei wolde rather shut the dores then to receive such as were not perfect.

m God sheweth, y their ingratitude, and neglect of his true seruice shalbe y cause of the calling of the Gentiles: & here y Prophet that was vnder the Law framed his wordes to the capacite of y people, and by the altar, and sacrifice he meaneth the spiritual seruice.

n He speaketh vnto the chiefly, but vnder them he containeth the people also.

b Which declareth their great ingratitude that did not acknowledge this loue, which was so euident in that he chose Abraham from out of all y worlde, and next chose Iakob the younger brother of whome they came and left Esau the elder.

c For besides that the signes of mine hatred appeared euen when he was made seruant vnto his younger brother, being yet in his mothers belly, and also afterward in y he was put fro his birthright, yet euen now before your eyes the signes hereof are euident, in that y his countrey lieth waste, & he shal neuer retorne to inhabit it, where as ye my people whome y enemie hated more then the are by my grace and loue rewardede, you delivered, read Rom 9.13.

d Besides the rest of the people he condemneth y Priests chiefly because they shulde haue reprovued others for their hypocritie, & obstinacie against God, & not haue hardened them by their example to greater euils. e He noteth their grosse hypocritie, w wolde not se their fautes, but moke impudently couered them, & so were blinde guides. f Ye receiue all manner offerings for your owne greedines, and do not examine whether they be according to my Law or no. g Not that they said thus, but by their doings they declared no lesse. h You make it no faute: whereby he condemneth the, y thinke it sufficient to serue God partly, as he hathe commanded, & partly after mas fantasie, and so come not to that purenes of religion, which he requireth, & therefore in reproche he sheweth the, y a mortal man wolde not be content to be so serued.

b To ſerue me according to my worſhip
c That is, the abundance of Gods benedictions
d Your ſeed ſowen ſhal come to no profiſe
e You boaſt of your holines, ſacrifices and feaſtes, but they ſhal turne to your ſhame, and be as vile as dongue

f The Priests objected againſt the Prophet that he coulde not reprove the, but he muſt ſpeake againſt ſuch pride, and the office eſtabliſhed of God by promes, but he ſheweth, that the office is nothing ſclādered, when theſe vilenes, & dongue are called by their owne names
g He ſheweth what were the two conditions of the couenāt made with the tribe of Leui, on Gods parte, that he wolde giue the long life & felicitie, and on their parte, ſ they ſhulde faithfully ſerue him according to his worde

h I preſcribed Ieui a certaine Law to ſerue me.
i He ſerued me & ſet forth the my glorie with all humilitie and ſubmiſſion k He ſheweth that the Priests ought to haue knowledge to inſtruct other in the worde of the Lord
l He is as the treaſure houſe of Gods worde and ought to giue to euery one according to their neceſſitie, and not to reſerue it for him ſelf
m Shewing, that whoſeuer doeth not declare Gods wil, is not his meſſenger, and Priests

n The Prophet accuſeth the ingratitude of the Iewes toward God and man: for ſeing they were all borne of one father Abraham, and God had elected them to be his holie people, they ought neither to offend God nor their brethren.
o Whereby they had bounde them ſelues to God to be an holie people p They haue toynd them ſelues in marriage with them that are of another religion
q That is, the Priests
r Ye cauſe the people to lament, becauſe that God doth not reſpect their ſacrifices, ſo that they ſeme to ſacrifice in vaine
s This is another fault, whereof he accuſeth them, that is, that they brake the lawes of marriage

1 If ye wil not heare it; nor conſider it in your heart to giue glorie vnto my Name, ſaith ſ Lord of hoſtes, I wil ſend a curſe vpon you, and wil curſe your bleſſings: yea, I haue curſed them already becauſe ye do not conſider it in your heart.
2 Beholde, I wil corrupt your ſeed, & caſt dōgue vpon your faces, euen the dōgue of your ſolemne feaſtes, and you ſhal be like vnto it.

3 And ye ſhal knowe, that I haue ſent this commandement vnto you, that my couenant, which I made with Leui, might ſtād, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes.

4 My ſ couenant was with him of life and peace, and I haue gaue him feare, & he feared me, and was aſtraide before my Name.

5 The law of truth was in his mouth, & there was no iniquitie ſoude in his lippe: he walked with me in peace and equitie, and did turne manie away from iniquitie.

6 For the Priests lippe ſhulde preſerue knowledge, and they ſhulde ſeke the lawe at his mouth: for he is the meſſenger of the Lord of hoſtes.

7 But ye are gone out of the way: ye haue cauſed manie to fall by the Law: ye haue broke the couenāt of Leui, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes.

8 Therefore haue I alſo made you to be deſpiſed, and vile before all the people, becauſe ye kept not my wayes, but haue bene parcial in the Law.

9 Haue we not all one father? haue we not one God made vs? why do we tranſgreſſe euery one againſt his brother, and breake the couenant of our fathers?

10 Iudāh hath tranſgreſſed, and an abomination is committed in Iſraēl and in Ieruſalēm: for Iudāh hath deſiled the holines of the Lord, which he loued, and hath married the daughter of a ſtrange god.

11 The Lord wil cut of the man that doeth this: bothe the maſter and the ſeruāt out of the tabernacle of Iakōb, and him that offereth an offering vnto the Lord of hoſtes.

12 And this haue ye done againe, and couered the altar of ſ Lord with teares, with weeping and with mourning: becauſe the offering is no more regarded, neither receiued acceptably at your hands.

13 Yet ye ſay, Wherein? Becauſe the Lord hath bene witneſſe betwene thee and thy wife of thy youth, againſt whome thou haſt tranſgreſſed: yet is ſhe thy companion, and the wife of thy couenant.

14 And did not he make one? yet had he abundance of ſpirit: and wherefore one? becauſe he ſought a godlie ſeed: therefore kepe your ſelues in your ſpirit, and let none treſpaſſe againſt the wife of his youth.

15 If thou hateſt her, put her away, ſaith the Lord God of Iſraēl, yet he couereth the iniurie vnder his garment, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes: therefore kepe your ſelues in your ſpirit, and tranſgreſſe not.

16 Ye haue wearied the Lord with your wordes: yet ye ſay, Wherein haue we wearied him? Whē ye ſay, Euerie one doeth euil, is good in the ſight of the Lord, and he deliteth in them. Or where is the God of iudgement?

b Not that he doeth allowe diuorcement, but of the two fautes he ſheweth, which is the leſſe
c He thinketh it ſufficient to kepe his wife ſil, albeit he take others, and ſo as it were couereth his faulte.
d Ye murmured againſt God, becauſe he heard not you aſſone as you called e In thinking that God ſauored the wicked, and hath no reſpect to them that ſerue him, f Thus they blaſphemed God in condemning his power and iuſtice, becauſe he iudged not according to their fantaſies

CHAP. III.

1 Of the meſſenger of the Lord, Iohn Baptiſt, and of Chriſts office.

1 Beholde, I wil ſend my meſſenger, & he ſhal prepare the way before me: & the Lord whome ye ſeke, ſhal ſpedely come to his Temple: euen the meſſenger of the couenant whome ye deſire: beholde, he ſhal come, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes.

2 But who may abide the day of his coming? and who ſhal endure, when he appeareth? for he is like a purging fyre, and like fullers ſope.

3 And he ſhal ſit downe to trye and fine the ſiluer: he ſhal euen fine the ſonnes of Leui, and purifie them as gold & ſiluer, that they may bring offerings vnto the Lord in righteouſnes.

4 Then ſhal the offerings of Iudāh and Ieruſalēm be acceptable vnto the Lord, as in olde time and in the yeres afore.

5 And I wil come neere to you to iudgement, and I wil be a ſwiſte witneſſe againſt the ſothſayers, and againſt the adulterers, and againſt falſe ſwearers, and againſt thoſe that wrongfully kepe backe the hirelings wages, and vex the widdowe, and the fatherleſſes, and oppreſſe the ſtranger, & feare not me, ſaith the Lord of hoſtes.

6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye ſonnes of Iakōb are not conſumed.

7 From the daies of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and haue not kept them: & returne vnto me, and I therefore he accuſeth them of ingratitude, and ſheweth that in that they are not daily conſumed, it is a token, that he doeth ſtil defend them: and ſo his mercie toward them neuer changeth. g Read Zechar 1, 3.

wil retuene vnto you, saith the Lord of hostes: but ye said, Wherein shal we retuene?

^h There are none of y^e heathen so barbarous, that wil defraude their gods of their honour, or deale deceitfully with them. ⁱ Whereby the seruice of God shulde haue bene mainteined, and the Priests, & the poore relieved. ^k Nor hauing respect how much ye neede, but I wil giue you in all abundance: so that ye shal lacke place to put my blessings in.

^l Meaning, the caterpillar, & whatsoever deuieth corne and frutes. ^m The Prophet condemneth them of double blasphemy against God: first in y^e they said that God had no respect to the y^e serued him, and next that y^e wicked were more in his fauour then the godlie.

ⁿ They are not onely preferred to honour, but also deliuered from dangers. ^o After these admonitions of the Prophet some were liuely touched, and encouraged others to feare God. ^p Both because the thing was strange, that some turned to God in that great and vniuersal corruption, and also that this might be an example of Gods mercies to all penitent sinners. ^q When I shal restore my Church according to my promises, they shalbe as mine owne propre goods. ^r That is, forgive their sinnes, and gouerne them with my Spirit.

¹³ Your wordes haue bene stout against me, saith the Lord: yet ye say, What haue we spoken against thee?

¹⁴ Ye haue said, It is inuaine to serue God: & what profite is it that we haue kept his commandment, and that we walked humbly before the Lord of hostes? ¹⁵ Therefore we couete the proude blessed: euen they that worke wickednes, are set vp, and they that tempte God, yea, they are deliuered.

¹⁷ And they shalbe to me, saith the Lord of hostes, in that day, that I shal do this, for a flocke, and I wil spare them, as a man spareth his owne sonne that serueth him. ¹⁸ Then shal you retuene, and discern betwene the righteous and wicked, betwene him that serueth God, and him that serueth him not.

CHAP. IIII.

The day of the Lord, before the which Eliab shulde come

^a For beholde, the day cometh that shal burne as an ouen, and all the proude, yea, and all that do wickedly, shal be stubble, & the day that cometh, shal burne them vp, saith the Lord of hostes, and shal leaue them, nether roote nor branche.

^b But vnto you that feare my Name, shal the Sunne of righteoufnes arise, and healt shalbe vnder his wings, and ye shal go forth, and growe vp as fat calves.

^c And ye shal treade downe the wicked: for they shalbe dust vnder the soles of your fete in the day that I shal do this, saith the Lord of hostes.

^d Remember the Lawe of Moses my seruauant, which I commanded vnto him in Horeb for all Israel with the statutes and iudgements.

^e Beholde, I wil send you Eliab the Prophet before the coming of the great and feareful day of the Lord.

^f And he shal turne the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with cursing.

^a He prophesieth of Gods iudgements against the wicked, who wolde not receiue Christ, when as God shulde send him for the restoration of his Church. ^b Meaning, Christ, who with his wings or beames of his grace shulde lighten, & comfort his Church. Ephe. 5, 14. and he is called the sunne of righteoufnes, because in him self he hath all perfection, and also the office of the father dwelleth in him: whereby he regenerateth vs into righteoufnes, cleanseth vs from the filth of this worlde, and reformeth vs to the image of God. ^c Ye shalbe set at libertie and increase in the ioye of the Spirit. 2. Cor. 3, 17. ^d Because the time was come that the Iewes shulde be desirous of Prophetes until the coming of Christ, because they shulde with more seruent munes desire his coming, the Prophet exhorteth them to exercise them selues diligently in studying the Lawe of Moses in y^e meane season, whereby they might continue in the true religion and also be armed against all tentations. ^e This Christ expoundeth of Iohn Baptist, Mat. 11, 13, who bothe for his zeale, & restoring of religion is aptly compared to Eliab. ^f Which as it is true for the wicked, so doeth it waken the godlie and call them to repentance. ^g He sheweth wherein Iohns office shulde stand: in the turning of men to God and ioyning the father & children in one vnion of faith: so that y^e father shal turne to that religion of his sonne which is conuerted to Christ, and the sonne shal embrace the faith of the true fathers. Abraham, Ishak and Iaakob. ^h The second point of his office was to denounce Gods iudgements against them that wolde not receiue Christ.

APOCRYPHA.

THE ARGUMENT.

THese booke that follow in order after the Prophetes vnto the Newe testament, are called Apocrypha, that is booke, which were not receiued by a comūne consent to be red and expounded publikely in the Church, nether yet serued to proue any point of Christian religion, saue in asmuch as they had the consent of the other Scriptures called Canonical to confirme the same, or rather whereon they were grounded: but as booke proceeding from godlie men, were receiued to be red for the aduancement and furtherance of the knowledge of the historie, & for the instruction of godlie maners: which booke declare that at all times God had an especial care of his Church and left them not utterly destitute of teachers and meanes to confirme them in the hope of the promised Messiah, and also witnessse that those calamities that God sent to his Church, were according to his prouidence, who had bothe so threatened by his Prophetes, and so broght it to passe for the destruction of their enemies, and for the tryal of his children.

Passeouer,

18 And offre sacrifices vpon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandement of King Iofias.

19 So the children of Israel, which were present at that time, kept the Passeouer and the feast of vnleauened bread seven daies.

20 And there was not suche a Passeouer kept in Israel since the time of Samuel the Prophet.

21 And all the Kings of Israel did not offre suche a Passeouer, as did Iofias, and the Priestes, and the Leuites, and the Iewes, and all Israel, which were founde to remaine in Ierusalem.

22 In the eghtenth yere of the reigne of Iofias was this Passeouer kept.

23 The workes of Iofias were vpriht before his Lord with a heart ful of godlines.

24 And concerning ſ things which came to passe in his time, they are written before, ¹⁰ wit, of those that sinned & did wickedly against the Lord aboue euerie nacion and kingdome, and grieved him with sensible things, so that the wordes of the Lord stode vp against Israel.

Or, by worshipping sensible creatures.

25 ¶ Now after all these actes of Iofias it came to passe that when Pharaos King of Egypt came to moue warre at Carchamis vpon Euphrates, Iofias went out against him.

26 But ſ King of Egypt sent to him, saying, What haue I to do with thee, o King of Iudea?

27 I am not sent of the Lord God against thee: but my warre is vpon Euphrates, and now the Lord is with me, and the Lord hasteneth me forward: departe from me, and be not against the Lord.

28 But Iofias wolde not turne backe his chariot fro him, but prepared him self to fight with him, not regarding the wordes of Ieremias the Prophet by the mouth of the Lord.

29 But he set him self in battel aray against him in the field of Megeddo, & the princes came downe to King Iofias.

30 And the King said to his seruants, Conuaye me out of the battel, for I am very weake. And by and by his seruants broght him out of the battel.

31 So he gate vp on his seconde chariot, and being come againe to Ierusalem he changed his life, and was buried in his fathers graue.

32 And in all Iudea was Iofias bewailed, yea, Ieremias the Prophet did lament for Iofias, and the gouernours and their wiues did lament him vnto this day: & this was ordeined in all the kindred of Israel to be done continually.

33 But these things are written in the boke of the stories of the Kings of Iudea, and euerie one of the actes ſ Iofias did, & his glorie, and his knowledge in the lawe of the Lord, and the things which he did before, and the things now relayed are registred in the boke of the Kings of Israel and Iudea.

34 Then they of the nacion toke * Ioachaz ^{2 King. 23. 31} the sonne of Iofias, and made him King ^{2. chro. 36. 1.} in steade of his father Iofias, when he was thre and twentie yere olde.

35 And he reigned in Iudea and in Ierusalem thre moneths: for the King of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Ierusalem.

36 He taxed also the people of an hundredth talents of siluer, & one talent of gold.

37 And the King of Egypt made Ioacim his brother King of Iudea & Ierusalem.

38 And he bounde Ioachaz and his gouernours: but when he had taken Zaraccs his brother, he led him away into Egypt.

39 Twentie and fise yere olde was Ioacim, when he reigned in Iudea and Ierusalem, and he did euil in the sight of the Lord.

40 Wherefore against him came vp Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, who when he had boude him with a chaine of brasie, led him away into Babylon.

41 Then Nabuchodonosor toke of the holie vessels of the Lord, & caryed rhe away, and set them in his temple at Babylon.

42 But all his actes, and his prophanation, and his reproche are written in the Chronicles of the Kings.

43 And Ioacim his sonne reigned for him: and when he was made King, he was eighdene yere olde.

44 And he reigned thre moneths and ten dayes in Ierusalem, and he did euil in the sight of the Lord.

45 ¶ So a yere after Nabuchodonosor sent and broght him to Babylon with the holie vessels of the Lord.

46 And he made Sedecias King of Iudea and Ierusalem when he was one and twentie yere olde, & he reigned eleuen yeres.

47 And he did euil in ſ sight of the Lord, nether did he feare the wordes spoken * by ^{Ier. 38. 21.} Ieremias the Prophet from the mouth of the Lord.

48 For after that he was sworne to King Nabuchodonosor, he forswore him self by the Name of the Lord and fel away, and hardened his necke and his heart, and transgressed the Lawes of the Lord God of Israel.

49 Also the gouerners of the people, and the Priestes committed many things against the lawes and passed all the pollutions of all nations, and polluted the Temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Ierusalem.

50 Neuertheles the God of their Fathers sent sent his messenger to call them backe, because he spared them and his owne Tabernacle.

51 But thei derided his messengers, and in the day, that the Lord spake vnto them, thei mocked his Prophetes, 52 So that he, being moued to angre against his people for their great wickednes, commanded the Kings of the Chaldeas to invade them.

53 These killed their yong men with the sworde roude about their holie Temple, nether did they spare yong man, nor maiden, nether olde man, nor childe among them.

54 But he deliuered the all into their hãds, and all the holy vessels of the Lord, bothe great & smale with the vessels of the Arke of God: and they toke, & caryed away the Kings treasures into Babylon.

55 And thei set fyre in the House of y Lord and brake downe the walles of Ierusalem and burnt their towres with fyre.

56 They consumed also all the precious things thereof, & broght them to noght, and those that were left by the sworde, he caryed away into Babylon.

57 And they were seruants to him, & to his children til the Persians reigned, to fulfil the worde of the Lord by the mouth of *Ieremias,

*Ierem 25. 12.
29. 10.*

58 And that the lãd might enioye her Sabbathes all the time, that it was desolate, til seuentie yeres were accomplished.

CHAP. II.

1 Cyrus gaue leaue to the Iewes to returne. 10 He sent the holy vessels 13 The names of them that returned. 16 Their aduersaries did let their buylding, and the Kings letters for the same.

*2 Chro. 36. 22
37. 1.*

IN the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus King of the Persians, to fulfil the worde of the Lord by the mouth of Ieremias,

2 The Lord raised vp the spirit of Cyrus King of the Persians, and he made proclamation through out all his kingdome, euen by expresse lettres,

3 Saying, Thus saith Cyrus King of the Persians, The Lord of Israel, euen the moste high Lord, hath made me King ouer the whole worlde,

4 And he hath commanded me to buylde him an House in Ierusalem, which is in Iudea.

5 If there be anie therefore of you of his people, let the Lord, euẽ his Lord be with him, & let him go vp to Ierusalem, which is in Iudea & buylde the House of y Lord of Israel: he is the Lord which dwelleth in Ierusalem.

6 All they then that dwell in the places rounde about, those, I say, that are in his place, let them helpe him with golde and siluer,

7 With giftes, with horses and cattel, and other things, which shalbe broght, according to the vowes into the Temple of the Lord, which is in Ierusalem.

8 ¶ Then arose the chief of the families of Iudea, and of the tribe of Beniamin, and the Priests & Leuites, & all whose minde the Lord had moued to go vp, and buylde an House to the Lord in Ierusalem.

9 And those that were about them, helped them in all things with siluer and golde, horses, and cattel, and with diuers vowes of many whose mindes were stirred vp.

10 Also King Cyrus broght out the holy vessels of the Lord, which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of Ierusalem, and had consecrated them in the Temple of his idoles.

11 Now when Cyrus King of the Persians had broght them out, he deliuered the to Mithridates his treasurer, 12 By whome they were giuen to Abassar the gouernour of Iudea.

Dr. Shafshazar, or Sanabsar.

13 Whereof this was the number: a thousand golden cuppes, and a thousand siluer cuppes, basens of siluer for the sacrifices, nine and twentie vials, of golde thirtie, and of siluer two thousand, foure hundred and ten, and a thousand other vessels.

14 So all the vessels of golde and siluer, which thei caryed away, were five thousand, foure hundred, thre score and nine.

15 They were broght by Sanabassar with them of the captiuitie of Babylon to Ierusalem.

16 ¶ But in the time of Artaxerxes King of the Persians Belemus, & Mithridates, and Tabellius, and Rathumus, and Beelrethmus, & Semellius the secretarie, & others which were ioyned to these, dwellig in Samaria and in other places, wrote vnto him this epistle here following against the, that dwelt in Iudea & Ierusalem, to the KING ARTAXERXES OVR LORD,

*Exra 4. 6.
vnto Bishtem-

vnto Shimsht-*

17 Thy seruants, Rathumus the writer of things that come to passe, and Semellius the secretarie, and the rest of their counsel, & the iudges which are in Coelosyria and Phenice.

18 Be it now therefore knowne to our lord the King, that the Iewes which came vp from you, are come to vs into Ierusalem, that rebellious and wicked citie, & buylde the marked places, and make vp the walles thereof, and laye the fundacions of the Temple.

19 Therefore if this citie be buylt, and the walles be finished, they wil not onely not indure to paye tribute, but wil also resist Kings.

20 And because the things, pertaining to the Temple, go forward, we thought it not Dddd.i.

- mete to passe ouer suche a thing,
- 21 But to declare it to our lord the King, that if it be thy pleasure, it may be sought out in the booke of thy fathers,
- 22 And thou shalt finde in the Chronicles the writings concerning these things, and shalt knowe that this citie did alwaies rebel, & did trouble bothe Kings and cities,
- 23 And that the Iewes are rebellious, raising alwaies warres therein: for the which cause also this citie was made desolate.
- 24 Now therefore, O lord the King, we declare it, that if this citie be buylt and the walles thereof repaired, you shall haue no more passage into Coelosyria, nor Phenice.
- 25 ¶ Then the King wrote againe to Rathumus, that wrote the things that came to passe, and to Beeltethmus, and to Samellius the secretarie, and to the rest of those that were ioyned with them, and to the dwellers of Samaria, Syria and Phenice, these things that followe.
- 26 I haue red the epistle, which ye sent to me: therefore I commanded, that it shulde be sought out, and it was founde, that this citie hath alwaies practised against Kings,
- 27 And that the men thereof were giuen to rebellion and warres, and how that mightie Kings and fierce haue reigned in Ierusalem, which toke tribute of Coelosyria and Phenice.
- 28 Now therefore I haue commanded to forbid these men to buylde vp the citie, and that it be taken hede that no more be done,
- 29 And that those wicked things, which shulde moleste the King, go not forwarde.
- 30 Then when Rathumus, & Semellius the secretarie and the rest, which were ioyned with them, had red the things, which King Artaxerxes had written, they moued their tents with speede to Ierusalem with horses and men in aray,
- 31 And began to let them which buylt, so that the buylding of the Temple in Ierusalem ceased vnto the seconde yere of the reigne of Darius King of the Persians.
- CHAP. III.
- 1 The feast of Darius 16 The thre wise sentences.
- 1 NOW when Darius reigned, he made a great feast to all his subiects & to all those of his owne house, and to all the princes of Media and Persia,
- 2 And to all the gouernours & captaines, and lieutenants that were with him, from India vnto Ethiopia of an hundred and seuen and twentie prouinces.
- 3 And when they had eaten and drunke, & were satisfied, they departed, and King Darius went into his chamber, and slept, til he wakened againe.
- 4 ¶ In the meane time thre yong men of the garde, keepers of the Kings bodie, said one to another.
- 5 Let euerie one of vs speake a sentence, & he that shall ouercome, and whose sentence shall appeare wiser then the others, Darius the King shall giue him great gifts, and great things in token of victorie,
- 6 As to weare purple & to drinke in golde, and to slepe in golde, and a chariot with bridles of golde, an head tyie of fine line, and a chaine about his necke.
- 7 And he shall sit next to Darius for his wisdom, and shall be called Darius counsellor.
- 8 Then euerie man wrote his sentence and sealed it, and put it vnder the pillowe of King Darius,
- 9 And said, when the King rose, they wolde giue him the writing, and whose sentence the King and the thre princes of Persia shulde iudge to be wisest, to him shulde the victorie be giuen, as it was appointed.
- 10 One wrote, The wine is strongest.
- 11 The other wrote, The King is strongest.
- 12 The other wrote, women are strongest, but trueth ouercometh all things.
- 13 ¶ And when the King rose, they toke the writings and gaue them to him, and he red them,
- 14 And sent and called all the noble men of Persia and of Media, and the gouernours & the captaines, and lieutenants, and the consuls;
- 15 And sate him downe in the counsel, and the writing was red before them.
- 16 Then he said, Call the yong men, that they may declare their owne sentences. So they called them, and they came in.
- 17 Then he said vnto them, Declare vnto vs the writings. So the first began, which had spoken of the strength of wine,
- 18 And said on this maner, O ye men, how strong is wine! it deceiueh all men that drinke it.
- 19 It maketh the minde of the King and of the fatherles bothe one, of the bonde man and of the fre man, of the poore man and of the riche man.
- 20 It turneth also euerie thought into ioye and gladnes, so that one remembreth no maner of sorow, nor det.
- 21 It maketh euerie heart riche, so that one remembreth nether King nor gouernour, & causeth to speake all things by talents. Or, p. m. d. e. e.*
- 22 When men haue drunk, they haue no minde to loue ether friends or brethren, and a litle after they drawe out swordes.
- 23 But when they are from the wine, they do not remember what they haue done.
- 24 O ye men, is not wine strongest, which compelleth pellet to do suche things ! & he helde his peace when he had thus spoken.

CHAP. IIII.

Of the strength of a King. 13 Of the strength of women. 34 Of the strength of trueth, which semēces is approued. 47 And his petition granted.

- 1 Then the seconde which had spokē of the strēgth of the King, began to say,
- 2 O ye men, are not men strongest, which beare rule by land and by sea, and ouer all things which are in them!
- 3 But the King is yet greater: for he ruleth all things, & is lord of them, so that they do all things which he commādeth them.
- 4 If he bid the make warre one against another, they do it: if he send them out against the enemies, they go and breake downe mountaines and walles and towres.
- 5 They kil & are killed, & do not passe the cōmandement of the King: if they ouercome, they bring all to the King, as wel the spoyle as all other things,
- 6 And those also which go not to warre & battel, but til the earth: for when they haue sowne it againe, thei reape it, & bring it to the King, and cōpell one another to paye tribute to the King.
- 7 Yet he is but one man: if he bid, Kil, they kil: if he sai, Spare, they spare.
- 8 If he bid, Smite, they smite: if he bid the, Make desolate, they make desolate: if he bid, Buylde, they buylde.
- 9 If he bid, Cut of, they cut of: if he bid, Plante, they plante.
- 10 So all his people & all his armies obey one mā: in the meane while he sitteth downe, he eateth, and drinketh and slepeth.
- 11 For these kepe him rounde about: nether can any one go & do his owne busines, nether are they disobedient vnto him.
- 12 O ye men, how shulde not the King be strongest, seing he is thus obied! So he helde his tongue.
- 13 ¶ Then the thirde which had spoken of women & of the trueth (this was Zorobabel) began to speake,
- 14 O ye men, nether the mightie King, nor many men nor wine is strongest: who then ruleth them or hath the dominion ouer the! are they not women!
- 15 Women haue borne the King & all the people which beare rule by sea & by land.
- 16 Euen of them were they borne, and they nourished them, which planted the vines, of which the wine is made.
- 17 They also make mens garments & make men honorable, nether can men be without women.
- 18 And if thei haue gathered together gold & siluer, or any goodlie thing, do they not loue a faire and beautiful woman!
- 19 Do they not leaue all those things & giue the selues wholly vnto her, & gaze, and

- gaze vpon her, & all men desire her more then gold, or siluer, or any precious thing!
- 20 A man leaueth his owne father which ha the nourished him, & his owne cōntrai, and is ioyned with his wife.
- 21 And for y woman he ieopardeth his life, and nether remembreth father nor mother nor cōuntry.
- 22 Therefore by this ye may knowe that y women beare rule ouer you: do ye not labour and trauail, and giue and bring all to the women?
- 23 Yea, a man taketh his sworde and goeth for the to kil & to steale, and to faile vpon the sea, and vpon riuers,
- 24 And he seeth a lion & goeth in darkenes, & when he hath stolten, rauished & spoiled, he bringeth it to his loue.
- 25 Wherefore a man loueth his owne wife more then father or mother.
- 26 Yea, many haue runne mad for women, and haue bene seruants for them.
- 27 Many also haue perished & haue erred and sinned for women.
- 28 Now therefore do you not beleue me: is not the King great in his power? do not all regions feare to touche him?
- 29 Yet I sawe him & Apame, the Kings concubine, the daughter of the famous Barmecus, sitting on the right hand of the King.
- 30 And she toke the crowne of the Kings head, & put it vpon her owne, and stroke the King with her left hand.
- 31 Yet in the meane season the King gaped and gazed on her: & if she laughed at him, he laughed: & if she were angrie with him, he did flatter her that he might be reconciled with her.
- 32 How then, o ye men, are not women more strong, seing they do thus?
- 33 ¶ Then the King and the princes looked one vpon another, and he began to speake of the trueth.
- 34 O ye men, are not women stronger? great is the earth, & the heauen is hie, and the sonne is swift in his course: for he turneth rounde about heauē in one day, & runneth againe into his owne place.
- 35 Is not he great that maketh these things? therefore the trueth is greater and strōger then all.
- 36 All the earth calleth for trueth, and the heauen blesteth it: and all things are shaken and tremble, nether is there any vnwill thing with it.
- 37 The wine is wicked, the King is wicked, women are wicked, & all the children of men are wicked, and all their wicked workes are suche, and there is no trueth in the, and they perish in their iniquitie.
- 38 But trueth doeth abide, and is strong for euer, and liueth and reigneth for euer and euer.

- 39 With her there is no receiuing of persons nor differēce; but she doeth ſuch things which are iuſte, & abſteineth from vniuſt & wicked things, and all men fauour her workes.
- 40 Nether is there any vniuſt thing in her iudgement, and ſhe is the ſtrength and the kingdome and the power, and maiestie of all ages. Blessed be the God of truth.
- 41 So he ceaſed to ſpeake, and then all the people cryed, & ſaid then, Truth is great and ſtrongeſt.
- 42 The King ſaid vnto him, Aſke what thou wilt beſides ſuch which is appoynted, & we wil giue it thee, becauſe thou art founde the wiſeſt, and thou ſhalt haue libertie to ſit by me, and ſhalt be called my couſin.
- 43 ¶ Then he ſaid to the King, Remembre the vowe that thou haſt vowed to buylde Ieruſalem, in the day that thou tokeſt the kingdome,
- 44 And to ſend againe all the veſſels which were taken out of Ieruſalem, which Cyrus ſet a parte when he made a vowe to cut of Babylon, & vowed to ſend them thither.
- 45 Thou alſo haſt vowed to buylde the Temple, which the Idumeans burnt when Iudea was deſtroied by the Chaldeans.
- 46 And now, O Lord the King, this is that which I deſire & require of thee, & this is the magnificence, which I require of thee: I require therefore that thou woldeſt accompliſh the vowe which thou haſt vowed with thine owne mouth to do to the King of heauen.
- 47 Then King Darius riſing vp, kiſſed him, & wrote him letters to all the ſtewards and lieutenants, and captaynes, and gouernours, that they ſhulde bring on ſuch waye both him, & all that were with him, which went vp to buylde Ieruſalem.
- 48 And he wrote letters to all the lieutenantes in Coeloſyria and Phenice, & to theſe that were in Libanus, that they ſhulde bring cedar wood from Libanus to Ieruſalem, and buylde the cite with him.
- 49 And he wrote for all the Iewes, which went vp out of his kingdome vnto Iudea, concerning their libertie, that no price, nor lieutenant, nor gouernour, nor ſteward ſhulde enter into their dores,
- 50 And that all the region which they kept, ſhulde paye no tribute, and that the Idumeans ſhulde let go the villages of the Iewes which they helde,
- 51 And that euerie yere there ſhulde be giuen for the buylding of the Temple twenty talents vntill it were buylt,
- 52 And to mainteine ſuch burnt offerings vpon the altar euerie day (as they had a commandement to offer ſeuenteene) other ten talents euerie yere.
- 53 And that all they which went from Babylon to buylde ſuch cite, ſhulde haue libertie, aſwel they as their poſteritie, and all the Priests that went away.
- 54 He wrote alſo touching the charges and the Priests garment, wherein they ſhulde miniſter.
- 55 And he wrote that they ſhulde giue the Leuites their charges vntill the Houſe were finiſhed, and Ieruſalem buylt.
- 56 Alſo he wrote that they ſhulde giue pensions & wages to them that kept the cite.
- 57 And he ſent away all the veſſels which Cyrus had ſet a parte out of Babylon, and whatſoeuer Cyrus had commanded to do, he alſo commanded to do it, and to ſend to Ieruſalem.
- 58 And when the young man was gone forth, ^{or, Zorobabel.} he liſt vp his face to heauen towards Ieruſalem, and gaue thanks to the King of heauen,
- 59 Saying, Of thee is the victorie, & of thee is wiſdome, & of thee is glorie, and I am thy ſeruant.
- 60 Blessed be thou which haſt giuen me wiſdome: for vnto thee I acknowledge it, O Lord of our fathers.
- 61 ¶ So he toke ſuch letters & went out & came to Babylon & telled all his brethren.
- 62 And they bleſſed ſuch God of their fathers, becauſe he had giuen theſe fredome & libertie
- 63 To go vp & to buylde Ieruſalem, & the Temple, where his Name is renoumed, & they reioyced with instruments of muſicke and ioye, ſeven daies.

Ezra 3.1.

46 And the Priests and the Leuites and the people dwelt in Ierusalem and in the countrei, & the holie singers & the porters and all Israel in their "villages.

47 ¶ But* when the seventh moneth was nere, and when the children of Israel were euerie one at home, they were all gathered together with one accorde into the open place of the first gate, which is toward the East.

48 Then Iesus the sonne of Iosedec and his brethren the Priests with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel & his brethren, rising vp, made ready y altar of the God of Israel, 49 To offie burnt offerings vpon it according as it is written in the booke of Moyfes the man of God.

50 Whither also there were gathered against them of all nacions of the land: but they dressed the altar in his owne place, although all the nacions of the land were their enemies and vexed them, and they offred sacrifices according to the season, and burnt offerings to the Lord, morning & euening.

Leui. 23.34.

51 They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is ordeined in the Law, & offred sacrifices euerie day, as was requisite, 52 And afterwarde, the continual oblations and offerings of the Sabbaths & of the new moneths & of all holy feasts.

Ezra 3.8.

53 ¶ And all* thei which had made any vowe to God, began to offie sacrifice vnto God in the first day of y seueth moneth, although the Temple of God was not yet buylt.

54 They gaue also money to the masons & to the workemen, and meat and drink e with gladnes, 55 And charrets to the Sidonians and to those of Tyrus to bring ceder wood out of Libanus, which shulde be brought by flots to the hauen of Ioppe according to the commandement giuen vnto them by Cyrus King of Persia.

56 And in the second yere and second moneth came into the Temple of God in Ierusalem, Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec, and their brethren, and the Priests & Leuites, and all they that came out of captiuitie into Ierusalem,

Eccles. 4.9.12

57 And *layed the fundacion of the House of God in the first day of the second moneth of the second yere after their returne into Iudea and Ierusalem.

58 And they appointed y Leuites frō twētie yere olde ouer the workes of the Lord, and Iesus & his sonne, & his brethren, & his brother Cadmiel, & the sonnes of Madiabon with the sonnes of Ioda, the sonne of He-liadun, with their sonnes, & brethren, euen all the Leuites with one accorde did followe after the worke, calling vpo the workes in the House of God: thus the workemen buylt the Temple of the Lord.

59 And the Priests stode clothed with their long garments with musical instruments & trumpets, and the Leuites the sonnes of Asaph with cymbales, 60 Singing & blessing y Lord, according to the ordinance of Dauid King of Israel.

61 And they sung with loud voice songs to the praise of the Lord, because his mercie and glorie is for euer in all Israel.

62 Then all the people blewe trumpets, and cryed with loud voice, praising y Lord for the raising vp of the House of the Lord.

63 Also some of the Priests & Leuites, and chief men, to wit, the Ancients, which had sene the former House,

64 Came to se the buyldig of this with weeping and great crying, & manie with trumpets and ioy cryed with loude voice, 65 So that the people coulde not heare the trumpets, because of the weeping of the people: yet there was a great multitude that blew trumpets so that they were heard far of.

66 ¶ Wherefore when the enemies of the tribes of Iuda & Benjamin heard it, they came to know what noise of trumpets it was,

67 And they knewe that they of the captiuitie buylt the Temple to the Lord God of Israel.

68 Wherefore they coming to Zorobabel, & Iesus, and the chief of the families, said vnto

- vnto them, Let vs buyld also with you.
- 69 For we obey your Lord, as you do, and sacrifice vnto him since the dayes of" As-bafareth King of the Assyrians, which brought vs hether.
- 70 Then Zorobabel, and Iesus, & the chief of the families of Israel said to them, It doeth not apperteine to vs, and to you to buyld an House to the Lord our God.
- 71 For we alone wil buyld it to the Lord God of Israel, as it becometh vs, & as* Cyrus the King of the Persians bad vs.
- 72 Howbeit the people of the land made them sluggish that were in Iudea, and letted them to buyld the worke, and by their ambushments and seditions & conspiracies hindred the finishing of the buyldig,
- 73 All the time of King Cyrus life: so that they were let from the buylding two yere, vntil the reigne of Darius.

CHAP. VI.

- 1 Of Aggeus and Zacharias. 2 The buylding of the Temple. 3 Sisinnes wolde let them. 7 His epistle to Darius. 13 The Kings answer to the contrary.*
- Ex 4.5.1. Neh. 1.* B Vt* in the second yere of the reigne of Darius, Aggeus & Zacharias the sonne of Addo y Prophetes prophecied to the Iewes, euen vnto them that were in Iudea and Ierusalem, in the Name of the Lord God of Israel, which they called vpon.
- Gre. vpon them.* 2 Then Zorobabel sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec stode vp, and began to buyld the House of the Lord, w^{ch} is in Ierusalem, the Prophetes of the Lord being with them, & helping them.
- 3 ¶ In that time Sisinnes the gouernour of Syria, and Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes with his companions came vnto them,
- 4 And said vnto them, By whose commandement buyld you this House & this buylding, and enterprise all these other things? and who are the buylders that enterprise suche things?
- 5 But the Ancients of the Iewes had grace of the Lord after that he had visited the captiuitie,
- 6 That they were not letted to buyld, vntil it was signified vnto Darius of these matters, and an answer was receiued.
- 7 ¶ The copie of the epistle, which he did write and send to Darius, S I S I N N E S gouernour of Syria and of Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes, and their companiōs, presidents in Syria and Phenice, salute King Darius.
- 8 It may please the King our master plainly to vnderstand, that when we came to the countrey of Iudea, and entred into the citie of Ierusalem, we found in the citie of Ierusalem the Ancients of the Iewes that were o^{ne} the captiuitie,

- 9 Buylding an House to the Lord, great & newe, of hewen stones, and of great price, and the timber all ready laid vpon the walles.
- 10 And these workes are done with great speede, yea, and the worke hath good successe in their hands, so that it wil be finished with all glorie & diligence.
- 11 Then we asked their Ancients, saying, By whose commandement buyld you this House & lay y^e fundacion of these workes?
- 12 We asked them these things to the intēt to notifie them to thee, and to write to thee the men that gouerned it: therefore we demāded the names of the gouernours in writing.
- 13 But they answered, saying, We are the seruants of the Lord, which hath created the heauen and the earth.
- 14 And this House was buylt vp manie yeres ago by a King of Israel great & strōg, and was finished.
- 15 But when our fathers, prouoking God to wrath, sinned against the Lord of Israel, which is in heauē,* he deliuered them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon of the Chaldeans,
- 16 Who brake downe the House & burnt it, & caryed the people captiue to Babylon.
- 17 But in the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus ouer the countrey of Babylon, King Cyrus wrote that this House shulde be buylt vp.
- 18 And y^e holie vessels of golde & of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of the House at Ierusalem, & had dedicated them in his owne Temple, Cyrus the King toke out of the Tēple at Babylon, & they were giuen to Zorobabel, and to Sa-nar, Shabazzar.
- 19 And a cōmandement was giue vnto him, y^e he shulde cary away those vessels, & put the in y^e Tēple at Ierusalē, & that this Tēple of y^e Lord shulde be buylt in this place.
- 20 The same Sanabassar, being come hether, layed the fundacions of the House of the Lord at Ierusalem, and since that time til now, it is in buylding, & is not finished.
- 21 Now therefore if it please the King, let it be soght vp in the Kings libraries concerning Cyrus.
- 22 And if it be found that the buylding of y^e House of the Lord at Ierusalem hath bene done by the cōsent of King Cyrus, & if it seme good to the lord our King, let him make vs answer cōcerning these things.
- 23 Then King Darius commanded to searche in the Kings libraries, that were in Babylon, and there was founde in Ecbarane, which is a towre in the region of Media, a place where suche things were layed vp for memorie.

- 24 In the first yere of the reigne of Cyrus, King Cyru. commadid the House of the Lord at Ierusalem to be buylded, where thei did sacrifice with the continual fyre.
- 25 Of the wth the height shulde be of threescore cubites, the breadth of threescore cubites with thre rowes of hewen stones, & one rowe of newe wood of that countrey, and that the colts shulde be payed out of the house of King Cyrus.
- 26 And that the holie vessels of the House of the Lord, aswel those of golde as of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had caryed out of the house in Ierusalem, and broght into Babylon, shulde be restored to the House, which is in Ierusalem, & set in the place where they were afore.
- 27 Also he commanded that Sisinnes, gouernour of Syria and Phenice, and Sathabouzanes, and their companions, and those which were constitute captaines in Syria and Phenice, shulde take hede to refraine from that place, and to suffer Zorobabel the seruant of the Lord, and gouernour of Iudea, and the Elders of the Iewes to buyld that House of the Lord in that place.
- 28 And I also haue commanded to buyld it cleane vp againe, and that they be diligent to helpe them of the captiuitie of the Iewes, til the House of the Lord be finished,
- 29 And that some parte of the tribute of Coelosyria and Phenice shulde be diligently giuen to these men for sacrifice vn to the Lord, and to Zorobabel the gouernour, for bulles, rams and lambes:
- 30 Also corne, & salte, and wine, and oile continually euerie yere without faile, as the Priests, which are in Ierusalem shal testifie to be spent euerie day,
- 31 That offings may be made to the high God for the King, and his children, & that they may pray for their liues.
- 32 Furthermore he commanded that whosoever shulde transgresse anie thing afore spoken or writen, or derogate anie thing thereof, that a tre shulde be taken out of his possession, and he be hanged thereon, and that his goods shulde be the Kings.
- 33 And therefore let the Lord whose Name is there called vpon, destroye euerie King and nation, which stretcheth out his had to hinder or do euil to that House of the Lord which is in Ierusalem.
- 34 *I Darius the King haue ordeined that it shulde be diligently executed, according to these things.
- 1 Then Sisinnes the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, and Sathabouzanes, & their companiōs, obeying King Darius commandements,
- 2 Assisted diligently the holie workes, working with the Ancients and gouernours of the Sanctuarie.
- 3 And the holie workes prospered by Ageus and Zacharias the Prophetes which prophecied.
- 4 So they finished all things by the commandement of the Lord God of Israel, and with the consent of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes Kings of the Persians.
- 5 Thus the holie House was finished in the thre and twentieth day of the moneth Adar in the sixt yere of Darius King of the Persians.
- 6 ¶ And the childrē of Israel, and y^e Priests and the Leuites, and the rest, which were of the captiuitie, & had anie charge, did according to the things writen in the boke of Moses.
- 7 And they offred for the dedication of the Temple of the Lord, an hundreth bulles, two hundreth rams, foure hundreth lambes,
- 8 And twelue goates for the sinne of all Israel, according to the number of the chief of the tribes of Israel.
- 9 And the Priests, and the Leuites stode according to their kinreds clothed with long robes in the workes of the Lord God of Israel, according to the boke of Moses, and also the porters in euerie gate.
- 10 And the children of Israel offred the Passeouer together with them of the captiuitie, in the fourtēth day of the first moneth, after that the Priests and Leuites were sanctified.
- 11 But all the children of the captiuitie were not sanctified together, but all the Leuites were sanctified together.
- 12 And they offred the Passeouer, for all the children of the captiuitie, and for their brethren the Priests, and for them selues.
- 13 Then all the children of Israel which were of the captiuitie did eat, euen all they that had separated them selues from the abominations of the people of the land, and sought the Lord.
- 14 And they kept the feast of vnleauened bread seuen dayes, reioying before the Lord,
- 15 Because he had turned the counsel of the King of the Assyrians towards them to strengthen their hands in the workes of the Lord God of Israel.

- 1 ANd after these things when Artaxerxes King of the Persians reigned, Eldras the sonne of " Saraïas, the sonne of Ezerias, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Salum,
- 2 The sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob, the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of " Ezias, the sonne of " Memeroth, the sonne of " Zariaas, the sonne of " Sauras, the sonne of Boccas, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aai on was the hie Priest.

- 3 This Esdras went out of Babylon, & was a scribe wel taught in the Law of Moyses, giuen by the Lord God of Israel.
- 4 Also the King gaue him great honour, & he founde grace in his sight in all his requistes.
- 5 With him also there departed some of the children of Israel, and of the Priests and Leuites, and of the holy singers, and of the porters, and of the ministers of the Temple vnto Ierusalem,
- 6 In the seuēth yere of the reigne of Artaxerxes, & in the fift moneth: this was the se-uēth yere of the King (for thei went out of Babylō in the first day of the first moneth,
- 7 And came to Ierusalem according as the Lord gaue them speed in their iournay)
- 8 For Esdras had gotten great knowledge, so that he wolde let nothig passe that was in the Law of the Lord, and in the cōmandements, and he taught all Israel all the ordinances and iudgements.
- 9 So the commissiō written by King Artaxerxes was giuen Esdras the Priest and reader of the Law of the Lord: the copie therof followeth.
- 10 King Artaxerxes to Esdras the Priest, & reader of the Law of the Lord, Salutaciō.
- 11 Forasmuche as I consider things with pitie, I haue commanded that they that wil and desire of the naciō of the Iewes, and of the Priests and Leuites, which are in our kingdome, shulde go with thee vnto Israel.
- 12 Therefore as many as be willing, let them departe together, as it hathe semed good to me and my seuen friends the counsellers,
- 13 That they may visite the things that are in Iudea and Ierusalem diligently, as it is contēned in the Law of the Lord,
- 14 And cary the gifts to the Lord of Israel in Ierusalem, which I and my friends haue vowed: also all the golde and siluer, which shal be founde in the countrey of Babylon appertēning to the Lord in Ieru-salem,
- 15 With that which is giuen of the people to the Temple of the Lord their God, that it might be broght to Ierusalem, af-wel siluer as golde, for bulles, and rams, & lambes, and things thereunto pertainēg,
- 16 That they may offer sacrifices to the Lord vpon the altar of the Lord their God, which is in Ierusalem.
- 17 And whatsoeuer thou and thy brethren wil do with the golde or siluer, accōplish it according to the wil of thy God.
- 18 And the holy vessels of the Lord, which are giuen thee for the vse of the Temple of thy God, which is in Ierusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Ierusalem.
- 19 And what other things soeuer thou shalt remember for the vse of the Temple of thy God, thou shalt giue it out of y Kings treasure.
- 20 And I also King Artaxerxes haue commanded the treasurers of Syria and Phenice, that whatsoeuer Esdras, the Priest & reader of the Law of the hiest God, shal send for, they shulde giue it him with all speede, euen to the some of an hundreth talents of siluer,
- 21 And likewise vnto an hundreth cores of corne, and an hundreth pieces of wine and other things in abundance.
- 22 Let all things be done to the hiest God
according to the Law of God with diligence, that wrath come not vpo the kingdome of the King and of his sonnes.
- 23 Also to you it is commanded, that of none of y Priests or Leuites, or holy singers, or porters or ministers of the Temple, or of the workemen of this Temple, no tribute nor taxe be taken, nor that any haue power to taxe them in any thing.
- 24 Thou also, Esdras, according to the wis-dome of God, ordeine iudges and gouer-nours, that they may iudge in all Syria & Phenice all those which are wel instructed in the Law of thy God, and teache those, which are not instructed.
- 25 And let all those which shal transgresse

ly punished, ether with death, or other punishment, ether with penaltie of money, the onelie Lord God of my fathers, which hathe put this in the heart of the King to glorifie his House which is in Ierusalem,

- 27 And hathe honoured me before y King, and the counsellors, and all his friends and gouernours.
- 28 ¶ Therefore I was encouraged by the helpe of the Lord my God, and gathered men of Israel to go vp with me.
- 29 These are the guides after their families and order of dignities, which came vp with me out of Babylon in the reigne of Artaxerxes the King.

- 50 For I was ashamed to aske the King footemen, or horsemen, or conuict for sauēgarde against our enemies,
- 51 Because we had said to the King, that the power of our Lord shulde be with thē that fought him to direct them in all thigs.
- 52 Wherefore we praied our Lord againe, according to these things, whome we founde fauorable.
- 53 Then I chose from among the chief of ʒ tribes & of the Priests, twelue men, to wit, " Esebias and Assanias, and with them ten of their brethren.
- ^{or, Esebias.} 54 And I weighed them the siluer and the golde, & the holy vessels of the House of our Lord, which the King and his counsellors, & his princes, & all Israel had giue.
- 55 And I weighed thē, six hundreth & fifty talents of siluer, & siluer vessels of an hundreth talēts, & an hundreth talēts of golde,
- 56 And twentie golden basens, & twelue vessels of brasse, of fine brasse shining like goldē.
- 57 And I said to them, You are also holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the golde, and the siluer is a vowe to the Lord of our fathers.
- 58 Watch and kepe them, til that you giue thē to the heads of the families of the Priests, and Leuites, and captaines of the families of Israel in Ierusalem in the chambers of the House of our God.
- 59 So the Priests & Leuites toke the siluer and the golde, & the vessels, & caryed thē to Ierusalem to the Temple of the Lord.
- 60 And we departed frō the flood Theras, in the twelue day of the first moneth, & came to Ierusalem, according to ʒ mightie power of our Lord with vs: and thē the Lord deliuered vs from the beginning of our iourney from all enemies. So we came to Ierusalem.
- 61 And thre daies being past there, in the fourth day the siluer that was weighed, & the golde was deliuered in the House of our Lord to " Marmoth the Priest the sonne of Iouri,

- ^{or, Moeth sonne of Sabbanus.} 63 And all the weight of them was written that same houre.
- 64 Afterwards those that were come out of the captiuitie, offered sacrifices to the Lord God of Israel, euen twelue bulles for all Israel, rams foure score and sixtene,
- 65 Lābs thre score & twelue, twelue goates for saluacion, all in sacrifice to the Lord.
- 66 And they presented the commandemēts of the King to the Kings stewards, & to ʒ gouernours gouernours of Coelosyria & Phenice who honored the people, and the Temple of God.

Ezra 9.10

67 ¶ When these things were done, the gouernours came to me, saying, The people of Israel, the princes and the Priests, & the Leuites haue not separated from them the strange people of the land, 68 Nor the pollutions of the Gentiles, to wit, of the Cananites, and Chetites, and Pherezites, and Iebusites, and Moabites, and Egyptians, and Idumeans.

69 For they haue dwelt with their daughters, bothe they and their sonnes, and the holie sede is mixed with the strange people of the lād, & the gouernours & rulers haue bene partakers of this wickednes fro the beginning of the thing.

70 And asson. as I had heard these things, I rent my clothes, and the holie garment, & I pulled the heere of mine head, and of my bearde, and fate me downe sorowful, and verie sad.

71 Thē also all they that were moued with the worde of the Lord God of Israel, came to me: whiles I wepte for the iniquitie, but I fate verie sad til the euening sacrifice.

72 Then I rose from the fast with my clothes torne, and the holie garment, and bowed my knees and stretched forth mine hands to the Lord,

Ezra 9.6.

73 And I said, O Lord, I am ashamed, & confounded before thy face.

74 For our sinnes are increased aboue our heades, & our ignorances are lifted vp to heauen.

75 Yea, euen from the time of our fathers we are in great sinne vnto this day.

76 For our sinnes therefore, and our fathers we with our brethren, with our Kings and Priests haue bene giuen vp to the Kings of the earth, to the sworde and to captiuitie, and for a pray with all shame vnto this day.

77 Au now how great hathe thy mercie bent, O Lord, that there shulde be left vs a roote, and name in the place of thine holines!

78 And that thou shuldest reueale to vs a light in the House of the Lord our God, and giue vs meat in the time of our seruitude!

79 For when we were in bondage, we were not left of our God, but he gaue vs fauour before the Kings of the Persians, that they shulde giue vs meat, 80 And that they shulde honour the Temple of our Lord, and raise vp Sion that is desolate, and giue vs assurance in Iudea & Ierusalem.

81 And now, O Lord, what shal we say, hauing these things: for we haue transgressed thy commandements, which thou hast giuen by the hands of thy seruants the Prophets, saying,

82 * Because the land, which ye go to inherit, is a land polluted by the pollutions of the strangers of the land, which haue filled it with their filthines, Deut 7.3.

83 Therefore now ye shal not ioine their daughters with your sonnes, nether giue your daughters to their sonnes, 84 Nether shal you desire to haue peace with them for euer, that ye may be made strong, and eat the good things of the lād, and haue it for an inheritance to your children for euer.

85 Therefore all that is come to passe, was done for our wicked workes, and for our great sinnes: yet, Lord, thou hast forborne our sinnes, 86 And hast giuen vs suche a roote: but we againe haue turned backe to transgresse thy Law, & to mixe vs with the vncleannes of the people of the land.

87 Mightest thou not be angrie with vs to destroye vs, so that thou shuldest nether leaue vs roote nor sede nor name?

88 But, O Lord of Israel, thou art true: for there is a roote left, euen vnto this day.

89 Beholde, we are now before thee with our iniquities, nether can we indure before thee: for these things.

90 ¶ And * as Esdras prayed and confessed Ezra 10.3. and wept, and laye vpon the ground before the Temple, a verie great multitude was gathered vnto him out of Ierusalem of men and women, and yong children: or there was great lamentation among the multitude.

91 Then Iechonias y sonne of Iesi of the sones of Israel, crying out said, O Esdras, we haue sinned against the Lord God: we haue taken in marriage strange women of the nations of the land. On. 10.1.

92 And now all Israel is douteful: therefore let vs make an othe concerning this to the Lord to put away all our wiues, which are strangers, with their children.

93 If it seme good to thee, and to all them that obey the Law of the Lord, rise vp and put it in execution.

94 For to thee doeth it apperteine, & we are with thee to make thee strong.

95 Then Esdras arose, & made all the chief of the families of the Priests and Leuites of all Israel to sweare, that they wolde do thus: and they sware.

CHAP. IX.

7 After Esdras had red the law for the strange wiues, 10 They promise to put them away.

1 Then Esdras rose from the court of the Temple, & went to the chamber of Ioannin the sonne of Eliafib, Ezra 10.6.

2 And being lodged there, he did eat no Eccc. ii.

bread nor dranke water, but mourned for the great iniquities of the multitude.

3 And there was a proclamation in all Iudca and Ierusalem to all them, that were of the captiuitie, that they shulde be gathered to Ierusalem,

4 And that all they which shulde not mete there within two or three dayes, according to the ordinance of the Elders, which bare rule, shulde haue their cattel confiscated to the Temple, and he cast out from among them of the captiuitie.

5 Then all they which were of the tribe of Iuda and Beniamin, came together within three dayes into Ierusalem: this was the ninth moneth and twentieth day of the moneth.

6 And all the multitude sate in the broad place of the Temple shaking, because of the extreme winter.

7 Then Esdras arose and said to them, Ye haue sinned: for ye haue married strange wiues, so that ye haue augmented the finnes of Israel.

8 Now therefore confesse and glorifie the Lord God of our fathers, 9 And do his wil, and separate your selues from the people of the land, and from the strange wiues.

10 Then all the multitude cryed out and said with a loude voyce, We wil do so as thou hast said.

11 But because the multitude is great, and the time is winter, so that we can not stand without, and the worke is not of one day nor of two, seeing that manie of vs haue sinned in this matter,

12 Let the chief men of the multitude and all they which haue strange wiues of our families, tarie:

13 And let the Priests and iudges come out of all places at the day appointed; til they haue appeased the wrath of y Lord against vs for this matter.

14 Then Ionathas Asaels sonne, and Ezecias sonne of Thecan were appointed concerning these things, and Mosollam and Sabateus did helpe them.

15 And they which were of the captiuitie, did after all these things.

16 Esdras the Priest also chose him certaine men, chief of their families, all by name: & they sate together in the first day of the tenth moneth to examine this matter.

17 And they made an end of the things pertaining to them that had married strange wiues in the first day of y first moneth.

18 And there were founde of the Priests, which had married strange wiues, 19 Of the sonnes of Iesus, the sonne of Iosedec, & of his brethren Mathelas, & Eleazar, and Ioribus, and Ionadan.

20 Who also gaue their hands to cast out their wiues, and offered a ram for their reconciliation in their purgation.

21 And of the sonnes of Emmer "Ananias, and Zabdecus, and Canes, and Sameus, and Hiereel, and Azarias.

22 And of the sonnes of "Phaifu, Ellionas, Massias, Esmaelus, and Nathanael, and "Ocidelus, and Talfas.

23 And of the Leuites "Iorabadus, and Semis, and Colius, who was called "Calitas, and Patheus, and Ooudas, and Ionas.

24 Of the holie singers, "Eliazurus, Bacchurus.

25 Of the porters, "Sallumus, & Tolbanes.

26 Of them of Israel, of the sonnes of Phorus, "Hiernas, and Eddias, & Melchias, & Maelus, & Eleazar, & Agibias, & "Banaias.

27 Of the sonnes of "Ela, Matthanas, Zacharias, and "Hiereias, and "Hiere moth, and Aedias.

28 And of the sonnes of "Zamoth, Eliadas, Elifimus, Othonias, Iarimoth, and "Sabatus, and Sardeus.

29 Of the sonnes of "Bebai, Ioannes, and Ananias, and "Iosabad, and Ematheas.

30 Of the sonnes of "Mani, Olamus, Mamuchus, Iedaia, Isabus, Isafael, and Ieremoth.

31 And of the sonnes of "Addi, Naathus, Moofias, Laccunus, and Naidus, and Matthanas, and "Seschel, and Balnuus, and Manasseas.

32 And of the sonnes of Annas, Elionas, & Afeas, and Melchias, and Sabbeus, and Simon a Chosamite.

33 And of the sonnes of "Asom, Altaneus, & "Matthias, and Bannaia, Eliphalat, & Manasseas, and Semei.

34 And of the sonnes of "Maani, Ieremias, Momdis, Omarus, Inel, Mama, and Pacclias, and Amos, Carabasion and Euasibus, and Mammatanaius, Elifasis, Vamus, Eliali, Samis, Selemias, Nathanas, & of the sonnes of Ozoras, Sefis, Esfil, Azaius, Samatas, Sambis, Iosiphus.

35 And of the sonnes of Ethna, Mazitias, Zabadias, Ethes, Inel, Banaias.

36 All these married strange wiues, and put them away with their children.

37 And the Priests & the Leuites dwelt in Ierusalem, & in the countrey, the first day of the seventh moneth, and the childre of Israel in their owne houses.

38 ¶ Then all the multitude assembled together with one consent into the broad place before the gate of the Temple toward the East, 39 And spake to Esdras the Priest, and reader, that he shulde bring the Law of Moyses, which had bene giue by the Lord God of Israel.

40 Then brought Esdras the chief Priest the Law to all the multitude, bothe man and woman, 41 And he red in the first broad place of the gate of the Temple, from morning to midday, before the men and the women, and all the multitude hearkened to y^e Law.

42 So Esdras the Priest and reader of the Law, stode vpon a pulpet of wood that was prepared.

47 And the whole multitude cryed, Amen.

dus, and Ananias, & Biatas the Leuites lift vp their hands, and fell downe on the grounde, and worshiped the Lord, 49 And taught the Law of the Lord, and stode also earnestly vpon the reading.

50 Then said Aththarates to Esdras the ^{or, Nchemias} chief Priest and reader, & to the Leuites, that taught the multitude in all things, This day is holie vnto the Lord, and all haue wept in hearing of the Law.

51 Go therefore and eat the fat meates, & drinke the swete drinckes, and send presents to them that haue not.

52 For this day is holie to the Lord, and be not sorie: for the Lord God wil glorifie you.

53 So the Leuites commanded all these things to the people, saying, This day is holie to the Lord: be not sad.

54 Then they departed all to eat, and drinke, and to reioyce, and to giue presents to the that had not, and to make good chere.

55 For they were yet filled with the wordes wherewith they were instructed, whē they were assembled together.

7 Hue not I broght them out of the land of Egypt from the house of bondage? but they haue prouoked me vnto wrath, and despised my counsels.

28 Thus saith the almightie Lord, Haue I not prayed you, as a father his sonnes, and as a mother her daughters, and as a nurse her yong babes,

CHAP. II.

The Synagogue findeth faute with her owne children. 18 The Gentiles are called.

1 Thus saith the Lord, I broght this people out of bondage: I gaue them also my commandements by my seruants the Prophetes, whome they wolde not heare, but despised my counsels.

2 The mother that bare them, saith vnto them, Go you away, o children: for I am a widdowe and forsaken.

3 I broght you vp with gladnes, but with sorowe and heauines haue I lost you: for ye haue sinned against the Lord your God, and done the thing that displeaseth him.

4 But what shal I now do vnto you? I am a widdowe and forsaken: go ye, o my children, and aske mercie of the Lord.

5 And thee, o father, I call for a witnes for the mother of these children, which wolde not kepe my couenant,

6 That thou bring them to confusion, and their mother to a spoile, that their kinred be not continued.

7 Let their names be scatred among the heathen: let them be put out of the earth, for they haue despised my couenant.

8 Wo vnto thee, Assur: for thou hidest the vnrighteous in thee: o wicked people, remember * what I did vnto Sodom and Gomorra,

Gen 18, 24.

9 Whose lād is mixt with cloudes of pitch and heapes of ashes: so wil I do vnto the, that heare me not, saith the almightie Lord.

10 ¶ Thus saith the Lord vnto Esdras, Tel my people, that I wil giue them the kingdom of Ierusalem, which I wolde haue giuen vnto Israel.

11 And I wil get me glorie by them, and giue the the euerlasting tabernacles, which I had prepared for those.

12 They shal haue at wil the tre of life, smelling of ointement: they shal nether labour nor be weary.

13 Go ye, & ye shal receaue it: pray that the time, time, which is long, may be shortened: the kingdome is already prepared for you: watche.

14 Take heauen and earth to witnes: for I haue abolished the euil, and created the good: for I liue, saith the Lord.

15 Mother, embrace thy children, and bring them vp with gladnes: make their fete as fast as a pillar: for I haue chosē thee, saith the Lord.

16 And those that be dead, wil I raise vp from their places, and bring them out of the graues: for I haue known my Name in Israel.

17 Feare not, thou mother of the children: for I haue chosē thee, saith the Lord.

18 I wil send thee my seruants Esau and I remie to helpe thee, by whose counsell I haue sanctified & prepared for thee twelue trees laden with diuers frutes, 19 And as many fountaines, flowing with milke and hony, and seuen mightie mountaines, whereupon there growe roses and lilies, whereby I wil fill thy children with ioye.

20 Execute iustice for the widdowe: iudge the cause of the fatherles: giue to the poore: defende the fatherles: clothe the naked.

21 Heale the wounded, and sicke: laugh not a lame man to scorne: defend the crepel, and let the blinde come into the light of my clerenes.

22 Kepe the olde & the yong that are within thy walles.

Job. 1. 20.

23 *Wherefoeuer thou findest the dead, take them and burye them, and I wil giue thee the first place in my resurrection.

24 Abide still, o my people, and rest: for thy quietnes shal come.

25 Nourish thy childre, o thou good nurse: stablish their fete.

26 None of the seruants that I haue giuen thee, shal perish: for I wil seke them from among thy number.

27 Be not weary: for when the day of trouble and heauines commeth, other shal wepe and be sorowefull, but thou shalt be merry and haue abundance.

28 The heathen shal enuie thee, and shal do nothing against thee, saith the Lord.

29 Mine hands shal couer thee, so that thy children shal not se hell.

30 Be ioyfull, o thou mother, with thy children: for I wil deliuer thee, saith the Lord.

31 Remember thy children that slepe: for I wil bring the out of the sides of the earth, and wil shewe mercie vnto them: for I am merciful, saith the Lord almightie.

32 Embrace thy children, vntill I come and shewe mercie vnto the: for my fountaines runne ouer, and my grace shal not faile.

33 I Esdras receiued a charge of the Lord

vpō the mount Horeb, that I shulde go vnto them of Israel, but when I came to them, they cast me of, and despised the commandment of the Lord.

34 And therefore I say vnto you, o ye heathen, that heare and vnderstand, Wait for your shepherd, who shal giue you euerlasting rest: for he is nere at hand, that shal come in the end of the worlde.

35 Be ready to the rewarde of the kingdome: for the euerlasting light shal shine vpō you for euermore.

36 Fie the shadowe of this worlde: receiue y ioye of your glorie: I testifie my Sauour openly.

37 Receiue the gift that is giuen you, and be glad, giuing thanks vnto him, that hath called you to the heauenlie kingdome.

38 Arise, and stand vp, and beholde the nōber of those that are sealed for the feast of the Lord, 39 Which are departed from the shadowe of the worlde, and haue receiued glorious garments of the Lord.

40 Take thy number, o Sion, and shut vp them that are clothed in white, which haue fulfilled the Law of the Lord.

41 The nōber of thy children whome thou longest for, is fulfilled: beseeche y power of the Lord, that thy people which haue bene called si o the beginning, may be sanctified.

42 *I Esdras sawe vpō mount Sion a great people whome I colde not nombre, and they all praised the Lord with songs. Reuel. 7. 9.

43 And in the middes of them there was a yong man hie in stature then them all, & vpō euerie one of their heads he set crownes, and was hie then the others, which I muche marvelled at.

44 So I asked the Angel, and said, Who are these, my lord?

45 Who answered, and said vnto me, These be they, that haue put of the mortal clothing, and haue put on the immortal, and haue cōfessed the Name of God: now are they crowned, and receiue the palmes.

46 Then said I vnto y Angel, What yong man is it, that setteth crownes on them, & giueth them the palmes in their hands.

47 And he answered, & said vnto me, It is the sonne of God, whome they haue confessed in the worlde. Then began I greatly to commend them, that had stand so strongly for the Name of the Lord.

48 Then the Angel said vnto me, Go thy way, and tel my people, what, and how great wonders of the Lord God thou hast seene.

CHAP. III.

4 The wonderful workes, which God did for the people, are recited. 31 Esdras marvelleth that God suffereth the Babylonians to haue rule ouer his people, & that they be sinner also.

Ecce. iii.

- IN the thirtieth yere after the fall of the citie, as I was at Babylon, I lay troubled vpon my bed, and my thoughts came vp to mine heart,
- Because I sawe the desolacion of Sion, & the wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon.
- So my spirit was sore moued, so that I beganne to speake fearful wordes to the most High, and said,
- O Lord, Lord, thou spakest at the beginning when thou alone plantedst the earth, and gauest comādemēt vnto the people,
- Gen 1,7.* *And a bodie vnto Adam, without soule, who was also the workmanship of thine hands, and hast breathed in him the breth of life, so that he liued before thee,
- And leddest him into Paradise, which thy right hand had planted, or euer the earth brought forth.
- Gen 1,7.* Euen then thou gauest him commandement to loue thy way but he transgressed it, and immediatly thou appointedst death to him and his generacion, of whome came nacions, tribes, people and kinreds out of number.
- Gen 6,12.* *And euerie people walked after their owne wil, and did wonderful things before thee, and despised thy commandements.
- Gen 7,10.* *But at y^e time appointed thou broughtest the flood vpon those y^e dwelt in the worlde and destroiedst them,
- So that by the flood, that came to euerie one of them, which came by death vnto Adam,
- 1.Pet.3.20.* Yet thou leftest one, euen *Noe, with his household, of whome came all righteous men.
- And when they that dwelt vpon y^e earth, began to multiplie, and the number of the children, people and many nacions were increased, they began to be more vngodliether then the first.
- Gen 12,1.* Now when they liued wickedly before thee, *thou didest chose thee a man from among them, whose name was *Abraham.
- Gen 17,1.* Whome thou louedst, and vnto whome onely thou shewedst thy wil,
- And madest an euerlasting couenāt with him, promising him that thou woldest neuer forsake his sede.
- Gen 21,2.* *And vnto him thou gauest Isahac, *vnto Isahac also thou gauest Iacob and Esau,
- Gen 25,25.* *and didest chose Iacob, and cast of Esau, and so Iacob became a great multitude.
- Malac.1,1.* And whē thou leddest his sede out of Egypt, *y^e broughtest the vp to mount Sina,
- Exod.19,2.* And enclinedst the heauens and bowedst downe the earth, and didest moue the grounde, and cause the depths to shake, and didest astonish the worlde.
- den.4,10.* And thy glorie went thorowe foure gates of fyre, with earthquakes, winde and colde, that thou mightest giue the Lawe vnto the sede of Iacob, and that which the generacion of Israel shulde diligently obserue.
- Yet tokest thou not away from them the wicked heart, that thy Law might bring forth the frute in them.
- For *Adam first hauing a wicked heart, Gen 3,6. was ouercome and vanquished, & all they that are borne of him.
- Thus remained weakenes ioyned with the lawe in the hearts of the people, with the wickednes of the roote: so that the good departed away, & the euil abode stil.
- So the times passed away, and the yeres were brought to an end, *til thou didest raise thee vp a seruant called Dauid, 1 Sam. 16,13.
- *Whome thou commandedst to buyld a citie vnto thy Name, to call vpon thee therein with incense and sacrifice. 2 Sam. 5,1.
- Whē this was done many yeres, the inhabitants forsoke thee,
- Following the waies of A lam and all his generacion: for they also had a wicked heart.
- Therefore thou gauest thy citie ouer into the hands of thine enemies.
- But do they that dwell at Babylon, any better, that they shulde haue the dominio of Sion?
- For when I came thether, and sawe their wicked dedes without number (for this is the thirtieth yere that I se many trespassing) I was discouraged.
- For I sawe, how thou sufferedst them that sinne, and sparedst the wicked doers, where as thou hast destroied thine owne people, and preserued thine enemies, and thou hast not shewed it.
- I can not perceiue how this commeth to passe. Are the dedes of Babylon better then they of Sion?
- Or is there any other people y^e knoweth thee besides Israel? or what generacion hathe so beleued thy Testimonies, as Iacob?
- And yet their rewarde appeareth not, and their labour hathe no frute: for I haue gone here & there thorow out the heathē, and I se them flourish, and thinke not vpon thy commandements.
- Weigh y^e therefore our wickednes now in the balance, and theirs also that dwell in the worlde, and no mention of thee shal be founde but in Israel.
- Or when is it that they that dwell on the earth, haue not sinned in thy sight? or what people hathe so kept thy commandements?
- Thou shalt surely finde that Israel by name hathe kept thy precepts, but not the heathen.

CHAP. IIII.

2 The Angel reproveth Esdras, because he seemed to entre into the profounde iudgements of God.

ANd the Angel that was sent vnto me, whose name was Uriel, answered,

2 And said, Thine heart hath taken to much vpon it in this worlde, and thou thinkest to comprehend the waies of the Highest.

3 The said I, Yea, my lord. And he answered me, and said, I am sent to shewe thee three waies, and to set forth the three similitudes before thee,

4 Whereof if thou canst declare me one, I wil shewe thee also the way, that thou desirest to see, and I wil shewe thee from whence the wicked heart cometh.

5 And I said, Tell on, my lord. Then said he vnto me, Go thy way: weigh me the weight of the fyre, or measure me the blast of the winde, or call me againe the daye that is past.

6 Then answered I, and said, What man is borne, that can do that, which thou requirest me, concerning these things?

7 And he said vnto me, If I shulde aske thee how deepe dwellings are in the middes of the sea, or how great springs are in the beginning of the depth, or how great springs are in the stretching out of the heauen, or which are the borders of Paradise,

8 Peradventure thou wouldest say vnto me, I neuer went downe to the deepe, nor yet to the hell, nether did I euer clime vp to heauen.

9 But now haue I asked thee but of fyre & winde, and of the day, whereby thou hast passed, and from the which things thou canst not be separated, and yet canst thou giue me none answer of them.

10 He said moreouer vnto me, Thine owne things, and suche as are growen vp with thee, canst thou not knowe:

11 How shulde thy vessel then be able to comprehend the wayes of the Highest, and now outwardly in the corrupt worlde, to vnderstand the corruption, that is euident in my sight?

12 Then said I vnto him, It were better that we were not at all, than that we shulde liue in wickednes, and to suffer, and not to knowe wherefore.

Iudg 9. 8. achro. 25. 18. 13 And he answered me, & said, * I came to a forest in the plaine where the trees helde a counsel, 14 And said, Come, let vs go fight against the sea, that it may giue place to vs, and that we may make vs more woods.

15 Likewise the floods of the sea toke counsel and said, Come, let vs go vp and fight against the trees of the wood, that we may get another countrey for vs.

16 But the purpose of the wood was vaine: for the fyre came and consumed it.

17 Likewise also the purpose of the floods of the sea: for the land stode vp and stopped them.

18 If thou were iudge betwene these two, whome wouldest thou iustifie, or whome wouldest thou condemne?

19 I answered and said, Verely it is a foolish purpose, that thei bothe haue deuised: for the grounde is appointed for the wood, and the sea hath his place to beare his floods.

20 Then answered he me, and said, Thou hast giuen a right iudgement: but why iudgest thou not thy self also?

21 For like as the grounde is appointed for the wood, and the sea for his floods, so * they that dwell vpon earth, can vnderstand nothing, but that which is vpon earth: & they that are in the heauens, the things that are about the height of the heauens. Isa 55. 8. iohm 3. 32. 1407. 2. 130

22 Then answered I, & said, I beseeche thee, O Lord, let vnderstanding be giuen me.

23 For I did not purpose to inquire of thine hid things, but of suche as we dailey meddle with all, namely wherefore Israel is made a reproofe to the heathen, and for what cause the people, whome thou hast loued, is giuen ouer to wicked nations, and why the Law of our fathers is abolished, and the written ceremonies are come to none effect, 24 Why we are tossed to and fro through the worlde as the geshoppers, and our life is a very feare, and we are not thought worthy to obtaine mercie.

25 But what wil he do to his Name, which is called vpon ouer vs? Of these things haue I asked the question.

26 Then answered he me, and said, The more thou searcest, the more thou shalt maruel: for the worlde hasteth fast to passe away, 27 And cannot comprehend the things, that are promised to the righteous in time to come: for this worlde is full of vnrighteousnes and weakenes.

28 But to declare thee the things whereof thou askest, the euil is sowne, but the destruction thereof is not yet come.

29 If the euil now that is sowne, be not turned vp side downe, and if the place where the euil is sowne, passe not away, then can not the thing come, that is sowne in good.

30 For the corne of euil sode hath bene sowne in the heart of Adam from the beginning, & how muche vngodlines hath he brought vp vnto this time? & how much shal he bring forth vntil the harvest come?

31 Ponder with thy self, how muche frute

- of wickednes the coine of euil sēde bringeth forth,
- 32 And when the stalkes shalbe cut downe, which are without number, how great an haruest must be prepared.
- 33 Then I answered, and said, How, & when shal these things come to passe? wherefo-re are our yerres fewe and euil?
- 34 And he answered me, saying, Hastenot to be aboute y^e moſte High: for thou laborest in vaine to be aboute him, though thou indeuor neuer ſo muche.
- 35 Did not the ſoules alſo of the righteous aſke queſtion of theſe things in their chā-bers, ſaying, How long ſhal I thus hope? & when cometh the frute of my baine and our wages?
- 36 And vpon this Ieremiel the Archangel answered, and ſaid, When the number of y^e ſedes is filled in you: for he hath weighed the worlde in the balance.
- 37 The meaſure of the times is meaſured:
the ages are counted by number, and they ſhal not be moued or ſhaken, til the meaſure thereof be fulfilled.
- 38 Then answered I, & ſaid, O lord, lord, we are all euen full of ſinne,
- 39 And for our ſake paradventure the har-ueſt of y^e righteous is not fulfilled, becauſe of the ſinne of them that dwell vpon earth.
- 40 So he answered me, and ſaid, Go, & aſke a woman with childe, when ſhe hath fulfilled her nine moneths, if her wombe may keepe the birth anie longer within her.
- 41 Then ſaid I, No, lord, ſhe cannot. And he ſaid vnto me, In the graue the places of ſoules are like the wombe.
- 42 For as ſhe that is with childe, haſteth to eſcape the neceſſitie of the trauail, ſo do theſe places haſt to deliuer thoſe thigs that are committed vnto them.
- 43 That which thou deſireſt to ſee, ſhalbe ſhewed thee from the beginning.
- 44 Then answered I, and ſaid, If I haue founde grace in thy ſight, and if it be poſſible, and if I be mete therefore,
- 45 Shewe me whether there be more to come then is paſt, or more things paſt, then are to come.
- 46 What is paſt, I knowe, but what is to come, I knowe not.
- 47 And he ſaid vnto me, Stand on the right
ſide, and I wil expounde thee this by example.
- 48 So I ſtoode, and beholde, a whote burning ouen paſſed before me: and when the flame was gone by, I looked, & beholde, the ſmoke had the vpper hand.
- 49 After this there paſſed before me a wa-terie cloude, and ſent downe muche raine with a ſtorme: and when the ſtormie raine was paſt, the droppes came after.
- 50 Then ſaid he vnto me, Conſider with thy

- ſelf, as the raine is more the the droppes, and as fyre exceedeth the ſmoke, ſo the porcion that is paſt, hath the vpper hād, & the droppes and the ſmoke were muche.
- 51 Then I prayed, & ſaid, Maie I liue, thin-keſt thou vntil that time? or what ſhal come to paſſe in thoſe daies?
- 52 He answered me, and ſaid, Of the tokens whereof thou aſkeſt me, I can tell thee a parte: but I am not ſent to ſhewe thee of thy life: for I do not knowe it.

CHAP. V.

In the latter times truth ſhalbe hid & vnrighteouſnes & all wickednes ſhal reigne in the worlde. 23 Iſrael is reueiled, and God deliuereth the 31 God doeth all thing in ſeaſon

- 1 NEuertheles concerning the tokens, beholde, the times ſhal come, that they which dwell vpon earth, ſhalbe taken in a great nōber, & the way of the truth ſhalbe hid & y^e land ſhalbe baren fro ſaith, 2 And* iniquitie ſhalbe increaſed more the Mat 24, 12
thou haſt ſene now, or haſt heard in time paſt.
- 3 And it ſhal come to paſſe, that one ſhal ſet in ſote, and thou ſhalt ſee the land deſolate, which now reigneth.
- 4 Yea, if God grāte thee to liue, thou ſhalt ſee after the third trumpet, that the ſunne ſhal ſuddenly ſhine againe in the night, &
the moone thre times a day.
- 5 Blood ſhal drop out of the wood, and the ſtone ſhal giue his voyce, and the people ſhalbe moued.
- 6 And he ſhal rule, of whome they hope not that dwell vpon earth, and the ſoules ſhal change place.
- 7 And the ſea of Sodom ſhal caſt out fiſh, and make a noyſe in the night, which many ſhal not knowe, but they ſhal all heare the voyce thereof.
- 8 There ſhalbe a confuſion in many places, and the fyre ſhal oft breake forth, & the wilde beaſts ſhal change their places, and menſtruous women ſhal beare monſtres,
- 9 And ſalt waters ſhalbe founde in the ſwete, & all friēds ſhal fight one againſt another: then ſhal wit hide it ſelf, and vnder-ſtanding departe into his ſecret chamber.
- 10 It ſhalbe ſought of many, and yet not be founde: then ſhal vnrigheteouſnes and vo-luptuouſnes haue y^e vpper hand vpon earth.
- 11 One land alſo ſhal aſke another, & ſay,
Is righteous iuſtice gone thorow thee?
And it ſhal ſay, No.
- 12 At the ſame time ſhal men hope, but not obtaine: they ſhal labour, but their enter-priſes ſhal not proſper.
- 13 To ſhewe thee ſuche tokēs I haue leaue, and if thou wilt praie againe and wepe as now, and faſt ſeuē daies, thou ſhalt heare yet greater things then theſe.
- 14 ¶ Then I awaked, and a fearefulnes went thorow

- thorow all my bodie, and my minde was feble and fainted.
- 15 But the Angel that was come to talke with me, helde me, comforted me, and set me vp vpon my seie.
- 16 And in the seconde night, Salathiel the captaine of the people came vnto me, saying, Where hast thou bene? and why is thy countenance so heauie?
- 17 Knowest thou not that Israel is committed vnto thee in the land of their captiuitie?
- 18 Vp then and eat, & forsake vs not, as the shepherd that leaueth his flocke in y^e hands of the cruel wolues.
- 19 Then said I vnto him, Go thy waies fro me, and come not nere me: and when he heard it, he went from me.
- 20 And I fasted seuen daies, mourning and weping, as Vriel the Angel had commanded me.
- 21 And after seuen daies the thoughts of mine heart were very giteuous vnto me againe.
- 22 And I had a desire to reason againe, and I beganne to talke with the moste High againe,
- 23 And said, O Lord, Lord: of euerie forest of the earth, and of all the trees thereof thou hast chosen thee one onely vineyarde.
- 24 And of all lands of the worlde thou hast chosen thee one pit, & of all the flours of the grounde thou hast chosen thee one lillie.
- 25 And of all y^e depths of the sea thou hast filled thee one riuer, and of all buylded cities thou hast sanctified Sion vnto thy self.
- 26 And of all the foules that are created, thou hast named thee one doue, and of all the cattel that are made, thou hast appointed thee one shepe.
- 27 And among all the multitude of people thou hast gotten thee one people, and vnto this people whome thou louedst, thou gauest a Law, that is proued of all.
- 28 And now, O Lord, why hast thou giuen this one people ouer vnto many? and vpon one roote thou hast set others, & hast scattered thine onelie people among many.
- 29 They treade them downe, which haue withstand thy promises, and beleue not thy testimonies.
- 30 And if thou didst somuche hate thy people, they shulde haue bene punished with thine owne hands.
- 31 ¶ Now when I had spoken these wordes, y^e Angel that came to me the night afore, was sent vnto me,
- 32 And said vnto me, Heare me, and I wil teache thee, & hearkē that I may instruct thee further.
- 33 And I said, Speake on, my lord. Then said he vnto me, Thou art fore vexed and troubled for Israels sake. Louest thou the better, then he doeth that made them?
- 34 And I said, No, lord: but of very sorow haue I spokē: for my raines paine me euerie houre, while I labour to comprehend the way of the moste High, & to seke out parte of his iudgement.
- 35 And he said vnto me, Thou canst not. And I said, Wherefore, lord, wherefore was I borne? or why was not my mothers wombe then my graue? so had I not fene the trouble of Iacob, and the grief of the stocke of Israel.
- 36 And he said vnto me, Number vnto me the things that are not yet come, or gather me the droppes, that are scared, or make me the withered floures grene againe.
- 37 Open me the places that are closed, and bring me forth the windes, that are shut vp therein: shewe me the image of a voyce, and then wil I declare thee the thing, that thou askest and laborest to knowe.
- 38 And I said, O Lord, Lord, who can knowe these things, but he that hath not his dwelling with men?
- 39 But I that am ignorant, how can I speake of these things, whereof thou askest me?
- 40 Then said he vnto me, Like as thou canst do none of these things, that I haue spoken of, so canst thou not finde out my iudgement, nor the least benefite, that I haue promised vnto my people.
- 41 Then I said, Beholde, O Lord, the last things are present vnto thee, and what shal they do that haue bene before me, or we that be now, or they that shal come after vs?
- 42 And he said vnto me, I wil compare my iudgement vnto a ring: as there is no slacknes of the last, so is there no swiftnes of the first.
- 43 Then I answered, and said, Coldest thou not make at once those y^e haue bene, those that are now, & those that shal come, that thou mightest shewe thy iudgement the soner?
- 44 The answered he me, The creature, said he, can not preuent the Creator, nether can the worlde holde them at once, that shal be created therein.
- 45 And I said, As thou hast taught thy seruant, that thou, which givest strength to all, hast giuen life at once to all the worke created by thee, and hast sustained it, so might it now also containe all men at once.
- 46 And he said vnto me, Aske the wombe of a woman, and say vnto her, Why must thou haue time before thou bringest forth: require her to bring forth the ten at once.

- 47 And I said, Surely the can not, but by distance of time.
- 48 Then said he vnto me, So haue I deuised the number of the earth by times when seede is sown vpon it.
- 49 For as a yong child begetteth not that that belongeth to the aged, so haue I ordeined the time which I haue created.
- 50 ¶ I asked againe, and said, Seing thou hast now shewed me thy way, I wil procede to speake before thee: for our mother, whome thou hast tolde me is yong, draweth she nere vnto age?
- 51 He answered me, and said, Aske a woman that traueileth, and she wil tell thee.
- 52 Say vnto her, Wherefore are not they (whome thou hast now broght forth) like those that were before thee, but lesse of stature?
- 53 And she shal answer thee, Some were borne in thy floure of youth, others were borne in the time of age, when the wombe failed.
- 54 Consider now thy self, how that ye are lesse of stature, then those that were before you,
- 55 And so are they that come after you, lesse then ye, as the creatures which now beginne to be olde, and haue passed ouer the strength of youth.
- 56 Then said I, Lord, I beseeche thee, if I haue founde fauour in thy sight, shewe thy seruant, by whome doest thou gouerne thy workmanship?

CHAP. VI.

God hath foreseene all things in his secret counsel, and is author thereof, and hath created them for his children.
25 The felicitie of the age to come.

- 1 ANd he said vnto me, In the beginning when the rounde worlde was made, and before the borders of the worlde were set, and before the windes blew one against another:
- 2 Before the noyce of thundres sounded, before the bright lightening did shine forth, before the fundacions of Paradise were laide:
- 3 Before the faire floures did appeare, before the moucable powers were stablished, before the innumerable armies of Angels were gathered:
- 4 Before the heights of the aire were lifted vp, before thy measures of the heavens were named, before the chimneys in Sion were hote:
- 5 Before the present yeres were sought out, and before the afflictions of them that now sinne, were turned away, and they that haue laid vp the treasure of faith, were sealed,
- 6 Then did I purpose these things, & they were made by me alone, and by none other: by me also they shal be ended, and by none other.
- 7 Then answered I, and said, What shal be the diuision of times? or when shal be the end of the first, and the beginning of it that followeth?
- 8 And he said vnto me, From Abraham vnto Isaac, when Iacob and Esau were borne of him, * Iacobs hand helde first the heale of Esau. Gen 25, 26.
- 9 For Esau is the end of this worlde, and Iacob is the beginning of it that followeth.
- 10 The hand of man is betwixt the heale and the hand. Other thing, Esdras, aske thou not.
- 11 ¶ I answered the, & said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue founde fauour in thy sight,
- 12 I beseeche thee, make an end to shewe thy seruant thy tokens, whereof thou shewedst me parte the last night.
- 13 So he answered me, and said, Stand vp vpon thy fete, and heare a mightie sounding voyce.
- 14 There shal come as an earthquake, but the place where thou standest, shal not be moued.
- 15 And therefore when he speaketh, be not afraied: for of the end shal be the worde, & of the fundacion of the earth shal it be vnderstand.
- 16 Therefore while one speaketh of the, it trembleth and is moued: for it knoweth, that it must be changed at the end.
- 17 And when I had heard it, I stode vp vpon my fete, and hearkened, and beholde, there was a voyce that spake, and the founde of it was like the founde of many waters:
- 18 And it said, Beholde, the daies come, that I wil come & inquire of them that dwell vpon the earth,
- 19 And when I beginne to inquire of them, who by their vnrighteousnes haue hurt others, and when the affliction of Sion shal be fulfilled,
- 20 And the worlde, that shal vanish away, shal be sealed; the wil I shewe these signes: the bokes shal be opened before the heauen, and they shal se all it together.
- 21 And the children of a yere olde shal speake with their voyces: the womē with child shal bring forth the vntimelie childre of thre or foure moneths olde, and they shal liue that are raised vp.
- 22 Then suddēly shal the sowne places appeare as the vnsowne, & the full store houses shal suddenly be founde empty.
- 23 And the trumpet shal sounde, and all they that heare it, shal be suddenly afraied.
- 24 At that time shal friends fight with friends, as with enemies, and the earth shal feare with them: the springs of the welles shal stand still, & in thie houres they shal not renne.
- 25 Whosoever remaineth from all these things things that I haue tolde thee, shal be saued & se my saluacion, & the end of your worlde.

26 And the men that are receiued, shal se it:
they that haue not tasted death from their birth, and the heart of the inhabitants shal be changed, and turned to another meaning.

27 For euil shal be put out, and disceate shal be quenched,

28 But faith shal flourish: corruption shal be ouercome, and the trueth which hathe bene so long without frute, shal come forth.

29 ¶ And when he talked with me, beholde,
I looked a litle vpon him before whome I stode.

30 And these wordes said he vnto me, I am come to shewe thee the time of the night to come.

31 If thou wilt pray againe, and fast seuen daies more, I wil tel thee more things, & greater then these, which I haue heard in the day.

32 For thy voyce is heard before y^e Highest:
surely y^e mightie hathe sene thy righteous dealing: he hath sene also thy chastitie, which thou hast kept since thy youth.

33 Therefore hathe he sent me to shewe thee all these things, and to say vnto thee, Be of good comfort, and feare not,

34 And haste not in the vaine considera-tioⁿ of the first times, nor make haste to the latter times.

35 And after this I wepte againe and fasted seueⁿ daies in like maner, that I might fulfil the thre weekes, which he had appointed me.

36 And in the eight night was mine heart vexed within me againe, and I began to speake before the moste High.

37 For my spirit was greatly set on fyre, &
my soule was in distresse,

38 And I said, o Lord, thou spakest expressly in the first creation (euē the first day) and comādedst* that the heauen and the earth shulde be made, and the worke followed thy worde.

39 And then was there the spirit, and the darknes was on euerie side with silence:
there was no mans voyce as yet created of thee.

40 Then commandedst thou a bright light to come forth out of thy treasures, that it might giue light to thy worke.

41 Vpon the second day thou createdst the heauenlie ayre, and commandedst it, that, going betwene, it shulde make a diuision betwene the waters, that the one parte might remaine aboue, and the other be-neth.

42 Vpon the third day thou commandedst, that y^e waters shulde be gathered together in the seuēth parte of y^e earth: six partes didest thou drye, & kept them to the intent that of these there shulde be that shulde serue thee, being sowne of God and tilled.

43 As sone as thy worde went forth, the worke was incontinently made.

44 For immediatly great and innumerable frute did spring vp, and manie diuerse pleasures for the taste, and floures of vnchangeable colour, and odours of a moste wonderful smel & these things were created the third day.

45 * Vpō the fourth day thou createdst the Gen 1, 4.
light of the sunne, and of the moone, and the order of the staries,

46 And gauest them a charge, to do* seruice Gen 1, 4.
euē vnto man that was for to be made. Ex 13

47 And vpon the fift day thou saidest vnto the seuēth parte* where the waters were gathered, that it shulde brig forth the beaſts, as foules and fishes: and it was so. Deu 4, 19.

48 For the dōme waters, and without life brought forth the liuing things at the com-mādemēt of God that the nations might praise thy wonderous workes.

49 Then didst thou prepare two liuing things: the one thou calledst Behemoth, & the other thou calledst Leuiathan, 10, 1, 2, 3.

50 And didst separate the one from the other: for the seuēth parte, where the water was gathered, colde not holde them.

51 Vnto Behemoth thou gauest one parte, which was dried vp the third day, that he shulde dwell in the same parte, wherein are a thousand hilles.

52 But vnto Leuiathan thou gauest y^e seuēth parte, that is wett, and hast prepared him to deuoure what thou wilt, and when thou wilt.

53 Vpon the sixt day thou gauest coman-demēt vnto the earth, that before thee it shulde bring forth the beaſts, catel and creeping things.

54 And besides this Adam, whome thou madeſt lord ouer all the workes which y^e hast created, of him come we all, and the people also, whome thou hast choſen.

55 All this haue I spokē before thee, o Lord, because thou hast created the worlde for our sakes.

56 As for the other people, which also come of Adam, thou hast declared them that they are nothing before thee, but be like vnto spittle, and hast compared their riches vnto a drop that falleth from a vessel.

57 And now, o Lord, beholde these heathen which haue bene reputed as nothing, haue begonne to be lords ouer vs, and to deu-oure vs.

58 And we thy people (whome thou hast called the first borne, the onely begotten, and thy seruent louer) are giuen into their hands.

59 If the worlde then be created for our sakes, why haue we not the inheritaunce thereof in possession? or how long shal we suffer these things?

CHAP. VII.

1 Without tribulation none can come to felicitie. 12 God aduertiseth all in time. 28 The coming and death of Christ 32 The resurrection and last iudgement. 43 After the which all corruption shal cease. 48 All fell in Adam. 59 The true life. 62 The mercies and goodnes of God.

1 And when I had made an end of these wordes, there was sent vnto me an Angel, which had bene sent downe to me the nights afore.

2 And he said vnto me, Vp, Esdras, and heare the wordes that I am come to tell thee.

3 And I said, Speake on, my God. Then said he vnto me, The sea is set in a wyde place, that it might be deepe and great,

4 But presuppose that the entrance thereof were narrow, and like the riuers,

5 Who colde go into the sea to loke vpon it, and to rule it? If he went not thorow the narrowe, how colde he come into the broad?

6 There is also another thing: a citie is buylded and set vpon a broad field, and is ful of all good things:

7 The entrance thereof is narrowe and in a dangerous place to fall, that there is fyre at the right hand, and a deepe water at the lefte,

8 And there is but one path betwixt them, euen betwene the fyre and the water, so that there colde but one man go there.

9 If this citie were giuen vnto a man for an inheritaunce, if he neuer went thorow the peril before it, how colde he receaue his inheritaunce?

10 And I said, It is so, Lord. Then said he, So is the portion of Israel.

11 Surely for their sakes haue I made the worlde: and when Adam transgressed my statutes, then came this thing to passe.

12 Then were the entrances of the worlde made narrowe, full of sorowe and trauail: they are but fewe and euill, and full of perils, and very painefull.

13 For the entrances of the fore worlde were wyde and sure, and brought immortal frute.

14 If then they that are liuing, labour not to enter by these strait and brittle things, they can not attaine to those things that are hid.

15 Why then disquietest thou thy self, seing thou art corruptible? and why art thou moued, seing thou art mortal?

16 And why hast thou not considered in thy minde the things to come, rather then them that are present?

17 Then said I, O Lord, Lord, * seing thou hast ordeined in thy Law, that the righteous shulde inherite these things, and that the vngodlie shulde perish, 18 Shulde the righteous suffer straitnes in hoping for large things? yet thei that haue liued vngodly and suffered straitnes, shal not see the large things.

19 Then he said vnto me, There is no iudge more iuste then God, and there is none more wise then the moste High.

20 For manie perish in this life, because they despise the Law of God that is appointed.

21 For God hathe diligently admonished suche as came, so oft as they came, what they shulde do to haue life, and what they shulde obserue, to auoid punishment.

22 Neuertheles, they were not obedient vnto him, but spake against him, and imagined vaine things, 23 And deceiued them selues by their wicked dedes, & denied the power of the moste High, and regarded not his waies.

24 But they despised his Law, and refused his promises: they haue vntaithfully broken his ordinances, and haue not performed his workes.

25 And therefore, Esdras, vnto the emptie are emptie things, & to the ful ful things.

26 Beholde, the time shal come, that these tokens which I haue tolde thee, shal come to passe, and the bride shal appeare, and she shal come forth, and be sene that now is vnder the earth.

27 And whosoeuer shal escape these euils, he shal see my wonders.

28 For my sonne Iesus shal appeare with those that be with him, and they that remaine, shal reioyce within foure hundred yeres.

29 After these same yeres shal my sonne Christ dye, and all men that haue life,

30 And the worlde shalbe turned into the olde silence for seuen dayes, as in the fore iudgements, so that no man shal remaine.

31 But after seuen dayes, the worlde that is yet a slepe, shalbe raised vp: and that shal dye, that is corrupt.

32 Then the earth shal restore those, that haue slept in her, and so shal the dust those that dwell therein in silence, and the secret places shal deliuer the soules that were committed vnto them.

33 And the most High shal appeare vpon the seate of iudgement, and miseries shal vanish away, and long suffering shal haue an end.

34 Iustice onely shal continue: the truth shal remaine, and faith shal be strong.

35 The worke shal followe, and the reward shalbe shewed: the good dedes shalbe of force, and vnrightheousnes shal beare no more rule.

Then

- 36 Then said I, * Abraham prayed first for the Sodomites, and Moyses for the fathers that sinned in the wilderness, 37 And they that came after him, for Israel in the time of Achaz, and Samuel,
38 And * Daud for the destruction, * and Salomon for them that came into the Sanctuarie, 39 * And Elias for those that receiued raine, and for the dead that he might liue, 40 And Ezechias for the people in the time of Sennacherib, and diuerse others for manie.
41 Euen so now, seing vice is increased, & wickednes aboundeth, and the righteous haue prayed for the vngodlie, wherefore shal not the same effect followe also now?
42 Then he answered me, & said, This present life is not the end: oft times honou is retained in it: therefore haue they prayed for the weake.
43 But the day of iudgement shal be the end of this worlde, and the beginning of the immortalitie to come, wherein all corruption shal cease.
44 Intemperancie shal passe away: infidelitie shalbe cut off: righteousness shal growe vp, and the veritie shal spring vp.
45 Thee shal no mā be able to saue him that is destroyed, nor oppresse him that hathe gotten the victorie.
46 I answered then, and said, This is my first and last saying, that it had bene better not to haue giuen the earth vnto Adā, or when it was giuen him, to haue kept him that he shulde not haue sinned.
47 For what profit is it for men in this present life to be in heaumes, and after death to feare punishment?
48 O Adam, what hast thou done: * for in that that thou hast sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but the fall also redundeth vnto vs that come of thee.
49 For what profit is it vnto vs, if there be promised an immortal life, when we do the workes that bring death?
50 And that an euerlasting hope shulde be promised vs, seing that we bitide our selues to deadlie vanitie?
51 And that there shulde be appointed vs dwellings of health and safetie, if we haue liued wickedly?
52 And that the glorie of the moste High shulde be kept to defende thee which haue led a pacient life, if we haue walked in the wicked wayes?
53 And that an eternal Paradise shulde be shewed, whose frute remaineth incorruptible, wherein is safetie and health, if we wil not enter into it?
54 (For we haue bene conuersant in vnpleasant places)

- 55 And that the faces of them, which haue abstained, shulde shine more then starres, if our faces be blacker then darckeness?
56 For while we liued, we did not remēber whe we did vnrighteously, that we shulde suffer after death.
57 Then answered he me, and said, This is the maner of the battel, which man, that is borne in the earth, shal fight, 58 That if he be ouercome, he shulde suffer as thou hast said: but if he get the victorie, he shulde receaue the thing that I said.
59 For this is the life, whereof Moyses spake vnto the people, while he liued, saying, * Chuse thee life that thou maist liue.
60 Neuertheles, they beleued him not, neither the Prophetes after him, nor me also which haue said vnto them, 61 That heaumes shulde not so be to their destruction, as roye shulde come vnto thee, to whom saluacion is perswaded.
62 I answered then and said, I know, Lord, that the moste High is called merciful, in that he hathe mercie vpo them, which are not yet come to that worlde, 63 And y he hathe pitie on those that walke in his Law,
64 And that * he is pacient: for he long suffereth those y haue sinned as his creatures,
65 And that he is liberal: for he wil giue as muche as nedeth,
66 And that he is of great mercie: for he ouercometh in mercie those that are present, and that are past, and them which are to come.
67 For if he were not abundant in his mercies, the worlde colde not continue, nor they that haue the possession thereof.
68 He pardoneth also: for if he gaue not of his goodnes that they, which haue done euil, might be relieued from their wickednes, the ten thousand parte of men shulde not remaine alie.
69 And if he, being iudge, forgave not those that be healed with his worde, and toke away the multitude of sinnes, 70 There shulde peraduenture be verie fewe left in an vnnumerable multitude.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The number of the godlie is small 6 The workes of God are excellent 20 Esdras prayer for him and for his people 39 The promises of saluation to the iust 55 The destruction of the vnjust.

- 1 And he answered me, saying, The most High made this worlde for manie, but the worlde to come for fewe.
2 I wil tel thee a similitude, o Esdras. As whe thou askest the earth, it shal say vnto thee, that it giueth muche earthlie matter to make pottes, but litle dust that golde cometh of, so is it with the worke of this worlde.

Mat 20, 16. 3 *There be manie created, but fewe shalbe saued.
 4 Then answered I, and said, The swalowe vp the wit, & my soule, and deuoure vnderstanding.
 5 For thou hast promised to heare, and thou wilt prophesie: for thou hast no longer space, but the life giuen thee.
 6 O Lord, if thou suffer not thy seruant, that we may intreat thee, that thou maist giue sede vnto our heart, and prepare our vnderstanding, that there may come fruite of it, whereby euerie one which is corrupt, may liue, who can set him self for man?
 7 For thou art alone, and we all are one workmanship of thine hands, as thou hast said.
 8 For when the bodie is facioned now in the wombe, & thou hast giue it members, thy creature is preserved by fyre & water, and the worke, created by thee, doeth suffer nine moneths the creature, which is facioned in it.
 9 But the thing that containeth, and that which is contained, shal bothe be preserved, and when time is come, the wombe, being preserved, deliuereth thy things that growe in it.
 10 For thou hast commended the members, eue the breasts, to giue milke vnto thy fruite appointed to the breasts, 11 That the thing, which is created, may be nourished for a time, til thou disposest it to thy mercie.
 12 Thou bringest it vp with thy righteousness, nurturest it in thy Law, & reformest it with thy iudgement.
 13 Thou slayest it as thy creature, & giuest it life as thy worke.
 14 Seeing then that thou destroyest him, which with so great labours is facioned, it is an easie thing to appoint by thy commaundement, that the thing also which is made, might be preserved.
 15 Now therefore, O Lord, I wil speake (as touching men in general thou shalt rather prouide) but concerning thy people, for whose sake I am sorie, 16 And for thine inheritance for whose cause I mourne: for Israel, for whome I am woful, and for Iacob, for whose sake I am grieved.
 17 For them wil I pray before thee, as wel for my self, as for them: for I see our fautes that dwelt in the land.
 18 ¶ But I haue heard the sudden comming of the iudge, which is to come.
 19 Therefore heare my voyce, and vnderstand my wordes, which I wil speake before thee. The beginning of thy wordes of Esdras, before he was taken vp.
 20 O Lord, that liuest for euer, which beholdest from aboue that which is aboue, and in the ayre,

 21 Whose throne is inestimable, & his glorie incomprehensible, before whome the hoste of the Angels stand with trembling, 22 Whose keeping is turned in winde and fyre, whose worde is true, and sayings stedfast, whose commandement is strong, and gouernement terrible,
 23 Whose loke driueth vp the depths, and wrath maketh thy mountaines to melt away as the thing beareth winnes.
 24 Heare the prayer of thy seruant, and receiue into thine eares the petition of thy creature.
 25 For while I liue, I wil speake, and so long as I haue vnderstanding, I wil answer.
 26 Loke not vpon the sinnes of thy people, rather then thy faithful seruants.
 27 Haue not respect vnto the wicked dedes of men, rather then to them that haue thy testimonies in afflictions.
 28 Thinke not vpon those that haue walked fainedly before thee, but remember them that reuerence thy wil.
 29 Let it not be thy wil to destroye them, which haue liued like beasts, but loke vpon them that haue clearly taught thy Law.
 30 Take not displeasure with them, which appeare worse then beasts, but loue them, that alway put their trust in thy righteousness and glorie.
 31 For we and our fathers haue all the same sickness: but because of vs that are sinners, thou shalt be called merciful.
 32 If therefore thou wilt haue mercie vpon vs, thou shalt be called merciful towards vs which haue no workes of righteousness.
 33 For the righteous, which haue laid vp manie good workes, let them receiue the rewarde of their owne dedes.
 34 But what is man, that thou shuldest take displeasure at him? or what is this mortal generation, that thou shuldest be so grieved towards it?
 35 *For verely there is no man among them 1. King 8. 45. that be borne, but he hath done wickedly, 2. chro 6. 36. nor anie that doeth confesse thee, which hath not done amiss.
 36 For in this, O Lord, thy righteousness and thy goodnes shalbe praised, if thou be merciful vnto them, which haue not the substance of good workes.
 37 ¶ Then answered he me, and said, Some things hast thou spoken aright, and according vnto thy wordes it shalbe.
 38 For I wil not verely consider the workes of them, before the death, before the iudgement, before destruction:
 39 But * I wil reioyce in the wayes of the Gen 4. righteous, and I wil remember the pilgrimage, the saluation and the rewarde that they shal haue.

- 40 Like as I haue spoken now, so shal it come to passe.
- 41 For as the housbād man soweth muche sede vpon the grounde, & planteth many trees, & yet alway the thing that is sown, cometh not vp in time, neither yet doeth all that is plāted, take roote: so neither shal thei all that are brought into the worlde, be saued.
- 42 I answered then & said, If I haue founde grace, let me speake.
- 43 Like as the housbandmans sede perisheth, if it come not vp, and receiue not raine in due season, or if it be destroyed with to muche raine,
- 44 So perisheth man, which is created with thine hands, & thou art called his patern, because he is created to thine image, for whose sake thou hast made all things, and licked him vnto the housbandmans fede.
- 45 Be not wroth with vs, o Lord, but spare thy people & haue mercie vpon thine inheritance: for thou wilt be merciful vnto thy creature.
- 46 Then answered he me, and said, The things present are for the present, and the things to come for suche as be to come.
- 47 For thou art farre of that thou shuldest loue my creature about me: but I haue oft times drawen nere vnto thee and vnto it, but neuer to the vnrighteous.
- 48 In this also thou art maruelous before the Highest,
- 49 In that thou hast humbled thy self, as it becometh thee, and hast not iudged thy self worthy to boast thy self greatly among the righteous.
- 50 For many miseries & calamities remaine for them that shal liue in the latter time, because thei shal walke in great pride.
- 51 But learne thou for thy self, and seke out the glorie for suche as be like thee.
- 52 For vnto you is paradise opened: the tre of life is planted: the time to come is prepared, plenteousnes made ready: the citie is buylded, and rest is prepared, perseuer goodnes and absolute wisdom.
- 53 The roote of euil is sealed vp from you: the weakenes and moth is destroyed from you, and into hell fleeth corruption to be forgotten.
- 54 Sorowes are vanished away, and in the end is shewed y treasure of immortalitie.
- 55 Therefore aske thou no more questions concerning the multitude of them that perish.
- 56 For when thei had libertie, thei despised the most High: they contemned his Law & forsoke his wayes.
- 57 Moreover, they haue troden downe his righteous,
- 58 *Saying in their heart, that there was no God, though they knewe that they shulde dye.
- 59 For as the thing that I haue spoken of, is made readie for you: so is thirst and peine prepared for them: for God wolde not that man shulde perish:
- 60 But they, after that they were created, haue defiled the Name of him that made them, & are vnthankful vnto him, which prepared life for them.
- 61 Therefore my iudgement is now at hād.
- 62 These things haue I not shewed vnto all men, but vnto thee, and to a fewe like thee: then I answered, and said,
- 63 Beholde now, o Lord: thou hast shewed me the many wonders, which thou art determined to do in y last time, but in what time, thou hast not shewed me.

CHAP. IX.

1 All things in this worlde haue a beginning and an end. 10 Torments for the wicked after this life. 15 The number of the wicked is more then of the good. 20 The Jewes ingratitude: 36 Therefore they perish. 38 The vision of a woman lamenting.

- 1 HE answered me then, & said, Measure the time with it self, & when thou seest that one parte of the tokens come to passe, which I haue tolde thee before,
- 2 Then shalt thou vnderstand, that it is the time wherein the moste High wil begin to visite the worlde which he made.
- 3 Therefore whē there shalbe sene an^eerthquake in the worlde, and an uproare of the people,
- 4 The shalt thou vnderstand that the moste High spake of those things, fro the daies that were before thee, euen from the beginning.
- 5 For as all that is made in the worlde, hath a beginning and an end, and the end is manifest,
- 6 So the times also of the moste High haue plaine beginnings in wonders and signes, and end in effect and miracles.
- 7 And euerie one that shal escape safe, & shalbe deliuered by his workes, and by the faith wherein ye haue beleued,
- 8 Shalbe preserued from the said perils and shal se my saluacion in my land, and within my borders: for I haue kept me holy fro the worlde.
- 9 Then shal they haue pitie of them selues, which now haue abused my wayes: & thei that haue cast them out dispitefully, shal dwell in peines.
- 10 For suche as in their life haue receiued benefites, and haue not knowen me,
- 11 But haue abhorred my Law, while they were yet in libertie, and when they had yet leasure of amendment, and wolde not vnderstand but despised it,
- 12 They must be taught it after death by peine.

13 And therefore be thou no more careful, to knowe how the vngodlie shalbe punished, but inquire how the righteous shalbe sauēd, and whose the worlde is, and for whome it is, and when.

14 Then answered I, and said,

15 I haue afore said that which I say now & wil speake it hereafter, that there be many mo of them which perish, then of thē that shalbe* sauēd,

Chap. 9. 3.
mar. 20. 16.

16 As the flood is greater then a drop.

17 And he answered me, saying, As the field is, so is also the sede: as the floures be, so are the colours also: such as the workemā is, such is the worke: and as the housbādman is, so is his housbādrie: for it was the time of the worlde.

18 Surely whē I prepared the worlde, which was not yet made for thē to dwell in that now liue, no man spake against me.

19 For then euerie one obeyed, but now the maners of them that are created in this worlde, that is made, are corrupted by a perpetual sede, & by a Law, whereout they cannot rid them selues.

20 So I considered the worlde, & beholde, there was peril, because of the deuises, that were sprung vp into it.

21 Yet when I sawe it, I spared it greatly, and haue kept me one grape of the cluster, and a plant out of a great people.

22 Let therefore y multitude perish, which are borne in vaine: and let my grape be kept, and my plant, which I haue dressed with great labour.

23 ¶ Neuertheles, if thou wilt cease seuen daies mo(but thou shalt not fast in them,

24 But shalt go into a faire field, where no house is buylded, & shalt eat onely of the floures of the field, and eat no flesh, nor drinke wine, but the floures onely,

25 And pray vnto y moste High continually) then wil I come, and talke with thee.

26 So I went my waye, as he had commanded me, into the field, which is called Ardath, & there I sate among the floures, & did eat of the herbes of the field, and the meat of the same satisfied me.

27 And after seuen dayes, as I sate vpo the grasse, and mine heart was vexed within me, as afore,

28 I opened my mouth, and began to talke before the moste High, and to say,

29 O Lord, when thou woldest shewe thy self vnto vs, * thou declaredst thy self vnto our fathers in the wilderness, in a place where no man dwelleth, in a baren place, when they came out of Egypt,

30 And expressly spakest vnto thā, saying, Hearē me, o Israel, and marke my wordes, thou sede of Iacob.

31 For beholde, I sawe my Law in you, that it may bring forth the frute in you, and that ye may be honored by it for euer.

32 But our fathers, which receiued the Law, kept it not, nether obserued thine ordinances, nether did the frute of the Law appeare, nether colde it, for it was thine.

33 *For they that receiued it, perished because they kept not the thing y was sown in them. Exod. 32. 28.

34 And lo, it is a custome when the ground receiue thē sede, or the sea a ship, or a vessel meat and drinke, if that perish wherein a thing is sowne, or wherein any thing is put,

35 Likewise the thing that is sowne, or is put therein, and the things that are receiued, must perish: so the things that are receiued, do not remaine with vs: but in vs it cometh not so to passe.

36 For we that haue receiued the Law, perish in sinne, and our heart also which receiued it.

37 But the Law perisheth not, but remaineth in his force.

38 ¶ And when I spake these things in mine heart, I loked about me, & vpon the right side * I sawe a woman, which mourned sore, and lamented with a loude voyce, and was grieued in heart, and rent her clothes, and she had ashes vpon her head. Chap. 10. 44.

39 Then I left my thoghts, wherein I was occupied, and turned me vnto her,

40 And said vnto her, wherefore wepest thou? why art thou so sory in minde?

41 And she said vnto me, Syr, let me alone, that I may bewaile my self, and increase sorowe: for I am sore vexed in my minde, and broght verie lowe.

42 Then I said vnto her, What aileth thee? tel me.

43 And she said vnto me, I thy seruant haue bene baren, & haue had no childe, hauing an housband thirtie yeres.

44 And euery houre, & euery day these thirtie yeres I pray to the moste High day & night.

45 And after thirtie yeres God heard me thine handmaid, & loked vpo my miserie, considered my trouble, & gaue me a sonne, & I was glad of him: so was mine housbād also, and all they of my countrey, and we gaue great honour vnto the Almightye.

46 And I nourished him with great travail. 47 So when he grew vpo, and came to take a wife, I made a feast.

CHAP. X

Esdras and the woman that appeareth vnto him, commune together.

1 BVt when my sonne went into his chamber, he fell downe, and dyed.

2 Then we all ouerthrewe the lights, & all my neighbours rose vpo to comfort me: so I rested vntil the seconde day at night.

3 And when they had all left of to comfort me, that I shulde be quiet, thē I rose vpo by night,

*Exod. 19. 9.
Deut. 4. 12.*

- night, & fled, and am come into this field as thou seeft,
- 4 And am not purposed to returne into the citie, but to remaine here, and nether to eat nor drinke, but continually to mourne & fast, vntil I dye.
- 5 Then left I my purpose wherein I was, and spake to her angerly, and said,
- 6 Thou foolish womā aboute all other, seeft thou not our heauines, and what cometh vnto vs?
- 7 For Sion our mother is all woful and is fore afflicted, and mourneth extremely.
- 8 Seeing we be all now in heauines, and make our mone (for we be all sorrowful) art thou sorie for one sonne?
- 9 Demande the earth, and she shal tell thee that it is she which ought to mourne for the fall of so manie that growe vpon her.
- 10 For frō the beginning all men are borne of her, and other shal come, and beholde, they walke almoste all into destruction, & the multitude of them shalbe destroyed.
- 11 Who shulde then rather mourne, she that hath lost so great a multitude, or thou which art sorie but for one?
- 12 But if thou woldest say vnto me, My mourning is not like the mourning of the earth (for I haue lost the frute of my wōbe, which I brought forth with heauines, & bare with sorrowes,
- 13 But the earth is according to the maner of the earth, and the present multitude returneth into her as it came)
- 14 Then say I vnto thee, As thou hast borne with traueil, so the earth also from the beginning giueth her frute vnto man, euen to him that labored her.
- 15 Now therefore withholde thy sorrow in thy self, and beare constantly that which cometh vnto thee.
- 16 For if thou allowest Gods purpose, and receuest his counsel in time, thou shalt be commended therein.
- 17 Go thy way then into the citie to thine housband.
- 18 ¶ Then she said vnto me, I wil not, I wil not go into the citie; but here wil I dye.
- 19 So I continued to speake more with her, and said,
- 20 Do not so, but be counseled: for how manie fallēs hathē Sion? Be of good comfort because of the sorrowe of Ierusalem.
- 21 For thou seeft y^e our Sanctuarie is layed waste: our altar is broken downe: our Temple is destroyed.
- 22 Our psalterion fainteth, and the song ceaseth, and our mirth is vanished away, and the light of our candelsticke is quenched, and the Arke of our couenant is takē away, and our holie things are defiled, and the Name that is called vpon vs, is almoste dishonored, and our children are put to shame, and our Priests are burnt, & our Leuites are caryed into captiuitie, and our virgines are defiled, and our wiues rauished, and our righteous men spoyled, & our children destroyed, and our yong men are brought in bondage, and our strong mē are become weake,
- 23 And, which is the greatest of all, Sion the seale hath lost her worship: for she is deliuered into the hands of them that hate vs.
- 24 And therefore shake of thy great heauines, and put away the multitude of sorrowes, that the Almighty may be merciful vnto thee, and that the moste High may giue thee rest and ease from thy labour.
- 25 And when I was talking with her, her face and beautie shined suddenly, and her countenance was bright, so that I was afrayed of her & mused what it might be.
- 26 And beholde, immediatly she cast out a great voyce, very fearful, so y^e the earth shoke at the noyce of the woman.
- 27 And I looked, and beholde, the woman appeared vnto me nomore: but there was a citie buylded, and a place was shewed frō the grounde and fundacion. Then was I afrayed, and cryed with a loude voyce, and said,
- 28 Where is Vriel the Angel * which came Chap. 4. 1. to me at the first? for he hath caused me to come into manie and depe considerations, and mine end is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke.
- 29 And as I was speaking these wordes, beholde, he came vnto me, and looked vpon me.
- 30 And lo, I laye as one dead, and mine vnderstanding was altered, and he toke me by the right hand and comforted me, and set me vpon my feete, and said vnto me,
- 31 What aileth thee? and why is thine vnderstanding vexed? and the vnderstanding of thine heart? & wherefore art thou sorie?
- 32 And I said, Because thou hast forsaken me, and I haue done * according vnto thy Chap. 5. 20. wordes: I went into the field, and there haue I sene things, & se that I am not able to expresse.
- 33 Then said he vnto me, Stand vp manly, and I wil giue thee exhortacion.
- 34 Then said I, Speake vnto me, my lord, and forsake me not, lest I dye through rashnes.
- 35 For I haue sene that I knewe not, and heare that I do not knowe.
- 36 Or is mine vnderstanding disceiued, or doeth my minde, being haucie, erre?
- 37 Now therefore I beseeche thee that thou wilt shewe thy seruant of this wondre.
- 38 Thē he answered me, and said, Heare me, and I wil informe thee, & tel thee wherefore thou art afrayed: for the moſte High hathe reuiled manie ſecret things vnto thee.

39 He hath ſene thy good purpoſe, that thou art ſorie continually for thy people, and makſt great lamentacion for Sion.

40 Thus therefore is the vnderſtanding of the viſiō, which appeared vnto thee a litle while ago.

41 Thou ſaweſt a womā mourning, & thou beganneſt to comfort her:

42 But now ſeeſt thou the likenes of the woman no more, but there appeared vnto thee a citie buylded.

43 And where as ſhe tolde thee of the death of her ſonne, this is the ſolution,

44 This woman, which thou ſaweſt, ſhe is Sion: and where as ſhe tolde thee (euen ſhe which thou ſeeſt now as a citie buylded)

45 And as touching that ſhe ſaid vnto thee, that ſhe was baren thirtie yeres, this was concerning that, there was euen thirtie yeres wherein there was no offſpring offered in her.

46 But after thirtie yeres, Salomon buylt the citie, and offered offſprings: then bare the bairn a ſonne.

47 And where as ſhe tolde thee, that ſhe nouriſhed him with labour, that was the inhabiting of Ieruſalem.

48 But where as ſhe tolde thee that her ſon-ne, as his chance was, dyed when ſhe came into her chamber, that is the fall that is come to Ieruſalem.

49 And when thou ſaweſt her like one that mourned for her ſonne, thou beganneſt to cōfort her: of theſe things which haue cau-ced theſe are to be opened vnto thee.

50 For now the moſte High ſeeeth, that thou art ſorie in thy mind, & becauſe thou ſuffeſt with all thine heart for her, he ſhewed thee the clerenes of her glorie, and the fair-renes of her beautie.

51 And therefore I bad thee remaine in the field where no houſe was buylt.

52 For I knewe that the moſte High wolde ſhewe theſe things vnto thee.

53 Therefore I commāded thee to go into ſūfield, where no fundaciō nor buylding is.

54 For the worke of mans buylding can not ſtand in that place where the citie of the moſte High ſhulde be ſhewed.

55 And therefore feare not, nether let thine heart be afrayed, but go in, and ſe the beau-tie & greatnes of the buylding as muche as thou art able to ſe with thine eyes.

56 And after this ſhalt thou heare, as muche as thine eares may comprehend.

57 For thou art bleſſed aboue manie, & art called with ſū moſte High among the few.

58 But to morow at night thou ſhalt remaine here,

59 And the moſte High ſhal ſhewe thee viſiōs of high things, which the moſte High wil do vnto them that dwell vpon earth, in the laſt dayes So I ſlept the ſame night & anothei, as he had commanded me.

C H A P. X I.

The viſion of an egie coming furthe of the ſea, and of her feathers. 37 Of a lyon coming out of the foreſt.

Then ſaw I a dreame, & beholde, there came vp from the ſea an egie, which had twelue feathered wings & thre heads.

2 And I ſawe and beholde, ſhe ſpred her wings ouer all the earth, & all the windes of the ayre blew upon her, and gathered them ſilues.

3 And I behelde, & out of her feathers grew out other contrarie feathers, and they became litle feathers and ſmale.

4 But her heads remained ſtil, & the head in the middes was greater than the other heads, yet ruled it with them.

5 Moreouer, I ſawe that the egie ſlewe with his feathers and reigned vpon earth & ouer them that dwelt therein.

6 And I ſawe that all things vnder heauen were ſubiect vnto her, and no man ſpake againſt her, nor not one creature vpon earth.

7 I ſawe alſo that the egie ſtode vp vpon her clawes, & ſpake to her feathers, ſaying,

8 Watch not all together: ſlepe euerie one in his owne place, and watch by courſe.

9 But let the heads be preferred for the laſt.
10 Neuertheles, I ſawe that ſū voice went not out of her heads, but from the middes of her bodie.

11 Then I numbred her contrarie feathers, and beholde, there were eight of them.

12 And I looked, and beholde vpon the right ſide there aroſe one feather, and reigned ouer all the earth.

13 And when it had reigned, the end of it came, and the place thereof appeared no more. So the next ſtode vp, and reigned: it continued a long time.

14 And when it had reigned, the end of it came alſo, and as the fiſt, ſo it appeared no more.

15 Then there came a voyce vnto it, and ſaid,

16 Heare thou that haſt kept the earth ſo long: this I ſay vnto thee, before thou beginneſt to appeare no more,

17 There ſhal none after thee attein vnto thy time, nether to the halfe thereof.

18 Then aroſe the third and reigned as the other afore, and it appeared no more alſo.

19 So came it to all ſū others one after another, ſo that euerie one reigned, and then appeared no more.

20 Then I looked, and beholde in proceſſe of time ſū feathers that followed, ſtode vp on the right ſide, that they might rule alſo, & ſome of the ruled, but within a while they appeared no more.

21 For

- 21 For some of the were set vp, but ruled not.
 22 After this I looked & beholde, & twelve feathers appeared nomore, nor & two wings.
 23 And there was no more vpon the egles bodie, but two heads that rested and six wings.
 24 Then sawe I also that two wings deuilled them selues from the six, and remained vnder the head, that was vpon the right side: for the foure continued in their place.
 25 So I looked, & beholde, the vnderwings thought to set vp them selues, and to haue the rule.
 26 Then was there one set vp, but shortly it appeared no more.
 27 And the second were soner gone then the first.
 28 The I behelde, & lo, the two that remained, thought also in them selues to reigne.
 29 And whē they so thought, beholde, there awaked one of the heads that were at rest, which was in the middes: for that was greater then the two.
 30 And then I sawe, that the two heads were ioyned therewith.
 31 And beholde, the head was turned with them, that were with it, and did eat vp the two vnderwings that wolde haue reigned.
 32 But this head put the whole earth in feare and bare rule in it, ouer all those that dwelt vpon earth with much labour, & it had the gouernāce of the worlde, more the all the wings that had bene.
 33 After this I looked, and beholde, the head that was in the middes, suddenly appeared no more, as did the wings.
 34 But the two heads remained, which also ruled likewise vpon earth, and ouer those that dwelt therein.
 35 And I behelde, and lo the head vpon the right side deuoured that was vpon the left side.
 36 ¶ Then I heard a voyce which said vnto me, Loke before thee, and consider & thing that thou seest.
 37 So I sawe, and beholde as it were a lyon that roareth, renning hastily out of the wood: and I sawe that he sent out a mans voyce vnto the egle, and spake, and said, 38 Heare thou, I wil talke with thee, & the moste High shal say vnto thee, 39 Art not thou that that of the foure beasts remainest, whome I made to reigne in my worlde, that by them the end of times might come,
 40 And the fourth is come, and hath ouercome all the beasts that were past, & hath power ouer the worlde with great fearfulness, and ouer the whole compasse of the earth with moste wicked oppression, and that dwelleth so long time in all & worlde with disceite?
 41 For & hast not iudged the earth wth trueth.
- 42 Seing thou hast troubled the meke, thou hast hurte the peaceable, and thou hast loued lycers, and destroyed the dwellings of them that brought forth frute, & hast cast downe the walles of such as did thee no harme, 43 Therefore is thy wrongful dealing come vp vnto the moste High, and thy pride vnto the Mightie.
 44 The moste High also hath looked vpon the proude times, & beholde, they are ended, and their abominacions are fulfilled.
 45 Therefore appeare no more, thou egle, nor thine horrible wings, nor thy wicked feathers, nor thy malicious heads, and thy wicked clawes, nor all thy vaine bodie, 46 That all the earth may be refreshed, & come againe, as one deliuered from thy violence, & that she may hope for the iudgement and mercie of him that made her

CHAP. XII.

The declaration of the former visions.

- 1 AND when the lion spake these wordes to the egle, I sawe,
 2 And beholde, the head that had the vpper hand, appeared no more, nether did the foure wings appeare any more, that came to it, and set vp them selues to reigne, whose kingdome was smale and ful of vproares.
 3 And I sawe, and beholde, they appeared no more, and the whole bodie of the egle was burnt, so that the earth was in great feare. Then I awaked out of the trouble and trance of my minde, and fro the great feare, and said vnto my spirit, 4 Lo, this hast thou done vnto me in that thou searchest out the waies of the moste High.
 5 Lo, yet am I wearie in my minde, and verie weake in my spirit, and litle strength is there in me, for the great feare that I receiued this night.
 6 Therefore now I wil beseeche the moste High that he wil comfort me vnto the end.
 7 And I said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue founde grace before thy sight, & if I am iustified with thee before many other, and if my prayer in dede be come vp before thy face,
 8 Comfort me, and shewe me thy seruant the interpretacion and difference of this horrible sight, that thou maist perfectly comforte my soule, 9 Seing thou hast iudged me worthie to shewe me the last times.
 10 ¶ Then he said vnto me, This is the interpretacion of this vision, 11 The egle, whome thou sawest come vp from the sea, is the kingdome which was sene in the vision of thy brother Daniel. Dan. 7. 7.
 12 But it was not expounded vnto him. therefore now I declare it vnto thee.
 13 Beholde, the daies come, that there shal

- rise vp a kingdome vpon the earth, and it shalbe feared aboute all kingdomes that were before it.
- 14 In it shal twelue Kings reigne one after another,
- 15 Whereof the seconde shal beginne to reigne and shal haue more time then the twelue.
- 16 And this do the twelue wings signifie, which thou sawest.
- 17 As for the voice that thou heardest speake, and that thou sawest not go out from the heads, but from the middes of the bodie thereof, this is the interpretacion,
- 18 That after the time of that kingdome there shal arise great strife, & it shalbe in danger to fall, but it shal not then fall, but shalbe restored againe to his beginning.
- 19 Concerning the eight vnderwings, which thou sawest hang vnto her wings, this is the interpretacion,
- 20 In him shal arise eight Kings, whose time shal be but smale, and their yeres swift, and two of them shal perish.
- 21 But when the midde time cometh, there shalbe foure kept a time, whiles his time beginneth to come, that it maye be ended, but two shalbe kept vnto the end.
- 22 And where as thou sawest thre heads resting, this is the interpretacion,
- 23 In his last dayes shal y^e moſte High raise vp thre kingdomes, and shal call againe manie things into the, and they shal haue the dominion of the earth,
- 24 And of those that dwell therein, with muche grief aboute all those that were before them: therefore are they called the heads of the egle.
- 25 For they shal accomplish his wickednes, and shal finish his last end.
- 26 And where as thou sawest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth that one of them shal dye vpon his bed, and yet with peine.
- 27 For the two that remaine, the sworde shal deuoure them.
- 28 For the sworde of the one shal deuoure the other: but at the last, shal he fall by the sworde him self.
- 29 And where as y^e sawest two vnderwings, that went of towarde the head, which was on the right side, this is the interpretaciō,
- 30 These are thei whome y^e moſte High hathe preserued for their end, whose kingdome is litle, and ful of trouble as thou sawest.
- 31 And the lyon whome thou sawest rising vp out of the wood and roaring, and speaking vnto the egle, and rebuking hei for her vnrighteousnes with all the wordes that thou hast heard,
- 32 This is the winde which the moſte High hathe kept for them, and for their wickednes vnto the end, & he shal reprove them, and cast before them their spoiles.
- 33 For he shal set them alieue in the iudgement, and shal rebuke them and correct them.
- 34 For he wil deliuer the residue of my people by affliction, which are preserued vpon my borders, and he shal make them ioyful, vntil the comming of the day of iudgement, whereof I haue spoken vnto thee from the beginning.
- 35 This is the dreame that thou sawest, and these are the interpretacions.
- 36 Thou onely hast bene mete to know this secret of the moſte High.
- 37 Therefore write all these things that thou hast sene, in a booke and hide them,
- 38 And teache them the wise of the people, whose hearts thou knowest may comprehend and kepe these secrets.
- 39 But waite thou here yet seuen daies mo, that it may be shewed thee whatsoeuer it pleaseth the moſte High to declare vnto thee: and with that he went his way.
- 40 And when all the people perceiued, that the seuen daies were past, and I not come againe into the citie, they gathered them all together, from the least vnto the moſte, and came vnto me, and spake vnto me, saying,
- 41 What haue we offended thee? or what euil haue we done against thee, that thou forsakest vs, and sittest in this place?
- 42 For of all the people thou onely art left vs as a grape of the vine, and as a candle in a darke place, & as an hauen or shippe preserued from the tempest.
- 43 Are not the euils which are come vnto vs, sufficient?
- 44 If thou then forsake vs, how muche better had it bene for vs, that we had bene burnt also as Sion was burnt?
- 45 For we are no better then they that dyed there: and they wept with a loude voyce, Then answered I them, and said,
- 46 Be of good comfort, o Isiael, and be not heauie, thou house of Iacob.
- 47 For the moſte High hathe you in remembrance, & the Almighty hathe not forgotten you in temptacion.
- 48 As for me I haue not forsake you, nether am I departed from you, but am come into this place to praye for the desolation of Sion, that I might seke mercie for the low estate of your Sanctuarie.
- 49 And now go your way home euerie mā, and after these daies wil I come vnto you.
- 50 So the people went their way into the citie, as I commanded them:
- 51 But I remained stil in the field seuen daies, as he had commanded me, and did eat onely of the floures of the field, & had my meat of the herbes in those daies.

CHAP. XIII.

The vision of a winde coming forth of the sea, which became a man. His properties & power against his enemies. 21 The declaration of this vision.

- 1 AND after the seuen daies I dreamed a dreame by night.
- 2 And beholde, there arose a winde fro the sea, and it moued all the waues thereof.
- 3 And I looked, & beholde, there was a mightie man with the thousands of heauen: and when he turned his countenance to loke, all the things trembled that were sene vnder him.
- 4 And whē the voyce wēt out of his mouth, all they burned that heard his voyce, as the earth faileth when it feeleth the fyre.
- 5 After these things I sawe, and beholde, there was gathered together a multitude of men out of nōber, fro the foure windes of the heauē, to fight against the man that came out from the sea.
- 6 And I looked, and beholde, he graued him self a great mountaine, and flewe vp vpon it.
- 7 But I wolde haue sene the counrei or place whereout the hil was grauen, and I colde not.
- 8 I sawe after these things, and beholde, all they which came to fight against him, were sore afraied, and yet they durst fight.
- 9 Neuertheles, when he sawe the fiercenes of the multitude that came, he lifted not vp his hand: for he helde no sworde nor any instrument of warre,
- 10 But onely, as I sawe, he sent out of his mouth, as it had bene a blaste of fyre, and out of his lippes the winde of the flame, and out of his tongue he cast out sparkes and stormes.
- 11 And they were all mixt together, even this blast of fyre, the winde of the flame, and the great storme, and fell with violence vpon the multitude, which was prepared to fight, and burnt them vp all, so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothing sene, but onely dust, and smel of smoke. When I sawe this, I was afraied.
- 12 ¶ Afterwarde sawe I the same man come downe from the mountaine, and calling vnto him another peaceable multitude.
- 13 And there came many vnto him, some with ioyful countenance, & some with sad: some of thē were bound, and some brought of them that were offred: and I was sicke thorow great feare, and awaked, and said,
- 14 Thou hast shewed thy seruāt these wonders from the beginning, and hast counted me worthie to receiue my praiier.
- 15 Shewe me now therefore the interpretation of this dreame.
- 16 For thus I consider in mine vnderstanding, wo vnto them y shalbe left in those daies, and muche more wo vnto them that are not left behinde.

- 17 For they that were not left, were in heauines.
- 18 Now vnderstand I the things that are laid vp in the latter daies, which shal come bothe vnto them, and to those that are left behinde.
- 19 Therefore are they come into great perils and many necessities, as these dreames declare.
- 20 Yet is it easier, that he that is in danger, shulde fall into these, & forese the things to come hereafter, then to passe away as a cloude out of the worlde.
- 21 ¶ Then answered he me, & said, The interpretation of the vision wil I shewe thee, and I wil open to thee the thing that thou hast required.
- 22 Where as thou hast spoken of them that are left behinde, this is the interpretation,
- 23 He that shal beare the danger in that time, he shal kepe him self. They that be fallen into danger, are suche as haue workes and faith towards the moste Mightie.
- 24 Knowe therefore, that they which be left behinde, are more blessed thē they that be dead.
- 25 These are the meanings of the vision, Where as thou sawest a man coming vp from the middes of the sea,
- 26 The same is he whome the moste High hathe kept a great season, who by his owne self shal deliuer his creature, & he shal order them that are left behinde.
- 27 ¶ And where as thou sawest, that out of his mouth there came as a blast with fyre and storme,
- 28 And y he nerher helde sworde nor weapon, but that by his fiercenes he destroyed the whole multitude, that came to fight against him, this is the interpretation,
- 29 Beholde, the daies come that the moste High wil beginne to deliuer thē that are vpon the earth:
- 30 And he shal astonish the hearts of them that dwell vpon the earth:
- 31 And one shal prepare to fight against another, citie against citie, & place against place, and nation against nation, & realme against realme. Mat. 24. 7.
- 32 When this commeth to passe, then shal the tokens come, that I shewed thee before, & then shal my Sonne be reueiled, whome thou saw: st go vp as a man.
- 33 And when all the people heare his voyce, euerie mā shal in their owne land leaue the battel that they haue one against another.
- 34 And an innumerable multitude shalbe gathered as one, as they that be willing to come, and to fight against him.

35 But he shal stand vpon the toppe of mount Sion.
 36 And Sion shal come, and shalbe shewed to all, being prepared and buylded, as thou sawest the hil grauen forthe without any hands.
 37 And this my Sonne shal rebuke the wicked inuentions of those nacions, which for their wicked life are fallen into the tempest, 38 And into torments like to flame, whereby they shalbe tormented: and without any labour wil he destroy them, euen by the Law, which is compared vnto the fyre.
 39 And where as thou sawest that he gathered another peaceable people vnto him, 40 Those are the ten tribes which were carryed away captiues out of their owne lād, * in the time of Oseas the King, whome Salmanasar the King of the Assyrians toke captiue, and carryed them beyonde the riuer: so were they brought into another land.
 41 But they toke this counsel to the selues, that they wolde leaue the multitude of the heathen, and go forthe into a further countrey, where neuer mankinde dwelt,
 42 That they might there kepe their statutes, which they neuer kept in their owne land.
 43 And they entred in at the narowe passages of the riuer Euphrates.
 44 For the moste High then shewed the signes, * and stayed the springs of the flood til they were passed ouer.
 45 For thorow y^e countrey there was a great iourney, euen of a yere and an halfe, and the same region is called Ararat.
 46 Then dwelt they there vntil the latter time: and when they come forthe againe, 47 The moste High shal holde still the springs of the riuer againe, that they may go thorow: therefore sawest thou the multitude peaceable.
 48 But ther that be left behinde of thy people, are those that be founde within my borders.
 49 Now when he destroyeth the multitude of the nacions that are gathered together, he shal defende the people that remaine, 50 And then shal he shewe great wonders vnto them.
 51 Then said I, O Lord, Lord, shewe me this, wherefore haue I sene the man coming vp from the mides of the sea?
 52 And he said vnto me, As thou canst neither seke out, nor knowe these things, that are in the deepe of the sea, so can no man vpon earth se my Sonne, or those that be with him, but in the time of that day.
 53 This is the interpretation of the dreame which thou sawest, and whereby thou onely art lightened.

54 For thou hast forsaken thine owne Law, and applied thy diligence vnto mine, and sought it.
 55 Thy life hast thou ordered in wisdom, & hast called vnderstanding thy mother.
 56 Therefore haue I shewed thee y^e wardes with the moste High: and after this other daies I wil speake other things vnto thee, and wil declare the great and wonderful things.
 57 Then went I forthe vnto the field, glorifying and praising the moste High for the wonders which he did in time, 58 Which he gouerneth, and suche things as come in their seasons: and there I sate thre dayes.

CHAP. XIII.

How God appeared to Moses in the bush 10 All things decline to age 15 The latter times worse then the former 29 The ingratitude of Israel. 35 The resurrection and iudgement

Vpon the thirde day I sate vnder an oke, and beholde, there came forthe a voyce vnto me out of the bush, & said, Esdras, Esdras?

And I said, Here am I, Lord, & stode vpon my fete.

Then said he vnto me, * In the bush I reueiled my self, and spake vnto Moyses, where my people serued in Egypt: Exo. 3. 6.

And I sent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him vpon the mount Sinai, & I helde him with me a lōg season;

And I tolde him many wōders, & shewed him the secrets of the times and the end, and commanded him, saying,

These wordes shalt thou declare, & these shalt thou hide.

And now I say vnto thee, that thou lay vp in thine heart the signes that I haue shewed, and the dreames that thou hast sene, & the interpretations which thou hast heard.

For thou shalt be taken away from all, and thou shalt remaine hence forthe with my counsel, & with suche as be like thee, vntil the times be ended.

For the worlde hath lost his youth, & the times beginne to waxe olde.

For the worlde is deuided into twelue partes, & ten partes of it are gone already and halfe of the tenth parte.

And there remaineth that which is after the halfe of the tenth parte.

Therefore set thine house in order, and reforme thy people, and comfort suche of them as be in trouble, and now renounce the corruption.

Let go from thee mortal thoughts: cast away from thee the burdens of men, & put of now the weake nature,

And set aside thy moste grievous thoughts, and haue thee to departe from these times.

15 For

2. King 17. 3.

Exod 14. 21.
10f 3. 15.

107. Ararat.

- 15 For greater euils then those, which thou hast sene now, shal thei commit.
- 16 For the weaker that the worlde is by reason of age, the more shal the euils be increased vpon them that dwell therein.
- 17 For the trueth is fled faire away, & lies are at hand: for now hasteth the vision to come, that thou hast sene.
- 18 ¶ Then answered I, and said before thee, 19 Beholde, o Lord, I wil go as thou hast commanded me, and reforme the people, which are present: but they that shal be borne afterwarde, who shal admonish the?
- 20 Thus the worlde is set in darkenes, and they that dwell therein, are without light.
- 21 For thy Law is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the things that are done of thee, or the workes that shalbe done.
- 22 But if I haue founde grace before thee, send the holie Gost into me, & I wil write all that hath bene done in the worlde since the beginning, which was written in thy Law, that men may finde the path, & that they which wil liue in the latter daies, may liue.
- 23 And he answered me, saying, Go, and gather the people, and say vnto them, that they seke thee not for fortie daies,
- 24 But prepare thee many boxe tables, and take with thee these fise, Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Ecanus, and Asiel, which are readie to write swiftly,
- 25 And come hether, & I wil light a candle of vnderstāding in thine heart, which shal not be put out til the things be performed which thou shalt beginne to write.
- 26 And the shalt thou declare some things openly vnto the perfite men, and some things shalt thou shewe secretly vnto the wise to morowe this houre shalt thou beginne to write.
- 27 Then went I forth, as he commanded me, and gathered all the people together, and said,
- 28 Heare these wordes, o Israel,
- 29 *Our fathers at y beginning were strangers in Egypt, from whence they were de-liuered,
- 30 And receiued the Law of life, * which they kept not, which ye also haue trasgressed after them.
- 31 Then was the land, euen the lād of Sion parted amōg you by lot: but your fathers and ye also haue done vnrighteously, and haue not kept the wayes, which the moste High commanded you.
- 32 And for so muche as he is a righteous Iudge, he toke from you in tyme the thing that he had giuen you.
- 33 And now are ye here, and your brethren among you.
- 34 Therefore if so be that ye wil subdue your owne vnderstanding, and reforme
- your heart, ye shalbe kept alieue, and after death shal ye obtaine mercie.
- 35 For after death shal the iudgemēt come, when we shal liue againe: & then shal the names of the righteous be manifest, and the workes of the vngodlie shalbe declared.
- 36 Let no man therefore come now vnto me, nor seke me these fortie daies.
- 37 So I toke the fise men, as he commanded me, and we went into the field, and remained there.
- 38 The next daye beholde, a voyce called me, saying, Esdras, * open thy mouth, and Esdras 3.2
drinke that I giue thee to drinke.
- 39 Then opened I my mouth, and beholde, he reached me a full cuppe, which was full as it were with water: but the colour of it was like fyre.
- 40 And I toke it and dranke, and when I had dronke it, mine heart had vnderstanding and wisdom grewe in my brest: for my spirit was strēgthened in memorie.
- 41 And my mouth was opened, and shut no more.
- 42 The moste High gaue vnderstanding vnto the fise men, that they wrote the hie things of the night, which they vndersto-de not.
- 43 But in the night they did eat bread, but I spake by day, & helde not my tongue by night.
- 44 In fortie daies, they wrote two hundred and foure bokes.
- 45 And when the fortie dayes were fulfilled, the moste High spake, saying, The first that thou hast written, publish openly,
y the worthie and vnworthie may read it.
- 46 But kepe the seuentie last, that thou maiest giue them to the wise among thy people.
- 47 For in them is the veine of vnderstanding, and the fountaine of wisdom, and the riuer of knowledge: and I did so.

20 And punishment vpon the Kings of the earth.

my people the wordes of prophesie, which I wil put in thy mouth, saith the Lord:
- 2 And cause them to be written in a lettre:
for they are faithful and true.
- 3 Feare not the imaginations against thee:
let not the vnfaithfulnes of the speakers gues vpon all the worlde, the sworde, famine, death and destruction:

6 Because that iniquitie hath fully polluted all the earth, and their wicked workes are fulfilled.

7 Therefore, saith the Lord, I wil holde my tongue no more for their wickednes, (they do vngodlie) nether wil I suffer the in the things, that they do wickedly.

*Reuel 6, 10.
19, 2.*

8 Beholde, * the innocent and righteous blood cryeth vnto me, and the soules of the iust crye continually.

9 I wil surely auenge them, saith the Lord, and receiue vnto me all y^e innocent blood from among them.

10 Beholde, my people is led as a flocke to the slaughter: I wil not suffer them now to dwell in the land of Egypt, 11 But I wil bring them out with a mightie hand, and a stretched out arme, & smite it with plagues as afore, & wil destroe all the land thereof.

12 Egypt shal mourne, and the fundacions thereof shalbe smitten with the plague and punishment, that God shal bring vpon it.

13 The plowmen that till the ground, shal mourne: for their sedes shal faile thorow the blasting and haile, and by an horrible starre.

14 Wo to the worlde, & to them that dwell therein.

15 For the sworde and their destruction draweth nere, and one people shal stand vp to fight against another with swordes in their hands.

16 For there shalbe sedicion among men, & one shal inuade another: they shal not regarde their King, & the princes shal measure their doings by their power.

17 A man shal desire to go into a citie, and shal not be able.

18 Because of their pride the cities shalbe troubled, the houses shalbe afraied, & men shal feare.

19 A man shal haue no pitie vpon his neighbour, but shal destroe their houses with the sworde, & their goods shalbe spoyled for lacke of bread, and because of great trouble.

20 Beholde, saith God, I call together all the Kings of the earth to reuerence me, which are from the East, and from the South, from the East, and from Libanus, to turne vpon the, & to repay the things, that they haue done to them.

21 As they do yet this day vnto my chosen, so wil I do also, and recompense them in their bosome: thus saith the Lord God, 22 My right had shal not spare the sinners, nether shal the sworde cease from them, that shed innocent blood vpon earth.

23 The fyre is gone out from his wrath, and hath consumed the fundacions of the earth, and the sinners like the strawe, that is kindled.

24 Wo to them that sinne, and kepe not my commandements, saith the Lord.

25 I wil not spare them: departe, o childre, from the power: defile not my Sanctuarie.

26 For the Lord knoweth all them that sinne against him, and therefore deliuereth he them vnto death and destruction.

27 For now are the plagues come vpon the worlde, and ye shal remaine in them: for God wil not deliuer you, because ye haue sinned against him.

28 Beholde, an horrible vision cometh from the East,

29 Where generacions of dragons of Arabia shal come out with manie charrets, and the multitude of them shalbe caryed as the winde vpon the earth, that all they which heare them, may feare and tremble.

30 Euen the Carmanians raging in wrath, shal go forthe as the bores of the forest, and shal come with great power, and stand against them in battel, and shal destroe a porcion of the land of the Assyrians.

31 But after this shal the dragons haue the vpper hand, and remember their nature, and shal turne about, and conspire to consume them with a great power.

32 Then these shalbe troubled, and kepe silence by their power, and shal flee.

33 From the land of the Assyrians shal the enemy besiege them, and consume some of them, and in their hoste shalbe feare & dread, and strife among their Kings.

34 Beholde cloudes from the East, & from the North vnto the South, and they are verie horrible to loke vpon, ful of wrath and storme.

35 They shal smite one vpon another: and they shal smite downe a great multitude of starres vpon the earth, euen their owne starre, & the blood shalbe from the sworde vnto the bellie,

36 And the dongue of man vnto the Camels litter.

37 And there shalbe great fearefulness, and trembling vpon earth, and thei that fe the wrath, shalbe afraied, and a trembling shal come vpon them.

38 And then there shal come great stormes from the South, and from the North, and parte from the West.

39 And from the East shal windes arise and shal open it with the cloude, which he raised vp in wrath, & y^e starre, raised to feare the East & West winde, shalbe destroyed.

40 And the great, and mightie cloudes shal be lift vp, ful of wrath, and the starre, that they may make all the earth afraied, and them

- them that dwell therein, & that they may powre out ouer euerie hie place, and lifted vp, an horrible constellation,
- 41 As fyre and hayle, and flying swordes, & many waters, that all fields may be full, & all riuers wth the abundāce of great waters.
- 42 And they shal breake downe the cities and walles, and mountaines, and hilles, and the trees of the wood, and the graspe of the medowes, and their corne.
- 43 And they shal go with a streight counse vnto Babylon, and make it afraied.
- 44 They shal come to her, and besiege her, and shal powre forthe the constellation, & all the wrath against her: then shal the dust and smoke go vp vnto the heauen, and all they that be about her, shal bewaile her.
- 45 And they that remaine vnder her, shal do seruice vnto them, y^e haue put her in feare.
- 46 ¶ And thou Asia, that art partaker of the hope of Babylon, and the glorie of her prison,
- 47 Wo vnto thee, o wretch, because thou hast made thy self like vnto her, and hast dect thy daughters in whoredome, y^e they might please & glorie in thy louers, which haue alway desired to comit whoredome with thee.
- 48 Thou hast followed her that is hated in all her workes, and in her inuencions: therefore saith God,
- 49 I wil send plagues vpō thee, wedowed, pouertie, and famine, & the sword, and pestilēce, to waste thine houses with destruction and deare.
- 50 And y^e glorie of thy power shalbe dried vp, as a floure when the heat riseth, that is sent vpon thee.
- 51 Thou shalt be sicke as a poore wife y^e is plagued and beaten of women, so that the mightie and the louers shal not be able to receiue thee.
- 52 Wolde I thus hate thee, saith y^e Lord,
- 53 If thou hadest not alway slaine my chosen, exalting the stroke of thine hands, and said ouer their death, when y^e wast drōken,
- 54 Set forthe y^e beaurie of thy countenance?
- 55 The rewarde of thy whoredome shalbe in thy bosome: therefore shalt thou receiue a rewarde.
- 56 As thou hast done vnto my chosen, saith the Lord, so wil God do vnto thee, & wil deliuer thee vnto the plague.
- 57 And thy children shal dye of hunger, & thou shalt fall by the sword, & thy cities shalbe broken downe, and all thy men shal fall by the sword in the field.
- 58 And they that be in the mountaines shal dye of hunger, and eat their owne flesh, & drinke their owne blood for wāt of bread and thirst of water.
- 59 And thou, as vnhappy, shalt come thorow the sea, and receiue plagues againe,
- 60 In the passage they shal cast downe the slaine citie, and shal roote out one parte of thy land, & consume y^e porcion of thy glorie, & shal retorne to her y^e was destroyed.
- 61 When thou shalt be cast downe, thou shalt be to them as stubble, and they shalbe to thee as fyre.
- 62 And they shal destroy thee, & thy cities, thy land, & thy mountaines: all thy woods and all thy fruteful trees shal they burne with fyre.
- 63 Thy childre shal they carye away captiue, and shal spoile thy substance, & marre the beaurie of thy face.

CHAP. XVI.

Against Babylon, Asia, & Egypt and Syria. 18. 38 Of the evils that shal come vpon the worlde, with admonition how to gouerne them selues in afflictions 54 To acknowledge their finnes, & to comit them selues to the Lord. 55 Whose mightie prouidence and iustice is to be reuerenced

- W O to ther, Babylon & Asia: wo to thee, Egypt and Syria.
- 1 Gird your selues with sacke & heereclothe, and mourne your children, & be sorie: for your destruction is at hand.
- 2 A sworde is sent vnto you, and who wil turne it backe? a fyre is sent among you, & who wil quenche it?
- 3 Plagues are sent vnto you, and who can driue them away?
- 4 May any mā driue away an hungrie lion in the wood? or quenche the fyre in stubble whē it hath once begonne to burne? may one turne againe the arrowe, that is shot of a strong archer?
- 5 The mightie Lord sendeth the plagues, and who can driue them away? the fyre is gone forthe in his wrath, and who can quenche it?
- 6 He shal cast lightnings, & who shal not feare? he shal thunder, and who shal not be afraied?
- 7 The Lord shal threaten, & who shal not vterly be broken in pieces at his presence? the earth quaketh & the fundaciō thereof: the sea ariseth vp with waues frō the depe, & the waues thereof are troubled, & the fishes thereof, before the Lord and the glorie of his power.
- 8 For shōg is his right hand, y^e bendeth the bowe: his arrowes y^e he shooteth, are sharpe, & shal not misse, when they beginne to be shot into the ends of the worlde.
- 9 Beholde, the plagues are sent, & shal not turne againe, til they come vpon earth.
- 10 The fyre is kindled, & shal not be put out, til it consume the fundacions of the earth.
- 11 As an arrow wth is shot of a mightie archer, returneth not backward, so y^e plagues that shalbe set vpō earth, shal not turne againe.
- 12 Wo is me, wo is me: who wil deliuer me in those daies?
- 13 The beginning of sorowes and great

- mourning : the beginning of famine, and great death: the beginning of warres, and the powers shal feare : the beginning of euils, and all shal tremble. What shal I do in these things, when the plagues come?
- 15 Beholde, famine and plague, and trouble, and anguish are sent as scourges for amendment.
- 16 But for all these things they wil not turne fro their wickednes, nor be alway mindful of the scourges.
- 17 Beholde, vitales shalbe so good cheape vpon earth, that they shal thinke them selues to be in good case: but then shal the euils bud forthe vpon earth, euen the sworde, the famine and great confusion.
- 18 For many of them that dwell vpon earth, shal perish with famine, and the other that escape y^e famine, shal the sworde destroy.
- 19 And the dead shalbe cast out as dongue, and there shalbe no man to comforte the: for the earth shalbe wasted, and the cities shalbe cast downe.
- 20 There shalbe no mā left to till the earth, and to sowe it: the trees shal giue frute, but who shal gather them?
- 21 The grapes shalbe ripe, but who shal treade them? for all places shalbe desolate, so that one mā shal desire to se another, or to heare his voyce.
- 22 For of one cite there shalbe ten left, and two of the field, which shal hide them selues in the thicke woods, and in the cleftes of rockes.
- 23 As when there remaine thre or foure oliues in the place where oliues growe, or among other trees,
- 24 Or as whē a vineyarde is gathered, there are left some grapes of them that diligently soght thorowe the vineyarde:
- 25 So in those daies there shalbe thre or foure left by them that seache their houses wth the sworde.
- 26 And the earth shalbe left waste, and the fields thereof shal waxe olde, & her waies and all her paths shal growe full of thornes, because no man shal traueil there-through.
- 27 The virgines shal mourne, hauing no bridegromes: the women shal make lamentacion, hauing no housbands: their daughters shal mourne hauing no helpers.
- 28 In the warres shal their bridegromes be destroyed, and their housbands shal perish with famine.
- 29 But, ye seruants of the Lord, heare these things, and marke them.
- 30 Beholde the worde of the Lord, receaue it: beleue not the gods of whome y^e Lord speaketh: beholde the plagues drawe nere, and are not slacke.
- 31 As a traouailing woma which in the ninth moneth bringeth forthe her sonne, when the houre of birth is come, two or thre houres afore the peines come vpon her bodie, and when the childe cometh to the birth, they tarie not a whit,
- 32 So shal not the plagues be slacke to come vpon the earth, & the worlde shal mourne, & sorowes shal come vpon it on euerie side.
- 33 O my people, heare my worde: make you ready to the battel, and in the troubles be euen as strangers vpon earth.
- 34 He that selleth, let him be as he y^e fleeth his way: & he that byeth, as one y^e wil lose.
- 35 Who so occupieth marchādise, as he that winneth not: and he that buyldeth, as he that shal not dwell therein:
- 36 He y^e soweth, as one that shal not reape: he that cutteth the vine, as he that shal not gather the grapes:
- 37 They that mary, as they that shal get no children: and they that mary not, so as the widdowes.
- 38 Therefore they that labour, labour in vaine.
- 39 For strangers shal reape their frutes, and spoile their goods, and ouerthrowe their houses, and take their children captiue: for in captiuitie & famine shal they get their children.
- 40 And they that occupie their marchādise with couetousnes, the more they decke their cities, their houses, their possessions, and their owne persones,
- 41 So muche more wil I be angrie against them for their sinnes, saith the Lord.
- 42 As a whore enuieth an honest and vertuous woman,
- 43 So shal righteousness hate iniquitie, whē she decketh her self, & shal accuse her openly, when he shal come that shal bridle the autor of all sinne vpon earth.
- 44 And therefore be ye not like thereunto, nor to the workes thereof: for or euer it be long, iniquitie shalbe taken away out of the earth, and righteousness shal reigne among you.
- 45 Let not the sinner say, that he hath not sinned: for coles of fyre shal burne vpon his head, which saith, I haue not sinned before the Lord God and his glorie.
- 46 Beholde, the Lord *knoweth all the workes of men, their imaginaciōs, their thoghtes and their hearts. Luk. 16. 15.
- 47 *For assone as he said, Let the earth be made, it was made: let the heauen be made, and it was created. Gen. 1. 1.
- 48 By his worde were the starres established, and he *knoweth the number of them. Psal. 147. 4.
- 49 He searcheth the depth, and the treasures thereof: he hath measured the sea, and what it containeth.
- 50 He hath shut the sea in the middes of the waters, and with his worde hath he hanged

- hanged the earth vpon the waters.
- 51 He spread:th out the heauē like a vawte: vpon the waters hathe he founde it.
- 52 In the desert hathe he made springs of water, and poles vpon the toppes of the mountaines, to powre out floods from the hie rockes to water the earth.
- 53 He made man, and put his heart in the middes of the bodie, and gaue him breth, life and vnderstanding.
- 54 And the Spirit of the almightie God, which made all things, & hathe searched all the hid things in the secrets of y^e earth,
- 55 He knoweth your inuencions, and what ye imagine in your heart when ye sinne & wolde hide your finnes.
- 56 Therefore hathe the Lord searched and sought out all your workes, and wil put you all to shame.
- 57 And when your finnes are brought forth before man, ye shalbe confounded, and your owne finnes shal stand as your accusers in that day.
- 58 What wil ye do, or how wil ye hide your finnes before God and his Angels?
- 59 Beholde, God him selfe is the iudge: feare him: cease from your finnes, and forget your iniquities, and medle no more from hence forth with them: so shal God lead you forth, and deliuer you from all trouble.
- 60 For beholde, the heate of a great multitude is kindled against you, and they shal take away certene of you, and shal slaye you for meat to the idoles.
- 61 And they that consent vnto them, shalbe had in derision and in reproche, and troden vnder foote.
- 62 For in euery place and cities that are nere, there shalbe great insurrection against those that feare the Lord.
- 63 They shalbe like mad men: they shal spare none: they shal spoyle, & waste suche as yet feare the Lord.
- 64 For they then shal waste and spoile their goods, and cast them out of their houses.
- 65 The shal the tryal of my chosen appeare, as the golde is tryed by the fyre.
- 66 Heare, o ye my beloued, saith the Lord: beholde, the daies of trouble are at hand, but I wil deliuer you from them: be not ye afraid: doute not, for God is your captaine.
- 67 Who so kepeth my commādements and precepts, saith y^e Lord God, let not your finnes weigh you downe, and let not your iniquities lift them selues vp.
- 68 Wo vnto the that are bounde with their finnes, and couered with their iniquities, as a field is hedged in with bushes, and the path thereof couered with thornes, whereby no man may trauail: it is shut vp, and is appointed to be deuoured with fyre.

19 Therefore whē a certene Nineuite had accused me to the King, because I did bury them, I hid my self: and because I knewe that I was sought to be slaine, I withdrewe my self for feare.

To his remembrance.

22 And when Achiacharus had made a request for me, I came againe to Nineue: now Achiacharus was cupbearer & keeper of y signet, & steward, & ouersawe the accōptes: so Sarchedonus appointed him next vnto him, & he was my brothers sonne.

1 Tobit calleth the faithfull to his table. 3 He leaueh the feast to bury the dead 10 How he became blinde 13 His wife laborath for her liuing. 16 She reprocheth him bitterly.

1 NOW when I was come home againe, & my wife Anna was restored vnto me with my sonne Tobias, in the feast of Pentecoste, which is the holy feast of the seuen wekes, there was a great dinner prepared me, in the which I sate downe to eat.

Tobit doeth bid to dinner those which feare God.

2 And when I sawe abundāce of meat, I said to my sonne, Go, & bring what poore man soeuer y shalt finde of our brethrē which doth remēber God, & lo I wil tary for thee.

3 But he came againe, and said, Father, one of our nation is strangled, and is cast out in the market place.

Tobit, leauing his guests, taketh vp the dead bodie into his house to burye it.

4 Thē before I had tasted anie meat, I start vp, and broght him into mine house vntil the going downe of the sunne.

5 Then I returned and walked, and ate my meat in heauines,

6 Remembring that prophecie of * Amos, Amos 8, 18. 1 mac 1, 45. whad said, your solēne feasts shalbe turned into mourning, & your ioyes into wailing.

7 Therefore I wept, & after y going downe of y sunne I wēt & made a graue & buried hī.

8 But my neighbours mocked me, and said, Doeth he not feare, to dye for this cause, who * fled away, and yet, lo, he buryeth the dead againe. Tobit is rebuked of his neighbours. Chap. 2, 23.

9 The same night also when I returned frō the buryal, & slept at y wall of mine house because I was polluted, & hauing my face vncouered,

10 And I knewe not y sparowes were in the walk, & as mine eyes were open, the sparowes cast downe warme dogue into mine eyes, & a whitenes came in mine eies, & I went to the phisiciās who helped me not. Moreouer Achiacharus did nourish me, vntil I went into Elimais. He is made blinde for an example of patience to his posteritie.

11 And my wife Anna did take womens workes to do.

The wife of Tobit laboreth for her liuing.

12 And whē she had sent them home to the owners, thei paid the wages, & gaue a kid.

13 Which whē it was at mine house, and began to bleat, I said vnto her, From whēce is this kid: is it not stolen: render it to the owners: * for it is not lawful to eat anie thing that is stolen. The innocencie of Tobit. Deu. 22, 1.

14 But she said, It was giuē for a gifte more thē y wages: but I did not beleue, & bade her to rēder it to y owners, & I did blufh, because of her. Furthermore she said, * Where are thine almes, & thy righteousnes: behold, they all now appeare in thee. Iob 2, 9.

1 The prayer of Tobit. 7 Sarra Raguel's daughter, & the thing that came vnto her. 12 Her prayer heard. 19 The Angel Raphael sent.

1 THÉ I, being sorowful, did wepe, & in my sorowe prayed, saying,

2 O Lord, thou art iuste, & all thy workes, & all thy wayes are mercie & truerh, and thou iudget truely & iustely for euer.

3 Remēber me & loke on me, nether punish me accordig to my sins or mine ignorāces or my fathers, w haue sinned before thee.

4 For thei haue not obeered thy cōmandemēts: wherefore y hast deliuered vs * for a spoile, & vnto captiuitie, and to death, and for a prouerbe of a reproche to all them among whome we are disperfed, and now "thou hast manie and iuste causes, Deu. 28, 25.

5 To do w me accordig to my sinnes, & my fathers, because we haue not kept thy cōmandemēts, nether haue walked in truerh before thee. "Or, thy indignement is made manifest.

6 Now therefore deale with me as semeth best vnto thee, & cōmande my spirit to be takē frō me, y I may be dissolued, & become earth: for it is better for me to dy thē to liue, because I haue heard false reproches, & am verie sorowful: cōmande therefore that I may be dissolued out of this distresse, and go into the euerlasting place: turne not thy face away from me.

Sarra is checked of her fathers maides.

7 ¶ It came to passe the same day that in Ecbatane a citie of Media Sarra the daughter of Raguel was also reproched by her fathers maides,

8 Because she had bene maryed to seuē housbands, whome Asmodeus the euil spirit had killed, before that they had lien with her. Doeſt thou not knowe, said they, that thou haſt ſtrangled thine housbands: thou haſt had now ſeuē housbāds, nether waſt thou named after anie of them.

Or, when she beate them for their foules, they said.

9 Wherefore doeſt thou beat vs for them? if they be dead, go thy wayes hence to the, that we may neuer ſe of thee ether sonne or daughter.

10 When she heard these things, she was verie sorowful, so that she thought to haue strangled her self. And she said, I am the onely daughter of my father, & if I do this I ſhal ſclander him, and ſhal bring his age to the graue with ſorowe.

Sarra prayeth, & ſaith that ſhe may be deliuered from ſhame.

11 Then she prayed toward the windowe & ſaid, Blessed art thou, o Lord my God, and thine holie & glorious Name is bleſſed, and honorable for euer: let all thy workes praise thee for euer.

12 And now, o Lord, I ſet mine eyes, & my face toward thee, 13 And ſay, Take me out of the earth, that I may heare no more anie reproche.

The innocēcie of Sarra

14 Thou knoweſt, o Lord, that I am pure from all sinne with man,

Her chaſtite.

15 And that I haue neuer polluted my name, nor the name of my father in the land of my captiuitie: I am the onely daughter of my father, nether haſte he anie mā child to be his heiie, nether anie nere kinsman or childe borne of him, to whome I may kepe my ſelf for a wife: my ſeuē housbands are now dead, & why ſhulde I liue? But if it pleaſe not thee that I ſhulde dye, cōmande to loke on me, and to pitie me that I do no more heare reproche.

The prayers of Tobit, and Sarra are heard bothe at a time.

16 So the prayers of them bothe were heard before the maiestie of the great God.

17 And Raphael was ſent to heale them bothe, that is, to take away ſ whiteneſs of Tobits eyes, & to giue Sarra the daughter of Raguel for a wiſeto Tobias the ſonne of Tobit, & to binde Asmodeus ſ euil ſpirit becauſe ſhe belonged to Tobias by right. The ſelf ſame time came Tobit home, and entred into his houſe, and Sarra the daughter of Raguel came downe frō her chāber.

20 *Furthermore I signifie this to thee, that I deliuered ten talents to Gabael the sonne of Gabrias at Rages in Media.

21 And feare not, my sonne, for asmuche as we are made poore: for thou hast manie things, if y feare God, & flee frō sinne, & do y thing which is acceptable vnto him.

CHAP. V.

1 Tobias sent to Rages. 5 He meteth with the Angel Raphael, which did conduct him.

1 Tobias then answered & said, Father, I wil do all things which thou hast commanded me.

2 But how can I receiue the siluer, seing I knowe him not?

3 Then he gaue him the hand writing, and said vnto him, Seke thee a man, which may go with thee, whiles I yet liue, and I wil giue him wages, and go and receiue the money.

4 Therefore when he was gone to seke a man, he founde Raphael the Angel.

5 But he knewe not, & said vnto him, May I go with thee into the land of Media? and knowest thou those places wel?

6 To whome the Angel said, I wil go with thee: for I haue remained with our brother Gabael.

7 Then Tobias said to him, Tarie for me, til I tell my father.

8 Then he said vnto him, Go, and tary not: so he went in & said to his father, Beholde, I haue founde one, which wil go with me. Then he said, Call him vnto me, that I may know of what tribe he is, and whether he be faithful to go with thee.

9 So he called him, and he came in, & they saluted one another.

10 Thē Tobit said vnto hī, Brother, shewe me of what tribe and familie thou art.

11 To whome he said, Dost y seke a stocke or familie, or an hired man to go with thy sonne? Then Tobit said vnto him, I wolde knowe thy kindred and thy name.

12 Then he said, I am of the kindred of Azarias & Ananias y great, & of thy brethrē.

13 Then Tobit said, Thou art welcome: be not now angrie with me, because I haue enquired to knowe thy kindred, and thy familie: for thou art my brother of an honest and good stocke: for I knewe Ananias and Ionathas, sonnes of that great Samaias: for we went together to Ierusalem to worship, and offred the first borne, & the tēths of the frutes, and they were not deceiued with y error of our brethien: my brother, thou art of a great stocke.

14 But tel me, what wages shal I giue thee? wilt thou a grote a day & things necessarie, as to mine owne sonne?

15 Yea, moreouer if ye returne safe, I wil adde some thing to the wages.

16 So they agreed. Then said he to Tobias, Prepare thy self for the iourney, and go you on Gods Name. And whē his sonne had prepared all things for the iourney, his father said, Go thou with this man, & God which dwelleth in heauen, prosper your iourney, and the Angel of God kepe you companie. So they went forthe bothe and departed, and the dogge of the yong man with them.

17 But * Anna his mother wept, and said to Tobit, Why hast thou sent away our sonne? is he not the staffe of our hand to minister vnto vs?

18 Wolde to God we had not laid money vpō money, but that it had bene cast away in respect of our sonne.

19 For that which God hathe giuen vs to liue with, doeth suffice vs.

20 Then said Tobit, Be not careful, my sister: he shal returne in safetie, & thine eyes shal se him.

21 For the good Angel doeth kepe him cōpanie, and his iourney shal be prosperous, and he shal returne safe.

22 Then she made an end of weping.

CHAP. VI.

2 Tobias deliuered from the fish. 3 Raphael sheweth him certaine medecines. 10 He conducteth him toward Sarra.

1 And as they went on their iourney, they came at night to the flood Tygris, and there abode.

2 And when the yong man went to wash him self, a fish leaped out of the riuier, and wolde haue deuoured him.

3 Then the Angel said vnto him, Take the fish. And the yong man toke the fish, and drewe it to land.

4 To whome the Angel said, Cut the fish, and take the heart, and the liuer, and the gall, and put them vp surely.

5 So the yong man did as the Angel commanded him: & when they had rosted the fish, they ate it: then they bothe went on their way, til they came to Ecbatane.

6 ¶ Then the yong man said to the Angel, Brother Azarias, what auailth the heart, and the liuer, and the gall of the fish?

trouble any, we must make a perfume of this before the man or the woman, and he shalbe no more vexed.

8 As for the gall, anoint a man that hathe whitenes in his eyes, and he shalbe healed.

9 ¶ And when they were come neere to Rages,

10 The Angel said to the yong man, Brother, to day we shal lodge wth Raguel, who is thy cousin: he also hathe one onelie daughter named Sarra: I wil speake for her that she may be giuen thee for a wife.

Nomb 27. 8. 11 For to thee doeth^{*} the right of her pertaine, seing thou alone art remnant of his kinred, 12 And the maid is faire and wise: now therefore heare me, and I wil speake to her father, that we may make the mariage when we are returned from Rages: for I knowe that Raguel cā not marie her to another according to the Law of Moyses: els he shulde deferue death, because the right doeth rather appertaine to thee then to anie other man.

13 Then the yong man answered the Angel, I haue heard, brother Azarias, that this maid hathe bene giuen to seuen men, who all dyed in the mariage chamber:

14 And I am the onely begotten sonne of my father, and I am afraied, lest I go into her, and dye as the other: for a wicked spirit loueth her, which hurteth no bodie, but those which come into her: wherefore I also feare lest I dye, and bring my fathers and my mothers life because of me to the graue with sorrow: for thei haue no other sonne to burye them.

15 Then the Angel said vnto him, Doeſt thou not remēber the precepts which thy father gaue thee, that thou shuldest marie a wife of thine owne kinred: wherefore heare me, o my brother: for she shalbe thy wife, nether beſt careful of the euil spirit: for this same night shal she be giuen thee in mariage.

16 And when thou shalt go into thy bed, thou shalt take of the hote coles for perfumes, and make a perfume of the heart, and of the liuer of the fish,

17 Which if the spirit do smell, he wil flee away, and neuer come againe anie more: but when thou shalt come to her, rise vp bothe of you, and praye to God which is merciful, who wil haue pittie on you, and saue you: feare not, for she is appointed vn to thee from the beginning, & thou shalt kepe her, & she shal go with thee: moreover I suppose that she shal beare thee children: now when Tobias had heard these things, he loued her, and his heart was effectually ioyned to her.

CHAP. VII.

Tobias marryeth Sarra Raguels daughter.

1 And when they were come to Ecbatane, they came to the house of Raguel: and Sarra met them, and after they had saluted one another, she broght them into the house.

Raphael & Tobias come to Raguel.

2 Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this yong man to Tobit my cousin?

3 And Raguel asked, Whence are you, my brethré? To whome thei said, that thei were of the tribe of Nephthalim, and of the captiues that dwelt at Nineue.

4 Thē he said to them, Do ye knowe Tobit our kinsman? And they said, We knowe him. Then said he, Is he in good health?

5 And they said, He is bothe aliue, and in good health: and Tobias said, He is my father.

6 Then Raguel leaped, and kissed him, and wept,

7 And blessed him, & said vnto him, Thou art the sonne of a good and honest man: but when he had heard that Tobit was blinde, he was sorowful and wept.

8 And likewise Edna his wife, and Sarra his daughter wept. Moreouer they receiued them with a readie minde, and after that they had killed a ram of the flocke, thei set much meat on the table. Thē said Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, put forthe those things whereof thou spakest in the waye, that this busines may be dispatched.

Tobias affreth Raguels daughter to wife

9 So he communicated the matter with Raguel, and Raguel said to Tobias, Eat, and drinke and make merry.

10 For it is mete that thou shuldest marie my daughter: neuertheles, I wil declare vn to thee the trueth.

11 I haue giuen my daughter in mariage to seuen men, who dyed that night which thei came in vnto her: neuertheles, be thou of a good courage and merry. But Tobias said, I wil eat nothing here, vntil ye bring her hether, and betrothe her to me.

12 Raguel said then, Marie her then according to the custome: for thou art her cousin, and she is thine. God which is merciful, make this prosperous to you in all good things.

13 Then he called his daughter Sarra, & she came to her father, and he toke her by the hand, & gaue her for wife to Tobias, saying, Beholde, take her after the^{*} Law of Moyses, and lead her away to thy father: and he blessed them,

Raguel giueth his daughter Sarra to Tobias

14 And called his wife Edna, and he toke a boke and wrote a contract, and sealed it.

15 Then they began to eate.

16 After, Raguel called his wife Edna, and said vnto her, Sister, prepare another chā-ber, and bring her in thether.

- 17 Which when she had done, as he had bidden her, she brought her thether: then Sarra wept and her mother wiped away her daughters teares, 18 And said vnto her, Be of good comfort, my daughter: the Lord of heauen & earth giue thee ioye for this thy sorrow: be of good comfort, my daughter.

CHAP. VIII.

Tobias driueth away the euil spirit 4 He prayeth to God with his wife 11 Raguel prepareth a graue for his sonne in law. 16 Raguel bleisseth the Lord.

- 1 AND when they had supped, they brought Tobias in vnto her.
2 And as he went, he remembered the wordes of Raphael, & toke coles for perfumes, and put the heart and liuer of the fish thereupon, and made a perfume.

Tobias followeth Raphaels counsell, as Chap 6, 7

- 3 The which smel when the euil spirit had smelled, he fled into the vtmost partes of Egypt, whome the Angel bounde.
4 And after that they were bothe shut in, Tobias rose out of the bed, and said, Sister, arise and let vs pray, that God wolde haue pittie on vs.

Tobias praier

Gen 2, 7.

- 5 Then began Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, O God of our fathers, and blessed is thine holic and glorious Name for euer: let the heaucns blesse thee, and all thy creatures.
6 Thou madest Adam, and gauest him *Eua his wife for an helpe, and stay: of them came mankinde: thou hast said, It is not good, that a man shulde be alone: let vs make vnto him an aide like vnto him self.
7 And now, O Lord, I take not this my sister for fornicacion, but vprightly: therefore grante me mercie, that we may become aged tog: ther.

- 8 And she said with him, Amen.

Raguel, thinking Tobias was dead, made a graue for him.

- 9 So they slept bothe that night, and Raguel arose, and went and made a graue, saying, Is not he dead also?
10 But when Raguel was come into his house,
11 He said to his wife Edna, Send one of the maides, and let them se whether he be aliue: if not, that I may burye him, & none knowe it.
12 So the maid opened the doore, and went in, and founde them bothe a slepe, 13 And came forth, and tolde them that he was a liue.

Raguel Praisseth God for Tobias.

- 14 The Raguel praised God, & said, O God, thou art worthis to be praised with all pure, & holic praise: therefore let thy Saintes praise thee with all thy creatures, and let all thine Angels and thine elect praise thee for euer.
15 Thou art to be praised, O Lord: for thou hast made me ioyful, and that is not come to me which I suspected: but thou hast dealt with vs according to great mercie.

- 17 Thou art to be praised because thou hast had mercie of two that were the onely begotten children of their fathers: grante them mercie, O Lord, & finish their life in health with ioye and mercie.

- 18 Then Raguel bade his seruants to fil the graue

- 19 And he kept the wedding feast fourtene daies.

- 20 For Raguel had said vnto him by an othe, that he shulde not departe before that the fourtene daies of the mariage were expired,

- 21 And then he shulde take the halfe of his goods and returne in safetie to his father, and shulde haue the rest, when he and his wife were dead.

Raguel giueth halfe of his goods toward the mariage of his daughter to Tobias.

CHAP. IX.

Raphael leadeth Gabael to Tobias mariage.

- 1 THEN Tobias called Raphael, & said vnto him,

- 2 Brother Azarias, take with thee a seruant and two camels, and go to Rages of the Medes to Gabael, and bring me the money and bring him to the wedding.

- 3 For Raguel hath sworne that I shal not departe.

- 4 But my father counteth the daies: and if I tary long, he wil be verie sory.

Tobias care for his sonne.

- 5 So Raphael went out and came to Gabael, and gaue him the hand writing, who brought forth the bagges which were sealed vp, and gaue them to him.

The Angel goeth on Tobias message.

- 6 And in the morning they went forth, bothe together, and came to the wedding. And Tobias begate his wife with childe.

CHAP. X.

- 1 Tobit and his wife thinke long for their sonne. 10 Raguel sendeth away Tobias and Sarra.

- 1 NOW Tobit his father counted euery day, & when the daies of the iournay were expired, and they came not,

- 2 Tobit said, Are they not mocked? or is not Gabael dead, and there is no man to giue him the money?

The father & mother are in heaucns for Tobias tarying

- 3 Therefore he was verie sory.

- 4 Then his wife said to him, My sonne is dead, seing he taryeth: and she began to bewaile him, and said,

- 5 Now * I care for nothing, my sonne, since I haue lost thee the light of mine eyes.

Chap 1, 23.

- 6 To whome Tobit said, Holde thy peace: be not careful, for he is safe.

- 7 But she said, Holde thy peace, and deceiue me not: my sonne is dead: and she went out euery day by the waye, which they went, nether did she eat meat on the daye time, & did consume whole nights in bewailing her sonne Tobias vntil the fourtene tene daies of the wedding were expired, w Raguel had swoine, that he shulde taise there. Then Tobias said to Raguel, Let me go: for my father and my mother loke no more to se me.

8 But his father in law said vnto him, Take with me, and I will send to thy father, and they shal declare him thine affaires.

9 But Tobias said, No, but let me go to my father.

Raguel giueth Tobias, & his wife leave to departe.

10 Then Raguel arose, and gaue him Sarra his wife, and halfe his goods, as seruants, and cattel, and money, 11 And he blessed them, & sent them away, saying, The God of heauen make you, my children, to prosper before I dye.

Sarra is instructed by her parents.

12 And he said to his daughter, Honour thy father, & thy mother in law which are now thy parents, that I may heare good reporte of thee: and he kissed them. Edna also said to Tobias, The Lord of heauen restore thee, my deere brother, and giante that I may se thy children of my daughter Sarra: that I may reioyce before the Lord. Beholde now, I committe to thee my daughter as a pledge: do not intreat her euil.

CHAP. XI.

1 The returne of Tobias to his father. 9 How he was received. 10 His father hath his sight restored and praiseth the Lord.

1 After these things Tobias went his way, praising God that he had giuen him a prosperous iournay, and blessed Raguel and Edna his wife, and went on his way till he drew nere to Nineue.

2 Then Raphael said to Tobias, Thou knowest, brother, how thou didst leaue thy father.

The Angels counsell to Tobias.

3 Let vs haste be fore thy wife, and prepare the house,

4 And take in thine hand the gall of the fish. So they went their way, & the dogge followed them.

5 Now Anna sate in the way looking for her sonne,

6 Whome when she sawe coming, she said to her father, beholde, thy sonne cometh, & the man that went with him.

7 Then said Raphael, I knowe, Tobias, that thy father shal receiue his sight.

8 Therefore anoint his eyes with the gall, and being pricked therewith, he shal rubbe and make the whitenes to fall away, and shal se thee.

9 ¶ Then Anna ranne forth, and fel on the necke of her sonne, and said vnto him, Seeing I haue sene thee, my sonne, from hence forth I am content to dye, and they wepte bothe.

10 Tobit also went forth towards the doore, and stombled, but his sonne ranne vnto him, 11 And toke holde of his father & sprinkled of the gall on his fathers eyes, saying, Be of good hope, my father.

12 And when his eyes began to picke, he rubbed them.

13 And the whitenes pilled away from the corners of his eyes, and when he sawe his sonne, he fel vpon his necke,

14 And he wept and said, Blessed art thou, O Lord, & blessed be thy Name for euer, and blessed be all thine holie Angels.

15 For thou hast scourged me, and hast had pittie on me: for beholde, I se my sonne Tobias: and his sonne, being glad went in, & tolde his father the great things that had come to passe in Media.

16 Then Tobit went out to mete his daughter in law, reioycing and praising God to the gate of Nineue: and they which sawe him go, marueiled, because he had receiued his sight.

17 But Tobit testified before them all that God had had pittie on him. And when he came nere to Sarra his daughter in law, he blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God be blessed, which hath brought thee vnto vs, & blessed be thy father: and there was great ioye among all his brethren which were at Nineue.

18 And Achiarus & Nafbas his brothers sonne came.

19 And Tobias mariage was kept seuen dayes with great ioye.

CHAP. XII.

2 Tobias declareth to his father the pleasures that Raphael had done him. 5 The which he wolde recompense 11 15. Raphael declareth that he is an Angel sent of God.

1 Then Tobit called his sonne Tobias, and said vnto him, Prouide, my sonne, wages for the man, which wet with thee, and thou must giue him more.

2 And he said vnto him, O father, it shal not giue me to giue him halfe of those things which I haue broght.

3 For he hath brought me againe to thee in safetie, and hath made whole my wife, and hath brought me the money, & hath likewise healed thee.

4 Then the olde man said, It is due vnto him.

5 So he called the Angel, & said vnto him, Take halfe of all that ye haue broght, and go away in safetie.

6 But he toke them bothe a parte, and said vnto them, Praise God, and confesse him, and giue him the glorie, and praise him for the things which he hath done vnto you before all them that liue. It is good to praise God, and to exalte his Name, and to shewe forth his euident workes with honour: therefore be not weary to confesse him.

- 7 It is good to kepe close the secrets of a King, but it is honorable to reueile the workes of God: do that which is good, & no euil shal touche you.
- 8 Prayer is good with fasting, and almes, & righteousnes. A litle with righteousnes is better then much with vnrighteousnes: it is better to giue almes then to laye vp golde.
- 9 For almes doeth deliuer from death, and doeth purge all sinne. Those which exercise almes and righteousnes, shalbe filled with life.
- 10 But they that sinne, are enemies to their owne life.
- 11 Surely I wil kepe close nothing frō you: neuertheles, I said it was good to kepe close the secret of a King, but that it was honorable to reueile the workes of God.
- 12 Now therefore whē thou didest pray, & Sara thy daughter in lawe, I did bring to memorie your prayer before y^e holie one: & when thou didest burye the dead, I was with thee likewise.
- 13 And when thou wast not grieued to rise vp, and leaue thy dinner to burye the dead, thy good dede was not hid from me: but I was with thee.
- 14 And now God hathe sent me to heale thee, and Sara thy daughter in law.
- 15 I am Raphael one of the seuē holie Angels, which present y^e prayers of the Saintes, and which go forthe before his holie maiestie.
- 16 Then they were bothe troubled, and fell vpon their face: for they feared.
- 17 But he said vnto them, Feare not, for it shal go wel with you: praise God therefore.
- 18 For I came not of mine owne pleasure, but by the good wil of your God: wherefore praise him in all ages.
- 19 *All these dayes I did appeare vnto you, but I did nether eat nor drinke, but you sawe it in vision.
- 20 Now therefore giue God thanks: for I go vp to him that sent me: but write all things which are done, in a booke.
- 21 And when they rose, they sawe him no more.
- 22 Then they confessed the great & wonderful workes of God, and how the Angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

CHAP. XIII.

A thanks giuing of Tobit, who exhorteth all to praise the Lord.

- 1 THen Tobit wrote a prayer of reioicing, and said, Blessed be God that liueth for euer, & bleſſed be his kingdome.
- 2 *For he doeth scourge, and hath pittie: he leadech to hel, and bringeth vp, nether is there anie that can auoide his hand.
- 3 Confesse him before the Gētiles, ye children of Israel: for he hathe scattred you among them.

- 4 There declare his greatnes, and extoll him before all the liuing: for he is our Lord and our God & our father for euer.

5 He hathe scourged vs for our iniquities, and wil haue mercie againe, & wil gather vs out of all naciōs, among whome we are scattred.

6 If you turne to him with your whole heart, and with your whole minde, and deale vprightly before him, then wil he turne vnto you, and wil not hide his face frō you, but ye shal se what he wil do with you: therefore confesse him with your whole mouth, and praise the Lord of righteousness, and extoll the euerlasting King. I wil confesse him in the land of my captiuitie, and wil declare his power, & greatnes to a sinful naciō. O ye sinners, turne & do iustice before him: who can tel if he wil receue you to mercie, and haue pitie on you?

- 7 I wil extoll my God, and my soule shal praise the King of heauen, and shal reioyce in his greatnes.

8 Let all men speake, and let all praise him for his righteousnes.

9 O Ierusalem the holie citie, he wil scourge thee for thy childrens workes, but he wil haue pitie againe on the sōnes of righteous men.

10 Giue praise to the Lord duely, & praise the euerlasting King, that his tabernacle may be buylded in thee againe with ioye: and let him make ioyful there in thee those that are captiues, and loue in thee for euer those that be miserable.

11 Manie naciōs shal come frō farre to the Name of the Lord God, with giftes in their hands, euē giftes to the King of heauen: all generaciōs shal praise thee, & giue signes of ioye.

12 Cursed are all they, which hate thee: but blessed are they for euer which loue thee.

13 Reioyce, and be glad for the children of the iuste: for thei shalbe gathered, and shal blesse the Lord of the iuste.

14 Blessed are they which loue thee: for thei shal reioyce in thy peace. Blessed are they which haue bene sorowful for all thy scourges: for they shal reioyce for thee, when they shal se all thy glorie, and shal reioyce for euer.

15 Let my soule blesse God the great King.

16 For Ierusalem shalbe buylt vp with sapphires, and emerodes, and thy wallies with pretious stones, and thy towres, and thy bulwarkes with pure golde.

17 And the streetes of Ierusalem shalbe paved with beral, and carbuncle, and stones of Ophir.

18 And all her streetes shal say, "Halleluiah, and

CHAP. XIII.

4 Lesson of Tobit to his sonne. 5 He prophesieth the destruction of Nineue. 7 And the restoring of Ierusalem and the Temple. 13 The death of Tobit, and his wife. 16 Tobias age and death.

1 SO Tobit made an end of praising God.

2 And he was eight and fiftie yere olde, when he lost his sight, which was restored to him after eight yere, and he gaue almes, and he continued to feare the Lord God, and to praise him.

3 And when he was verie aged, he called his sonne, and six of his sonnes sonnes, and said to him, My sonne, take thy children (for beholde, I am aged, and am ready to departe out of this life)

4 Go into Media, my sonne: for I beleue that those things which Ionasthe Prophet spake of Nineue, that it shal be destroyed, & for a time peace shal rather be in Media, and that our brethren shal be scattred in the earth from that good land, & Ierusalem shal be desolate, and the House of God in it shal be burned, and shal be desolate for a time.

Ez 4.3, 4. 6. 14.

5 Yet againe God wil haue pitie on them and bring them againe into the lād where they shal buylde a Temple, but not like to the first, vntil the times of that age be fulfilled, & being finished, they shal returne fro euerie place out of captiuitie, & buylde vp Ierusalem gloriously, and the House of God shal be buylt in it for euer with a glorious buylding, as the Prophetes haue spoken thereof.

6 And all nations shal turne, and feare the Lord God truly, & shal burye their idoles.

7 So shal all nations praise the Lord, & his people shal confesse God, and the Lord shal exalte his people, and all those which loue the Lord in trueth and iustice, shal reioyce, & those also which shewe mercie to our brethren.

8 And now, my sonne, departe out of Nineue, because that those things which the Prophet Ionas spake, shal surely come to passe.

9 But kepe thou the Law, & the commandements, & shewe thy self merciful & iust that it may go wel with thee.

10 And burye me honestly, and thy mother with me: but tarie no longer at Nineue. Remember, my sonne, how a man handled Achiacharus that broght him vp, how out of light he broght him into darkenes, and how he rewarded him againe: yet Achiacharus was sauēd, but the other had his rewarde: for he went downe into darkenes. Manasses gaue almes, & escaped the snare of death, which they had set for him, but Aman fell into the snare and perished.

11 Wherefore now, my sonne, consider what almes doeth, and how righteousnes doeth deliuer. Whē he had said these things, he gaue vp the goft in the bed, being an hundred and eight and fiftie yere olde, and he buried him honorably.

Or, his soule failed him as she bed.

12 And when Anna was dead, he buried her with his father: but Tobias went with his wife and children to Ecbatane to Raguel his father in lawe.

13 Where he became olde with honour, and he buried his father and mother in lawe honorably, & he inherited their substance and Tobits his father.

14 And he dyed at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundred and seuē & twentie yere olde.

15 But before he dyed, he heard of the destruction of Nineue, which was taken by Nabuchodonosor and Assuerus, and before his death, he reioyced for Nineue.

IV D E T H.

CHAP. I.

2 The buylding of Ecbatane. 3 Nabuchodonosor made warre against Arphaxad and ouercame him. 12 He threateneth them that wolde not helpe him.

1 IN the twelfth yere of the reigne of Nabuchodonosor, who reigned in Nineue the great citie (in the daies of Arphaxad, which reigned ouer the Medes in Ecbatane,

2 And buylt in Ecbatane the walles rounde about, of hewen stone, thre cubites broad, and six cubites long, and made the height of the wall seuētie cubites, & the breadth thereof fiftie cubites,

3 And made the towres thereof in the gates of it of an hundred cubites, & the breadth thereof in the fundaciō threscore cubites,

4 And made the gates thereof, euen gates that were lifted vp on hie, seuētie cubites, & the breadth of them fortie cubites, for y going forthe of his mightie armies, and for the setting in aray of his foremen)

5 Euen in those daies, King Nabuchodonosor made warre with King Arphaxad in the great field, which is the field in the coastes of Ragau.

6 Then came vnto him all they that dwelt in the mountaines, & all that dwelt by Euphrates, and Tygris and Hydaspes, & the countrey of Arioch the King of the Elymeans, and verie manie nations assembled them selues to the battel of the sonnes of Chelod.

7 And Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians sent vnto all that dwelt in Persia, & to all that dwelt in the West, & to those that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damascus, and Libanus and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt vpon the sea coast,

8 And to the people, that are in Carmel, & Galaad, and the hies Galile, and the great field of Esarelam,

9 And to all that were in Samaria, & the cities thereof, & beyonde Iorden vnto Ierusalem, & Betane, & Chellus, & Cades, & the riuier of Egypt, and Taphnes, and Rameffe and all the land of Gescm, 10 Vnto one come to Tanis, & Memphis, & to all the inhabitants of Egypt, & to one come to the mountaines of Ethiopia.

11 But all the inhabitants of this countrey did not passe for the commandement of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, nether woide they come with him to the battel. for they did not feare him: yea, he was before them as one mā: therefore they sent away his ambassidours from them without offe, & with dishonour.

12 Therefore Nabuchodonosor was very angrie with all this countrey, and swaie by his throne and kingdome that he woide surely be auenged vpon all those coastes of Cilicia and Damascus, and Syria, and that he woide slay with the sword all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Iudea, and all that were in Egypt, till one come to the borders of the two seas.

13 Then he marched in battel aray with his power against King A. phaxad in the sequententh yere, and he preuailed in his battel: for he ouerthrewe all the power of Arphaxad, and all his house men, and all his chariots.

14 And he wanne his cities, and came vnto Echatane, and toke the towres, and spoiled the stretes thereof, and turned the beautie thereof into shame.

15 He toke also Arphaxad in the mountaines of Ragau, & smote him through with his daries and destroyed him viterly that daye.

16 So he returned afterwarde to Nineue, bothe he and all his companie with a verie great multitude of men of warre, and there he passed the time, and banketed, bothe he, and his armie an hundreth and twentie dayes.

CHAP. II.

9 Nabuchodonosor commanded presumptuously that all people shoulde be brought in subjection. 6 And to destroy those that distressed him. 15 The preparation of Olofernes armie. 23 The conquest of his enemies.

And in the eighteenth yere, the two and twentieth day of the first month, there was talke in the house of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, that he shoulde aduenge him selfe on all the earth, as he had spoken.

2 So he called vnto him all his officers and all his nobles, and communicated with the his secret counsel, and set before them with his owne mouth all the malice of the earth.

3 Then they decreed to destroy all flesh, that had not obeyed the commandement of his mouth.

4 And when he had ended his counsel, Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians called Olofernes his chief captaine, and which was next vnto him, and said vnto him,

5 Thus saith the great King, the lord of the whole earth, Beholde, thou shalt go forth from my presence, and take with thee men that trust in their owne strength, of footemen, an hundreth and twentie thousand, & the number of horses with their riders, twelue thousand,

6 And thou shalt go against all the West countrey, because they desobeyed my commandement.

7 And thou shalt declare vnto them, that they prepare for me the land and the water: for I wil go forth in my wrath against them, and wil couer the whole face of the earth with the feere of mine armie, and I wil giue them as a spyle vnto them,

8 So that their wounded shal fill their valleys, & their riuers, & the flood shal overflowe, being filled with their dead.

9 And I wil bring their captiuitie to the utmost partes of all the earth.

10 Thou therefore shalt departe hence, and take vp for me all their countrey: and if they yelde vnto thee, thou shalt reserue the for me vntil the day that I rebuke the.

11 But concerning them that rebell, let not thine eye spare the, but put the to death, & spoyle them wheresoeuer thou goest.

12 For as I liue, and the power of my kingdome, whatsoeuer I haue spoken, that wil I do by mine hand.

13 And take thou heede that thou transgresse nor any of the commandements of thy Lord, but accomplish them fully, as I haue commanded thee, and diffuse not to do them.

14 ¶ Then Olofernes went forth from the presence of his lord, and called all the gouernours, and captaines, and officers of the armie of Assur,

15 And he mustred the chosen men for the battel, as his lord had commanded him, vnto an hundreth & twentie thousand, and twelue thousand archers on horsebacke.

16 And he set them in aray according to the manner of setting a great armie in aray.

17 And he toke camels & asses for their burdens,

- dens, a very great number, and shepe, and oxen, & goates without number for their prouision,
- 18 And vitaille for euerie man of the armie, and very muche golde & siluer out of the Kings house.
- 19 Then he went forth and all his power, to go before in the viage of King Nabuchodonosor, & to couer all the face of the earth Westwarde, with their charets, and horsemen, and chosen fotemen.
- 20 A great multitude also of sundrie sortes came with them like grasshoppers, and like the grauel of the earth: for the multitude was without number.
- 21 And they went forth of Nineue thre daies iornay toward the countrey of Be-tilleth, and pitched from Be-tilleth nere the mountaine which is at the left hand of the vpper Cilicia.
- 22 Then he toke all his armie, his fotemen and horsemen, and charets, and went from thence into the mountaines,
- 23 And he destroyed Phud and Lud, and spoyled all the children of Rasses, and the children of Ismael, which were toward the wildernes at the South of the Chelians.
- 24 Then he went ouer Euphrates, and went through Mesopotamia, & destroyed all the hie cities that were vpon the riuer of Arbounai, vntill one come to the sea.
- 25 And he toke the borders of Cilicia, and destroyed all that resisted him, and came to y borders of Iapheth, which were toward the South and ouer against Arabia.
- 26 He compassed also all the children of Madian, and burnt vp their tabernacles, and spoyled their lodges.
- 27 Then he went downe into the countrey of Damascus, in the time of wheat haruest and burnt vp all their fields, and destroyed their flockes and the herds: he robbed their cities, and spoyled their countrey, and smote all their yong men with the edge of the sworde.
- 28 Therefore feare and trembling fel vpon all the inhabitants of the sea coast, which were in Sidon and Tyrus, and them that dwelt in Sur & Ocina, & all that dwelt in Iemnaan: & they that dwelt in Azotus, & Ascalon feared him greatly.

CHAP. III.

The people subiect to Olofernes & he destroyed their gods that Nabuchodonosor might onely be worshipped.

- 1 SO they sent ambassadours to him with messages of peace, saying,
- 2 Beholde, we are the seruantes of Nabuchodonosor the great King: we lie downe before thee: vse vs as shalbe good in thy sight.
- 3 Beholde, our houses and all our places, and all our fields of wheat, and our floc-kes, and our herdes, and all our lodges and tabernacles lie befoie thy face: vse them as it pleaseth thee.

- 4 Beholde, euen our cities and the inhabitants thereof are thy seruants: come, and take them, as semeth good to thee.
- 5 ¶ So the men came to Olofernes, and declared vnto them after this maner.
- 6 Then came he downe toward the sea coast, bothe he and his armie, and set garisons in the hie cities, and toke out of the chosen men for the warie.
- 7 So they and all the countrey rounde about receiued the, with crownes, with dances, and with timbrels.
- 8 Yet he brake downe all their borders, and cut downe their woods: for it was inuoy- ned him to destroy all the gods of the lād, that all nacions shulde worshipp Nabuchodonosor onely, and that all tongues and tribes shulde call vpon him as God.
- 9 Also he cam against Esdraelon, nere vnto Iudea, ouer against the great sitat of Iudea,
- 10 And he pitched betwene Geba, and a citie of the Scythians, and there he taried a moneth, that he might assemble all y baggage of his armie.

CHAP. IIII.

The Israelites were afrased and defended their countrey. 6 Ioacim the Priest writeth to Bethulia, that they shulde fortifie them selues. 9 They cryed to the Lord, and humbled them selues before him.

NOW the childē of Israel that dwelt in Iudea, heard all that Olofernes the chief captaine of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians had done to the nacions, and how he had spoiled all their temples, and brought them to noight.

2 Therefore they feared greatly his presence, and were troubled for Ierusalem, and for the Temple of the Lord their God.

3 For they were newly returned from the captiuitie, and of late all the people was assembled in Iudea, and the vessels and the altar of the House had bene sanctified because of the pollution.

4 Therefore they sent into all the coastes of Samaria, and the villages, and to Bethoro, and Belmen, and Iericho, and to Choba, and Esora, and to the valley of Salem,

5 And toke all the toppes of the hie mountaines, and walled the villages that were in them, and put in vitailles for the prouision of warre: for their fields were of late reaped.

6 Also Ioacim the hie Priest which was in those daies in Ierusalem, wrote to the that dwelt in Bethulia & Betemestham, which is ouer against Esdraelon toward the open countrey nere to Dothaim,

- 7 Exhorting them to kepe the passages of the mountaines: for by them there was an entrie into Iudea, & it was easie to let the that wolde come vp, because the passage was streit for two men at the moste.
- 8 And the children of Israel did as Ioachim the hie Priest had commanded them with the Ancients of all the people of Israel, which dwelt at Ierusalem.
- 9 Then cryed euerie man of Israel to God with great seruencie, and their soules with great affection.
- 10 Bothe they, and their wiues, & their children, and their cattel, and euerie stranger, and hireling, and their boght seruants put sackcloth vpon their loynes.
- 11 Thus euerie man & woman, and the children, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem fell before the Temple, & sprinkled ashes vpon their heades, and spred out their sackcloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackcloth about the altar,
- 12 And cryed to the God of Israel, all with one consent moste earnestly, that he wolde not giue their children for a pray, and their wiues for a spoyle, and the cities of their inheritance to destruction, & the Sanctuarie to pollution and reproche, and vnto derision to the heathen.
- 13 So God heard their prayers, and looked vpon their affliction: for the people fasted many daies in all Iudea and Ierusalem before the Sactuarie of the Lord almightie.
- 14 And Ioachim the hie Priest, and all the Priests that stode before the Lord, & ministred vnto y Lord, had their loynes girt with sackcloth, and offred the continual burnt offering, with prayers and the fre giftes of the people,
- 15 And had ashes on their mytres, & cryed vnto y Lord with all their power for grace, and that he wolde loke vpo all the house of Israel.
- CHAP. V.
- Achior the Ammonite doeth declare to Olofernes of the manner of the Israelitis.*
- 1 THEN was it declared to Olofernes the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, that the children of Israel had prepared for warre, and had shut the passages of the mountaines, and had walled all the topes of the hie hilles, and had laied impediments in the champion countrey.
- 2 Wherewith he was very angrie, and called all the princes of Moab, and the captaines of Ammon, and all the gouernours of the sea coast.
- 3 And he said vnto the, Shewe me, o ye sonnes of Chanaa, who is this people y dwelleth in the mountaines? and what are the cities that they inhabite? and what is the multitude of their armie? and wherein is their strength and their power? and what King or captaine is raised among them ouer their armie?
- 4 And why haue they determined not to come to mete me, more then all the inhabitants of the West?
- 5 ¶ Then said Achior the captaine of all the sonnes of Ammon, Let my lord heare the worde of the mouth of his seruant, and I wil declare vnto thee the trueth concerning this people, that dwell in these mountaines, nere where thou remainest: & there shal no lie come out of the mouth of thy seruant.
- 6 This people come of the stocke of the Chaldeans.
- 7 And they dwelt before in Mesopotamia, because they wolde not follow the gods of their fathers, which were in the land of Chaldea.
- 8 But they went out of the way of their ancestres and worshipped the God of heauē, the God whome they knewe: so they cast them out from the face of their gods, and they fled into Mesopotamia, & sojourned there many daies.
- 9 Then their God comanded them to departe fro the place where they sojourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan, where they dwelt, and were increased with golde and siluer, and with very much cattel.
- 10 But when a famine couered all the land of Chanaan, they went downe into Egypt, and dwelt there til they returned, and became there a great multitude, so that one colde not number their linage.
- 11 ¶ Therefore the King of Egypt rose vp against them, and vsed deceit against them, and broght them lowe with laboring in bricke, and made them sclaues.
- 12 Then they cryed vnto their God, and he smote all the land of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the Egyptians cast them out of their sight.
- 13 And God dried the red Sea in their presence,
- 14 And broght them into mount Sina and Cades barne, and cast forthe all that dwelt in the wilderness.
- 15 So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, and they destroyed by their strength all them of Eschbon, and passing ouer Iordan, they inherited all the mountaines.
- 16 And they cast forthe before them the Chanaanites & the Pherefites, and the Iebusites, and them of Sichem, and all the Gergesites, and they dwelt in that countrey many daies.
- 17 And whiles they sinned not before their God, they prospered, because the God that hated iniquitie, was with them.
- 18 But when they departed from the way which he appointed them, they were destroyed in many battels after a wonderful sorte,

King 25.1. soite,* & were led captiues into a lād that was not theirs: & the Tēple of their God was cast to the ground & their cities were taken by the enemies.

627.25. 19 But * now they are turned to their God, & are come vp frō the scattering wherein they were scattered, and haue possessed Ierusalem, where their Temple is, and dwell in the mountaines which were desolate.

20 Now therefore, my lord & gouernour, if there be anie faute in this people, so that they haue sinned against their God, let vs consider that this shalbe their ruine, and let vs go vp, and we shal ouercome them.

21 But if there be none iniquitie in this people, let my lord passe by, lest their Lord defend them, and their God be for them, and we become a reproche before all the worlde.

22 ¶ And when Achior had finished these sayings, all the people, standing rounde about the tent, murmured: & the chief men of Olofernes, and all that dwelt by the sea side and in Moab, spake that he shulde kill him.

23 For, say they, we feare not to mete y childen of Israel: for lo, it is a people that haue no strength nor power against a mighty armie.

24 Let vs therefore go vp, o lord Olofernes, and they shal be meat for thy whole armie.

CHAP. VI.

Olofernes blasphemeth God whome Achior confessed. 14 Achior is deliuered into the hands of them of Bethulia. 18 The Bethulians crye vnto the Lord.

1 AND when the tumulte of the men that were about the counsel, was ceased, Olofernes, the chief captaine of the armie of Assur, said vnto Achior before all the people of the strangers, and before all the children of Moab, & of them that were hured of Ephraim,

2 Because thou hast prophesied among vs to day, and hast said that the people of Ierusalem is able to fight, * because their God wil defend them: and who is god but Nabuchodonosor?

3 He wil send his power, and wil destroye them from the face of the earth, and their God shal not deliuer them: but we his seruants wil destroye them as one man: for they are not able to susteine the power of our horses.

4 For we wil tread them vnder fete with them, and their mountaines shalbe drunken with their blood, and their fields shal be filled with their dead bodies, and their fottesteppes shal not be able to stand before vs: but they shal vtterly perishe.

5 The King Nabuchodonosor, lord of all the earth, hath said, euen he hath said,

None of my wordes shalbe in vaine.

6 And thou Achior an hireling of Ammon, because thou hast spoken these wordes in the day of thine iniquitie, thou shalt see my face no more from this day vntil I take vengeance of that people that is come out of Egypt.

7 And then shal the yron of mine armie, and the multitude of them that serue me, passe through thy sides, and thou shalt fall among their slayne, when I shal put them to flight.

8 And my seruants shal cary thee into the mountaines, and they shal leaue thee at one of the hie cities: but thou shalt not perish, til thou be destroyed with them.

9 And if thou persuaide thy self in thy minde, that they shal not be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I haue spoken it, and none of my wordes shalbe in vaine.

10 Then commanded Olofernes them concerning Achior, that they shulde bring him to Bethulia, and deliuer him into the hands of the children of Israel.

11 So his seruants toke him, and broght him out of the campe into the plaine: and they went out from the middes of the plaine into the mountaines, and came vnto the fountaines that were vnder Bethulia.

12 And when the men of the citie sawe the from the toppe of the mountaine, they toke their armour, and went forth of the citie vnto the toppe of the mountaine, euen all the throwers with slings, and kept them from coming vp, by casting stones against them.

13 But they went priuely vnder the hill, & bounde Achior, and left him lying at the fote of the hill, & returned to their lord.

14 Then the Israelites came downe from their citie, and stode about him, and lofed him & broght him into Bethulia, & presented him to the gouernours of their citie,

15 Which were in those daies, Ozias the sonne of Michas, of the tribe of Simcon, and Chabris the sonne of Gothoniell, & Charimis the sonne of Melchiel.

16 And they called together all the Ancients of the citie, and all their youth ranne together, and their women to the assemble: and they set Achior in the middes of all then people. Then Ozias asked him of that which was done.

17 And he answered & declared vnto them the wordes of the counsel of Olofernes, and all the wordes that he had spoken in the middes of the princes of Assur, and whatsoever Olofernes had spoken proudly against the house of Israel.

18 Then the people fel downe and worshipped God, and cryed vnto God, saying,

19 O Lord God of heauen, beholde their pride, and haue mercie on the basenes of

- our people, and beholde this day the face of those that are sanctified vnto thee.
- 30 Then they comforted Achior, & praised him greatly.
- 31 And Ozias toke out of the assemblie into his house, & made a feast to the Elders, and they called on the God of Israel all that night for helpe.

CHAP. VII.

1 Olofernes doeth besiege Bethulia. 8 The counsel of the Idumeans and other against the Israelites. 23 The Bethulians murmure against their gouernours for lacke of water.

- 1 THE next day, Olofernes commanded all his armie and all his people, which were come to take his parte, that they shulde remoue their campes against Bethulia, and that they shulde take all the streites of the hill, and to make waite against the children of Israel.
- 2 Then their strong men remoued their camps in that daye, and the armie of the men of waite was an hundreth thousand and seuentie fotemen, & twelue thousand horsémé, beside the baggage & other men that were asfote among them, a very great multitude.
- 3 And they camped in the plaine nere vnto Bethulia, by the fountaine, and they spred abroad toward Dothaim vnto Belbaim, & and in length from Bethulia vnto Ciamó, which is ouer against Esdraelom.
- 4 Now the children of Israel, when they sawe y^e multitude, were greatly troubled, & said euerie one to his neighbour, Now wil they shut vp all the whole earth: for nether the hie mountaines nor the valleis, nor y^e hilles are able to abide their burden.
- 5 Then euerie one toke his weapōs of warre, and burning fyres in their towres, they remained and watched all that night.
- 6 But in the secōde day, Olofernes broght forthe all his horsemen in the sight of the childré of Israel, which were in Bethulia,
- 7 And vewed the passages vp to their citie, and came to the fountaines of their waters, & toke thē & set garisons of men of warre ouer thē, and remoued toward his people.
- 8 Then came vnto him all the chief of the children of Esau, and all the gouernours of the people of Moab, & all the captaines of the sea coast, and said,
- 9 Let our captaine now heare a worde, lest an inconuenience come in thine armie.
- 10 For this people of the children of Israel do not trust in their speares, but in the height of the mountaines, wherein they dwell, because it is not easy to come vp to the toppes of their mountaines.
- 11 Now therefore, my lord, fight not against them in battel aray, and there shal not so muche as one man of thy people perish.

12 Remaine in thy campe, and kepe all the men of thine armie, and let thy men kepe still the water of the countrey, that cometh forthe at the fote of the mountaine.

13 For all the inhabitants of Bethulia haue their water thereof: so shal thirst kill thē, and they shal giue vp their citie: and we and our people wil go vp to the toppes of the mountaines that are nere, & wil campe vpon them, & watche that none go out of the citie.

14 So thei & their wiues, & their children shalbe consumed with famine, & before the sworde come against thē, they shalbe ouerthrowen in y^e stretes where they dwell.

15 Thus shalt thou réder them an euil reward, because they rebelled & obeyed not thy persone peaceably.

16 And these wordes pleased Olofernes & all his soldiers, and he appointed to do as they had spoken.

17 So the campe of the children of Ammon depatted, & with them fise thousand of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, & toke the waters, and the fountaines of the waters of the childré of Israel.

18 Then the children of Esau went vp with the children of Ammon, & camped in the mountaines ouer against Dorhaim, & thei sent some of thē selues toward the South, and toward the East, ouer against Rebel, which is nere vnto Chusi, that is vpon the riuer Mochmur: and the rest of the armie of the Assyrians camped in the field, and couered the whole land: for their tents & their baggage were pitched in a wonderful great place.

19 Then the children of Israel cryed vnto the Lord their God, because their heart failed: for all their enemies had cōpassed them about, and there was no way to escape out from among them.

20 Thus all the companie of Assur remained about them, bothe their fotemen, chariots and horsemen, foure and thirtie dayes: so that euē all the places of their waters failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia.

21 And the cisternes were emptie, and they had not water ynough to drinke for one day: for they gaue them to drinke by measure.

22 Therefore their children swoned, and their wiues & yong men failed for thirst, and fel downe in the stretes of the citie, & by the passages of the gates, and there was no strength in them.

23 Then all the people assembled to Ozias, and to the chief of the citie, bothe yong men and women, and children, and cryed with a loude voyce, and said before all the Elders,

24 The Lord iudge betwene vs & you: for you haue done vs great iniurie, in that ye haue

- haue not required peace of the children of Assur.
- 25 For now we haue no helper: but God ha- the folde vs into their hands, that we shul- de be throwen downe before them with thirst and great destruction.
- 26 Now therefore call them together, & de- liuer the whole citie for a spoile to y^e peo- ple of Olofernes, and to all his armie.
- 27 For it is better for vs to be made a spoile vnto the, then to dye for thirst: for we wil be his seruants that we may liue, & not se y^e death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wiues, nor our children to dye.
- 28 We take to witnes against you the heaue and the earth, & our God and Lord of our fathers, which punisheth vs, according to our sinnes & the sinnes of our fathers, that he lay not these things to our charge.
- 29 Then there was a great crye of all w^h one cōsent in y^e middes of the assemblie, & thei cryed vnto y^e Lord God w^h a loude voyce.
- 30 Then said Ozias to the, Brethren, be of good courage: let vs waite yet fūe daies, in the which space the Lord our God may turne his mercie toward vs: for he wil not forsake vs in the end.
- 31 And if these daies passe, and there come not helpe vnto vs, I wil do according to your worde.
- 32 So he separated the people, euerie one vn to their charge, & thei wēt vnto the walles and towres of their citie, & sent their wi- ues & their children into their houses, and they were very lowe brought in the citie.
- CHAP. VIII.
- The parentage, life & conuersation of Iudeth. 11 She re- bukethe the faintenes of the gouernours 12 She sheweth that they shulde not tempe God, but wait vpon him for succour. 33 Her enterprise against the enemies.*
- 1 NOW at that time, Iudeth heard the- reof, which was the daughter of Me- rari the sonne of Ox, the sonne of Ioseph, the sonne of Oziel, the sonne of Elcia, the sonne of Ananias, the sonne of Gedeō, the sonne of Raphaim, the sonne of Acito, the sonne of Eliu, the sonne of Eliab, the sonne of Nathanael, the sonne of Samael, y^e son- ne of Salafadai, the sonne of Israel.
- 2 And Manasses was her housband, of her stocke and kinred, who dyed in the barely haruest.
- 3 For as he was diligēt ouer the that boude sheaues in y^e field, the heat came vpon his head, & he fel vpon his bed, & dyed in the citie of Bethulia, & thei buried him with his fathers in the field betwene Dothaim and Balamo.
- 4 So Iudeth was in her house a widowe thre yeres and foure moneths.
- 5 And she made her a tente vpon her house, and put on sackcloth on her loynes, and ware her widowes apparel.
- 6 And she fasted all y^e daies of her widow- hode, saue the day before the Sabbath and the Sabbaths, and the day before the newe moones, & in the feastes & solemne daies of the house of Israel.
- 7 She was also of a goodlie countenance & very beautiful to beholde: & her housband Manasses had left her golde & siluer, and men seruants, and maide seruants, and cat- tel, and possessions, where she remained.
- 8 And there was none y^e colde bring an euil reporte of her: for she feared God greatly.
- 9 Now when she heard y^e euil wordes of the people against the gouernour, because thei fainted for lacke of waters (for Iudeth had heard all the wordes y^e Ozias had spoken vnto them, and that he had s^worne vnto the to deliuer the citie vnto the Assyrians Chap 7.28. within fūe daies)
- 10 Then she sent her maide y^e had the gouer- nement of all things that she had, to call Ozias and Chabris and Charmis the An- cients of the Citie.
- 11 And they came vnto her, and she said vn- to them, Heare me, o ye gouernours of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your wordes y^e ye haue spokē before the people this day, are not right, touching this othe which ye made & pronounced betwene God & you, & haue promised to deliuer y^e citie to the enemies, vnles within these daies the Lord turne to helpe you.
- 12 And now who are you that haue tempted God this day, & set your selues in the place of God among the children of men?
- 13 So now you seke the Lord almighty, but you shal neuer knowe any thing.
- 14 For you can not finde out y^e depth of the heart of mā, nether cā ye perceiue y^e things y^e he thinketh: the how can you seach out God, that hathe made all these things, and knowe his minde, or comprehend his pur- pose? Nay my brethren, prouoke not the Lord our God to anger.
- 15 For if he wil not helpe vs within these fūe daies, he hathe power to defend vs when he wil, euen euerie day, or to destroy vs before our enemies.
- 16 Do not you therefore binde y^e counsels of the Lord our God: for God is not as man that he may be threatned, nether as y^e son- ne of man to be brought to iudgement.
- 17 Therefore let vs waite for saluacion of him & call vpon him to helpe vs, & he wil heare our voyce if it please him.
- 18 For there appeareth none in our age, ne- ther is there any now in these daies, nether tribe, nor familie, nor people, nor citie a- mōg vs, which worship y^e gods made with hands, as hathe bene afore time.
- 19 For y^e which cause our fathers were giuē to the sworde, & for a spoile, & had a great fall before our enemies.
- 20 But we knowe none other God: therefo- Kkkk. ii.

re we trust that he wil not despise vs, nor any of our linage.

21 Nether when we shalbe taken,shal Iudea be so famous: for our Sanctuarie shalbe spoiled, and he wil require the prophanacion thereof at our mouth,

22 And the fear: of our biethren, and the captiuitie of the countrey,& the desolatō of our inheritance wil be turne vpon our heads amōg the Gentiles,where soeuer we shalbe in bondage, & we shalbe an offence & a reproche to all thē that possesse vs.

23 For our seruitude shal not be directed by fauour, but the Lord our God shal turne it to dishonour.

24 Now therfore,ō brethren, let vs shewe an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend vpon vs,& the Sanctuarie, & the House, and the altar rest vpon vs.

25 Moreover, let vs giue thākes to the Lord our God, which tryeth vs euen as he did our fathers.

Gen. 22, 1.

Gen. 22, 7.

26 Remember what things he did to *Abraham, and how he tryed Isaac, and all that he did to *Jacob in Mesopotamia of Syria when he kept the shepe of Laban his mothers brother.

27 For he hath not tryed vs as he did them to the examination of their hearts,nether doeth he take vengeance on vs, but the Lord punisheth for instruction them that come nere to him.

28 ¶ Then said Ozias to her, All that thou hast spoken, hast thou spoken with a good heart, and there is none that is able to resist thy wordes.

29 For it is not to day that thy wisdom is knowen, but from the beginning of thy life all the people haue knowen thy wisdom: for the deuice of thine heart is good.

30 But the people were very thirftie, and compelled vs to do vnto them, as we haue spoken, & haue broght vs to an othe which we may not transgresse.

31 Therefore now pray for vs, because thou art an holy womā, that the Lord may send vs rayne to fill out cisternes, and that we may faint no more.

32 Then said Iudeth vnto them, Hear me, and I wil do a thing, which shalbe declared in all generations, to the children of our nacion.

33 You shal stand this night in the gate, and I wil go forthe with mine handmaid: and within the daies that ye haue promised to deliuer the citie to our enemies, the Lord wil visite Israel by mine hand.

34 But inquire not you of mine acte: for I wil not declare it vnto you, til the things be finished that I do.

35 Then said Ozias & the princes vnto her, Go in peace, and the Lord God be before thee, to take vengeance on our enemies.

So they returned from the tent, and went to their wardes.

CHAP. IX.

Iudeth humbled her self before the Lord, and maketh her prayers for the deliuerance of her people. 7 Against the pride of the Assyrians. 11 God is the helpe of the humble.

1 Then Iudeth fel vpon her face, and put ashes vpon her head, and put of the sackcloth wherewith shewas clothed. And about the time that the incense of that evening was offered in Ierusalē in the House of the Lord, Iudeth cryed with a loude voyce, and said,

2 O Lord God of my father * Simeon, to whom thou gavest a sworde to take ven-

3 geance of the strangers which opened the wombe of the maide, and defiled her, and discovered the thigh with shame, and polluted the wombe to reproche (for thou hadst commanded that it shulde not so be,

4 Yet they did things for the which thou gavest their princes to the slaughter, for they were deceiued & washed their beds with blood) and hast striken the seruants with the gouernours, and the gouernours vpon their thrones,

5 And hast giuen their wiues for a pray and their daughters to be captiues, & all their spoiles for a bootie to y children that thou louedst: which were moued with thy zeale, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, & called vpon thee for aide, ō God, ō my God, heare me also a widdowe.

6 For thou hast wrought the things afore, & these, and the things that shalbe after, and thou cōsiderest the things that are present, and the things that are to come.

7 For the things which y doest purpose, are present, & say, Beholde, we are here: for all thy waies are ready, & thy iudgements are foreknowen.

8 Beholde, the Assyrians are multiplied by their power: they haue exalted thē selues with horses & horsemen: they glorie in the strength of their fotemen: they trust in shield, speare and bowe, and sling, and do not knowe that thou art y Lord that breakest the battels: the Lord is thy Name.

9 Breake thou their strength by thy power, and breake their force by thy wrath: for they haue purposed to defile thy Sanctuarie, & to pollute the tabernacle where thy glorious Name resteth, and to cast downe with weapons the hornes of the altar.

10 Beholde their pride, and send thy wrath vpon their heads: giue into mine hād which am a widow, y strength y I haue cōceiued.

11 Smite by the deceit of my lippes the seruuant with the prince, and the prince with the seruant: abbate their height by the hād of a woman.

12 *For thy power standeth not in the multitude, nor thy might in strōg men: but thou, o Lord, art the helpe of the humble and litle ones, the defender of the weake, & the protector of them that are forsaken, & the Sauour of them that are without hope.

12 Surely, surely thou art the God of my father, & the God of thy inheritance of Israel, the Lord of heauen and earth, the creator of the waters, the King of all creatures: hearethou my prayer,

13 And grant me wordes & craft, & a wounde, and a stroke against the that entrepryse cruel things against thy couenant, and against thine holy House, & against the toppe of Sion, and against the house of the possession of thy children.

14 Shewe euidently among all thy people, & all the tribes, that they may knowe that thou art the God of all power & strength, & that there is none other that defendeth the people of Israel, but thou.

CHAP. X.

1. Iudeth decketh her self & goeth forth to the citie. 2. She is taken of the watch of the Assyrians and brought to Olofernes.

1 NOW after she had ceased to crye vnto the God of Israel, and had made an end of all these wordes,

2 She rose where she had fallen downe, and called her maide, & went downe into the house, in the which she abode in the Sabbath daies and in the feast daies,

3 And putting away the sackcloth wherewith she was clad, & putting of the garments of her widowhode, she washed her body with water, & anointed it with muche ointement, & dressed the heere of her head, and put attire vpon it, and put on her garments of gladnes, wherewith she was clad during the life of Manasses her housbād.

4 And she put slippers on her fete, & put on bracelets, & sleues, and rings, & earrings, & all her ornaments, and she decked her selfe brauely to allure the eyes of all men that shulde see her.

5 Then she gaue her maide a bottel of wine, and a pot of oyle, and filled a scrippe with floure, & with drye figges, & with fine bread: so she lapped vp all these things together and laid them vpon her.

6 Thus they went forth to the gate of the citie of Bethulia, and found standing there Ozias, and the ancients of the citie, Charbis and Charmis.

7 And whē they sawe her that her face was changed, & that her garment was chāged, they marueiled greatly at her wonderful beautie, and said vnto her,

8 The God, thy God of our fathers giue thee fauour, and accomplish thine enterprises to the glorie of the children of Israel, and to the exaltation of Ierusalem. Then they worshipped God.

9 And she said vnto them, Cōmande the gates of the citie to be opened vnto me, that I may go forth to accomplish the things which you haue spoken to me. So they cōmanded the yong men to open vnto her, as she had spoken.

10 And whē they had done so, Iudeth wēt out, she and her maide with her, and the men of the citie looked after her, vntil she was gone downe the mountaine, and til she had passed the valley, and colde see her no more.

11 Thus they went streight forth in the valley, and the first watche of the Assyriās met her,

12 And toke her, & asked her, Of what people art thou? and whēce comest thou? and whether goest thou? And she said, I am a womā of the Hebrewes, and am fled from them: for they shalbe giuen you to be consumed.

13 And I come before Olofernes, the chief captaine of your armie, to declare him true things, and I wil shewe before him the way wherby he shal go and winne all the mountaines, without losing the bodie or life of anie of his men.

14 Now when the men heard her wordes, & behelde her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beautie, and said vnto her,

15 Thou hast saued thy life, in that thou hast hasted to come downe to the presence of our lord: now therefore come to his tente, and some of vs shal cōduct thee vntil thei haue deliured thee into his hāds.

16 And whē thy standest before him, be not afraid in thine heart, but shewe vnto him according as thou hast to say, and he wil intreat thee wel.

17 Then they chose out of the an hundreth men, and prepared a charet for her and her maide, and brought her to the tent of Olofernes.

18 Then there was a running to and fro, throughout the campe: for her comming was bruted among the tentes: & thei came and stode rounde about her: for she stode without the tent of Olofernes vntil they had declared vnto him concerning her.

19 And they marueiled at her beautie, and wondered at the children of Israel because of her, & euerie one said vnto his neighbour, Who wolde despise this people, that haue among the suche women? surely it is not good that one mā of them be left: for if thei shulde remaine, they might deceiue the whole earth.

20 Then Olofernes garde went out, and all his seruantes, and they brought her into the tente.

21 Now Olofernes rested vpon his bed vnder a canopie, which was wouen with purple and golde and emeraudes, and precious stones.

- 22 So they shewed him of her, and he came forthe vnto the entrie of his tent, and they caried lampes of siluer before him.
- 23 And when Iudeth was come before him and his seruants, they all marueiled at the beaurie of her countenance, and she fel downe vpon her face, & did reuerence vnto him, & his seruants toke her vp.

CHAP. XI.

2 Olofernes comforteth Iudeth, 3 And asketh the cause of her coming. 5 She deceiueth him by her fauere wordes.

1 Then said Olofernes vnto her, Woman, be of good comfort: feate not in thine heart: for I neuer hurt any that wolde serue Nabuchodonosor y King of all the earth.

2 Now therefore if thy people that dwel- leth in the mountaines, had not despised me, I wolde not haue lifted vp my speare against them: but they haue procured these things to them selues.

3 But now tel me wherefore thou art fled from them, and art come vnto vs: for thou art come for safegard: be of good confort, thou shalt liue fro this night, & hereafter.

4 For none shal hurt thee, but intreat thee wel, as they do the seruants of King Nabuchodonosor my lord.

5 Then Iudeth said vnto him, Receiue the wordes of thy seruāt, & suffer thine handmaide to speake in thy presence, and I wil declare no lie to my lord this night.

6 And if thou wilt follow the wordes of thine handmaide, God wil bring the thing perfectly to passe by thee, & my lord shal not faile of his purpose.

7 As Nabuchodonosor King of all y earth liueth, and as his power is of force, who hath sent thee to reforme all persones, not onely men shal be made subiect to him by thee, but also the bestes of the fields, & the cattel, & the foules of the heauen shal liue by thy power vnder Nabuchodonosor & all his house.

8 For we haue heard of thy wisdom and of thy prudēt spirit, & it is declared through the whole earth, that thou onely art excellent in all the kingdome, and of a wonderful knowledge, and in feates of warre marueilous.

Chap. xi.

9 Now as concerning the matter which Achior did speake in thy counsel, we haue heard his wordes: for the men of Bethulia did take him, & he declared vnto them all that he had spoken vnto thee.

10 Therefore, o lord & gouernour, reiect not his worde, but set it in thine heart, for it is true: for there is no punishment against our people, nether can the sworde preuaile against them, except they sinne against their God.

11 Now therefore lest my lord shulde be frustrate, and voide of his purpose, & that death may fall vpon them, and that they may be taken in their sinne whiles they prouoke their God to angre, which is so oft times as they do that which is not be- seming, 12 (For because their vittailles faile, and all their water is wasted, they haue determined to take their cattel, and haue purposed to consume all things that God had forbidden them to eat by his Lawes:

13 Yea, they haue purposed to consume the first frutes of the wheat, and the tithes of the wine, and of the oile which they had reserued and sanctified for the Priests that serue in Ierusalem before the face of our God: the which things it is not lawful for anie of the people to touche w their hāds.

14 Moreouer they haue sent to Ierusalem, because they also that dwel there, haue done the like, suche as shulde bring them licence from the Senate)

15 Now when they shal bring them worde, they wil do it, and they shalbe giuen thee to be destroyed the same day.

16 Wherefore I thine handmaide, knowing all this, am fled from their presence, and God hath sent me to worke a thing with thee, whereof all the earth shal wonder, & whosoever shal heare it.

17 For thy seruant feareth God, and worshippeth the God of heauē day and night, and now let me remaine with thee, my lord, and let thy seruant go out in the night into the valley, and I wil pray vnto God, that he may reueile vnto me when they shal commit their sinnes,

18 And I wil come and shewe it vnto thee: then thou shalt go forthe with all thine armie, & there shalbe none of them that shal resist thee.

19 And I wil lead thee through the middes of Iudea, vntil thou come before Ierusalem, and I wil set thy throne in the middes thereof, and thou shalt driue them as shepe that haue no shepherd, and a dogge shal not barke with his mouthe against thee: for these things haue bene spokē vnto me, & declared vnto me accordig to my foreknowledge, and I am sent to shewe thee.

20 ¶ Then her wordes pleased Olofernes, and all his seruants, and they marueiled at her wisdom, and said, 21 There is not suche a woman in all the worlde, bothe for beaurie of face, and wisdom of wordes.

22 Likewise Olofernes said vnto her, God hath done this, to send thee before y people, that strēgth might be in our hāds, and destruction vpo the that despise my lord.

23 And now thou art bothe beautiful in thy countenance, & wittie in thy wordes: surely if thou do as y hast spoken, thy God shalbe my my God, and thou shalt dwell in the house of Nabuchodonosor, & shalt be renowned throughout the whole earth.

CHAP. XII.

1 Iudeth wolde not pollute her self with the meat of the Gentiles. 5 She maketh her request that she might go out by night to pray. 11 Olofernes causeth her to come to the banquet.

Then he commanded to bring her in where his treasures were layed, and bade that they shulde prepare for her of his owne meates, and that she shulde drinke of his owne wine.

*Gen 43. 32.
dan 1. 8.
eccl. 1. 23.*

But Iudeth said, *I may not eat of them, lest there shulde be an offence, but I can suffice my seife with the things that I haue broght.

Then Olofernes said vnto her, If the things that thou hast, shulde faile, how shulde we giue thee the like? for there is none with vs of thy nation.

Then said Iudeth vnto him, As thy soule liueth, my lord, thine handmaide shal not spend those things that I haue, before the Lord worke by mine hand the things that he hath determined.

Then the seruants of Olofernes broght her into the tent, and she slept vntil midnight, and rose at the morning watche,

And sent to Olofernes, saying, Let my lord commāde that thine hādmaide may go forthe vnto prayer.

Then Olofernes commanded his garde that thei shuld not stay her: thus she abode in the campe thre dayes, and went out in the night into the valley of Bethulia, and washed her self in a fountaine, euen in the water by the campe.

And when she came out, she prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, that he wolde direct her way to the exaltation of the children of her people.

So she returned, & remained pure in the tent, vntil she ate her meat at euening.

And in the fourthe day, Olofernes made a feast to his owne seruants onely, and called none of them to the bāket, that had the affaires in hand.

The said he to Bagoas the eunuche who had charge ouer all that he had, Go and persuaue this Hebrew woman, which is with thee, that she come vnto vs and eat, & drinke with vs.

For it were a shame for vs, if we shulde let suche a womā alone, & not talke wth her, & if we do not allure her, she wil mocke vs

Then wēt Bagoas frō the presence of Olofernes, & came to her, & said, Let not this faire maide make difficultie to go into my lord, & to be honored in his presence, and to drinke wine with vs ioyfully, & to be intreated as one of the daughters of the children of Assur, which remaine in the house of Nabuchodonosor.

Then said Iudeth vnto him, Who am I now, that I shulde gaine say my lord? Surely whatfoeuer pleaseth him, I wil do speedely, and it shalbe my ioye vnto the day of my death.

So she arose & trimmed her wth garments, and with all y^e ornaments of women, & her maide wēt, & spred for her skinnies on the groude ouer against Olofernes, which she had receiued of Bagoas for her daily vse, that she might sit and eat vpon them.

Now when Iudeth came & sate downe, Olofernes heart was iaulshed with her, and his spirit was moued, and he desired greatly her companie: for he had waited for the time to deceiue her from the day that he had sene her.

Then said Olofernes vnto her, Drinke now, and be merry with vs.

So Iudeth said, I drinke now, my lord, because my state is exalted this day more then euer it was since I was borne.

The she toke, & ate & drake before him the things, that her maide had prepared.

And Olofernes reioyced because of her & drake muche more wine the he had drūke at anie time in one day since he was borne.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Iudeth praiseth for strength. 2 She smiteth of Olofernes necke. 10 She returneth to Bethulia & reioyceth her people.

Now whē the euening was come, his seruants made haste to departe, and Bagoas shut his tent without, & dismissed those that were present, from the presence of his lord, & they went to their beddes: *for they were all wearie, because the feast had bene long. Eccl. 3. 12.

And Iudeth was left alone in the tent, & Olofernes was stretched along vpon his bed: for he was filled with wine.

Now Iudeth had cōmanded her maide to stād without her chāber, & to waite for her cōming forthe as she did daily: for she said, she wolde go forthe to her prayers, & she spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

So all went forthe of her presence, & none was left in the chāber, nether litle nor great: the Iudeth standing by his bed, said in her heart, O Lord God of all power, behold at this present the workes of mine hands for the exaltation of Ierusalem.

For now is y^e time to helpe thine inheritance, & to execute mine enterprises, to y^e destruction of y^e enemies w^h are risen against vs.

Then she came to the post of y^e bed which was at Olofernes head, & toke downe his fauchin from thence,

And approached to the bed, & toke holde of the heere of his head, and said, Strengthen me, o Lord God of Israel this day.

And she smote twise vpon his necke with all her might, and she toke away his head from him,

9 And roled his bodie downe from the bed, and pulled downe the canopie from the pillars, and anone after she went forth, & gaue Olofernes head to her maid,

10 And she put it in her scrippe of meat: so they twaine went together according to their custome vnto prayer, and pressing through the tentes, went about by that valley, and went vp the mountaine of Bethulia, and came to the gates therof.

11 ¶ The said Iudeth as farre of to the watchmen at the gates, Open now the gate: God, euen our God is with vs to shewe his power yet in Ierusalem, and his foice against his enemies, as he hath euen done this day.

12 Now whē the men of her citie heard her voyce, thei made haste to go downe to the gate of their citie, and they called the Elders of the citie.

13 And thei ranne all together bothe smale and great: for it was about their expectation, that she shulde come. So they opened the gate & receiued her, & made a fyre for a light, & stode rounde about the twaine.

14 Then she said to the with a loude voyce, Praise God, praise God: for he hath not taken away his mercie from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine hands this night.

15 So she toke the head out of the scrippe & shewed it, and said vnto them, Beholde the head of Olofernes, the chief captaine of y^e armie of Assur, and beholde the canopie, wherein he did lie in his drunkēnes, & the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman.

16 As the Lord liueth, who hath kept me in my way: that I went, my countenance hath deceiued him to his destru^{ti}ō, & he hath not comitted sinne with me by any pollution or vilenie.

17 Then all the people were wonderfully astonished, and bowed them selues, and worshiped God, and said with one accorde, Blessed be thou, o our God, which hast this day brought to nought the enemies of thy people.

18 Then said Ozias vnto her, O daughter, blessed art thou of the moste hie God aboue all the women of the earth, and blessed be the Lord God, which hath created the heauens and the earth, which hath directed thee to the cutting of of the head of the chief of our enemies.

19 Surely this thine hope shal neuer departe out of the hearres of men: for they shal remember the power of God for euer.

20 And God turne these things to thee for a perpetual praise, and visite thee with good things, because thou hast not spared thy life, because of the affliction of our nation, but thou hast holpen our ruine, walking a streight way before our God. And all the people said, So be it, so be it.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Iudeth causeth to hang vp the head of Olofernes.

10 Achior wynneth him selfe to the people of God.

11 The Israelites go out against the Assyrians.

1 THEN said Iudeth vnto them, Heare me also, my brethren, and * take this head, and hang it vpon the hiest place of your walles. 2 Mac 15, 31

2 And so sone as the morning shal appeare and the sonne shal come forth vpon the earth, take you euerie one his weapons, and go forth euerie valiant man out of the citie, and set you a captaine ouer them, as though you wolde go downe into the field, towards the watche of the Assyrians, but go not downe.

3 Then they shal take their armour, & shal go into their campe, and raise vp the captaines of the armie of Assur, and they shal runne to the tent of Olofernes, but shal not finde him: then feare shal fall vpon the, and they shal flee before your face.

4 So you and all that inhabite the coastes of Israel, shal pursue them, & ouerthrowe them as they go.

5 But before you do these things, call me Achior the Ammonite, that he may se, and knowe him that despised the house of Israel, and that sent him to vs as to death.

6 Then they called Achior out of the house of Ozias, and when he was come and sawe the head of Olofernes in a certeine mans hand in the assemblie of the people, he fel downe on his face, and his spirit failed.

7 But when they had taken him vp, he fel at Iudeths fete, & reuerenced her, and said, Blessed art thou in all the tabernacle of Iuda, and in all nations, which, hearing thy name, shalbe astonished.

8 Now therefore tel me all the things, that thou hast done in these dayes. The Iudeth declared vnto him in the middes of the people all that she had done from the day that she went forth, vntil that houre she spake vnto them.

9 And whē she had left of speaking, the people reioyced with a great voyce, and made a noyce of gladnes through their citie.

10 And Achior, seing all things that God had done for Israel, beleued in God vnfainedly, and circumcised the foreskine of his flesh, and was ioyned vnto the house of Israel vnto this day.

11 ¶ As sone as the morning arose, thei hanged the head of Olofernes out at the wall, & euerie man toke his weapons, and they went forth by bandes vnto the flaytes of the mountaine.

12 But when the Assyrians sawe them, they sent

- sent to their captaines, which went to the gouernours and chief captaines, and to all their rulers.
- 13 So they came to Olofernes tent and said to him y had the charge of all his things, Wake our lord: for the sclaues haue bene bolde to come downe against vs to battel, that they may be destroyed for euer.
- 14 Then went in Bagoas, & knocked at the dore of the tent: for he thoght that he had slept with Iudeth.
- 15 But because none answered, he opened it, and went into the chamber, and founde him cast vpon the floore, and his head was taken from him.
- 16 Therefore he cryed with a loude voyce, with weping and mouting, & a mightie crye, and rent his garments.
- 17 After, he went into the tent of Iudeth where she vsed to remaine, and founde her nor: then he leaped out to the people and cryed,
- 18 These sclaues haue committed wickednes: one woman of the Hebrewes hath brought shame vpon the house of King Nabuchodonosor: for beholde, Olofernes lieth vpon the ground without an head.
- 19 When the captaines of the Assyrians armie heard these wordes, they rent their coates, and their heart was wonderfully troubled, and there was a crye and a verie great noyce throughout the campe.

CHAP. XV.

2 The Assyrians are afraied and flee. 3 The Israelites pursue them 4 Ioachim the hie Priest cometh to Bethulia to se Iudeth and to praise God for her.

- 1 AND whē thei that were in the tents, heard, they were astonished at the thing that was done.
- 2 And feare and trembling fel vpon them, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour: but altogether amased, thei fled by euerie way of the plaine and of the mountaines.
- 3 They also that had camped in the mountaines rounde about Bethulia, were put to flight: thē the children of Israel, eueryone that was a warriour among them, rushed out vpon them.
- 4 Then sent Ozias to Bethomasthem, and to Bebai, and Chobai, and Chola and to all the coastes of Israel, suche as shulde declare vnto them the things that were done, and that all shulde rushe forth vpon their enemies to destroy them.
- 5 Now when the children of Israel heard it, they all fell vpon them together vnto Choba: likewise also thei that came from Ierusalem & from all the mountaines: for men had tolde thē what things were done in the campe of their enemies, and they that were in Galaad and in Galile chased

- them with a great slaughter vntil they came to Damascus and to the coastes thereof.
- 6 And the residue that dwelt at Bethulia, fel vpon the campe of Assur and spoiled them, and were greatly enriched.
- 7 And the children of Israel that returned from the slaughter, had the rest: & the villages & the cities that were in the mountaines & in the plaine, had a great bootie: for the abundance was verie great.
- 8 Then Ioachim the hie Priest, and the Ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Ierusalem, came to confirme the benefites that God had shewed to Israel, and to se Iudeth, and to salute her.
- 9 And when they came vnto her, thei blessed her with one accorde, & said vnto her, Thou art the exaltacion of Ierusalem: thou art the great glorie of Israel: thou art the great ieroycing of our nacion.
- 10 Thou hast done all these things by thine hand: thou hast done muche good to Israel, & God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the almightie Lord for euermore: and all the people said, So be it.
- 11 And the people spoyled the campe the space of thirtie daies, and thei gaue vnto Iudeth Olofernes tent, and all his siluer & beddes, and basins, and all his stuffe, & she toke it and laied it on her mules, & made readie her charets, & laied them thereon.
- 12 Then all the women of Israel came together to se her, and blessed her, and made a dance among them for her, and she toke branches in her hand, and gaue also to the women that were with her.
- 13 They also crowned her with oliues, and her that was with her, and she went before the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in their armour, with crownes and with songs in their mouthes.

CHAP. XVI.

Iudeth praiseth God with a song. 19 She offereth to the Lord Olofernes stuffe 23 Her continuance, life and death. 25 All Israel lamenteth her.

- 1 THEN Iudeth began this confession in all Israel, and all the people sang this song with a loude voyce.
- 2 And Iudeth said, Beginne vnto my God with tymbrels: sing to my Lord with cymbales: tune vnto him a psalme: exalt his praise, and call vpon his Name.
- 3 For God breaketh the battels, and pitched his campe in the middes of the people, & deliuered me out of the hand of the persecuters.

uered the vallis.

5 He said that he wolde burne vp my borders & kill my yong men with the sworde, and dash the sucking children against the ground, & make mine infants as a pray, and my virgines a spoile.

6 But the almightie Lord hathe broght them to naught by the hand of a woman.

7 For the mightie did not fall by the yong men, nether did the sonnes of Tiran smite him, nor the hie gyants inuade him, but Iudeth the daughter of Merari did discomfite him by the beaurie of her countenance.

8 For she put of the garment of her widowhode, for the exaltacion of those that were oppressed in Israel, and anointed her face with ointment, and bounde vp her heere in a coife, and toke a linen garment to deceiue him.

9 Her slippers rauished his eyes: her beaurie toke his minde prisoner, and the fauchin passed through his necke.

10 The Persians were astonished at her boldenes, and the Medes were troubled with her hardines.

11 But mine afflicted reioyced, & my feble ones showted: then they feared, they lifted vp their voyce and turned backe.

12 The children of maides perced them, and wounded them as they fled away like children: they perished by the battel of the Lord.

13 I wil sing vnto the Lord a song and praise, O Lord, thou art great and glorious, maruelous and inuincible in power.

*Gen 1,24.
Isal 33,9.*

14 Let all thy creatures serue thee: * for thou hast spoken and they were made: thou hast sent thy Spirit, and he made them vp: & there is none that can resist thy voyce.

15 For the mountaines leape vp from their fundacions with the waters: the rockes melt at thy presence like waxe: yet thou art merciful to them that feare thee.

16 For all sacrifice is to litle for a swete sauour, and all the fat is to litle for thy burne offering: but he that feareth the Lord, is great at all times.

17 Wo to the nations that rise vp against my kinred: the Lord almightie wil take vengeance of them in the day of iudgement, in sending fyre and wormes vpon their flesh, and they shal fele them & wepe for euer.

18 ¶ After, when they went vnto Ierusalem, they worshipped the Lord, and assone as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, and their fre offerings, and their giftes.

19 Iudeth also offered all the stufte of Olofenes, which the people had giuen her, and gaue the canopie which she had taken of his bed, for an oblacion to the Lord.

20 So the people reioyced in Ierusalem by the Sanctuarie, for the space of thre moneths, and Iudeth remained with them.

21 After this time, euerie one returned to his owne inheritance, and Iudeth went to Bethulia, and remained in her owne possession, and was for her time honorable in all the countrey.

22 And manie desired her, but none had her companie all the dayes of her life after that Manasses her housband was dead, & was gathered to "his people.

101 her people

23 But she increased more and more in honour, and waxed olde in her housbands house, being an hundreth and fiue yere olde, & made her maid fre: so she dyed in Bethulia, and they buryed her in the graue of her housband Manasses.

24 And * the house of Israel lamented her Gen 50,10 seuen daies, & before she dyed, she did distribute her goods to all them that were nereft of kinred to Manasses her housband, and to them that were the nereft of her kinred.

25 And there was none that made the children of Israel anie more afraid in the daies of Iudeth, nor a long time after her death.

Which follow the tenth chapter.

4 THEN Mardocheus said, God hathe done these things.
5 For I remember a dreame, which I sawe concerning these matters, and there was nothing thereof omitted.

6 A litle fountaine which became a flood, and was a light, and as the sunne, & as much water, this flood was Esther whome the King married, and made Queene.

7 And the two dragons are I and Aman.

8 And the people are they that are assembled to destroye the name of the Iewes.

9 And my people is Isiael, which cryed to God, and are sauéd: for the Lord hathe sauéd his people, and the Lord hathe deliuered vs from all these euils, and God hathe wrought signes, and great wonders, which haue not bene done among the Gentiles.

10 Therefore hathe he made two lottes, one for the people of God, and another for all the Gentiles.

11 And these two lottes came before God for all nations, at the houre and time appointed, and in the day of iudgement.

12 So God remembred his owne people, & iustified his inheritance.

13 Therefore those dayes shalbe vnto the in the moneth Adar y^e fortenth and fifteth day of the same moneth, with an assemblie and ioye, and with gladnes before God, according to the generations for euer among his people.

CHAP. XI.

1 IN the fourth yere of the reigne of Ptolomeus and Cleopatra Dositheus, who said he was a Priest and Leuite, and Ptolomeus his sonne, that brought the former letters of Phrurais, which thei said Lysimachus the sonne of Ptolomeus, which was at Ierusalem, interpreted,

2 In the second yere of the reigne of great Artaxerxes in the first day of the moneth Nisan Mardocheus the sonne of Iarus, the sonne of Semei the sonne of Cis of the tribe of Benjamin had a dreame,

3 A Iewe dwelling in the citie of Susis, a noble man, that bare office in y^e Kings court.

4 He was also one of the captiuitie which Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon brought from Ierusalem with Iechonias.

5 And this was his dreame, Beholde a noice of a tempest with thunders, and earth quakes, and vproare in the land.

6 Beholde two great dragons came forth ready to fight one against another.

7 Their crye was great, whereby all the heathen were ready to fight against the righteous people.

8 And the same day was ful of darkenes & obscuritie, & trouble, & anguish: yea, aduersitie, and great affliction was vpon y^e earth.

9 For then the righteous fearing their afflictions, were amased, and being ready to dye, cryed vnto God.

10 And while they were crying, the litle wel grewe into a great riuer, and flowed ouer with great waters.

11 The light & the sunne rose vp, & y^e lowlie were exalted, & deuoured the glorious.

12 Now when Mardocheus had sene this dreame, he awoke and rose vp and thought in his heart vntil y^e night, what God wolde do, & so he desired to know all the matter.

CHAP. XII.

1 AT the same time dwelt Mardocheus in the Kings court with Bagathas, and Thara, the Kings eunuches & keepers of the palace.

2 *But when he heard their purpose, and their imaginacions, he perceued that they went about to lay their hands vpon the King Artaxerxes, and so he certified the King thereof.

3 Then caused the King to examine y^e two eunuches with torments, and when they had confessed it, they were put to death.

4 This the King caused to be put in the Chronicles. Mardocheus also wrote the same thing.

5 So the King comāded that Mardocheus shulde remaine in the court, and for the aduertisement, he gaue him a rewarde.

6 But Amā the sonne of Amadathus y^e Agagite, w^h was in great honour and reputacion with the King, went about to hurt Mardocheus & his people, because of the two eunuches of y^e King y^e were put to death.

Esther 2, 22, & 6, 2.

Ioseph Ant. 11. 11. chap 6.

- 2 When I was made lord ouer manie people, & had subdued the whole earth vnto my dominion, I wolde not exalte my self by the reason of my power, but purposed with equitie alway and gētelines to gouerne my subiects, and wholly to set them in a peaceable life, and thereby to bring my kingdome vnto tranquillitie, that mē might safely go thorow on euerie side, and to renew peace againe, which all men desire.
- 3 Now when I asked my counsellers how these things might be brought to passe, one that was conuersant with vs, of excellent wisdom, and constant in good wil, and shewed him self to be of sure fidelitie, which had the seconde place in the kingdome, euen Aman,
- 4 Declared vnto vs, that in all naciōs there was scatered abroade a rebellious people, that had Lawes contrarie to all people, and haue alway dispised the commandments of Kings, and so that this general empire, that we haue begonne, can not be gouerned without offence.
- 5 Seing now we perceiue, that this people alone are altogether contrarie vnto euerie man, vsing strange and other maner of lawes, and hauing an euil opinion of our doings, and go about to stablishe wicked matters, that our kingdome shulde not come to good estate,
- 6 Therefore haue we commanded, that all they that are appointed in writing vnto you by Aman (which is ordeined ouer the affaires, & is as our seconde father) shal all with their wiues and childrē be destroyed and rooted out with the sworde of their enemies without all mercie, and that none be spared the fortieth day of the twelfth moneth Adar of this yere,
- 7 That they which of olde, and now also haue euer bene rebellious, may in one day with violence be thruste downe into the hell, to the intente that after this time our affaires may be without troubles, and wel gouerned in all pointes.
- 8 Then Mardocheus thoght vpon all the workes and of the Lord, and made his prayer vnto him,
- 9 Saying, O Lord, Lord, the King almighty (for all things are in thy power) and if thou hast appointed to saue Israel, there is no man that can withstande thee.
- 10 For thou hast made heauen and earth, and all the wonderous things vnder the heauen.
- 11 Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can resist thee, which art the Lord.
- 12 Thou knowest all things, & thou knowest, Lord, that it was nether of malice, nor presumption, nor for anie desire of glorie, that I did this, and not bowe downe to proude Aman.
- 13 For I wolde haue bene cōtent with good wil for the saluation of Israel, to haue kist the sole of his fete.
- 14 But I did it, because I wolde not preferre the honour of a man about the glorie of God, and wolde not worship anie but onely thee, my Lord, and this haue I not done of pride.
- 15 And therefore, o Lord God and King, haue mercie vpon thy people: for they imagine how they may bring vs to naught, yea, they wolde destroye the inheritance, that hath bene thine frō the beginning.
- 16 Dispise not the porcion, which thou hast deliuered out of Egypt for thine owne self.
- 17 Heare my prayer, and be merciful vnto thy portion: turne our sorowe into ioye, that we may liue, o Lord, and praise thy Name: shut not the mouthes of them that praise thee.
- 18 All Israel in like maner cryed most earnestly vnto the Lord, because that death was before their eyes.

CHAP. KIIII.

The prayer of Esther for the deliuerance of her, and her people.

- 1 Q Vene Esther also, being in danger of death, resorted vnto the Lord,
- 2 And laid away her glorious apparel, and put on the garments of sighing, and mourning. In the stead of precious ointement, she scatered ashes, and dongue vpon her head: and she humbled her bodie greatly with fasting, and all the places of her ioye filled she with the heere that she plucked of.
- 3 And she prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, saying, O my Lord, thou onely art our King: helpe me desolate womā, which haue no helper but thee.
- 4 For my danger is at hand.
- 5 Frō my youth vp I haue heard in the kindred of my father, that thou, o Lord, tokest Israel from among all people, and our fathers from their predecessours for a perpetual inheritance, and thou hast performed that which thou didest promise them.
- 6 Now Lord, we haue sinned before thee: therefore hast thou giuen vs into the hāds of our enemies.
- 7 Because we worshipped their gods, o Lord, thou art righteous.
- 8 Neuertheles, it satisfieth them not, that we are in bitter captiuitie, but they haue stroken hands with their idoles,
- 9 That they wil abolish the thing that thou with thy mouth hast ordeined, & destroye thine inheritance, to shut vp the mouthes of them that praise thee, and to quence the glorie of thy tēple, and of thine altar,
- 10 And

- 10 And to open the mouthes of the heathen, that they may praise the power of the idoles, and to magnifie a fleshlie King for euer.
- 11 O Lord, giue not thy scepter vnto them that be nothing, lest they laugh vs to scorne in our miserie: but turne their deuise vpon them selues, and make him an example, that hath begonne the same against vs.
- 12 Thinke vpon vs, o Lord, and shewe thy self vnto vs in the time of our distress, and strengthen me, o King of gods, and Lord of all power.
- 13 Giue me an eloquent speache in my mouth before the Lion: turne his heart to hate our enemy, to destroye him, and all suche as consent vnto him.
- 14 But deliuer vs with thine hand, and helpe me that am solitarie, which haue no defence but onely thee.
- 15 Thou knowest all things, o Lord: thou knowest, that I hate the glorie of the vnrighteous, & that I abhorre the bed of the vncircumcised, and of all the heathen.
- 16 Thou knowest my necessitie: for I hate this token of my preeminence, which I beare vpon mine head, what time as I must shewe my self, & that I abhorre it as a monstrous cloth, & that I weare it not when I am alone by my self,
- 17 And that I thine hand maide haue not eaten at Amans table, and that I haue had no pleasure in the Kings feast, nor drunke the wine of the drinke offerings,
- 18 And that I thine hand maide haue no ioye sence the day that I was brought hether, vntil this day, but in thee, o Lord God of Abraham.
- 19 O thou mightie God aboute all, heare the voyce of them, that haue none other hope, and deliuer vs out of the hand of the wicked, and deliuer me out of my feare.

CHAP. XV.

1 Mardocheus moueth Esther to go in to the King and make intercession for her people. 2 And she performeth his request.

- 1 Mardocheus also bade Esther to go in vnto the King, and pray for her people, and for her countrey.
- 2 Remember, saith he, the daies of thy lowe estate, how thou wast nourished vnder mine hand: for Aman which is next vnto the King, hath giuen sentence of death against vs.
- 3 Call thou therefore vpon the Lord, and speake for vs vnto the King, and deliuer vs from death.
- 4 And vpon the thirde day when she had ended her prayer, she laid away the mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparel,

- 5 And decke her self goodly, after that she had called vpon God, which is the beholder and sauour of all things, & toke two handmaidens with her.
- 6 Vpon the one she leaned her self, as one that was tender.
- 7 And the other followed her, and bare the traine of her vesture.
- 8 The shine of her beautie made her face rose coloured: and her face was chearful & amiable, but her heart was sorowful for great feare.
- 9 Then she went in thorow all the dores, and stode before the King, and the King fate vpon his royal throne, & was clothed in his goodlie araye, all glittering with golde and precious stones, and he was very terrible.
- 10 Then he lift vp his face, that shone with maiestie, and looked fiercely vpon her: therefore the Quene fel downe, and was pale and faint and leaned her self vpon the head of the maide, that went with her.
- 11 Neuertheles, God turned the Kings minde: y he was gentle, who being careful, leaped out of his throne, and toke her in his armes, til she came to her self againe: and comforted her with louing wordes, and said,
- 12 Esther, what is the matter? I am thy brother, be of good cheare,
- 13 Thou shalt not dye: for our commandement toucheth the commons, and not thee. Come nere.
- 14 And so he helde vp his golden sceptre, & laid it vpon her necke,
- 15 And kissed her, and said, Talke with me.
- 16 Then said she, I sawe thee, o lord, as an Angel of God, & mine heart was troubled for feare of thy maiestie.
- 17 For wonderful art thou, o lord, and thy face is full of grace.
- 18 And as she was thus speaking vnto him, she fel downe againe for faintnes.
- 19 Then the King was troubled, and all his seruants comforted her.

- 2 There be many that through the goodnes of Princes and honour giuen vnto them, become very proude,

- from men, but in pride & presumption, as they that be vnmindful of benefites, they thinke to escape the vengeance of God, that seeth all things, & is cōtrarie to euil.
- 5 And oft times manie, which be set in office, and vnto whome their friends causes are committed, by vaine inuise mēts do wrappe them in calamities, that can not be remedied: for they make them partakers of innocent blood,
- 6 And discertfully abuse the simplicitie, & gentlenes of princes with lying tales.
- 7 This may be proued not onely by olde histories, but also by those things that are before our eyes, and are wickedly committed of suche pestilences as are not worthie to beare rule.
- 8 Therefore we must take hede hereafter, that we may make y^e kingdome peaceable for all mē, what chāge so euer shal come,
- 9 And discerne the things that are before our eyes, to withstand the with gentlenes.
- 10 For Aman, a Macedonian, the sonne of Amadathus, being in dede a strāger from the Persians blood, and farie from our goodnes, was receiued of vs,
- 11 And hath proued the friendship that we beare towarde all nations, so that he was called our father, and was honored of euerie man, as the next persone vnto the King.
- 12 But he colde not vse him self soberly in this great dignitie, but wēt about to depriue vs of the kingdome, & of our life.
- 13 With manifolde disceite also hath he desired to destroye Mardocheus our pfeuer, which hath done vs good in all thigs, and innocent Esther the partaker of our kingdome, with all her nation.
- 14 For his minde was (when he had taken them out of the way) to lay waite for vs, and by this meanes to translate the kingdome of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia.
- 15 But we finde that the Iewes (which were accused of this moste wicked mā that they might be destroyed) are no euil doers, but vse moste iust Lawes,
- 16 And that they be y^e children of the moste high and almightie and euer liuing God, by whome the kingdome hath bene pfe-serued vnto vs, and our progenitours in verie good ordre.
- 17 Wherefore ye shal do wel, if ye do not put in execution those letters, that Aman the sonne of Amadathus did write vnto you.
- 18 For he that inuented them, hāgeth at Susis befoie the gates with all his familie, & God (which hath all things in his power) hath spedely rewarded him after his deseruing.
- 19 Therefore ye shal publishe the copie of this letter in all places, that the Iewes may frely liue after their owne Lawes.
- 20 And ye shal aide them, that vpon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar they may be aduenged of them, which in the time of their trouble wolde haue oppressed them.
- 21 For almightie God hath turned reioye the day, wherein the chosen people shulde haue perished.
- 22 Moreouer, among other solemne daies ye shal kepe this day with all gladnes,
- 23 That bothe now & in time to come this day may be a remembrance of deliuerāce for vs and all suche as loue the prosperitie of the Persians, but a remembrance of destruction to those that be sedicious vnto vs.
- 24 Therefore all cities and countreis that do not this, shal horribly be destroyed with sworde and fyre, and shal not onely not be inhabited of men, but be abhorred also of the wilde beastes and foules for euer.

THE WISDOME of Salomon.

CHAP. I.

1 How we ought to searche and enquire after God. 2 Who be those that finde him. 3 The holy Ghost. 4 We ought to flee from backbiting and murmuring. 5 Whereof death cometh. 6 Righteousnes & unrighteousnes.

Dilectus * righteousnes, ye that be iudges of the earth: thinke reuerently of the Lord, & seke him in simplicitie of heart. * For he will be founde of them that tempte him not, & appeareth vnto suche as be not vnfaithful vnto him.

3 For wicked thoughts seperate from God: and his power when it is tryed, reprobeth the vnwise,

4 Because wisdom can not enter into a wicked heart, nor dwell in the body that is subiect vnto sinne.

5 For the holy * Spirit of discipline fleeth from discert, & withdraweth him self from the thoughts y^e are without vnderstanding, and is rebuked when wickednes cometh.

6 For the Spirit of wisdom * is louing, and Gal. 5. 22.

will not absolue him, y^e blasphemeth with his lippes: for God is a witnes of his reines, and a true beholder of his heart, and an hearer of the tongue.

7 For the Spirit of the Lord filleth all the worlde: and the same that mainteineth all things, hath the knowledge of the voyce.

8 Therefore he that speaketh vnrighteous things, can not be hid: nether shal the iudgement of reproche let him escape.

9 For inquisition shalbe made for the thoghtes of the vngodlie, and the founde of his wordes shal come vnto God for the correction of his iniquities.

10 For y^e care of ielousie heareth all things, and the noyce of the grudgings shal not be hid.

11 Therefore beware of murmuring, which profiteth nothing, & refraine your tongue from sclander: for there is no worde so secret, that shal go for noght, & the mouth that speaketh lies, slaieth the soule.

Deu 4.23.

Ezek 18.29.
& 33.11.

12 Seke not death in the errour of your life: *destroie not your selues thorow the workes of your owne hands.

13 *For God hath not made death, nether hath he pleasure in the destruction of the liuing.

14 For he created all things, that thei might haue them being: and the generacions of the worlde are preserued, and there is no payson of destruction in them, & the kingdom of hell is not vpon earth.

15 For righteousness is immortal, but vnrighteousnes bringeth death.

16 And the vngodlie call it vnto them both with hands and wordes: and while they thinke to haue a friend of it, they come to naught: for they are confederate with it: therefore are they worthie to be partakers thereof.

The imaginacions and desires of the wicked, & their counsel against the faithfull.

1 FOR the vngodlie say, as they falsely imagine with them selues, * Our life is shorte and tedious: and in the death of a man there is no recouerie, nether was any knownen that hath returned from the graue.

2 For we are borne at all aduenture, and we shalbe hereafter as thogh we had neuer bene: for the breth is a smoke in our nostrils, and the wordes as a sparke raised out of our heart.

3 Which being extinguished, the body is turned into ashes, and the spirit vanisheth as the soft aire.

4 Our life shal passe away as the trace of a cloude, & come to naught as the mist that is driuen away with y^e beaumes of the sunne, and cast downe with the heat thereof. Our name also shalbe forgotten in time, and no man shal haue our workes in remembrance.

7 Let vs fill our selues with costlie wine and ointements, and let not the floure of life passe by vs.

8 Let vs crowne our selues with rose buddes afore they be withered.

9 Let vs all be partakers of our wantonnes: let vs leaue some token of our pleasure in euerie place: for that is our porciõ, and this is our lotte.

10 Let vs oppresse the poore, that is righteous: let vs not spare the widdowe, nor reuerence the white heeres of the aged, that haue liued many yeies.

11 Let our strength be the lawe of vnrighteousnes: for the thing that is feble, is reproued as vnprofitable.

12 Therefore let vs defraude the righteous: for he is not for our profite, & he is contrarie to our doings: he checketh vs for offending against the Lawe, and blameth vs as transgressours of discipline.

13 He maketh his boaste to haue the knowledge of God: and he calleth him self the sonne of the Lord.

14 He is made *to reprove our thoghts. 15 It grieveth vs also to loke *vpon him: for his life is not like other mens: his waies are of another facion.

21 Suche things do they imagine, and go astraye: for their owne wickednes hath blinded them.

22 And they do not vnderstand the mysteries of God, nether hope for the reward of righteousness, nor can discerne the honour of the soules that are fauteles.

CHAP. III.

1 The conuersacion and assurance of the righteous. 7 The rewards of the faithfull 11 Who are miserable.

- Deut. 33. 3.* 1 BVt the *soules of the righteous are in the hand of God, and no torment shal touche them.
- Chap. 3. 4.* 2 *In the sight of the vnwise thei appeared to dye, and their end was thought grieuous,
- 3 And their departing from vs, destruction, but they are in peace.
- 4 And thogh they suffer paine before men, yet is*their hope ful of immortalitie.
- Rom. 8. 24.* 5 They are punished, but in fewe things,
- 2 cor. 5. 1.* yet in many things shal they be wel rewarded: *for God proueth them, & findeth them mete for him self.
- 1 pet. 1. 13.* 6 He tryeth them as the golde in the fornaece, and receiue them as a perfect frute offering.
- Exod. 16. 2.* 7 *And in the time of their vision they shal shine, and runne through as the spaikes among the stubble.
- Mat. 13. 43.* 8 They *shal iudge the nations, and haue dominion ouer the people, and their Lord shal reigne for euer.
- 9 They that trust in him, shal vnderstand the trueth, and the faithfull shal remaine with him in loue: for grace and mercie is among his Saintes, and he regardeth his elect.
- Mat. 21. 41.* 10 *But the vngodlie shalbe punished according to their imaginacions: for they haue despised the righteous, and forsaken the Lord.
- 11 Who so despiseth wisdom and discipline, is miserable, and their hope is vaine, & their labours are foolish, and their workes vnprofitable.
- 12 Their wiues are vndiscrete, & their children wicked: their offering is cursed.
- 13 Therefore the barren is blessed which is vndefiled, and knoweth not the sinful bed: *she shal haue frute in the visitation of the soules,
- Mat. 23. 3.* 14 And the eunuche, which with his hands hathe not wrought iniquitie, nor imagined wicked things against God: for vnto him shal be giuen the special gift of faith, and an acceptable porcion in the Temple of the Lord.
- 15 For glorious is y frute of good labours, and the roote of wisdom shal neuer fade away.
- 16 But the children of adulterers shal not be partakers of the holy things, and the seed of the wicked bed shalbe rooted out.
- 17 And thogh they liue long, yet shal they be nothing regarded, and their last age shalbe without honour.
- 18 If they dye hastily, they haue no hope,

CHAP. IIII.

Of vertue and the commoditie thereof. 10 The death of the righteous, and the condemnation of the vnfaithfull.

- 1 Better is barenes with vertue: for the memorial thereof is immortal: for it is knowen with God and with men.
- 2 When it is present, me take example thereat, and if it go away, yet they desire it: it is alway crowned and triumpheth, and winneth the battel and the vndefiled rewardes.
- 3 But the multitude of the vngodlie which abunde in children, is vnprofitable: & the bastard plates shal take no depe roote, nor laye any fast fundacion.
- 4 For thogh they budde forth in the branches for a time, *yet they shal be shaken with the winde: for they stand not fast, and thorowe the vehemencie of the winde they shalbe rooted out.
- Mat. 7. 18.* 5 For the vnperfect branches shalbe broke, & their frute shalbe vnprofitable & sower to eat, and mete for nothing.
- 6 For all the children that are borne of the wicked bed, shalbe witnes of the wickednes against their parents when they be asked.
- 7 But thogh the righteous be preuented with death, yet shal he be in rest.
- 8 For the honorable age is not that which is of long time, nether that which is measured by the number of yeres.
- 9 But wisdom is the graye heere, and an vndefiled life is the olde age.
- 10 *He pleased God, & was beloued of him, Gen. 22. 1. so that where as he liued among sinners, he translated him.
- 11 He was take away, lest wickednes shulde alter his vnderstanding, or deceit beguile his minde.
- 12 For wickednes by bewitching obscureth the things that are good, & the vnstedfastnes of concupiscence peruerteth the simple minde.
- 13 Thogh he was sone dead, yet fulfilled he muche time.
- 14 For his soule pleased God: therefore hastened he to take him away from wickednes.
- 15 Yet the people se & vnderstand it not, & consider no suche things in their hearts, how that grace and mercie is vpon his Saintes, and his prouidence ouer the elect.
- 16 Thus the righteous that is dead, condemneth the vngodlie which are liuing: & the youth that is sone brought to an end, the long life of the vnrighteous.
- 17 For they se the end of the wise, but they vnderstand not what God hathe deuised for him, and wherefore the Lord hathe preferred serued him in safetie.

18 They se him and despise him, but the Lord wil laugh them to scorne,

19 So that they shal fall hereafter without honour, and shal haue a shame among the dead for euermore: for without anie voyce shal he burle them and cast them downe, and shake them from the fundacions, so that they shalbe vterly wasted, and they shalbe in sorowe, and their memorial shal perish.

20 So they being afraied, shal remember their sinnes, & their owne wickednes shal come before them to conuince them.

CHAP. V.

1 The constancies of the righteous before their persecuters. 14 The hope of the unfaithful is vaine. 15 The blessednes of the saintes and godlie.

1 Then shal the righteous stand in great boldenes before the face of suche as haue tormented him, and taken away his labours.

2 When thei se him, thei shalbe vexed with horrible feare, and shalbe amased for his wonderful deliuerance,

3 And shal change their mindes, and sigh for grief of minde, and say within them selues, This is he whome we sometime had in derision, and in a parable of reproche.

Chap 3.2.

4 *We fooles thought his life madnes, and his end without honour.

5 How is he counted among the children of God, and his poicion is among the Saintes!

6 Therefore we haue erred from the waye of trueth, and the light of righteousnes hath not shined vnto vs, and the sunne of vnderstanding rose not vpon vs.

7 We haue wearied our selues in the waye of wickednes and destruction, and we haue gone through daingerous waies: but we haue not known the way of the Lord.

8 What hath pride profited vs? or what profite hath the pompe of riches brought vs?

chap 2.5.*

9 All those things are *passed away like a shadow, and as a poste that passeth by:

10 As a shippe that passeth ouer the waues of the water, which when it is gone by, the trace thereof can not be founde, nether the path of it in the floods:

Prou. 30.19.

11 Or as * a birde that fleeth thorowe in the aire, and no man can se anie token of her passage, but onely heare the noise of her wings, beating the light winde, parting the aire thorow the vehemencie of her going, & fleeth on shaking her wings, where as afterwarde no token of her way can be founde:

12 Or as when an arrowe is shot at a marke, it parteth the aire, which immediatly cometh together againe, so that a man can not knowe where it went thorowe.

13 Euen so we, as sone as we were borne, we beganne to drawe to our end, and haue shewed no token of vertue, but are consumed in our owne wickednes.

14 For* the hope of the vngodlie is like the dust that is blowne away with the winde, and like a thinne fume that is scattered abroad with the storme, and as the smoke, which is disperfed with the winde, and as the remembrance of him passeth, that tarieth but for a day.

Prou 10.25.
Iam. 1.10.*

15 But the righteous shal liue for euer: their rewarde also is with the Lord, & y moste High hath care of them.

16 Therefore shal they receiue a glorious kingdome, and a beautiful crowne of the Lords hand: for with his right hand shal he couer them, and with his arme shal he defende them.

17 He shal take his ielousie for armour, & shal arme the creatures to be reuenged of the enemies.

18 He shal put on righteousness for a breastplate, and take true iudgement in stead of an helmet.

19 He wil take holines for an inuincible shield.

20 He wil tharpe his fierce wrath for a sworde, and the worlde shal fight with him against the vnwise.

21 Then shal the thunder boltes go streight out of the lightnings, and shal flee to the marke as out of the bent bowe of y clouds, and out of his angre that throweth stones, shal thicke haile be cast, and the water of the sea shalbe wrothe against them, & the floods shal mightely ouerflowe.

22 And a mightie winde shal stand vp against them, and like a storme shal scatter them abroad. Thus iniquitie shal bring all the earth to a wildernes, and wickednes shal ouerthrowe the thrones of the mightie.

CHAP. VI.

The calling of Kings, princes and iudges, which are also exhorted to searche wisdom.

1 Hear therefore, o ye Kings, and vnderstand: learne, ye that be iudges of the ends of the earth.

2 Giue eare, ye that rule the multitudes & glorie in the multitude of people.

3 For the rule * is giuen you of the Lord, Rom. 13.2. and power by the moste High, which wil trye your workes, and searche out your imaginations.

4 Because that ye being officers of his kingdome haue not iudged aright, nor kept the Law, nor walked after the wil of God,

5 Horribly and sodenly wil he appeare vnto you: for an hard iudgement shal they haue that beare rule.

7 For he that is Lord ouer all, wil spare no
* persone, nether shal he feare anie great-nes: for he hathe made the small and great,
and careth for all a like,
8 But for the mightie abideth y^r forer tryal.
9 Vnto you therefore, o tyrants, do I speake, that ye may learne wisdom, and not go amisse.
10 For they that kepe holines holily, shalbe holie, and they that are learned there, shal finde a defence.
11 Wherefore set your delite vp^o my wor-des & desire them, & ye shalbe instructed.
12 Wisdom: shineth & neuer fadeth away, and is easely sene of them that loue her, & founde of suche as seke her, 13 She preuenteth them that desire her, that she may first shewe her self vnto them.
14 Whoso awaketh vnto her betimes, shal haue no great trauail: for he shal finde her sitting at his dores.
15 To thinke vpon her then is perfite vnderstanding: and who so watcheth for her, shalbe sone without care.
16 For she goeth about, seking suche as are mete for her, and sheweth her self cherefully vnto them in the wayes, and meteth them in euerie thoght.
17 For the moste true desire of discipline is her beginning: and the care of discipline is loue:
18 And loue is the keeping of her lawes: and the keeping of the lawes is the assurance of immortalitie:
19 And immortalitie maketh vs nere vnto
God.
20 Therefore the desire of wisdom lea-deth to the kingdome.
21 If your delite be then in thrones, & scepters, o Kings of the people, honour wisdom, that ye may reigne: for euer.
22 Now I wil tell you what wisdom is, & whence it cometh, & wil not hide the mysteries from you, but wil seke her out from the beginning of her natiuitie, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and wil not kepe backe the trueth.
23 Nether wil I haue to do with consuming chui: for suche a man shal not be parta-ker of wisdom.
24 But the multitude of the wise is the preseruacion of the worlde, and a wise King is the staye of the people.
25 Be therefore instructed by my wordes, & ye shal haue profite.

CHAP. VII.

Wisdom ought to be preferred aboue all things.

1 I My self am also mortal and a man like all other, and am come of him that was first made of the earth.
2 And in my mothers wōbe was I facioned to be flesh in ten moneths: I was * brought together into blood of the sēde of man, and by the pleasure that cometh with sleepe.

3 And when I was borne, I receiued the co-mune aire, and fel vpon the earth, which is of like nature, crying & weeping at the first as all other do.

4 I was nourished in swadling clothes, and with cares.

5 For there is no King that had anie other beginning of birth.

6 All * men then haue one entrance vnto life, and a like going out. *Iob. 2, 21.
1 sam. 6, 7.*

7 Wherefore I praised, and vnderstanding was giuen me: I called & the Spirit of wis-dome came vnto me.

8 I preferred her to scepters and thrones, & counted riches nothing in comparison of her.

9 * Nether did I compare precious stones Iob. 28, 15.
vnto her: for all golde is but a litle grauel in respect of her, and siluer shalbe counted but clay before her.

10 I loued her aboue health and beautie, & purposed to take her for my light: for her light can not be quenched.

11 All * good things therefore came to me *1. King. 3, 19.
matt. 6, 33.*
together with her, and innumerable riches thorow her hands.

12 So I was glad in all: for wisdom was the autor thereof, & I knewe not that she was the mother of these things.

13 And I learned vnfaignedly, & communicated without enuie, and I do not hide her riches.

14 For she is an infinite treasure vnto men, which whoso vse, become partakers of the loue of God, & are accepted for the gifts of knowledge.

15 God hathe granted me to speake according to my minde, and to iudge worthely of the things, that are giuen me: for he is the leader vnto wisdom, and the direc-ter of the wise.

16 For in his hand are bothe we and our woides, and all wisdom, & the knowledge of the workes.

17 For he hathe giue me the true knowledge of the things that are, so that I knowe how the worlde was made, and the powers of the elements,

18 The beginning and the end, & the mid-des of the times: how the times alter, and the change of the seasons,

19 The course of the yere, the situation of the starres,

20 The nature of liuing things, and the furiousnes of beasts, the power of y^r windes, and the imaginacions of men, the diuersities of plants, and the vertues of rootes.

21 And all things bothe secrete and knowen do I knowe: for wisdom the worker of all

all things, hath taught me it.

- 22 For in her is the spirit of vnderstanding, which is holie, the onely begotten, manifolde, subtil, moueable, cleare, vndefiled, euident, not huius, louing the good, sharpe, which can not be letted, doing good,
- 23 Counteous, stable, sure, without care, hauing all power, circumspect in all things, and passing through all, intellectual, pure and subtil spirits.
- 24 For wisdom is nimbler then all nimble things: she goeth thorow and attaineth to all things, because of her purenes.
- 25 For she is the birth of the power of God, and a pure influence that floweth from the glorie of the Almighty: therefore can no defiled thing come vnto her.
- 26 For * she is the brightnes of the euermourning light, the vndefiled muroure of the maiestie of God, and the image of his goodnes.
- 27 And being one, she can do all things, and remaining in her self, renueth all, and according to the ages she entred into the holie soules, and maketh them the friends of God and Prophetes.
- 28 For God loueth none, if he dwell not with wisdom.
- 29 For she is more beautiful then the sunne, and is aboue all the order of the starres, and the light is not to be compared vnto her.
- 30 For night cometh vpon it, but wickednes can not ouercome wisdom.

CHAP. VIII.

The effects of wisdom

- 1 SHe also reacheth from one end to another mightely, and comely doeth she order all things.
- 2 I haue loued her, and sought her from my youth: I desired to marrye her, suche loue had I vnto her beaute.
- 3 In that she is conuersant with God, it commendeth her nobilitie: yea, the Lord of all things loueth her.
- 4 For she is the scholemasters of the knowledge of God, and the chooser out of his workes.
- 5 If riches be a possession to be desired in this life, what is richer then wisdom, that worketh all things?
- 6 For if prudence worketh, what is it among all things, that worketh better then she?
- 7 If a man loue righteousness, her labours are vertuous: for she teacheth sobernes & prudence, righteousness and strength, which are the most profitable things that men can haue in this life.
- 8 If a man desire great experience, she can tell the things that are past, and discerne things to come: she knoweth the subtilties of wordes, and the solutions of dark sentences: she foreseeeth the signes and wonders, or euer they come to passe, and the successe of seasons and times.

- 9 Therefore I purposed to take her vnto my companie, knowing that she wolde counsel me good things, and comfort me in cares and griefs.
- 10 For her sake shal I haue glorie among the multitude and honour among the Elders though I be yong.
- 11 I shal be founde of sharpe iudgement, so that I shal be marueilous in the sight of great men.
- 12 When I holde my tongue, they shal abide my leasure: when I speake, they shal heare diligently, & if I talke muche, they shal laye their hands vpon their mouth.
- 13 Moreover, by her I shal obteine immortallitie, and leaue an euermourning memorial among them that come after me.
- 14 I shal gouerne the people, and the nations shal be subdued vnto me.
- 15 Horrible tyrants shal be afraied when they heare me. among the multitude I shal be counted good, and mightie in battel.
- 16 When I come home, I shal rest with her: for her companie hath no bitterness, and her fellowship hath no tediousnes, but mirth and ioye.
- 17 Now when I considered these things by my self, and pondered them in mine heart, how that to be ioyned vnto wisdom is immortallitie,
- 18 And great pleasure is in her friendship, and that in the workes of her hands are infinite riches, and that in the exercise of talking with her is prudence, and glorie by communing with her, I went about, seeking how I might take her vnto me.
- 19 For I was a wittie childe, and was of a good spirit.
- 20 Yea, rather being good, I came to an vndefiled bodie.
- 21 Nevertheless, when I perceiued that I coulde not enioye her, except God gaue her (and that was a pointe of wisdom also, to knowe whose gifte it was) I went vnto the Lord, and besought him, and with my whole heart I said,

CHAP. IX.

A prayer of Salomon to obtaine wisdom.

- 1 O God of fathers, and Lord of mercie, which hast made all things with thy worde, quittie and righteousnes, & execute iudgement with an vpright heart.

1. King 3.9. 4 Giue* me that wisdom, which sitteth by thy throne, and put me not out fro among thy children.

Psal 116.16. 5 For I thy *seruant, & sonne of thine handmaide am a feble persone, & of a shorte time, and yet lesse in the vnderstanding of iudgement and the lawes.

6 And thogh a man be neuer so perfite among the children of men, yet if thy wisdom be not with him, he shalbe nothing regarded.

1. Chr 28.5.
2 Chr 1.9. 7 *Thou hast chosen me to be a King of thy people, and the iudge of thy sonnes & daughters.

8 Thou hast comanded me to buyld a temple vpon thine holy Mount, & an altar in the citie, wherein thou dwellest, a likenes of thine holie Tabernacle, which thou hast prepared from the beginning,

Job 1.9. 9 And thy *wisdom wth thee, which knoweth thy workes, which also was when thou madest the worlde, and which knewe what was acceptable in thy sight, and right in thy commandements.

10 Send her out of thine holy heauens, & send her from the throne of thy maietie that she may be with me, & labour, that I may know what is acceptable in thy sight.

11 For she knoweth and vnderstandeth all things, and she shal lead me soberly in my workes, & preserue me by her glorie.

12 So shal my workes be acceptable, & then shal I gouerne thy people righteously, & be mete for my fathers throne.

1 Cor 2.16. 13 For * what man is he that can knowe the counsell of God? or who can thinke what the wil of God is?

14 For the thoughts of mortal men are fearful, and our forecastes are vncertaine, 15 Because a corruptible bodie is heauie vnto the soule, & the earthlie mansion kepeth downe the minde that is ful of cares.

16 And hardly can we discern the things that are vpon earth, and with great labour finde we out the things which are before vs: who can then seke out the things that are in heauen?

17 Who can know thy counsell, except thou giue him wisdom, and send thine holy Spirit from aboue?

18 For so the waies of them which are vpon earth, are reformed, & men are taught the things that are pleasant vnto thee, and are preserued thorow wisdom.

CHAP. X.

The deliuerance of the righteous and destruction of the enemies cometh thorow wisdom

1 SHe preserued the first father of the worlde, that was formed, and kept him whē he was created alone, and brought him out of his offence,

2 And * gaue him power to rule all things, Gen 2.20.

3 *But the vnrighteous in his wrath departed from her, and perished by killing his brother in his suite.

4 For whose cause the * earth was ouerflown, but wisdom preserued it againe, gouerning the iust man by a litle wood.

5 Moreouer, * when the nacions were increased in their malicious confederacies, she knewe the righteous, and preserued him fautesles vnto God, and * kept him sure, because she loued him tenderly as a sonne. Gen 20.17.

6 She preserued the righteous, * when the vngodlie perished, when he fled from the fyr. that fel downe vpon the five cities.

7 Of whose wickednes the waste land that smoketh, yet giueth testimonie, and the trees that beare fruite that neuer cometh to ripenes: and for a remembrance of the vnfaithful soule, there standeth a pillar of salte.

8 For all suche as regarded not wisdom, had not onely this hurt, that they knewe not the things which were good, but also left behinde them vnto men a niemorial of their foolishnes, so that in the things wherein they sinned, they can not lie hid.

9 But wisdom deliuered them, that serued her.

10 *When the righteous fled because of his brothers wrath, she led him the right way, shewed him the kingdome of God, gaue him knowledge of holie things, made him riche in his labours, and made his peines profitable.

11 Against the couetousnes of suche as defrauded him, she stood by him and made him riche.

12 She saued him from the enemies, and defended him from them, that lay in waite, and she gaue him the price in a mightie battel, that he might knowe that the feare of God is stronger then all things.

13 *When the righteous was solde, she forsoke him not, but deliuered him from sinne: she went downe with him into the dongeon,

14 And failed him not in the bandes, til she had brought him the scepter of the realme, and power against those that oppressed him, and them that had accused him, she declared to be liars, and gaue him perpetual glorie.

15 *She deliuered the righteous people and fautesles sde from the nacions that oppressed them.

16 She entred into the soule of the seruant of the Lord, and stood * by him in wordes and signes against the terrible Kings.

17 She gaue the Saintes the rewarde of their labours, and led them for the a marueilous way: on the day time she was a shadow vnto vnto them, and a light of starres in the night.

Exod. 14, 21. 18 *She broght the thorow the red sea, and psal 78, 13. caryed them through the great water, 19 But she drowned their enemies, and broght the out of the botome of the depe.
Exod 15, 1. 20 So the righteous toke the spoiles of the vngodlie, * & praised thine holy Name, o Lord, and magnified thy victorious hand with one accorde.
 21 For wisdom openeth the mouth of the domme, and maketh the tongues of babes eloquent.

CHAP. XI.

1 The miracles done for Israel. 13 The vengeance of sinners. 28 The great power and mercie of God.
 1 SHe prospered their workes in the hnds of thine holy Prophet.
Exod. 16, 1. 2 *They went through the wildernes that was not inhabited, and pitched their ten-tes in places where there lay no way.
Exod. 17, 10. 3 *They stode against their enemies, & were aduenged of their aduersaries.
Num. 20, 11. 4 *When they were thirsty, they called vp o thee, and water was giuen them out of the hie rocke, and their thirst was quenched out of the hard stone.
 5 For by the things whereby their enemies were punished, by the same were the Israelites helped in their nede.
 6 For in steade of a fountaine of running water, the enemies were troubled at the corrupt blood, which was to rebuke the commandement of the killing of the chil-dre, but thou gauest vnto thine owne abundance of water vnloked for, Exod. 7, 20. 7 Declaring by the thirst that was at that time * how thou hadest punished thine aduersaries.
 8 For when they were tryed and chastised with mercie, they knewe how the vn-godlie were iudged and punished in wrath.
 9 For these hast thou exhorted as a father, and proued them: but thou hast condemned y other as a righteous King, whē thou didest examine them
 10 Whether they were absent or present, their punishment was alike: for their grief was double with mourning, and the remembrance of things past.
 11 For when they perceiued that through their torments good came vnto them, they felt the Lord.
 12 And seing the things that came to passe, at the last they wondered at him, whome afore they had cast out, denied and derided: for they had another thirst then the iuste.
 13 Because of the foolish deuises of their wickednes wherewith they were deceiued, and worshiped * serpents, that had not the vse of reason, & vile beastes, thou sendidst a multitude of vnreasonable beastes vpon them for a vengeance, that they might knowe, that wherewith a man sinneth, by the same also shal he be punished.

Leu. 16, 22. ier 8, 22. chap 16, 10 14 *For vnto thine almightie hand, y made the worlde of naught, it was not vnpossi-ble to send among them a multitude of beares, or fierce lyons, 15 Or furious beastes newly created, and vnknown, which shulde breathe out blastes of fyre, and cast out smoke as a tempest, or shoote horrible sparkes like lightnings out of their eyes.
 16 Which might not onely destroye them with hurting, but also to kill them with their horrible sight.
 17 Yea, without these might they haue bene cast downe with one winde, being persecu-ted by thy vengeance, and scattered abroade thorow the power of thy Spirit: but thou hast ordered all things in measure, number & weight.
 18 For thou hast euer had great strength & might, and who can withstand the power of thine arme!
 19 For as the small thing that the balance weigheth, so is the worlde before thee, & as a droppē of the morning dewe, that falleth downe vpon the earth.
 20 But thou hast mercie vpon all: for thou hast power of all things, and makest as thogh thou sawest not the sinnes of men, because they shulde amende.
 21 For thou louest all the things that are, & hatest none of them whome thou hast made: for thou woldest haue created nothing that thou hadest hated.
 22 And how might anie thing endure, if it were not thy wil? or how colde anie thing be preserued, except it were called of thee?
 23 But thou sparest all: for they are thine, o
 Lord, which art the louer of soules.

CHAP. XII.

1 The mercie of God toward sinners. 14 The workes of God are Unreprouable. 19 God giueth leasure to repent.
 1 FOr thine incorruptible Spirit is in all things.
 2 Therefore thou chastnest the measurably that go wrong, and warnest the by putting them in remembrance of the things wherein they haue offended, that leauing wickednes they may beleue in thee, o Lord.
 3 *As for those olde inhabitants of the holy Deut 9, 3. 12, 20 & 18, 9. land, thou didest hate them.
 4 For they committed abominable wor-kes, as sorceries and wicked sacrifices, 5 And slaying of their owne children without mercie, and eating of the bowels of mans flesh in banqueting, where the raging

Priests shed abominable blood.

6 And the fathers were the chief murderers of the soules, destitute of all helpe, whome thou woldest destroy by the hands of our fathers,

7 That the land which thou louest aboue all other, might be a mete dwelling for the children of God.

Exod. 33. 2.
deut. 1. 28.

8 *Neuertheles, thou sparedst them also, as men, and sendedst the forerunners of thine hoste, euen hornettes to destroye them by litle and litle,

9 Not that thou wast vnable to subdue the vngodlie vnto the righteous in battel, or with cruel beastes, or with one rough worde to destroye them together.

10 But in punishing them by litle and litle, thou gauest the space to repent, knowing wel, that it was an vnrighteous nation, & wicked of nature, & that their thought coulde neuer be altered.

11 For it was a cursed seede from the beginning: yet hast thou not spared them when they sinned, because thou feared any man.

Rom. 9. 22.

12 For who dare say, *What hast thou done? or who dare stand against thy iudgement? or who dare accuse thee for the nations that perish, whome thou hast made? or who dare stand against thee to reuenge the wicked men?

1. Pet. 3. 7.

13 For there is none other God but thou, *that carest for all things, that y maiest declare how y thy iudgement is not vnright.

14 There dare nether King nor tyrant in thy sight require accountes of them whome thou hast punished.

3. 3. 3.

15 For so muche then as thou art righteous thy self, thou ordrest all things righteously, *thinking it not agreeable to thy power to condemne him, that hath not deserued to be punished.

16 For thy power is the beginning of righteousness, and because thou art Lord of all things, it causeth thee to spare all things.

17 When men thinke thee not to be of a perfite power, thou declarst thy power, and reprocst the boldenes of the wise.

18 But thou ruling the power, iudgest with equitie, & gouernest vs with great fauour: for thou maiest shew thy power when thou wilt.

19 By suche workes now hast thou taught thy people, that a man shulde be iust and louing, and hast made thy children to be of a good hope: for thou giuest repentance to sinners.

20 For if thou hast punished the enemies of thy children that had deserued death with so great consideration, and requesting vnto them, giuing them tyme & place that they might change from their wickednes,

21 With how great circumspection wilt thou punish thine owne childre, vnto whose fathers thou hast sworne and made covenants of good promises?

22 So when thou dost chasten vs, thou punishest our enemies a thousand times more, to the intent that when we iudge, we shulde diligently consider thy goodnes, and when we are iudged, we shulde hope for mercie.

23 Wherefore thou hast tormented the wicked that haue liued a dissolute life by their owne imaginations.

24 * For they went astray verie farre in the waies of errour, and esteemed the beasts, which their enemies despised, for gods, being abused after the maner of childre, that haue none vnderstanding. Chap. 11. 16.
Rom. 1. 23.

25 Therefore hast thou sent this punishment that they shulde be in derision as children without reason.

26 But they that wil not be reformed by those scorneful rebukes, shal fele the worthie punishment of God.

27 For in those things when they suffered, they disdeined: but in these whome they counted godlie when they sawe the selues punished by them, they all acknowledged y true God whome afore they had denied to knowe: therefore came extreme damnation vpon them.

CHAP. XIII.

1 All things be vaine, except the knowledge of God.
10 Idolaters and idoles are mocked.

1 Vreily all men are vaine by nature, and are ignorant of God, *and coulde not knowe him that is, by the good things that are sene, nether consider by the workes the workemaster. Rom. 1. 19.

2 *But their thought the fyre, or the winde, or the swift aye, or the course of the starres, or the raging water, or the lights of heauen to be goueinours of the worlde, and gods. Deu. 4. 19.
17. 2

3 Thogh they had suche pleasure in their beautie that they thought them gods, yet shulde they haue knowen, how muche more excellent he is that made them: for the first auctor of beautie hath created these things.

4 Or if they marueiled at the power, and operation of them, yet shulde they haue perceiued thereby, how muche he that made these things, is mightier.

5 For by the greatnes of their beautie, and of the creatures, the Creator being compared with them, may be considered.

6 But yet the blame is lesse in these, that seke God and wolde finde him, & yet peraduenture do erre.

7 For *they go about by his workes to seke him, and are perswaded by the sight, because the things are beautifull that are sene. Rom. 1. 21.

8 Howbeit they are not to be excused.
9 For if they can knowe so muche, that they can

- can discern the worlde, why do they not rather finde out the Lord thereof?
- 10 But miserable are they, and among the dead is their hope, that call them gods which are the workes of mens hands, golde, and siluer, and the thing that is inuented by arte, and the similitude of beasts, or anie vaine stone that hath bene made by the hand of antiquitie.
- 11 *Or as when a carpenter cutteth downe a tre mete for the worke, and pareth of all the bakke thereof cunningly, and by arte maketh a vessel profitable for the vse of life.
- 12 And the things that are cut of from his worke, he bestoweth to dresse his meat to fil him self,
- 13 And that which is left of these things, which is profitable for nothing (for it is a croked piece of wood and ful of knobbes) he carueth it diligently at his leasure, and according as he is expert in cunning, he giueth it a proporcion, and facioneth it after the similitude of a man,
- 14 Or maketh it like some vile beast, and sketh it ouer with red, and painteth it, and couereth euerie spotte that is in it.
- 15 And when he hath made a conuenient tabernacle for it, he setteth it in a wall, and maketh it fast with yron,
- 16 Prouiding so for it, lest it fall: for he knoweth y it can not helpe it self, because it is an image, & hath nede of helpe.
- 17 Then he prayeth for his goods, and for his mariage and for children: he is not ashamed to speake vnto it, that hath no life.
- 18 He calleth on him that is weake for health: he prayeth vnto him that is dead for life: he requireth him of helpe that hath no experience at all.
- 19 And for his iourney, him that is not able to go, and for gaine, and worke, and successe of his affaires he requireth further aye of him, that hath no maner of power.
- CHAP. XIII.
- 1 The detestation and abomination of images, & A curse of them, and of him that maketh them. 14 Whereof idolatrie proceeded. 23 What evils come of idolatrie.
- 1 A Gaine, another man purposing to saile, and intending to passe thorowe the raging waues, calleth vpon a stocke more rotten then the shippe that carieth him.
- 2 For as for it, couetousnes of money hath founde it out, and the craftesman made it by cunning.
- 3 But thy prouidence, o father, gouerneth it: * for thou hast made away, euen in the sea, and a sure path among the waues,
- 4 Declaring thereby, that thou hast power to helpe in all things, yea, though a man wet to the sea without meanes.
- 5 Neuertheles thou woldest not, that the workes of thy wisdome shulde be vaine, and therefore do men commit their liues to a smale piece of wood, and passe ouer the stormie sea in a shippe, and are saued.
- 6 *For in the olde time also when the proude gyants perished, the hope of the worlde went into a shippe which was gouerned by thine hand, and so left sede of generacion vnto the worlde.
- 7 For blessed is the tre whereby righteousnes commeth.
- 8 But that is cursed that is made with hãds, *bothe it, & he that made it: he because he made it, and it being a corruptible thing, because it was called god.
- 9 *For the vngodlie, and his vngodlines are bothe like hated of God: so truely the worke & he that made it, shalbe punished together.
- 10 Therefore shal there be a visitation for the idoles of the nations: for of the creatures of God they are become abomination, * and stumbling blockes vnto the soules of men, & a snare for the fete of the vnwised.
- 11 For the inuenting of idoles was the beginning of whoredome, and the finding of them is the corruption of life.
- 12 For they were not from the beginning, nether shal they continue for euer.
- 13 The vaine glorie of men brought them into the worlde: therefore shal they come shortly to an end.
- 14 When a father mouined grieuoussly for his sonne that was taken away suddenly, he made an image for him y was once dead, whome now he worshippeth as a god, & ordeined to his seruants ceremonies and sacrifices.
- 15 Thus by proces of time this wicked custome preuailed, and was kept as a law, and idoles were worshipped by the commandment of tyrants.
- 16 As for those that were so farre of that men might not worship them presently, they did counterfet the visage that was farre of, and made a gorgeous image of a King, whome they wolde honour, that they might by all meanes flatter him that was absent, as though he had bene present.
- 17 Againe the ambition of the craftesman thrust forward the ignorant to increase the superstition.
- 18 For he peradventure willing to please a noble man, labored with all his cunning to make the image of the best facion.
- 19 And so thorowe the beautie of the worke the multitude was allured, and so toke him now for a god, which a litle afore was but honored as a man.
- 20 And this was the deceiuing of mas life, when men, being in seruitude, through carnalitie lamitie and tyrannie ascribed vnto stones and stockes the name, which ought not to be communicate vnto anie.

21 Moreouer, this was not ynough for them that they erred in the knowledge of God: but where as they liued in great warres of ignorance, those so great plagues called they peace.

Deu. 18. 10.
1ere. 7. 9.
E 19. 4.

22 For ether they slewe their owne childre in sacrifice, or vsed secret ceremonies, or raging dissolutenes by strange rites, 23 And so kept nether life nor marriage cleane: but ether one slewe another by treason, or els vexed him by adulterie.

24 So were all mixt together, blood and slaughter, theste & deceit, corruption, vnfaithfulness, tumukes, periurie, 25 Disquieting of good men, vnthankfulness, defiling of soules, changing of birth, disordre in marriage, adulterie & vnclenes.

26 For the worshiping of idoles that ought not to be named, is the beginning and the cause and the end of all euil.

27 For ether they be mad when they be merie, or prophecie lies, or liue vngodlie, or els lightly forswear them selues.

28 For in so muchie as their trust is in the idoles, which haue no life, though they sweare falsely, yet they thinke to haue no hurt.

29 Therefore for two causes shal they iustly be punished, because they haue an euil opinion of God, addicting them selues vnto idoles, and because they sweare vntruly to deceiue, and despise holines.

30 For it is not the power of them by whome they sweare, but the vengeance of them that sinne, which punisheth alwayes the offence of the vngodlie.

CHAP. XV.

The voyce of the faithfull, praising the mercie of God by whose grace they serue not idoles.

1 BVt thou, o our God, art gracious and true, long suffering, and gouerneest all things by mercie.

2 Though we sinne, yet are we thine: for we knowe thy power: but we sinne not, knowing that we are counted thine.

3 For to knowe thee, is perfite righteousnes, and to knowe thy power is the roote of immortalitie.

4 For nether hathe the wicked inuention of men disceiued vs, nor the vnprofitable labour of the painters, nor an image spotted with diuers colours.

5 Whose sight stirreth vp the desire of the ignorant: so that he coueteth the forme that hathe no life, of a dead image.

6 They that loue suche wicked things, are worthe to haue suche things to trust to, and they that make them, and they that desire them, and they that worship them.

Rom. 9. 20.

7 The potter also tempereth soft earth, & facioneth euerie vessel with labour to our

vse: but of the same clay he maketh bothe the vessels, that serue to cleane vses, and the contrarie likewise: but whereto euerie vessel serueth, the potter is the iudge.

8 So by his wicked labour he maketh a vaine god of the same clay: euen he, which a litle afore was made of earth him self, and within a litle while after goeth thither againe whence he was taken, when he shal make accounte for the lone of his life. Luk. 12. 20.

9 Notwithstanding he careth not for the labour he taketh, nor that his life is shorte, but he strueth with the goldefsmithes, and siluer smithes, and counterfaiteth the cooper smithes, and taketh it for an honour to make deceiuable things.

10 His heart is ashes, and his hope is more vile then earth, and his life is lesse worthe of honour then claye.

11 For he knoweth not his owne maker, that gaue him his soule, that had power & breathed in him the breth of life.

12 But they counte our life to be but a pastime, and our conuersacion as a market, where there is gaine: for they say we ought to be getting on euerie side, though it be by euil meanes.

13 Now he that of earth maketh fraile vessels and images, knoweth him self to offend about all other.

14 All the enemies of thy people, that holde them in subiection, are mozte vnwise, & more miserable then the verie fooles.

15 For they iudge all the idoles of the nations to be gods, which nether haue eye sight to se, nor noses to smel, nor eares to heare, nor fingers of hands to grope, & their fete are slowe to go.

16 For man made them, and he that hathe but a borrowed spirit, facioned them: but no man can make a god like vnto him self.

17 For seing he is but mortal him self, it is but mortal that he maketh with vnrighteous hands: he him self is better the thei whome he worshippeth: for he liued, but they neuer liued.

18 Yea, they worshipped beasts also, which are their mozte enemies, & which are the worste, if thei be copared vnto others, because they haue none vnderstanding.

19 Nether haue they anie beautie to be desired in respect of other beasts: for they are destitute of Gods praise, and of his blessing.

CHAP. XVI.

The punishment of idolaters. 20 The benefices done vnto the faithfull.

1 Therefore by suche things they are worthely punished & tormented by the multitude of beasts. Chap. 11. 18. nomb. 11. 31.

2 In steade of the which punishment thou hast bene fauorable to thy people, & to sa-

- 11 the their appetite, hast prepared a meat of a strange taste, euen quailles,
- 12 To the intent that thei that desired meat, by the things which were shewed and sent among them, might turne away their necessarie desire, & that thei, which had suffered penurie for a space, shulde also fele a newe taste.
- 13 For it was requisite, that they which vsed tyrannie, shulde fall into extreme pouvertie, and that to these onelie it shulde be shewed, how their enemies were tormeted.
- 14 * For when the cruel fiercenes of y^e beasts came vpon them, and they were hurt with the stings of cruel serpents,
- 15 Thy wrath endured not perpetually, but they were troubled for a litle season, that they might be reformed, hauing a signe of saluacion, to remember the commandement of thy Law.
- 16 For he that turned toward it, was not healed by the thing that he sawe, but by thee, o Sauour of all.
- 17 So in this thou shewedst our enemies, that it is thou, which deliuerest from all euil.
- 18 * For the biting of greshoppers and flies killed them, and there was no remedie founde for their life: for they were worthe to be punished by suche.
- 19 But the teeth of the venemous dragons colde not overcome thy children: for thy mercie came to helpe them, & healed the.
- 20 For they were pricked, because thei shulde remember thy wordes, and were speedely healed, lest they shulde fall into so depe forgetfulnes, that thei colde not be called backe by thy benefite.
- 21 For nether herbe nor plaster healed them, but thy worde, o Lord, which healeth all things.
- 22 For thou hast the power of life & death, * and ledest downe vnto the gates of hel, and bringest vp againe.
- 23 A man in dede by his wickednes may flate another: but when the Spirit is gone forthe, it turneth not againe, nether can he call againe the soule that is taken away.
- 24 But it is not possible to escape thine hand.
- 25 * For the vngodli that wolde not knowe thee, were punished by the strength of thine arme, with strange raine and with haile, and were pursued with tempest, that they colde not auoide, & were consumed with fyre.
- 26 For it was a wonderous thing that fyre might do more then water, which quenchereth all things: but the worlde is the aduenger of the righteous.
- 27 For some time was the fyre so tame, that the beasts, which were sent against the vngodlie, burnt not: and that, because they shulde se and knowe, that they were persecuted with the punishment of God.
- 28 And some time burnt the fyre in y^e middes of the water about the power of fyre, that it might destroye the generacion of the vniust land.
- 29 * In the stead whereof thou hast fed thine owne people with Angels fode, and sent them bread readie from heauen without their labour, which had abundance of all pleasures in it & was mete for all tastes.
- 30 For thy sustinance declared thy swetnes vnto thy children, which serued to the appetite of him, that toke it, & was mete to that that euerie man wolde.
- 31 Moreouer the * snowe and yce abode the fyre & melted not, that thei might knowe, that the fyre burning in the hayle, & sparkling in the raine, destroyed the frute of the enemies.
- 32 Againe it forgate his owne strength, that the righteous might be nourished.
- 33 For the creature that serueth thee which art the maker, is fierce in punishing the vnrighteous: but it is easie to do good vnto suche as put their trust in thee.
- 34 Therefore was it changed at the same time vnto all facions to serue thy grace, which nourisheth all things, according to the desire of them that had nede thereof,
- 35 That thy children whome thou louest, o Lord, might knowe, * that it is not the increase of frutes that sedeth men, but that it is thy worde, which preserueth the that trust in thee.
- 36 For that which colde not be destroyed with the fyre, being onely warmed a litle with the sunne beames, melted,
- 37 That it might be knowen that we ought to preuente the sunne rising to giue thanks vnto thee, and to salute thee before the daye spring.
- 38 For the hope of the vnthankful shal melt as the winter yce, and flowe away as vnprofitable waters.

CHAP. XVII.

The iudgements of God against the wicked.

- 1 For thy iudgements are great, and can not be expressed: therefore men do erre, that wil not be reformed.
- 2 For when the vnrighteous thought to haue thine holie people in subiection, thei were bounde with the bands of darkenes, and long night, and being shut vp vnder the rose, did lie there to escape the euermoldest prouidence.
- 3 And while they thought to be hid in their darke sinnes, thei were scattered abroad in the darke couering of forgetfulnes, fearig horribly and troubled with visions.
- 4 For the denne that hid them, kept them not from feare: but the soundes that were about them, troubled them, and terrible visions and sorowful sights did appeare.

5 No pauer of the fyre might giue light, nether might the cleie flames of the starres lighten the horrible night.

6 For there appeared vnto them onely a sudden fyre, verie dredful: so that being afiaied of this vision, "which they colde not se, they thoght the things, which they sawe, to be worse.

That is, the mightie visio

7 * And y^e illusions of the magical artes were brought downe, and it was a moste shameful reproche for the boasting of their knowledge.

8 For they that promised to drive away feare and trouble from the sicke persone, were sicke for feare, & wouthie to be laughed at.

9 And though no feareful thing did feare them, yet were they afraied at the beastes which passed by them, and at the hyssing of the serpents: so that they dyed for feare, and said they sawe not the ayre, which by no meanes can be auoied.

10 For it is a feareful thing, when malice is condemned by her owne testimonie: and a conscience that is touched, doeth euer forecast cruel things.

11 For feare is nothing els, but a betraying of the succours, which reason offreth.

12 And the lesse that the hope is within, the more doeth he esteeme the ignorance of the thing, that tormenteth him, great.

13 But they that did endure the night that was intollerable, and that came out of the dungeon of hell, which is insupportable, slept the same slepe,

14 And sometimes were troubled with monstrous visions, and sometime they sowned, as though their owne soule shulde betray them: for a sudden feare not looked for, came vpon them.

15 And thus, whosoever fel downe, he was kept and shut in prison, but without chaines.

16 For whether he was an housband man, or a shepherd, or one that was set to worke alone, if he were taken, he must suffer this necessitie, that he colde not auoide:

17 (For with one chaine of darkenes were they all boude) whether it were an hyssing winde, or a swete song of the birds among the thicke branches of the trees, or the vehemencie of hastie running water,

18 Or a great noyce of the falling downe of stones, or the running of skipping beastes, that colde not be sene, or the noyce of ciuel beastes that roared, or the founde that answereth againe in the holow mountaines: these feareful things made them to swone.

Or, Ecce.

19 For all the worlde shined with clere light, and no man was hindred in his labour.

20 Onely vpon them there fel an heauie night, an image of that darkenes that was to come vpon them: yea, they were vnto them felues more grieuous then darkenes.

3 The fyre pillar that the Israelites had in Egypt. 8 The deliuerance of the faithfull. 10 The Lord smote the Egyptians 20 The sinne of the people in the wilderness. 21 Aaron stode betwene the liuing and the dead with his censure.

But thy Saits had a very great *light, whose voyce because they heard, and sawe not the figure of them, they thoght them blessed, because they also had not suffered the like.

2 And because they did not hurt the, which did hurt them afore, they thanked them, and asked pardon for their enmitie.

* Therefore thou gauest them a burning pillar of fyre to lead them in the vknown way, & madest the sunne that it hurted not them in their honorable iourney.

4 But they were wouthie to be deprived of the light, and to be kept in darkenes, which had kept thy children shut vp, by whome the vncorrupt light of the Law shulde be giuen to the worlde.

5 * Where as they thoght to slay the babes of the Saintes, by one childe that was cast out, and preserued to reprove them, thou hast taken awaye the multitude of their children and destroyed them all together in the mightie water.

Exod 1.16.

6 Of that night were our fathers certified afore, that they knowing vnto what othes they had giuen credit, might be of good chere.

7 Thus thy *people receiued the health of the righteous, but the enemies were destroyed.

Exod. 14. 24.

8 For as thou hast punished the enemies, so hast thou glorified vs whome thou hast called.

9 For the righteous children of the good men offred secretly, and made a law of righteousness by one consent, that y^e Saints shulde receiue good and euil in like manner, and that the fathers shulde first sing praises.

10 But a disageing price was heard of the enemies, and there was a lamentable noice for the children that were bewailed.

11 For the *master and the seruant were punished with like punishment, & the comune people suffred alike with the King.

Exod 12.27.

12 So they altogether had innumerable that dyed with one kinde of death: nether were the liuing sufficient to burye them: for in the twinkling of an eye the noblest offspring of them was destroyed.

13 So they that colde beleue nothing, because of the inchantments, confessed this people to be the children of God, in the destruction of the first borne

14 For

- 14 For while all things were in quiet silence, & the night was in the middes of her swift course,
- 15 Thine almightie worde leapt downe from heauen out of thy royal throne, as a fierce man of warre in the middes of the land that was destroyed,
- 16 And brought thine vnfained commandement as a sharpe sworde, and stode vp, and filled all things with death, & being come downe to the earth, it reached vnto the heauens.
- 17 Then the sight of the feareful dreames vexed them suddenly, and fearefulness came vpon them vnawares.
- 18 Then laye there one here, another there halfe dead, & shewed thy cause of his death.
- 19 For the visions that vexed them, shewed them these things afore: so that they were not ignorant, wherefore they perished.
- 20 Now tentacion of death touched the righteous also, and among the multitude in the wildernes there was a plague, but the wrath indured not long.
- 21 For the blameles man made haste, & defended them, and toke the weapons of his ministracion, euen prayer, & the reconciliation by the perfume, & set him self against the wrath, and so brought the miserie to an end, declaring that he was thy seruant.
- 22 For he ouercame not the multitude with bodelie power, nor with force of weapons, but with the worde he subdued him that punished, alledging the othes and couenants made vnto the fathers.
- 23 For when the dead were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another, he stode in the middes, and cut of the wrath, and parted it from comming to the liuing.
- 24 *For in the long garment was all the ornament, and in the foure rowes of the stones was the glorie of the fathers grauen with thy maiestie in the diademe of his head.
- 25 Vnto these the destroyer gaue place, and was afraid of them. for it was sufficient, that they had tasted the wrath.

- 1 The death of the Egyptians, and the great ioye of the Hebrewes. 11 The meat that was giuen as the desire of the people. 17 All the elements serue to the wil of God.
- 1 As for the vngodlie, the wrath came vpon them without mercie vnto the end: for he knewe what shulde come vnto them,
- 2 That they (when they had consented to let them go, and had sent them out with diligence) wolde repent, and pursue them.
- 3 For while yet sorow was before them, and they lamented by the graues of the dead, they deuised another foolishnes, so that they persecuted the in their fleing, whome they had cast out afore with prayer.
- 4 For the destinie, whereof they were worthy, brought them to this end, and caused them to forget the things that had come to passe, that they might accomplish the punishment, which remained by torments,
- 5 Bothe that thy people might trye a marueilous passage, and that these might finde a strange death.
- 6 For euerie creature in his kinde was fashioned of newe, and seued in their owne offices inioyned the, that thy children might be kept without hurt.
- 7 For the cloude ouershadowed their tentes, and the drye earth appeared, where afore was water: so that in the red Sea there was a way without impediment, and the great deepe became a grene field.
- 8 Through the which all the people went that were defended with thine hand, seeing thy wonderous marueiles.
- 9 For they neyed like horses, and leaped like lambes, praising thee, O Lord, which hadest deliuered them.
- 10 For they were yet mindeful of those things which were done in the land where they dwelt, how the grounde brought forth the flies in steade of cattel, & how the riuer scrawled with the multitude of frogges in steade of fishes.
- 11 *But at the last they sawe a new generation of blides, when they were intised with lust, and desired delicate meates.
- 12 *For the quails came forth of the sea vnto them for comfort, but punishments came vpon the sinners not without signes that were giuen by great thundrings: for they suffered worthely according to their wickednes, because they shewed a cruel hatred toward strangers.
- 13 For the one sorte wolde not receiue the when they were present, because they knewe them not: the other sorte brought the strangers into bondage that they had done the good.
- 14 Beside all these things some wolde not suffer, that any regarde shulde be had of them: for they handeled the strangers despitefully.
- 15 Others that had receiued the with great banketing, and admitted them to be partakers of the same lawes, did afflict them with great labours.
- 16 Therefore they were striken with blindness, as in olde time certeine were at the dores of the righteous, so that euerie one being compassed with darknes, sought the entrance of his dore.
- 17 Thus the elements agreed among them selues in this change, as when one tune is changed vpon an instrument of musike, and the melodie stil remaineth, which may easely be perceiued by the sight of the - things that are come to passe.

 18 For the things of the earth were chaged into things of the water, & the thing that did swimme, went vpon the grounde.
 19 The fyre had power in the water contra-rie vnto his owne vertue, & the water for-gate his owne kinde to quench.
 20 Againe, & flames did not hurte the flesh of the corruptible beasts that walked therein, neither melted they that which seemed to be yce, and was of a nature that wolde melt, and yet was an immortal meat.

 21 For in all things, O Lord, thou hast magnified and glorified thy people, and hast not despised to assist them in euery time and place.

THE WISDOME OF Iesus the sonne of Sirach, called Ecclesiasticus.

This argument was founde in a certaine Greke copie.

This Iesus was the sonne of Sirach, and Sirachs father was also called Iesus, and he liued in the latter times, after the people had bene led away captiue, and broght home againe, and almoste after all the Prophetes. Now his grandfather, as he him self witnesseth, was a man of great diligence, and wisdom among the Hebrewes, who did not onely gather the graue sentences of wise men, that had bene before him, but he him self also spake manie ful of great knowledge and wisdom. So this first Iesus dyed, and left this which he had gathered, and Sirach afterwarde left it to Iesus his sonne, who toke it and put it in order in a booke, and called it WIS-DOME, intitling it both by his owne name, his fathers name, and his grandfathers: thinking by this title of Wisdom to allure the reader to read this booke with more great desire, and to consider it more diligently. Therefore this booke containeth wise sayings, and darke sentences, and similitudes with certaine diuine histories which are notable and ancient, euen of men that were approued of God, and certaine prayers, and songs of the auctor him self: moreover, what benefites the Lord had bestowed vpon his people, and what plagues he had heaped vpon their enemies. This Iesus did imitate Salomon, and was no lesse famous in wisdom and doctrine, who was therefore called a man of great knowledge, as he was in dede.

The prologue of the Wisdom of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

Where as manie, and great things haue bene giuen vs by the Law, and the Prophetes, and by others that haue followed them, (for the which things Israel ought to be commended by the reason of doctrine and wisdom, whereby the readers ought not onely to become learned them selues, but also may be able by the diligent studie thereof to be profitable vnto strangers bothe by speaking & writing) after that my grandfather Iesus had giuen him self to the reading of the Law, and the Prophetes, & other booke of our fathers, and had gotten therein sufficient iudgement, he purposed also to write some thing pertaining to learning and wisdom, to the intent that they which were desirous to learne, & wolde giue them selues to these things, might profite mu-che more in liuing according to the Law.
 Wherefore, I exhorte you to receiue it louingly, and to read it with diligence, and to take it in good worthe, though we seme to some in some things not able to attaine to the interpretation of suche wordes as are hard to be expressed: for the things that are spoken in the Hebrew tongue, haue another force in them selues then whē they are translated into another tongue, and not one-ly these things, but other things also, as the Law it self, & the Prophetes, & other booke haue no smale difference when they are spoken in their owne language. Therefore in the eight and thirtieth yere, when I came into Egypt vnder King Euergetes, and continued there, I founde a copie ful of great learning, and I thought it necessarie, to bestowe my diligence, and trauaile to interpret this booke. So for a certaine time with great watching and studie I gaue my self to the finishing of this booke, that it might be published, that they which remaine in banishment, and are desirous to learne, might applie them selues vnto good maners, and liue according to the Law.

- 3 Who can finde the wifdome [of God which hathe bene afore all things?]
- 4 Wifdome hathe bene created before all things, and the vnderstanding of prudence from euerlaſting.
- 5 [The worde of God moſte high is the fountaine of wifdome, and the euerlaſting commandements are the entrance vnto her.]

- 8 There is one wiſe, [euen the moſte high Creator of all things, the almightie, the King of power] and verie terrible, which ſitteth vpon his throne.
- 9 He is the Lord, that hathe created her [thorow y holie Goſt:] he hathe ſene her, nombred her, [and meaſured her.]
- 10 He hathe powred her out vpon all his workes, and vpon all fleſh, according to his giſt, and giueth her abundantly vnto them that loue him.
- 11 The feare of the Lord is glorie, & gladnes, and reioycing, and a ioyful crowne.
- 12 The feare of the Lord maketh a mery heart, and giueth gladnes, and ioye and long life.

- 26 The feare of the Lord driueth out ſinne: and when ſhe is preſent, ſhe driueth away anger.

- 33 Be not diſobedient to the feare of the Lord, and come not vnto him with a double heart.
- 34 ¶ Be not an hypocrite that men ſhulde ſpeake of thee, but take hede what thou ſpeakeſt.
- 35 Exalte not thy ſelf, leſt thou fall & bring thy ſoule to diſhonour, and ſo God diſcouer thy ſecretes, & caſt thee downe in the middes of the cōgregacion, becauſe thou woldeſt not receiue the true feare of God, and thine heart is ful of diſceite.

CHAP. II.

He exhorteth the ſeruants of God to righteousnes, loue, vnderſtanding, and patience. 11 To truſt in the Lord. 13 A curſe vpon them that are ſainte hearted and impacient.

- 1 MY ſonne, if thou wilt come into the ſeruice of God, [ſtand faſt in righteousnes and feare, and] prepare thy ſoule to tentacion.

- 3 Ioyne thy ſelf vnto him, and departe not away, that thou maiſt be increaſed at thy laſt end.
- 4 Whatſoeuer cometh vnto thee, receiue it patiently, and be patient in the change of thine affliction.
- 5 * For as golde [& ſiluer are] tryed in the fyre, euen ſo are men acceptable in the fornaſe of aduerſitie.

Nnan. iii.

- 6 Beleue in God and he wil helpe thee: order thy waye a right, & trust in him: [holde fast his feare, and growe olde therein]
- 7 Ye that feare the Lord, waite for his mercie: shrinke not awaye from him that ye fall not.
- 8 Ye that feare the Lord, beleue him and your rewarde shal not faile.
- 9 O ye that feare the Lord, trust in good things, & in the euerlasting ioy & mercie.
- 10 [Ye that feare y^e Lord, loue him, & your hearts shal be lightened.]
- 11 Consider the olde generacions [of men, ye children,] and marke them wel: * was there euer anye confounded, that put his trust in the Lord? or who hath continued in his feare, and was forsaken? or whome did he euer dispise, that called vpon him?
- 12 For God is gracious and merciful, and forgiveth sinnes and saueth in the time of trouble, [& is a defender for all the that seke him in the trueth.]
- 13 Wo vnto them, that haue a feareful heart, [and to the wicked lippes] and to the faint hands, and to the sinner that goeth two * maner of wayes.
- 14 Wo vnto him that is faint hearted, for he beleueth not: therefore shal he not be defended.
- 15 Wo vnto you that haue lost pacience, [& haue forsaken the right wayes, and are turned backe into frowarde wayes:] for what wil ye do when the Lord shal visit you?
- 16 They that feare the Lord, wil not disobey his wordes: and they that * loue him, wil kepe his wayes.
- 17 They that feare the Lord, wil seke out the things that are pleasant vnto him: and they that loue him, shal be fulfilled with his Law.
- 18 They that feare the Lord, wil prepare their hearts, and humble their soules in his sight.
- 19 [Thei that feare the Lord, kepe his commandements, and wil be pacient til he se them,
- 20 Saying, If we do not repent] we shal fall into the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men.
- 21 Yet as his greatnes is, so is his mercie.

CHAP. III.

2 To our father and mother ought we to giue double honour 10 Of the blessing and curse of the father and mother. 22 No man ought ouer curiously to searche out the secrets of God.

- 1 [He children of wisdome are the Church of the righteous, & their offspring is obedience and loue.]
- 2 Hearc your fathers iudgement, o childre, and do thereafter, that ye may be safe.
- 3 For the Lord wil haue the father honored of he children, and hath consumed the autoritie of the mother ouer the children.

- 4 Who so honoreth his father, his sinnes shal be forgiven him, [and he shal abstine from them, & shal haue his daily desires.]
- 5 And he that honoreth his mother, is like one that gathereth treasure.
- 6 Who so honoreth his father, shal haue ioye of his owne childien, & when he maketh his prayer, he shal be heard.
- 7 He that honoreth his father, shal haue a long life, and he that is obedient vnto the Lord, shal comfort his mother.
- 8 He that feareth the Lord, honoreth his parents, and doeth seruice vnto his paréts, as vnto lords.
- 9 * Honour thy father and mother in dede and in worde [& in all paciēce,] that thou maiest haue Gods blessing, [& that his blessing may abide with thee in the end.]
- 10 For y^e blessing of the father establissheth the houses of the children, & the mothers curse rotteth out the fundacions.
- 11 Reioyce not at the dishonour of thy father: for it is not honour vnto thee, but shame.
- 12 Seing that mā's glorie cometh by his fathers honour, & the reproche of y^e mother is dishonour to the children,
- 13 My sonne, helpe thy father in his age, and greue him not as long as he liueth.
- 14 And if his vnderstanding faile, haue pacience with him, & despise him not when thou art in thy full strength.
- 15 For the good intreatie of thy father shal not be forgottē, but it shal be a fortres for thee against sinnes, [and for thy mothers offence thou shalt be recompensed with good, and it shal be founded for thee in righteousness.]
- 16 And in the day of trouble thou shalt be remembered: thy sinnes also shal melt away as the yce in the faire wether.
- 17 He that forsaketh his father, shal come to shame, and he that angreth his mother, is cursed of God.
- 18 ¶ My sonne, performe thy doings with mekenes, so shalt thou be beloued of them that are approued.
- 19 The * greater thou art, the more humble thy self [in all things,] & thou shalt finde fauour before the Lord.

- 20 Many are excellent & of renoume: but the secrets are reueiled vnto the meke.
- 21 For the power of the Lord is great, & he is honored of the lowlie.

- 22 * Seke not out the things that are to hard for thee, nether searche the things rashly which are to mightie for thee.
- 23 [But] what [God] hath commanded thee, thinke vpon that with reuēcence, [and be not curious in many of his workes:] for it his ſoule, his prayer ſhal be heard of him that made him.

7 Be courteous vnto the cōpanie [of poore, and humble thy ſoule vnto the Elder,] and bowe downe thine head to a man of worſhip.

8 Let it not greue thee to bowe downe thine eare vnto the poore, [but pay thy dete, ] and giue him a friendlie answer.

9 ¶ Deliuer him that ſuffieth wrong, from the hand of the oppreſſour, & be not faint hearted when thou iudgeſt.

10 Be as a father vnto the fatherles, and as an houſband vnto thei mother: ſo ſhalt thou be as the ſonne of the moſte High:
and he ſhal loue thee more then thy mother doeth.

11 Wiſdome exalterh her children, and receiueh them that ſeke her, [& wil go before them in the way of righteouſnes.]

12 He that loueth her, loueth life, and they that ſeke life in the morning, ſhal haue great ioye.

13 He that kepeth her, ſhal inherit glorie:
for vnto whome ſhe entieth, him the Lord wil bleſſe.

14 They that honour her, ſhal be the ſer-uants of the holie one, and them that loue her, the Lord doeth loue.

15 Who ſo giueth eare vnto her, ſhal iudge the nations, and he that goeth vnto her, ſhal dwell ſafely.

16 He that is faithful vnto her, ſhal haue her in poſſeſſion, and his generacion ſhal poſſeſſe her.

17 For fiſt ſhe wil walke with him by cro-ked waies, and bring him vnto feare, and drede, and torment him with her discipline vntil ſhe haue tryed his ſoule, and haue proued him by her iudgements.

18 Then wil ſhe returne the ſtraight way vnto him, and comfort him, and ſhew him her ſecrets, [and heape vpon him the treaſures of knowledge, and vnderſtanding of righteouſnes.]

19 But if he go wrong, ſhe wil forſake him, and giue him ouer into the hands of his deſtruction.

20 [¶ My ſonne,] * Make muche of time, Rom. 12, 11.
and eſchewe the thing that is euil,

21 And be not aſhamed [to ſay the trueth] for thy life: for there is a ſhame that bringeth ſinne, and a ſhame that bringeth worſhip and fauour.

22 Accept no perſone againſt thine owne conſcience, that thou be not confounded to thine owne decaye, [and forbear not thy neighbour in his faute.]

23 And kepe not backe counſel when it may do good, nether hide thy wiſdome when it may be famous.

24 For by the talke is wiſdome knowen, and learning by the wordes of the tongue, [& counſel, wiſdome and learning by the talking of the wiſe, & ſtedfaſtnes in the wor-kes of righteouſnes.]

25 In no wiſe ſpeake againſt the worde of trueth, but be aſhamed of the lies of thine owne ignorance.

26 Be not aſhamed to confeſſe thy ſinnes, & reſiſt not the courſe of the riuer.

27 Submit not thy ſelf vnto a fooliſh man, nether accept the perſone of the mightie.

- 28 Strive for the truth vnto death, [and defend iustice for thy life,] and the Lord God shal fight for thee [against thine enemies.]
- 29 Be not hastie in thy tongue, nether slacke and negligent in thy workes.
- 30 Be not as a lion in thine owne house, neither beat thy seruants for thy fantasie, [nor oppresse them that are vnder thee.]
- 31 * Let not thine hand be stretched out to receiue, and shut when thou shuldest giue.
- 14 Honour and shame is in the talke, & the tongue of a man causeth him to fall.
- 15 Be not counted a tale bearer, & lie not in waite with thy tongue: for shame [and repentance] followe the thief, and an euil condemnacion is ouer him that is double tōgued: [but he that is a backebiter, shalbe hated, enuied and confounded.]
- 16 Do not rashly, nether in small things nor in great.

Act. 20, 35.

CHAP. V.

2 In riches may we not put any confidence. 7 The vengeance of God ought to be feared, and repentance may not be differred.

- 1 TRUST not vnto thy riches, and say not, I haue ynough for my life: [for it shal not helpe in tyme of vengeance and indignation.]
- 2 Followe not thine owne minde and thy strength to walke in the wayes of thine heart:
- 3 Neither say y, [How haue I had strength?] or who wil bring me vnder for my workes? for God the aduenger wil reuenge the wrong done by thee.
- 4 And say not, I haue sinned, and what euil hath come vnto me? for the Almighty is a patient rewarder, but he wil not leaue thee vnpunished.
- 5 Because thy sinne is forgiven, be not without feare, to heape sinne vpon sinne.
- 6 And say not, The mercie of God is great: he wil forgieue my manifold sinnes: for mercie & wrath come from him, & his indignacion cometh downe vpon sinners.
- 7 Make no tarying to turne vnto the Lord, and put not off from day to day: for suddenly shal the wrath of the Lord breake forth, & in thy securitie thou shalt be destroyed, and thou shalt perish in tyme of vengeance.
- 8 Trust not in wicked riches: for they shal not helpe thee in the day of punishment [and vengeance.]
- 9 Be not caryed about with euerie winde, and go not into euerie way: for so doeth the sinner that hath a double tongue.
- 10 Stand fast in thy sure vnderstanding [& in the way and knowledge of the Lord] & haue but one maner of worde, [& followe the worde of peace and righteousness.]
- 11 Be humble to heare the worde of God, that thou maist vnderstand it, and make a true answer with wisdom.
- 12 Be swift to heare good things, and let thy life be pure, & giue a patient answer.
- 13 If thou hast vnderstanding, answer thy neighbour: if not, laye thine hand vpon thy mouth, [lest thou be trapped in an vdiscreete worde, and so be blamed.]

CHAP. VI.

1 It is the propertie of a sinner to be euil tongued. 6 Of friendship. 33 Desire to be taught.

- 1 BE not of a friend [thy neighbours] enemy: for suche shal haue an euil name, shame and reproche, and he shal be in infamie as the wicked that hath a double tongue.
- 2 Be not proude in the deuice of thine owne minde, lest thy soule rent thee as a bull,
- 3 And eat vp thy leaues, and destroye thy frute, and so thou be left as a drye tree [in the wilderness.]
- 4 For a wicked soule destroyeth him that hath it, and maketh him to be laughed to scorne of his enemies, [and bringeth him to the porcion of the vngodlie.]
- 5 A swete talke multiplieth the friends [& pacifieth them that be at variance,] and a swete tōgue increaseth muche good talke.
- 6 Holde friendship with manie, neuertheless haue but one counseler of a thousand.
- 7 If thou gettest a friend, proue him first, & be not hastie to credit him.
- 8 For some man is a friend for his owne occasion, and wil not abide in the day of thy trouble.
- 9 And there is some friend that turneth to enimitie, and taketh parte against thee, & in contention he wil declare thy shame.
- 10 Againe some friend is but a companion at the table, and in the day of thine affliction he continueth not.
- 11 But in thy prosperitie he wil be as thou thy self, and wil vse libertie ouer thy seruants.
- 12 If thou be brought low, he wil be against thee, and wil hide him self from thy face.
- 13 Depart from thine enemies, and beware of thy friends.
- 14 A faithfull friend is a strong defence, and he that findeth suche one, findeth a treasure.
- 15 A faithfull friend ought not to be changed for any thing, and the weight [of golde & siluer] is not to be compared to the goodness [of his faith.]
- 16 A faithfull friend is the medicine of life [and immortalitie,] & they that feare the Lord, shal finde him.
- 17 Who so feareth the Lord, shal direct his friendship a right, and as his owne self, so shal his friend be.

- 18 ¶ My sonne, receiue doctrine from thy youth vp: so shalt thou finde wisdom [which shal indure] til thine olde age.
- 19 Go to her as one that ploweth, and soweth, and waite for her good frutes: for thou shalt haue but litle labour in her worke: but y^e shalt eat of her frutes right sone.
- 20 How excedding sharpe is she to the vnlearned: he that is without iudgement, wil not remaine with her.
- 21 Vnto suche one she is as a fine touchestone, and he casteth her from him without delay.
- 22 For thei haue the name of wisdom, but there be but fewe that haue the knowledge of her.
- 23 [For with them that knowe her, she abideth vnto the appearing of God.]
- 24 Giue eare, my sonne: receiue my doctrine, and refuse not my counsell,
- 25 And put thy fete into her linkes, and thy necke into her chaine.
- 26 Bowe downe thy shulder vnto her, and beare her, and be not wearie of her bands.
- 27 Come vnto her with thy whole heart, & kepe her waies with all thy power.
- 28 Seke after her, and searche her, & she shal be shewed thee: and when thou hast gotten her, forsake her not.
- 29 For at the last thou shalt finde rest in her, and that shal be turned to thy ioye.
- 30 Then shal her fetters be a strong defence for thee, [and a sure fundacion] & her chaines a glorious raiment.
- 31 For there is a golden ornament in her, & her bands are the laces of purple colour.
- 32 Thou shalt put her on as a robe of honour, & shalt put her vpon thee, as a crowne of ioye.
- 33 My sonne, if thou wilt, thou shalt be taught, and if thou wilt applic thy minde, thou shalt be wittie.
- 34 If thou loue to hear: thou shalt receiue [doctrine,] and if thou delite in hearing, thou shalt be wise.
- 35 Stand with the multitude of the Elders, which are wise, and ioyne with him that is wise.
- 36 * Desire to heare all godlie talke, and let not the graue sentences of knowledge escape thee.
- 37 And if thou seeest a man of vnderstanding, get thee sone vnto him, and let thy foote weare the steppes of his dores.
- 38 Let thy minde be vpon the ordinances of the Lord, and be continually occupied in his comandements: so shal he stablish thine heart, and giue thee wisdom at thine owne desire.
- 39 ¶ We must forsake euil, and yet not iustifie our selues.
- 40 The behauiour of the wise towards his wife, his friend, his children, his seruants, his father and mother.
- 1 D O ne euil: so shal no harme come vnto thee.
- 2 Departe from the thing that is wicked, and sinne shal turne away from thee.
- 3 My sonne, sowe not vpon the forowes of vnrighteousnes, lest that thou reape them seven folde.
- 4 Aske not of the Lord preeminence, neither of the King the seate of honour.
- 5 * Iustifie not thy self before the Lord: [for Iob. 9. 2. he knoweth thine heart,] & boast not thy wisdom in the presence of the King. psal 143. 2. eccl 7. 17. luk. 18. 12.
- 6 Seke not to be made a iudge, lest thou be not able to take away iniquitie, and lest thou, fearing the person of the mightie, shuldest commit an offence against thine vprightness.
- 7 Offend not against the multitude of a citie, and cast not thy self among the people.
- 8 * Binde not two sinnes together: for in one sinne shalt thou not be vnpunished. Chap. 12. 1.
- 9 Say not, God wil loke vpon the multitude of mine oblations, and when I offer to the moste high God, he wil accept it.
- 10 Be not faint hearted, when thou makest thy prayer, nether slacke in giuing of almes.
- 11 Laugh no mā to scorne in the heauines of his soule: for [God which seeth all things] is he * that can bring downe, & set vp againe. 1 Sam 2. 7.
- 12 Sow not a lie against thy brother, nether do the same against thy friend.
- 13 Vse not to make anie maner of lie: for the custome thereof is not good.
- 14 Make not manie wordes when thou art among the Elders, nether repeate a thing in thy prayer.
- 15 Hate not laborious worke, nether the housbandrie, which the moste High hath created.
- 16 Nomber not thy self in the multitude of the wicked, but remember that vengeance wil not slacke.
- 17 Humble thy minde greatly: for the vengeance of the wicked is fyre and wormes.
- 18 Giue not ouer thy friend for anie good, nor thy true brother for y^e golde of Ophir.
- 19 Departe not from a wise and good woman, [that is fallen vnto thee for thy porciō in the feare of the Lord:] for her grace is aboue golde.
- 20 ¶ Where as thy seruāt worketh truely, intreate him not euil, nor y^e hireling that bestoweth him self wholie for thee. Leui 19. 13. chap 33. 30. & 34. 2.
- 21 Let thy soule loue a good seruant, and defraude him not of libertie, [nether leaue him a poore man.]
- 22 * If thou haue cattel, loke wel to them, and if thei be for thy profite, kepe them with thee. Deut. 22. 4.

- 23 If thou haue sonnes, instruct them, and holde their necke from their youth.
- 24 If thou haue daughters, kepe their bodies, and shewe not thy face chereful toward them.
- 25 Marrie thy daughter, & so shalt thou performe a weightie matter: but giue her to a man of vnderstanding.
- 26 If thou haue a wife after thy minde, forsake her not, but commit not thy self to the hateful.
- 27 *Honour thy father fro thy whole heart, & forget not the sorowes of thy mother. Chap 3.9. tob 4.3.
- 28 Remember that thou wast borne of the, and how canst thou recompense them the things that they haue done for thee?
- 29 ¶ Feare the Lord with all thy soule, and honor his ministers.
- 30 Loue him that made thee, with all thy strength, *and forsake not his seruants. Deut. 10.8.
- 31 Feare the Lord with all thy soule, and honor the Priests, *and giue them their porcion, as it is commanded thee, the first frutes, [and purifications] and sacrifices for sinne, & the offrings of the shoulders, and the sacrifices of sanctification, and the first frutes of the holie things. Leui 2.3. num. 18.15.
- 32 Stretche thine hand vnto the poore that thy "blesing, [and reconciliacion] may be accomplished. Ps. liberalitie.
- 33 Liberalitie pleaseeth all men liuing, and *from the dead restrain it not. Tob 2.21.
- 34 *Let not them that wepe, be without [comfort:] but moune wth suche as mourne. Rom. 12.15.
- 35 *Be not slowe to visit the sicke: for that shal make thee to be beloued. Mat. 25.36.
- 36 Whatsoeuer thou takest in hand, remember the end, & thou shalt neuer do amisse.
- CHAP. VIII.
- We must take hede with whome we haue to do.*
- 1 Strue not with a mightie mā, lest thou fall into his hands.
- 2 *Make not variance with a riche mā, lest he on y^other side weigh downe thy weight: *for golde [and siluer] hath destroyed manie & hath subuerted y^e hearts of Kings. Mat 5.25. Chap. 31.6.
- 3 Strue not with a man that is ful of wordes, and laie no stickes vpon his fyre.
- 4 Playe not with a man that is vntaught, lest thy kinned be dishonored.
- 5 *Despise not a man that turneth him self away from sinne, nor cast him not in the teeth with ali, but remēber that we are all worthe blame. Galat 6.1.
- 6 *Dishonour not a man in his olde age: for they were as we which are not olde. Leui 19.32.
- 7 Be not glad of the death of thine enemy, but remember that we must dye all, [and so enter into ioy.]
- 8 *Despise not the exhortacion of the [Elders] y^e be wise, but acquaint thy self with their wise sentences: for of the thou shalt learne wisdom, [and the doctrine of vnderstanding,] and how to sesue great men [without complaint.]
- 9 Go not from the doctrine of the Elders: for they haue learned it of their fathers, & of them thou shalt learne vnderstanding, and to make answer in the time of nede.
- 10 Kindle not the coles of sinners, [when thou rebukest them,] lest thou be burnt in the fyrie flames [of their sinnes.]
- 11 Rise not vp against him that doeth wrong, y^e he lay not waite as a spie for thy mouth. Chap 29.4.
- 12 *Lend not vnto him that is mightier then thy self: for if thou lendest him, cou^{er} it but lost.
- 13 Be not suretie aboute thy power: for if thou be surerie, thinke to paie it.
- 14 Go not to law with y^e iudge: for thei wil giue sentēce accordig to his owne honour.
- 15 *Trauaile not by the way with him that is rash, lest he do thee iniurie: for he followeth his owne wilfulnes, & so shalt thou perish thorow his folie. Gen. 17.2.
- 16 *Strue not with him that is angrie, & go not with him into the wildernes: for blood is as nothing in his sight, and where there is no helpe, he wil ouerthrowe thee. Prou. 22.24.
- 17 Take no counsel at a foole: for he can not kepe a thing close.
- 18 Do no secret thing before a stranger: for thou canst not tell what he goeth about.
- 19 Open not thine heart vnto euerie man, lest he be vnthankful to thee, [and put thee to reprove.]
- CHAP. IX.
- Of ielousie 12 An olde friend is to be preferred before a newe. 18 Righteous men shulde be bidden to thy table.*
- 1 BE not ielous ouer thy wife of thy bosome, nether teache her by thy meanes an euil lesson.
- 2 Giue not thy life vnto a woman, lest she ouercome thy strength, [and so thou be confounded.]
- 3 Mete not an harlot, lest thou fall into her snares.
- 4 Vse not the companie of a woman that is a singer, [& a dancer, nether heare her,] lest thou be taken by her craftines.
- 5 Gaze not on a *maide, that thou fall not by that that is precious in her. Gen 6.8.
- 6 *Cast not thy minde vpon harlots [in a - Prou. 5.10] nie maner of thing,] lest thou destroye [bothe thy self and] thine heritage.
- 7 Go not about gazig in the streates of the citie, nether wander thou in the secret places thereof.
- 8 *Turne awaye thine eye from a beautiful woman, and loke not vpon othe^rrs beautie: for manie *haue perished by the beautie of women: for therow it loue is kindled as a fyre. Mat 5.28. Gen 34.1. 2 Sam 11.2. iudeth. 10.17.
- 9 [Euerie woman that is an harlot, shal be trodden vnder fote as dogue, of euerie one that goeth by the waye.

- 10 Many wondering at y^e beautie of a strange womā, haue bene cast out: for her wordes burne as a fyre.]
- 11 Sit not at all with another mā's wife, [neither lie with her vpon the bed,] nor banquet with her, lest thine heart incline vnto her, and so through thy desire fall into destruction.
- 12 ¶ Forsake not an olde friend: for the new shal not be like him: a newe friend is as newe wine: when it is olde, thou shalt drinke it with p^easure.
- 13 *Desire not y^e honour [& riches] of a sinner: for y^e knowest not what shalbe his end.
- 14 Delite not in the thing that the vngodlie haue pleasure in, but remēber that they shal not be founde iust vnto their graue.
- 15 Kepe thee frō the man that hath power to slay: so shalt thou not doute the feare of death: and if thou come vnto him, make no faute, lest he take away thy life: remember that thou goest in the middes of snares, and that thou walkest vpon the towres of the citie.
- 16 Trye thy neighbour as nere as thou cāst, *and aske counsel of the wise.
- 17 Let thy talke be with the wise, & all thy comunicatiō in the Law of y^e moste High.
- 18 Let iust men eat and drinke with thee, and let thy reioycing be in the feare of the Lord.
- 19 In the hands of the craftsmen shal the workes be commended, and the wise prince of the people by his worde, [& the worde by the wisdom of the Elders.]
- 20 A man ful of wordes is dangerous in his citie, and he that is rash in his talking, shalbe hated.
- CHAP. X.
- 1 Of Kings and iudges. 7 Pride and couetousnes are to be abhorred. 28 Labour is praised.
- 1 *A Wise iudge wil instruct his people with discretiō: the gouernance of a prudent man is wel ordered.
- 2 As the iudge of the people is him self, so are his officers, and what maner of man the ruler of the citie is, suche are all they that dwell therein.
- 3 *An vnwise King destroyeth his people, but where they that be in autoritie, are men of vnderstāding, there the citie prosperieth.
- 4 The gouernement of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, [and all iniquitie of the naciōs is to be abhorred,] and when time is, he wil set vp a profitable ruler ouer it.
- 5 In the hand of God is the prosperitie of man, and vpon the scribes wil he laye his honour.
- 6 *Be not angrie for any wrong, with thy neighbour, and do nothing by inurious practises.
- 7 Pride is hateful before God and man, & by bothe doeth one commit iniquitie.
- 8 *Because of vnrighteous dealing and wrongs and riches gotten by deceit, the kingdome is translated from one people to another.
- 9 There is nothing worse then a couetous man: [why art thou proude, o earth and ashes? there is not a more wicked thing, then to loue money:] for suche one wolde euen sel his soule, & for his life euerie one is compelled to pul out his owne bowels.
- 10 [All tyrannie is of smale indurance, and the disease that is hard to heale, is grievous to the physicion.]
- 11 The physicio cutteth of y^e fore disease, & he that is to day a King, to morow is dead.
- 12 Why is earth & ashes proude, seing that when a man dyeth, he is the heire of serpents, beastes and wormes?
- 13 The beginning of mans pride, is to fall away from God, & to turne away his heart from his maker.
- 14 For pride is the original of sinne, and he that hathe it, shal powre out abominacion, til at last he be ouerthrowen: therefore the Lord bringeth the persuasious [of the wicked] to dishonour, and destroyeth them in the end.
- 15 The Lord hathe cast downe the thrones of the [proude] princes, & set vp the meke in their steade.
- 16 The Lord plucketh vp the rootes of the [proude] naciōs, and planteth the lowlie with glorie among them.
- 17 The Lord ouerthroweth the lands of the heathen, and destroyeth the vnto y^e fundacions of y^e earth: he causeth the to wither away, & destroyeth them, and maketh their memorial to cease out of the earth.
- 18 [God destroyeth the memorial of the proude, & leaueth the remembrance of the humble.]
- 19 Pride was not created in mē, neither wrath in the generacion of women.
- 20 There is a fede of mā, which is an honorable fede: the honorable fede are they y^e feare y^e Lord: there is a fede of mā, which is without honour: y^e fede without honour, are they that transgress the cōmandmēts of the Lord: it is a fede that remaineth w^h feareth the Lord, & a faire plant, that loue him: but they are a fede without honour, that despise the Law, & a deceiueable fede that breake the commandements.
- 21 He y^e is the chief amōg brethrē, is honorable: so are they y^e feare y^e Lord in his sight.
- 22 The feare of the Lord causeth that the kingdome faileth not, but the kingdome is lost by crueltie and pride.
- 23 The feare of the Lord is y^e glorie aswel of the riche & the noble, as of the poore.
- 24 It is not mete to despise the poore man

15 Wisdome & knowledge, and vnderstanding of the Lawe are of the Lord: loue & good workes come of him.

16 Errour and darckenes are appointed for sinners, and they that exalte them selues in euil, waxe olde in euil.

17 The gift of the Lord remaineth for the godlie, & his good wil giueth prosperitie for euer.

18 ¶ Some man is riche by his care and nigardship, & this is y porcion of his wages, 19 In that he saith, *I haue gotten rest, and Luk. 12. 1. 8. now wil I eat continually of my goods, yet he considereth not, y the time draweth nere, that he must leaue all these things vn to other men, and dye him self.

20 Stand thou in thy state, and exercise thy self therein, and remaine in thy worke vnto thine age.

21 Marueil not at the workes of sinners, but trust in the Lord, and abide in thy labour: for it is an easie thing in the sight of the Lord suddenly to make a poore man riche.

22 The blessing of the Lord is in the wages of the godlie, and he maketh his prosperitie sone to florish.

23 ¶ Say not, What profite and pleasure shal I haue? and what good things shal I haue hereafter?

24 Againe say not, I haue ynough, & possesse many things, * & what euil can come to me hereafter? Chap. 18. 25.

25 In thy good state remēber aduersitie, & in aduersitie forget not prosperitie.

26 For it is an easie thing vnto the Lord in the day of death to rewarde a man according to his waies.

27 The aduersitie of an houre maketh one to forget pleasure: and in a mans end, his workes are discovered.

28 Iudge none blessed before his death: for a man shal be known by his children.

29 Bring not euerie man into thine house: for the discentful haue manv traies, [and are like stomackes that belche stinkingly.]

30 As a partriche is takē vnder a basket, [& the hinde is taken in the snare,] so is the heart of the proude man, which like a spie watcheth watcheth for thy fall.

- 31 For he lieth in waite & turneth good vnto euil, and in things worthie praise he wil finde some faute.
- 32 Of one litle sparke is made a great fyre, [& of one discretful man is blood increased:] for a sinful mā laieth waite for blood.
- 33 Beware of a wicked man: for he imagineth wicked things to bring thee into a perpetual shame.
- 34 Lodge a stranger, and he wil destroe thee with vnquietnes, & drue thee from thine owne.

CHAP. XII.

1 Vnto whome we ought to do good. 10 Enemies ought not to be trusted.

- 1 WHen thou wilt do good, knowe to whome thou doest it, so shalt thou be thanked for thy benefites.
- 2 Do good vnto the righteous, & thou shalt finde [great] rewarde, though not of him, yet of the moste High.
- 3 He can not haue good that continueth in euil, and giueth no almes: [for the moste High hateth the sinners, and hathe mercie vpon them that repent.]
- 4 Giue vnto suche as feare God, and receiue not a sinner.
- 5 Do wel vnto him that is lowlie, but giue not to y vngodlie: holde backe thy bread, and giue it not vnto him, lest he ouercome thee thereby: els thou shalt receiue twise as muche euil for all the good that thou doest vnto him.
- 6 For the moste High hateth the wicked, & wil repay vengeance vnto the vngodlie, & kepeth them against the day of horrible vengeance.
- 7 Giue vnto the good, and receiue not the sinner.
- 8 A friend can not be knownen in prosperitie, nerthe can an enemy be vnknownen in aduersitie.
- 9 When a man is in wealth, it griueth his enemies, but in heauines & trouble a mans very friend wil departe from him.
- 10 Trust neuer thine enemy: for like as an yron rusteth, so doeth his wickednes.
- 11 And though he make muche crouching & kneeling, yet aduise thy self, & beware of him, & thou shalt be to him, as he that wipeth a glasse, and thou shalt knowe that all his rust hathe not bene wel wiped away.
- 12 Set him not by thee, lest he destroy thee, & stand in thy place.
- 13 Nether set him at thy right hand, lest he like thy rounge, & thou at the last remeber my wordes, & be pricked with my sayings.
- 14 Binde not two sinnes together: for there shal not one be vnpunished.
- 15 Who wil haue pitie of y charmer, that is stinged of the serper? or of all suche as come nere the beastes? so is it w him that kepeth companie with a wicked man, & wrap peth him self in his sinnes.

- 16 For a season wil he bide with thee: but if thou stamble, he taryeth not.
- 17 *An enemy is swete in his lippes: he can make manie good wordes, and speake manie good things: yea, he can weepe with his eyes, but in his heart he imagineth how to throwe thee into the pit: and if he may finde opportunitie, he wil not be satisfied with blood.
- 18 If aduersitie come vpon thee, thou shalt finde him there first, and though he preted to helpe thee, yet shal he vndermine thee: he wil shake his head, and clappe his hāds, and wil make manie wordes, and disguise his countenance.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The companies of the proude & of the riche are to be eschewed. 15 The loue of God. 17 Lak to compaign with their like.

- 1 HE* that toucheth pitch, shalbe defiled with it: and he that is familiar with the proude, shal be like vnto him.
- 2 Burthen not thy self aboue thy power, whiles thou liuest, and companie not with one that is mightier, and richer then thy self: for how agre the kettel and the earthen pot together? for if the one be smitten against the other, it shalbe broke.
- 3 The riche dealeth vnrighteously, and threatneth with all: but the poore being oppressed must intreat: if the riche haue done wrong, he must yet be intreated: but if the poore haue done it, he shal straight waife be threatned.
- 4 If thou be for his profite, he vseth thee: but if y haue nothing, he wil forsake thee.
- 5 If thou haue anie thing, he wil liue with thee: yea, he wil make thee a bare man, and wil not care for it.
- 6 If he haue nede of thee, he wil defraude thee, and wil laugh at thee, and put thee in hope, and giue thee all good wordes, & say, What wantest thou?
- 7 Thus wil he shame thee in his meat, vntil he haue supt thee cleane vp twise or thrise, and at the last he wil laugh thee to scorne: afterwarde, when he seeth thee, he wil forsake thee, and shake his head at thee.
- 8 [Submit thy self vnto God, & waite vpon his hand.]
- 9 Beware that y be not disceiued in thine owne conceit & broght downe by thy sim plenes: [be not to hūble in thy wisdom.]
- 10 ¶ If thou be called of a mightie man, absent thy self: so shal he call thee the more oft.
- 11 Praise not thou vnto him, that thou be not shut out, but go not thou farre of, lest he forget thee.
- 12 Withdraw not thy self fro his speache, but beleue not his manie wordes: for with muche communicatiō wil he tempt thee, and laughingly wil he grope thee.

13 He is vnmmerciful, & kepeth not promes: he wil not spare to do thee hurt, and to put thee in prison.

14 Beware, & take good hede: for thou walkest in peril of thine ouerthrowing: when thou hearest this, awake in thy slepe.

15 Loue the Lord all thy life, and call vpon him for thy saluacion.

16 ¶ Euerie beast loueth his like, and euerie man loueth his neighbour.

17 All flesh wil resort to their like, & euerie man wil kepe companie with suche as he is him self.

18 How can the wolfe agre with the lambe? nomore cā the yngodlie with y righteous.

19 What fellowship hathe " hyena with a dogge? and what peace is betwene the riche and the poore?

Which is a wilde beast y counterfaieth the voyce of men, and so enuiceth the out of their houses and deuoureth them.

20 As the wilde asse is the lions praye in the wilderness, so are poore men the meat of the riche.

21 As the proude hate humilitie, so do the riche abhorre the poore.

22 If a riche mā fall, his friēds set him vp againe: but whē the poore falleth, his friēds driue him away.

23 If a riche man offend, he hathe many helpers: he speaketh proude wordes, and yet men iustifie him: but if a poore man faile, they rebuke him, & thogh he speake wisely, yet can it haue no place.

24 Whē the riche mā speaketh, euerie mā holdeth his tongue: and loke what he saith, they praise it vnto the cloudes: but if the poore mā speake, they say, What fellow is this? and if he do amisse, they wil destroe him.

25 Riches are good vnto him that hathe no sinne [in his conscience,] and pouertie is euil in the mouth of the yngodlie.

26 The heart of a man chāgeth his countenance, whether it be in good or euil.

27 A chearful countenance is a token of a good heart: for it is an hard thīg to knowe the secrets of the thoght.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The office of the tongue, 17 Man is but a vaine thing.

21 Happie is he that continueth in wisdom.

Chap 19.7. 22. 3. 2.

1 Blessed is the man* that hathe not fal- len by [the worde of] his mouth, & is not tormented with the sorow of sinne.

2 Blessed is he that is not condemned in his conscience, and is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

3 Riches are comelie for a nigarde, and what shulde an enuious man do with money?

4 He that gathereth together from his owne soule, heapeth together for others, that wil make good cheare with his goods.

5 He that is wicked vnto him self, to whom wil he be good? for suche one can haue no pleasure of his goods.

6 There is nothing worse, then when one enuiceth him self: and this is a rewarde of his wickednes.

7 And if he do anie good, he doeth it, not knowing thereof, and against his wil, and at the last he declareth his wickednes.

8 The enuious man hathe a wicked loke: he turneth away his face, and dispiseth men.

9 A couetous mans eye hathe neuer ynough of a porciō, and his wicked malice withereth his owne soule.

10 A wicked eye enuiceth the bread, & there is scarcenes vpon his table. Prov. 17. 20.

11 My sonne, do good to thy self of that thou hast, and giue the Lord his due offerings.

12 Remēber that death tarieth not, & that the couenant of the graue is not shewed vnto thee.

13 Do good vnto thy friēd before thou dye, & according to thine habilitie stretch out thine hand, and giue him. Chap. 4. 1. 10. 4. 7. Luk. 14. 1. 3.

14 Defraude not thy self of the good day, and let not the porciō of the good desires ouerpasse thee.

15 Shalt thou not leaue thy trauails vnto another, and thy labours for the deuiding of the heritage?

16 Giue and take and sanctifie thy soule: [worke thou righteousness before thy death:] for in the hell there is no meat to finde.

17 ¶ All flesh waxeth olde, as a garment, & this is the condition of all times, Thou shalt dye the death. Isa. 40. 6. 1. Pet. 1. 24. 1. Sam. 1. 16.

18 As the grene leaues on a thicke tree, some fall, and some growe, so is the generation of flesh and blood: one cometh to an end, and another is borne.

19 All corruptible things shal faile, and the worker thereof shal go withal.

20 [Euerie excellent worke shal be iustified, and he that worketh it, shal haue honour thereby.]

21 *Blessed is the man that doeth meditate honest things by wisdom, [& exerciseth him self in iustice,] and he that reasoneth of holie things by his vnderstanding. Psal. 1. 2.

22 Which cōsidereth in his heart her wayes, and vnderstandeth her secrets.

23 Go thou after her as one that seketh her out, and lie in waite in her wayes.

24 He shal loke in at her windowes, & hearken at her dores.

25 He shal abide beside her house, and fasten a stake in her walles: he shal pitche his tent besides her.

26 And he shal remaine in the lodging of good men, & shal set his childré vnder her couering, and shal dwell vnder her branches.

27 By her he shalbe couered from the heat, and in her glorie shal he dwell.

CHAP. XV.

1 The goodnes that followeth him which feareth God.
2 God reuelleth and casteth of the sinner. 11 God is not the author of euil.

1 HE that feareth the Lord, wil do good:
and he that hathe the knowledge of the Law, wil kepe it sure.

2 As an [honorable] mother shal she mete him, and she, as his wife married of a virgine, wil receiue him.

3 With the bread [of life] and vnderstanding shal she fede him, & giue him the water of [wholsome] wisdom to drinke.

4 He shal assure him self in her, and shal not be moued, and shal holde him self fast by her, and shal not be confounded.

5 She shal exalt him aboue his neighboures, and in the middes of the congregaciō shal she open his mouth: [with the spirit of wisdom, and vnderstanding shal she fil him, and clothe him with the garment of glorie.]

6 She shal cause him to inherit ioye, & the crowne of gladnes, & an euerlasting name.

7 But foolish men wil not take holde vpon her: [but suche as haue vnderstanding, wil mete her:] the sinners shal not se her.

8 For she is farre fro pride [and disceite,] & men that lie, cā not remember her: [but men of trueth shal haunt her, & shal prosper euen vnto the beholding of God.]

9 Praise is not semelie in the mouth of the sinner: for that is not sent of the Lord.

10 But if praise come of wisdom, [and be pléteous in a faithful mouth] thē the Lord wil prosper it.

11 Say not thou, It is through the Lord that I turne backe: for thou oughtest not to do the things that he hateth.

12 Say not thou, He hathe caused me to er-re: for he hathe no nede of the sinful man.

13 The Lord hateth all abominacion [of eiour:] and they that feare God, wil loue it.

Gen. 1. 27.

14 *He made man from the beginning, and left him in the hand of his counsel, [and gaue him his commandements and precepts.]

15 If thou wilt, thou shalt obserue the com-mandements, and testifie thy good wil.

16 He hathe set water and fyre before thee:
stretche out thine hand vnto which thou wilt.

Leue. 21. 8.

17 *Before man is life and death, [good & euil:] what him liketh, shal be giuen him.

18 For the wisdom of the Lord is great, & he is mightie in power, and beholdeth all things [continually.]

Psal 34. 16.

19 *And the eyes [of the Lord] are vpon them that feare him, and he knoweth all the workes of man.

20 He hathe commanded no man to do vn-godlie, nether hathe he giuen anie man licēce to sinne: [for he desireth not a multitude of infidels, & vnprofitable childrē.]

CHAP. XVI.

1 Of vnhappie, and wicked children. 17 No man can hide him self from God. 24 An exhortacion to the re-ceiuing of instruction.

1 Desire not the multitude of vnprofi-table children, nether delite in vn-godlie childrē: though thei be manie, reioyce not in thē, except the feare of the Lord be with them.

2 Trust not thou to their life, nether rest vpon their multitude.

3 For one that is iuste, is better then a thousand suche, and better it is to dye without children, then to leaue behinde him vn-godlie children.

4 For by one that hathe vnderstanding, shal the citie be inhabited: but the stocke of the wicked shal be wasted incontinently.

5 Manie suche things haue I sene with mine eyes, and mine eare hathe heard greater things then these.

6 *In the congregaciō of the vngodlie shal Chap. 21. 20.
a fyre be kindeled, and among vnfaithful people shal the wrath be set on fyre.

7 *He spared not the olde gyants, w̄ were Gen. 6. 4.
rebellious, trusting to their owne strēgth,

8 *Nether spared he where as Lot dwelt, Gen. 19. 21.
those whome he abhorred for their pride.

9 He had no pitie vpon the people that were destroyed, & puffed vp in their sins.

10 *And so he preserued the six hundreth Nom 14. 18.
thousand souldiers, that were gathered in the hardnes of their heart, in afflicting thē & pitying them, in smiting them & healing thē, with mercie, & with chastisemēt.

11 Therefore if there be one stiffe necked among the people, it is marueil if he scape vnpunished: for mercie and wrath are with him: he is mightie to forgiue, & to powre out displeasure.

12 *As his mercie is great, so is his punish- Chap. 5. 19.
ment also: he iudgeth a man according to his workes.

13 The vngodlie shal not escape with his spoile, and the pacience of the godlie shal not be delayed.

14 He wil giue place to all good dedes, & euerie one shal finde according to his wor-kes, [and] after the vnderstanding of his pilgrimage.]

15 The Lord hardened Pharaō, that he shul-de not knowe him, and that his workes shulde be knowen vpon the earth vnder the heauen.

16 His mercie is knowen to all creatures:
he hathe separate his light from the darknes with an adamant.

17 Say not thou, I wil hide my self from the Lord: for who wil take vpon me fild aboue?

Oooo.iiii.

I shal not be knowen in so great an heape of people: for what is my soule among suche an infinite number of creatures?

2 Pet. 3. 18. 18 Beholde, the heauen, and the *heauen of heauens, which are for God, the depth, and the earth, and all that therein is, shal be moued when he shal visite.

19 All the worlde which is created and made by his wil, the mountaines also, and the fundacions of the earth shal shake for feare, when the Lord loketh vpon them.

20 These things doeth no heart vnderstand worthely, [but he vnderstandeth euerie heart.]

21 And who vnderstandeth his wayes? and the storme that no man can see for the moste parte of his workes are hid.

22 Who can declare y^e workes of his righteousness? or who can abide them? for his ordinance is farre of, and the trying out of all things faileth.

23 He that is humble of heart, wil consider these things: but an vnwise and erroneous man casteth his minde vpon foolish things.

24 My sonne, hearken vnto me, and learne knowledge; and make my wordes with thine heart.

25 I wil declare thee weightie doctrine, & I wil instruct thee exactly in knowledge.

26 The Lord hathe set his workes in good order from the beginning, & parte of them hathe he sundred from the other when he first made them.

27 He hathe garnished his workes for euer, and their beginnings so long as they shal indure, they are not hungrie nor wearied in their labours, nor cease from their offices.

28 None of them hindreth another, nether was anie of them disobedient vnto his wordes.

29 After this the Lord loked vpon the earth and filled it with his goods things.

30 With all maner of liuing beasts hathe he couered the face thereof, and they returne into it againe.

3 He clothed them with strength, as they had nede; and made them according to his image.

4 He made all flesh to feare him, so that he had the dominion ouer the beasts, and foules.

Gen. 2. 22.

5 [*He created out of him an helper like vnto him self,] and gaue them discrecion and tongue, and eyes, eares, and an heart to vnderstand, and sixtly he gaue them a spirit, and seuenly he gaue them speache to declare his workes.

6 And he filled them with knowledge of vnderstanding, and shewed them good and euil.

7 He set his eye vpon their hearts, declaring vnto them his noble workes,

8 And gaue the occasion to reioyce perpetually in his miracles, that they shulde prudently declare his workes, & that the elect shulde praise his holie Name together.

9 Beside this, he gaue them knowledge, and gaue the Law of life for an heritage, that they might now knowe that they were mortal.

10 He made an euerlasting couenant with them, and shewed them his iudgements.

11 Their eyes sawe the maiestie of his glorie, and their eares heard his glorious voyce.

13 Their wayes are euer before him, and are not hid from his eyes.

14 Euerie man from his youth is giue to euil, and their stonie hearts can not become flesh.

15 He appointed a ruler vpon euerie people, when he deuided the nations of the whole earth.

16 *And he did chuse Israel, as a peculiar people to him self, whome he nourisheth with discipline as his first borne, and giueth him moste louing light, and doeth not forsake him. Deu. 4. 20 & 10. 15.

17 All their workes are as the sunne before him, and his eyes are continually vpon their wayes.

18 None of their vnrighteousnes is hid from him, but all their sinnes are before y^e Lord.

2 He ordereth the worlde with the power of his hand, and all things obey his wil: for he gouerneth all things by his power, and deuiceth the holie things from the prophane.

3 To whome hathe he giuen power to expresse his workes? who wil sicke out the grounde of his noble actes?

4 Who shal declare the power of his greatnes? or who wil take vpo him to tell out his mercie?

5 As for the wonderous workes of y Lord, there may nothing be taken from them, nether can anie thing be put vnto them, nether may the grounde of them be founde out.

6 But when a man hathe done his best, he must beginne againe, and when he thinketh to come to an end, he must go againe to his labour.

7 ¶ What is man? whereto serueth he? what good or euil can he do?

Psal. 139.10.

8 *If the number of a mans daies be an hundred yere, it is muche: and no man hathe certaine knowledge of his death.

9 As dropes of raine are vnto the sea, and as a grauel stone is in comparision of the sand, so are a thousand yeres to the dayes euerlasting.

10 Therefore is [God] patient with them, and powreth out his mercie vpon them.

11 He sawe & perceiued, that [the arrogancie of their heart, and their ruine was euil: therefore heaped he vp his mercie vpon them, and shewed them the way of righteousness.]

12 The mercie that a man hathe, reacheth to his neighbour: but the mercie of the Lord is vpon all flesh: he chasteneth, and nurturieth, & teacheth, & bringeth backe, as a shepherd his flocke.

13 He hathe mercie of them that receiue discipline, and that diligently seke after his iudgements.

14 ¶ My sonne, when thou doest good, reprove not: and whatsoeuer thou giuest, vse no discomfortable wordes.

15 Shal not the dew aswage the heat? so is a worde better then a gift.

16 Lo, is not a worde better then a good gift? but a gracious man giueth them bothe.

- 5 Some man kepeth silence, and is founde wise, and some by muche babling becometh hateful.
- 6 Some man holdeth his tongue, because he hathe not to answere: and some kepeth silence, waiting a conuenient time.
- Chap 32.6.* 7 *A wise man wil holde his tongue til he se opportunitie: but a trifier & a foole wil regarde no time.

- 9 Some man hathe oft times prosperitie in wicked things, and some time a thing that is founde, bringeth losse.

- 15 The foole saith, I haue no friend: I haue no thanke for all my good dedes: and they that eat my bread, speake euil of me.

the increase of wisdom is the end of the feare of God.

12 He that is not wise, wil not suffer him self to be taught: but there is some wit that increaseth bitterness.

13 The knowledge of the wise shal abound like water that runneth ouer, and his counsel is like a pure fountaine of life.

Chap. 33, 1. 14 * The inner partes of a foole are like a broken vessel: he can kepe no knowledge whiles he liueth.

15 When a man of vnderstanding heareth a wise worde, he wil comend it, and increase it: but if an ignorant man heare it, he wil disallowe it, and cast it behinde his backe.

16 The talking of a foole is like a burden in the way, but there is comelines in the talke of a wise man.

17 They inquire at the mouthe of the wise man in the congregacion, and they shal ponder his wordes in their heart.

18 As is an house that is destroyed, so is wisdom vnto a foole, and the knowlege of the vnwise is as wordes without order.

19 Doctrine vnto fooles is as fetters on the fete, and like manacles vpon the right hand.

Chap. 19, 27. 20 * A foole listeth vp his voyce with laughter, but a wise mā doeth scarce smile secretly.

21 Learning is vnto a wise man a iewel of golde, and like a bracelet vpon his right arme.

22 A foolish mans fote is sone in [his neighboures] house: but a man of experience is ashamed to loke in.

23 A foole wil pepe in at the dore into the house: but he that is wel nurtered, wil stand without.

24 It is the point of a foolish mā to hearken at the dore: for he that is wise, wil be grieved with such dishonour.

25 The lippes of talkers wil be telling suche things as pertaine not vnto the, but y wordes of suche as haue vnderstanding, are weighed in the balance.

26 The heart of fooles is in their mouth: but the mouth of the wise is in their heart.

27 When the vngodlie curseth Satan, he curseth his owne soule.

Chap. 28, 19. 28 * A backebiter defileth his owne soule, & is hated wherefoeuer he is: [but he that kepeth his tongue, and is discrete, shal come to honour.]

CHAP. XXII.

1 Of the sluggard. 12 Not to speake muche to a foole. 16 A good conscience feareth not.

1 A slothful man is like a filthie stone, which euerie man mocketh at for his shame.

2 A slothful man is to be compared to the dongue of oxen, & euerie one that taketh it vp, wil shake it out of his hand.

3 An euil nurtered sonne is the dishonour of the father: & the daughter is least to be esteemed.

4 A wise daughter is an heritage vnto her housband: but she that liueth dishonestly, is her fathers heauines.

5 She that is bolde, dishonoreth bothe her father and her housband; [and is not inferior to the vngodlie,] but they bothe shal dispise her.

6 A tale out of time is as musike in mourning: but wisdom knoweth the seasons of correction and doctrine.

7 Who so teacheth a foole, is as one that gleweth a potcherde together, and as he that waketh one that slepeth, from a sound slepe.

8 If children liue honestly, & haue wherewith, they shal put away the shame of their parents.

9 But if children be proude, with hautines and foolishnes they defile the nobilitie of their kindred.

10 Who so telleth a foole of wisdom, is as a man, which speaketh to one y is a slepe: whē he hathe tolde his tale, he saith, What is the matter?

11 * Wepe for the dead, for he hathe lost the light: so wepe for the foole, for he wanteth vnderstanding: make smale weping for the dead, for he is at rest: but the life of the foole is worse then the death.

12 Scūe dayes do men mourne for him that is dead: but the lamentacion for the foole, & vngodlie [shulde endure] all the dayes of their life.

13 Talkenot muche with a foole, & go not to him that hathe no vnderstanding: * beware of him, lest it turne thee to paine, and lest thou be defiled when he shaketh him self. Depart from him, & thou shalt finde rest, and shalt not receiue sorowe by his foolishnes.

14 What is heauier then lead? and what other name shulde a foole haue?

15 * Sād and salt, and a lump of yron is easier to beare, then an vnwise, [foolish and vngodlie man.]

16 As a frame of wood ioyned together in a buylding can not be losed with shaking, so the heart that is stablished by aduised counsel, shal feare at no time.

17 The heart that is confirmed by discrete wisdom, is as a faire plaistering on a plaine wall.

18 As reedes that are set vp on hie, can not abide the winde, so the fearful heart with foolish imaginacion can indure no feare.

19 He that hurteth the eye, bringeth forth the teares, & he that hurteth y heart, bringeth forth the affection.

20 Who so casteth a stone at y birdes, fraieth them away: & he that vpbraideth his friend, breaketh friendship.

21 Thogh

- 21 Thogh thou drewest a sworde at thy friend, yet dispaire not: for there may be a returning to fauour.
- 22 If thou haue opened thy mouth against thy friend, feare not: for there may be a reconciliation, so that vpbaiding or pride or disclosing of secrets or a traiterous woude do not let: for by these things euerie friend wil departe.
- 23 Be faithfull vnto thy friend in his pauerie, that thou maist reioyce in his prosperitie. Abide stedfast vnto him in the time of his trouble, that thou maist be heire with him in his heritage: for pauerie is not alwayes to be contemned, nor the riche that is foolish, to be had in admiration.
- 24 As the vapour, and smoke of the chimney goeth before the fyre, so euil wordes, [rebukes & threatenings] go before bloodshedding.
- 25 I wil not be ashamed to defende a friend: nether wil I hide my self from him, thogh he shulde do me harme: whosoever heareth it, shal beware of him.
- 26 Who shal set a watch before my mouth, and a seale of wisdom vpon my lippes, that I fall not suddenly by them, and that my tongue destroye me not?

- 2 Who wil correct my thought, and put the doctrine of wisdom in mine heart, that they may not spare me in mine ignorance, nether let their fautes passe?
- 3 Lest mine ignorances increase, and my sinnes aboude to my destruction, and lest I fall before mine aduersarie, and mine enemies reioyce ouer me, whose hope is farre from thy mercie.
- 4 O Lord, father & God of my life, [leaue me not in their imaginacion] nether giue me a proude looke, but turne away from thy seruants a stoute minde.
- 5 Take from me vaine hope, and concupiscence, and retein him in obedience, that desireth continually to serue thee.
- 6 Let not thy griedines of the bellie, nor lust of the flesh holde me, and giue not me thy seruant ouer into an impudent minde.
- 7 ¶ Heare, O ye children, the instruction of a mouth that shal speake truth: who so kepeth it, shal not perishe thorow his lippes, [nor be hurte by wicked workes.]
- 8 The sinner shalbe taken by his owne lippes: for the euil speaker and the proude do offende by them.
- 9 *Accustome not thy mouth to swearing: Exod. 20, 7. chap. 27, 15. mat. 5, 33. [for in it there are many falles,] nether take vp for a custome the naming of the Holy one: [for thou shalt not be vnpunished for suche things.]
- 10 For as a seruant which is oft punished, can not be without some skarre, so he that sweareth and nameth God continually, shal not be fauteles.
- 11 A man that vseth much swearing, shalbe filled with wickednes, and the plague shal neuer go from his house: when he shal offend, his faute shalbe vpon him, and if he knowledge not his sinne, he maketh a double offence: and if he sweare in vaine, he shal not be innocent, but his house shalbe full of plagues.
- 12 There is a worde which is clothed with death: God giueth that it be not founde in the heritage of Iacob: but they that feare God, eschewe all suche, & are not wrapped in sinne.
- 13 Vse not thy mouth to ignorant rashnes: Or, inordinatly swearing. for therein is the occasion of sinne.

- 17 (All bread is swete to a whoremonger: he wil not leaue of til he perishe.)
- 18 A man that breaketh wedlocke, & thinketh thus in his heart, *Who seeth me? I Isa 29, 15. am compassed about with darkenes: the walle couer me: no bodie seeth me: whome neede I to feare? the moste High wil not remember my sinnes.
- 19 Suche a man onely feareth the eyes of men, & knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter than the sunne, beholding all the waies of me, [and the ground of the deepe,] and considereth the moste secret partes.
- 20 He knewe all things or euer they were made, and after they be brought to passe also he loketh vpon them all.
- 21 *The same man shalbe punished in the streets of the cite, [& shalbe chased like a yong horsefoale,] and when he thinketh not vpon it, he shalbe taken: [thus shal he be put to shame of euerie man, because he wolde not vnderstand the feare of the Lord.] Leu 20, 10. deut. 22, 22.

Or, my lippes.

That is of tongue and lippes.

- 21 And thus shal it go also with euerie wife, that leaueth her housband, and getteth inheritance by another.
- Exod. 20, 14.* 22 *For first she hathe disobeyd the Law of the moste High, and secondly, she hathe trespassed against her owne housband, & thurdly, she hathe plaide the whore in adulterie, and gotten her children by another man.
- 23 She shalbe broght out into the congregacion, and examinacion shalbe made of her children.
- 24 Her children shal not take roote, and her branches shal bring forth no frute.
- 25 A shameful reporte shal she leaue, and her reproche shal not be put out.
- 26 And they that remaine, shal knowe that there is nothing better then the feare of the Lord, and that there is nothing sweter then to take hede vnto the commandments of the Lord.
- 27 It is great glorie to followe the Lord, and to be receiued of him is long life.

- 14 [¶ The greatest heauines is the heauines of the heart, and the greatest malice is the malice of a woman]
- 15 Giue me any plague, saue onely the plague of the heart, and any malice, saue the malice of a woman:
- 16 Or any assalt, saue the assalt of them that hate, or any vengeance, saue the vengeance of the enemy.
- 17 There is not a more wicked head then the head of the serpent, and there is no wrath aboue the wrath of an enemy.
- 18 *I had rather dwell with a lion and dragon, then to kepe house with a wicked wife.
- 19 The wickednes of a woman chageth her face, and maketh her countenance blacke as a sacke.
- 20 Her housband is sitting among his neighbours: because of her he sigheth sore as he beware.
- 21 All wickednes is but litle to the wickednes of a woman: let the porcion of the sinner fall vpon her.
- 22 As the climbing vpon of a sandie way is to the fete of the aged, so is a wife ful of wordes to a quiet man.
- 23 *Stumble not at the beautie of a woman, and desire her not for thy pleasure.
- 24 If a woman nourish her housband, she is angrie and impudent and ful of reproche.
- 25 A wicked wife maketh a sorie heart, an heauie countenance, and a wounded minde, weake hands and feble knees, and can not comfort her housband in heauines.
- 26 Of the *woman came the beginning of sinne, and thorow her we all dye.
- 27 Giue the water no passage, [no not a litle,] nether giue a wicked woman libertie to go out.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The praise of a good woman. 5 Of the feare of three things, and of the fourth. 6 Of the ielous and drunken woman. 28 Of two things that cause sorow, and of the thurde which moueth wrath.

- 1 Blessed is the man that hathe a verteous wife: for the number of his yeres shalbe double.
- 2 An honest womā reioyceth her housbād, and she shal fill the yeres of his life with peace.
- 3 A verteous womā is a good portiō which shalbe giuen for a gift vnto suche as feare the Lord.
- 4 Whether a man be riche or poore, he hathe a good heart toward the Lord, & they shal at all times haue a chereful countenance.
- 5 ¶ There be thre things that mine heart feareth, & my face is affraid of the fourth: treason in a citie: the assemblie of the people, and false accusation: all these are heauier then death.
- 6 ¶ But the sorow and grief of the heart is a woman that is ielous ouer another: and she that communeth with all, is a scourge of the tongue.
- 7 An euil wife is as a yoke of oxen y drawe diuerse waies: he that hathe her, is as thogh he helde a scorpion.
- 8 A drunken woman and suche as can not be tamed, is a great plague: for she can not couer her owne shame.
- 9 The whordome of a womā may be knowē in the pride of her eyes, and eyeliddes.
- 10 ¶ Chap. 42, 11. If thy daughter be not shamefast, holde her straitly, lest she abuse her self thorowe ouer muche libertie.
- 11 Take hede of her that hathe an vnshamefast eye: & marueile not if she trespass against thee.
- 12 As one that goeth by the way, and is thirstie, so shal she open her mouth, and drinke of euerie next water: by euerie hedge shal she sitte downe, & open her quier against euerie arowe.
- 13 The grace of a wife reioyceth her housband, and fedeth his bones with her vnderstanding.
- 14 A peaceable woman and of a good heart is a gift of the Lord, and there is nothing so muche worthe as a womā wel instructed.
- 15 A shamefast & faithful woman is a double grace, and there is no weight to be cōpared vnto her continent minde.
- 16 As the sunne when it ariseth in the high places of the Lord, so is the beautie of a good wife the ornament of her house.
- 17 As the clere light is vpon the holie candlestick, so is the beautie of the face in a ripe age.
- 18 As the golden pillers are vpon the sockettes of siluer: so are faire fete with a constant minde.

- 19 [Perpetual are the fundaciōs that be laide vpon a strong rocke: so are the cōmandements of God in the heart of an holie woman.]
- 20 My sonne, kepe the strength of thine age stable, and giue not thy strength to strangers.
- 21 When thou hast gotten a fruteful posses- sion through all the fields, sowe it with thine owne sēde, trusting in thy nobilitie.
- 22 So thy stocke that shal liue after thee, shal growe, trusting in the great liberalitie of their nobilitie.
- 23 An harlot is compared to a sowe: but the wife that is married, is counted as a towre against death to her housband.
- 24 A wicked womā is giuen as a rewarde to a wicked man: but a godlie woman is giue to him that feareth the Lord.
- 25 A shameles woman contemneth shame: but a shamefast woman wil reuerence her housband.
- 26 A shameles woman is cōpared to a dogge: but she that is shamefast, reuerēceth the Lord.
- 27 A woman that honoreth her housband, shalbe iudged wise of all: but she that despi- seth him, shalbe blased for her pride.
- 28 A lowde crying woman and a babler let her be sought out to driue away y enemies: the minde of euerie man that liueth with suche, shalbe conuersant among the troubles of warre.
- 29 There be two things that grieue mine heart, and the thirde maketh me angrie: a mā of warre that suffreth pouertie: and mē of vnderstāding that are not set by: & whē one departeth from righteousnes vnto sinne: the Lord appointeth suche to y sworde.
- 30 [There be two things, which me thinke to be hard and perilous.] A marchant can not lightly kepe him from wrong, and a vitailer is not without sinne.

CHAP. XXVII.

3 Of the poore that wolde be riche. 5 The probacion of the man that feareth God. 13 The unconstantnes of a foole. 16 The secrets of friends are not to be vizered. 26 The wicked imagineth euil which turneth vpon him self.

- 1 Because of pouertie haue manie sin- ned: and he that seketh to be riche, 1. Tim 6, 9. prou. 13, 4. turneth his eyes aside.
- 2 As a naile in the wall sticketh fast betwe- ne the ioyntes of the stones, so doeth sinne sticke betwene the selling and the bying.
- 3 If he holde him not diligently in the feare of the Lord, his house shal sone be ouer- thrown.
- 4 As when one sisterh, the filthines remaineth in the siue, so the filth of man remaineth in his thoght.
- 5 The fornace proueth the potters vessel: 10*

- Prou. 27, 21.* *so doeth [tentacion] trye mens thoghts.
- 6 The frute declareth if the tre haue bene trimmed: so the worde [declareth] what man hathe in his heart.
- 7 Praise no man except thou haue heard his talke: for this is the tryal of men.
- 8 ¶ If thou followest righteousnes, thou shalt get her, & put her on as a faire garment, [and shalt dwell with her, and she shall defend thee for ever: and in the daye of knowledge thou shalt finde stedfastnes.]
- 9 The birdes resort vnto their like: so doeth the truth turne vnto them, that are practised in her.
- 10 As the lyon waiteth for the beast, so doeth sinne vpon them that do euil.
- 11 The talking of him that feareth God, is all wisdom: as for a foole, he changeth as the moone.
- 12 If thou be among the vndiscrète, obserue the time, but haunte stil the assemblie of them that are wise.
- 13 The talking of fooles is grievous, and their sporte is in the plaier of sinne.
- Chap. 23, 10.* 14 *The talke of him that sweareth muche, maketh the heere to stand vp: & to strue with such, stoppeth the eares.
- 15 The strife of the proude is blood shedding, and their skouldings are grievous to heare.
- Chap. 19, 10. & 22, 28.* 16 *Who so discovereth secrets, leseth his credit, & findeth no friend after his wil.
- 17 Loue thy friēd, & be faithful vnto him: but if thou bewrayest his secrets, thou shalt not get him againe.
- 18 For as a man destroyeth his enemye, so doest thou destroye the friendship of thy neighbour.
- 19 As one that letteth a buide go out of his hand, so if thou giue ouer thy friēd, thou canst not gette him againe.
- 20 Followe after him no more, for he is to farre off: he is as a roe escaped out of the snare: [for his soule is wounded.]
- 21 As for woundes, they may be bounde vp againe, and an euil worde may be reconciled: but whoso bewrayeth the secrets of a friend, hathe lost all his credit.
- Prou. 10, 10.* 22 *He that winketh with the eyes, imagineth euil: and he that knoweth him, wil let him alone.
- 23 When thou art present, he wil speake sweetely, and praise thy wordes: but at the last he wil turne his tale, and sclander thy saying.
- 24 Manie things haue I hated, but nothing so euil as such one: for the Lord also hateth him.
- 25 Who so casteth a stone on hie, casteth it vpon his owne head: and he that smiteth with guile, maketh a great wounde.
- Prou. 26, 27. eccles. 10, 8.* 26 Who so *diggeth a pit, shall fall therein,

- [and he that laieth a stone in his neighbours way, shall stamble thercon,] and he that laieth a snare for another, shall be takē in it him self.
- 27 He that worketh euil, shall be wrapped in euil, and shall not knowe from whence they come vnto him.
- 28 Mockerie & reproche followe the proude, and vengeance lurketh for them as a lyon.
- 29 They that reioyce at the fall of y righteous, shall be taken in the snare, & anguish shall consume them before they dye.
- 30 Dispite & angre are abominable thigs, and the sinful man is subiect to the bothe.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 We ought not to desire vengeance, but to forgie the offence. 13 Of the vices of the tongue, and of the dangers thereof.

- 1 HE* that seketh vengeance, shall finde vengeance of the Lord, and he wil surely kepe his sinnes.
- 2 ¶ Forgiue thy neighbour the hurt that he hathe done to thee, so shall thy sinnes be forgiven thee also, when thou praest.
- 3 Shulde a man beare hatred against man, and *desire forgiveness of the Lord?
- 4 He wil shewe no mercie to a man, which is like him self: and wil he aske forgiveness of his owne sinnes?
- 5 If he that is but flesh, nourishe hatred, [and aske pardone of God,] who wil intreate for his sinnes?
- 6 Remembre the end, & let enimitie passe: imagine not death and destruction to another through angre, but perseuere in the commandements.
- 7 Remember the commādements: so shalt thou not be rigorous against thy neighbour: [consider diligently] the covenant of the moste High, and forgie his ignorance.
- 8 *Beware of strife, & thou shalt make thy sinnes fewer: for an angrie man kindleth strife.
- 9 And the sinful man disquieteth friends, and bringeth in false accusations among them that be at peace.
- 10 *As the matter of the syre is, so it burneth, and mans angre is according to his power: and according to his riches his angre increaseth, and the more vehement the angre is, the more is he inflamed.
- 11 An hastie brauling kindleth a fyre, and an hastie fighting sheddeth blood: [a tongue that beareth false witness, bringeth death.]
- 12 If thou blowe the sparke, it shall burne: if thou spit vpon it, it shall be quenched, and bothe these come out of the mouth.
- 13 ¶ *Abhorre the sclāder and double tongue: for such haue destroyed many that were at peace.

15 The double tongue hath cast out manie vertuous women, and robbed them of their labours.

16 Whoso hearkeneth vnto it, shal neuer finde rest, and neuer dwell quietly.

17 The stroke of the rodde maketh markes in the flesh, but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones.

18 There be manie that haue perished by the edge of the sworde, but not so manie as haue fallen by the tongue.

19 Wel is him that is kept fro an euil tongue, and cometh not in the angre thereof, which hath not drawen in that yoke, neither hath bene bounde in the bandes thereof.

20 For the yoke thereof is a yoke of yron, and the bands of it are bandes of brasle.

21 The death thereof is an euil death: hell were better then suche one.

22 It shal not haue rule ouer them that feare God, nether shal they be burnt with the flame thereof.

23 Suche as forsake the Lord, shal fall therein: and it shal burne them, and no man shal be able to quenche it: it shal fall vpon them as a lyon, and deuoure them as a leopard.

24 Hedge thy possession with thornes, and make dores and barres for thy mouth.

25 Binde vp thy siuer and golde, & weigh thy wordes in a balance, and make a dore and a barre, [and a sure bridle] for thy mouth.

26 Beware that thou slide not by it, and so fall before him that lieth in wait, [and thy fall be incurable, euen vnto death.]

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Do lend money, and do almes 15 Of a faithfull man answering for his friend. 24 The poore mans life.

¶ Of welldoing.

HE that wil shewe mercie, [lendeth to his neighbour: and he that hath power ouer him self, kepeth the commandements.]

2 Lend to thy neighbour in time of his need, and pay thou thy neighbour againe in due season.

3 Kepe thy worde and deale faithfully with him, and thou shalt alwaye finde the thing that is necessarie for thee.

4 Manie when a thing was lent them, rekened it to be founde, & grieved them that had helped them.

5 Til they receiue, they kisse his hands, and for their neighbours good they humble their voyce: but when they shulde paie againe, they prolong the terme, and giue a careles answer, and make excuses by reason of the time.

6 And though he be able, yet giueth he scarce the halfe againe, and rekeneth the other as a thing founde: els he deceiueth him of his money, & maketh him an enemy without a cause: he paieth him with cursing & rebuke, & giueth him euil wordes for his good dede.

7 There be manie which refuse to lend because of this inconuenience, fearing to be defrauded without cause.

8 Yet haue thou pacience with him that humbleth him self, & differre not mercie from him.

9 Helpe the poore for the commandements sake, and turne him not away, because of his pouertie.

10 Lese thy money for thy brothers and neighbours sake, and let it not rust vnder a stone to thy destruction.

13 [A mans almes is as a purse with him, and shal kepe a mans fauour as the apple of the eye, and afterwarde shal it arise, and paye euerie man his rewarde vpon his head.]

14 It shal fight for thee against thine enemies, better then the shield of a strong man, or speare of the mightie.

15 An honest man is [suretie for his neighbour: but he that is impudent, forsaketh him.] ¶ Of suretieshippe.

16 Forget not the friendship of thy suretie: for he hath laied his life for thee.

17 The wicked despiseth the good dede of his suretie.

18 The wicked wil not become suretie: and he that is of an vnthankful minde, forsaketh him that deliuered him.

19 [Some man promiseth for his neighbour: and when he hath lost his honestie, he wil forsake him.]

20 Suretieshippe hath destroyed manie a riche man, & remoued them as the waues of the sea: mightie men hath it driuen away from their houses, and caused them to wander among strange nations.

21 A wicked man, transgressing the commandements of the Lord, shal fall into suretieshippe: and he that medleth much with other mens busines, is intangled in controuersies.

- 25 Be it litle or muche, holde thee contented, that the house speake not euil of thee.
- 26 For it is a miserable life to go from house to house: for where thou art a stranger, thou darest not open thy mouth.
- 27 Thou shalt lodge and fede vnthankful men, & after shalt haue bitter wordes for the same, saying,
- 28 Come, thou stranger, and prepare the table, and fede me of that thou hast readie.
- 29 Giue place, thou stranger, to an honorable man: my brother cometh to be lodged, and I haue neede of mine house.
- 30 These things are heauie to a mā that hath the vnderstanding, the vpbraiding of the house, and the reproche of the tender.

14 But aboue all things, giue thanks vnto him that hath made thee, and replenished thee with his goods.

15 ¶ Who ſo feareth the Lord, wil receiue

20 [My sonne,] do nothing without aduise-ment: so shal it not repent thee after the dede.

21 Go not in the way where thou maist fall, nor where thou maist stumble among the stones, nether trust thou in the way that is plaine.

22 And beware of thine owne children, [and take hede of them that be thine owne houtholde.]

23 In euerie good worke be of a faithful heart: for this is the keping of the commandements.

Or, the Lawe. 24 Who so beleueth in^r the Lord, kepeth the commandements: and he that trusteth in the Lord, shal take no hurt.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 The deliuerance of him that feareth God. 4 The answer of the wise. 12 Man is in the hand of God, as the clay is in the hand of the potter. 25 Of euil seruants.

¶ The feare of God. THere shal no euil come vnto him that ¶ feareth the Lord: but when he is in tentation, he wil deliuer him againe.

2 A wise man hateth not the Law: but he that is an hypocrite therein, is as a shippe in a storme.

3 A man of vnderstanding walketh faithfully in the Law, and the Law is faithful vnto him.

4 As the question is made, prepare the answer, and so shalt thou be heard: be sure of the matter, and so answer.

Chap. 21, 17. 5 The heart of the^r foolish is like a cartewhele: and his thoghts are like a rolling axeltre.

6 As a wilde horse neieth vnder euerie one that sitteth vpon him, so is a scorneful friend.

7 Why doeth one day excell another, seing that the light of the daies of the yere come of the sunne?

8 The knowledge of the Lord hathe parted them a sondre, and he hathe by them disposed the times and solemne feastes.

9 Some of them hathe he chosen and sanctified, & some of them hathe he put among the daies to number.

Gen 1, 27. & 2, 7. 10 And all men are of the^r grounde, and Adam was created out of the earth: but the Lord hathe deuided them by great knowledge, and made their waies diuers.

11 Some of them hathe he blessed and exalted, and some of them hathe he sanctified, and appropriate to him self: but some of the hathe he cursed, and brought the lowe, and put them out of their estate.

Isa 45, 9. Rom. 9, 20. 12 *As the claye is in the potters hand, to order it at his pleasure, so are men also in the hand of their creator, so that he may rewarde them as liketh him best.

13 Against euil is good, and against death is life: so is the godlie against the sinner, and the vngodlie against the faithful.

14 So in all the workes of the moste High thou maist se that there are euer two, one against another.

15 ¶ I am awaked vp last of all, as one that gathereth after them in the vintage. In the blessing of the Lord I am increased, and haue filled my wine presse, like a grape gatherer.

16 *Beholde, how I haue not labored onely for my self, but for all them that seke knowledge. Chap. 24, 26.

17 Heare me, o ye great men of the people, & hearken with your eares, ye rulers of the congregacion.

18 Giue not thy sonne and wife, thy brother and friēd, power ouer thee while thou liuest, and giue not away thy substance to another, lest it repent thee, and thou intreat for the same againe.

19 As long as thou liuest, and hast breth, giue not thy self ouer to anie persone.

20 For better it is that thy children shulde pray vnto thee, then that thou shuldest loke vp to the hands of thy children.

21 In all thy workes be excellent, that thine honour be neuer stained.

22 At the time when thou shalt end thy dayes, and finish thy life, distribute thine inheritance.

23 ¶ The fodder, the whippe and the burden belong vnto the asse: and meat, correctiō and worke vnto thy seruant.

24 If thou set thy seruant to labour, thou shalt finde rest: but if thou let him go idle, he shal seke libertie.

25 The yoke & the whippe bow downe the hard necke: so tame thine euil seruāt with the whippes and correction.

26 Send him to labour, that he go not idle: for idlenes bringeth much euil.

27 Set him to worke, for that belongeth vnto him: if he be not obedient, ¶ put on more heauie fetters. ¶ How slaues were ordered in olde time.

28 But be not excessiue toward anie, and without discrecion do nothing.

29 *If thou haue a faithful seruant, let him be vnto thee as thine owne soule: for in blood hast thou gotten him. If thou haue a seruant, intreat him as thy brother: for thou hast nede of him, as of thy self. If thou intreat him euil, and he runne away, wilt thou seke him? Chap. 7, 22.

CHAP. XXXIIII.

Of dreames. 13 The praise of them that feare God. 18 The offerings of the wicked. 22 The bread of the nedie 27 God doeth not alowe the workes of an vnfaithful man.

¶ Dreames.

1 The hope of a foolish man is vaine & false, & dreames make fooles to haue wings.

2 Who so regardeth dreames, is like him that wil take holde of a shadowe, and folowe after the winde.

3 Euen so is it with the appearings of dreames, as the likenes of a face is before another face.

4 Who can be censed by the vncleane? or what trueth can be spoken of a lier?

5 Soth sayings, witchcraft, and dreaming is but vanitie, and a minde that is occupied with fantasies, is as a woman that triauaileth.

6 Where as suche visiōs come not of y^e moste High to trye thee, set not thine heart vpon them.

7 For dreames haue disceiued many, and thei haue failed that put their trust therein.

8 The Law shalbe fulfilled without lies, & wisdome is sufficient to a faithful mouth: [what knowledge hathe he that is not tryed?]

9 A man that is instructed, vnderstandeth muche, and he that hath the good experiēce, can talke of wisdome.

10 He that hathe no experience, knoweth litle, and he that erreth, is ful of crafte.

11 Whē I wandred to and fro, I sawe many things, and mine vnderstanding is greater then I can expresse.

12 I was oft times in danger of death, yet I was deliuered by these things.

13 ¶ The spirit of those that feare the Lord, shal liue: for their hope is in him that can helpe them.

¶ The feare of the Lord. 14 Who so feareth the Lord, seareth no man, nether is afraied: for he is his hope.

15 Blessed is the soule of him that feareth y^e Lord: in whome putteth he his trust: who is his strength.

¶ Psal. 33. 18. ¶ Psal. 91. 1.

16 ¶ For the eyes of the Lord haue respect vnto them, that loue him: he is their mightie protection, and strong grounde, a defence from the heat, and a shadowe for the nowne day, a succour fro stombing, & an helpe fro failing.

17 He setteth vp the soule, & lightneth the eyes: he giueth health, life and blessing.

¶ Prov. 23. 17.

18 ¶ He that giueth an offering of vnrighteous goods, offereth a mocking sacrifice, & the gifts of the vnrighteous, please not him.

19 [But y^e Lord is theirs onely, that paciētly abide him in the way of trueth & righteousness.]

¶ The offerings of the wicked & his prayer. ¶ Psal. 141. 8.

20 The moste High doeth not alowe the offerings of the wicked, nether is he pacified for sinne by the multitude of sacrifice.

21 Who so bringeth an offering of the goods of y^e poore, doeth as one that sacrificeth y^e sonne before the fathers eyes.

22 The bread of the nedeful is the life of the poore: he that defraudeth him thereof, is a murtherer.

23 He y^e taketh away his neighbours liuing, slayerh him, * and he that defraudeth the labourer of his hyre, is a bloodshedder.

Deu. 24. 14. chap. 7. 22.

Gen. 4. 4.

- 18 And the Lord wil not be slacke, nor the Almightye wil tarie long from the, til he hath smitten in funder the loynes of the vnmerciful, and aduenged him self of the heathen, til he haue taken away the multitude of the cruel, and broken the scepter of the vnrighteous, til he giue euerie man after his workes, and rewarde them after their deuises, til he haue iudged the cause of his people, and comforted them with his mercie.
- 19 Oh, how faire a thing is mercie in the time of anguish and trouble! It is like a cloude of raine, that cometh in the time of a drought.

CHAP. XXXVI.

A prayer to God on the persone of all faithful men, against those that persecute his Church. 22 The praise of a good woman.

- 1 HAue mercie vpon vs, o Lord God of all things, and beholde vs, & [shewe vs the light of thy mercies,]
- 2 And send thy feare among the nacions, watch seke not after thee, [that they may know that there is no God but thou, and y they may shewe thy wonderous workes.]
- 3 Lift vp thine hand vpon the strange nacions, that they may fe thy power.
- 4 As thou art sanctified in vs before them, so be thou magnified among them before vs,
- 5 That they may knowe thee, as we knowe thee: for there is none other God but onely thou, o Lord.
- 6 Renue the signes, & change the wonders: shewe the glorie of thine hand, and thy right arm, that they may shewe forth thy wonderous actes.
- 7 Raise vp thine indignacion, & powre out wrath: take away the aduersarie, and smite the enemye.
- 8 Make the time shorte: remember thine othe, that thy wonderous workes may be praised.
- 9 Let the wrath of the fyre consume them that escape, and let them perish that oppress the people.
- 10 Smite in funder the heades of the princes that be our enemies, and say, There is none other but we.
- 11 Gather all the tribes of Iacob together, [that they may knowe that there is none other God but onely thou, and y they may shewe thy wonderous workes,] and inherite thou them as from the beginning.
- 12 O Lord, haue mercie vpon the people, that is called by thy Name, & vpon Israel, whom thou hast likened to a first borne sonne.
- 13 Oh, be merciful vnto Ierusalem the citie of thy Sanctuary, the citie of thy rest.
- 14 Fill Sion, that it may magnifie thine oracles, and fill thy people with thy glorie.
- 15 Giue witness vnto those that thou hast possessed from the beginning, and raise vp the prophetes that haue bene shewed in thy Name.
- 16 Rewarde them that waite for thee, that thy Prophetes may be founde faithful.
- 17 O Lord, heare the prayer of thy seruants according to the blessing of Aaron ouer thy people, [& guide thou vs in the way of righteousness] that all they which dwell vpon the earth, may knowe that thou art the Lord the eternal God.
- 18 ¶ The belie deuoureth all meates, yet is one meat better then another.
- 19 As the throte tasteth venisone, so doeth a wise minde discerne false wordes.

- 21 A woman is apt to receiue euerie man: yet is one daughter better then another.
- 22 The beautie of a woman chereth the face, and a man loueth nothing better.
- 23 If there be in her tongue gentlenes, meekenes, and wholesome talke, then is not her housband like other men.
- 24 He that hath gotten a [vertuous] woman, hath begone to get a possession: she is an helpe like vnto him self, and a pillar to rest vpon.
- 25 Where no hedge is, there the possession is spoiled: and he that hath no wife, wandereth to and fro, mourning.
- 26 Who wil trust a thief that is alway readie and wandereth from towne to towne, and likewise him, that hath no rest, and lodgeth, where foeuer the night taketh him?

CHAP. XXXVII.

How a man shulde knowe friends & counsellers. 12 To kepe his companie that feareth God.

- 1 Euerie friend saith, I am a friend vnto him also: but there is some friend, which is onely a friend in name.
- 2 Remaineth there not heauines vnto death, when a companion and friend is turned to an enemye?
- 3 O wicked presumption, from whence art thou sprung vp to couer the earth with discorde?

Chap. 6. 10.

4 *There is some companiō which in prosperitie reioyceth with his friēd: but in the time of trouble he is against him.

5 There is some companion that helpeth his friend for the bellie sake, & taketh vp the buckeler against the enemye.

6 Forget not thy friend in thy minde, and thinke vpon him in thy riches.

¶ Of whome we shulde take counsell.

7 Seke ¶ no counsell at him of whome thou art suspected, and disclose not thy counsell vnto suche as hate thee.

Chap. 8. 21.
Or 9. 21.

8 *Euerie counseller praiseth his owne counsell: but there is some that counseleth for him self.

*Or, what neede he haue.

9 Beware of the counseller, and be aduised afore whereto thou wilt vse him: for he wil counsell for him self, lest he cast the lot vpon thee,

10 And say vnto thee, Thy way is good, & afterwarde he stand against thee, and loke what shal become of thee.

11 [Alike no counsell for religion of him, that is without religion, nor of iustice, of him that hathe no iustice,] nor of a womā touching her of whome she is ielous, nor of a coward in matters of warre, nor of a marchant concerning exchange, nor of a bier for the sale, nor of an enuious man touching thankfulness, nor of the vnmmerciful touching kindenes, [nor of an vn honest man of honestie,] nor of the slothful for anie labour, nor of an hireling for the finishing of a worke, nor of an idle seruant for muche busines: hearken not vnto these in anie matter of counsell.

12 But be cōtinual with a godlie man whome thou knowest to kepe the commandments of the Lord, whose minde is according to thy minde, & is sorie for thee whē thou stumblest.

13 Take counsell of thine owne heart: for there is no man more faithful vnto thee, then it.

14 For a mans minde is sometime more accustomed to shewe more thē seuen watchmen that sit about in an high tower.

15 And about all this pray to ŷ most High, that he wil direct thy waye in trueth.

16 Let reason go before euerie enterprise, & counsell before euerie action.

17 ¶ The [changing] of the countenance is a signe of the changing of the heart: foure things appeare good and euil, life and death, but the tongue hathe euer more the gouernement ouer them.

18 ¶ Some mā is witty, & hathe instructed manie, and yet is vnprofitable vnto him self.

19 Some man wil be wise in wordes, and is hated, yea, he is destitute of all foode,

*Or, wisdom.

20 Because grace is not giuen him of the Lord: for he is destitute of all wisdom.

21 Another is wise for him self, and the frutes of vnderstanding are faithful in his mouth.

22 A wise man instructeth his people, and the frutes of his wisdom faile not.

23 A wise mā shalbe plēteously blessed, and all they ŷse him, shal thinke him blessed.

24 The life of man standeth in the number of dayes: but the dayes of Israel are innumerable.

25 A wise man shal obtaine credit among his people, and his name shalbe perpetual.

26 My sonne, proue thy soule in thy life, & se what is euil for it, and permit it not to do it.

27 For all things are not profitable for all men, nether hathe euerie soule pleasure in euerie thing.

28 Be not ¶ griedie in all delites, and be not ¶ Of temperance. to hastie vpon all meares.

21 A man nede not to say, What is this? wherefore is that? for he hath made all things for their owne vse.

22 His blessing shal renne ouer as the streame, and moisture the earth like a flood.

23 As he hath turned the waters into salt-nes, so shal the heathen fele his wrath.

24 As his waies are plaine and right vnto the iust, so are they stumbling blockes to the wicked.

25 ¶ For the good, are good things created from the beginning, and euil things for the sinners.

Chap. 29. 28.

26 * The principal things for the whole vse of mans life is water, fyre, and yron, and salt, and meale, wheate and hony, & milke, the blood of the grape, and oyle, and clo-thing.

27 All these things are for good to y godlie: but to y sinners they are turned vnto euil.

28 There be spretes that are created for vengeance, which in their rigour laye on sure strokes: in the time of destruction they shewe forth their power, and accomplish the wrath of him that made them.

29 Fyre, and haile, and famine, and death: all these are created for vengeance.

30 The teeth of wilde beasts, and the scorpions, and the serpents, and the sworde execute vengeance for the destruction of the wicked.

31 They shalbe glad to do his commandments: & when nede is, they shalbe readie vpon earth: and whē their houre is come, they shal not overpasse the commandment.

32 Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto me from the beginning, and haue thought on these things, and haue put them in writing.

33 * All the workes of the Lord are good, & he giueth euerie one in due season, & when nede is: Gen. 1. 31.

34 So that a man nede not to say, This is worse then that: for in due season they are all worthie praise.

35 And therefore praise y Lord with whole heart and mouth, and blesse the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. XL.

Many miseries in mans life. 14 Of the blessing of the righteous and prerogative of the feare of God.

1 Great ¶ trauail is created for all men, and an heauie yoke vpon the sonnes of Adam from the day that they go out of their mothers wombe, til the day that they returne to the mother of all things, ¶ The miseries of mans life.

2 Namely their thoughts, and feare of the heart, & their imaginacion of the things they waite for, and the daye of death,

3 From him that sitteth vpon the glorious throne, vnto him that is beneth in y earth and ashes:

4 From him that is clothed in blewe silke, and weareth a crowne, euen vnto him that is clothed in simple linen.

5 Wrath & enuie, trouble, and vnquietnes, and feare of death, & rigour, and strife, & in the time of rest the slepe in the night vpon his bed, change his knowledge.

6 A litle or nothing is his rest, and afterwarde in sleping he is as in a watchetowre in the daye: he is troubled with the visions of his heart, as one that renneth out of a battell.

7 And when all is safe, he awaketh, & marueileth that the feare was nothing.

8 Suche things come vnto all flesh, bothe man and beast, but seuē fold to the vngodlie:

9 Moreouer, * death & blood, and strife, & sworde, oppression, famine, destruction, and punishment. Chap. 39. 35.

10 These things are all created for the wicked, and for their sakes came the * flood Gen. 7. 11. also.

11 * All things that are of the earth, shal turne to earth againe: and they that are of the * waters, shal returne into the sea. Gen. 3. 19. Chap. 41. 13. Eccles. 1. 7.

12 ¶ All bribes and vnrighteousnes shalbe put away: but y faithfulness shal endure for euer. ¶ Faithfulness.

13 The substance of the vngodlie shalbe dried vp like a riuer, and they shal make a sounde like a great thonder in the raine.

14 When he openeth his hād, he reioyceth: but

- but all the transgressours shal come to naught.
- 15 The children of the vngodlie shal not obtaine manie branches: for the vncleane rootes are as vpon the high rockes.
- 16 Their tender stalke by what water soeuer it be or water banke, it shalbe pulled vp before all other herbes.
- 17 ¶ Friendlines is as a moste plentiful gardē of pleasure, & mercie endurieth for euer.
- 18 *To labour and to be content with that a man harhe, is a swete life: but he that findeth a treasure, is aboute them bothe.
- 19 Children, and the buylding of the citie maketh a perpetual name: but an honest woman is counted aboute them bothe.
- 20 Wine & musike reioyce the heart: but the loue of wisdom is aboute them bothe.
- 21 The pipe and the psalterion make a swete noyce: but a pleasant tongue is aboute them bothe.
- 22 Thine eye desireth fauor & beautie: but a grene seede time, rather then them bothe.
- 23 A friend, and companion come together at opportunitie: but aboute them bothe is a wife with her housband.
- 24 Friends and helpe are good in the time of trouble, but almes shal deliuer more then them bothe.
- 25 Golde and siluer fasten the fete: but counsell is esteemed aboute them bothe.
- 26 Riches and strength lift vp the minde: but the feare of the Lord is aboute them bothe: there is no want in the feare of the Lord, and it nedeth no helpe.
- 27 The feare of the Lord is a pleasant garden of blessing, and there is nothing so beautiful as it is.
- 28 ¶ My sonne, lead not a beggers life: for better it were to dye then to begge.
- 29 The life of him that dependeth on another mans table, is not to be counted for a life: for he tormēteth him self after other mens meat: but a wise man and wel nourished, wil beware thereof.
- 30 Begging is swete in the mouth of the vnshamefast, and in his bellie there burneth a fyre.
- CHAP. XII.
- 1 Of the remembrance of death. 3 Death is not to be feared. 8 A curse vpon them that forsake the Law of God. 12 Good name & fame. 14 An exhortacion to giue hede vnto wisdom. 17 Of what things a man ought to be ashamed.
- ¶ Of death. 1 O Death, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liueth at rest in his possessions, vnto the man that hathe nothing to vex him, and that hathe prosperitie in all things: yea, vnto him that yet is able to receiue meat!
- 2 O death, how acceptable is thy iudgemēt vnto the nedeful, and vnto him whose strength faileth, and that is now in the last age, & is vexed with all things, and to him that dispaireth, and hathe lost pacience!
- 3 Feare not the iudgement of death: remember them that haue bene before thee, and that come after: this is the ordināce of the Lord ouer all flesh.
- 4 And why woldest thou be against y pleasure of the moste High? whether it be ten or an hundreth, or a thousand yeres, there is no defense for life against the graue.
- 5 ¶ The children of the vngodlie are abominable children, and so are they that kepe companie with the vngodlie.
- 6 The inheritance of vngodlie children shal perish, and their posteritie shal haue a perpetual shame.
- 7 The children complaine of an vngodlie father, because they are reproched for his sake.
- 8 Wo be vnto you, o ye vngodlie, which haue forsaken the Law of the moste high God: for thogh you increase, yet shal you perish.
- 9 If ye be borne, ye shalbe borne to cursing: if ye dye, the curse shalbe your porcion.
- 10 All that is of y earth, shal tūne to earth againe: so the vngodlie go from the curse to destruction.
- 11 Thogh men mourne for their bodie, yet the wicked name of the vngodlie shalbe put out.
- 12 Haue regarde to thy name: for that shal continue with thee aboute a thousand treasures of golde.
- 13 A good life hathe the dayes nombred: but ¶ a good name endureth euer. ¶ A good name Chap. 30. 33.
- 14 ¶ My children, kepe wisdom in peace: for wisdom that is hid, and a treasure y is not sene, what profite is in them bothe?
- 15 A man that hideth his foolishnes, is better then a man that hideth his wisdom.
- 16 Therefore beare reuerence vnto my wordes: for it is not good in all things to be ashamed: nether are all things allowed as faithful in all men. ¶ Of shamefastnes.
- 17 Be ashamed of whordome before father and mother: be ashamed of lies before the prince and men of autoritie.
- 18 Of sinne before the iudge and ruler: of offence before the congregacion and people: of vnrighteousnes before a companiō and friend,
- 19 And of theft before y place where thou dwellest, & before the trueth of God & his couenant, and to leane with thine elbowes vpon the bread, or to be reproued for giuing or taking.
- 20 And of silence vnto them that salute thee, and to loke vpon an harlot,
- 21 And to turne away thy face from thy kinsman: or to take away a portiō or a gift, or to be euil minded toward another māns wife,

- 22 Or to sollicite anie mans maide, or to stand by her bed, or to reproche thy friēds with wordes, 23 Or to vpbraide when thou giuest anie thing, or to reporte a matter that thou hast heard, or to reueile secret wordes.
24 Thus maiest thou wel be shamefast, and shalt finde fauour with all men.

CHAP. XLII.

- 1 The Law of God must be taught. 9 A daughter.
14 A woman. 18 God knoweth all things, yea, euen the secrets of thine heart.

In what things we ought not to be ashamed.

OF these things be not thou ashamed, neither haue regarde to offend for anie persone,

- 2 Of the Law of the most High & his covenant, & of iudgement to iustifie the godlie:
3 Of the cause of thy companion, and of strangers, or of distributing the heritage among friends:
4 To be diligent to kepe true balance, and weight, whether thou haue muche or litle:
5 To sel marchandise at an indifferent price, and to correct thy children diligently, and to beat an euil seruant to the blood:
6 To set a good locke where an euil wife is, and to locke where manie hands are:
7 If thou giue anie thing by number, and weight, to put all in writing, bothe that is giuen out, and that that is receiued againe:
8 To teache the vnlearned, & the vnwise, & the aged, that contend against y^e yong: thus shalt thou be wel instructed, and approved of all men liuing.

Or is a secret watche to the father.

9 ¶ The daughter maketh the father to watche secretly, and the carefulnes that he hathe for her, taketh away his slepe in the youth, lest she shulde passe y^e floure of her age: and when she hathe an housband, lest she shulde be hated:

Chap. 26, 10.

10 In her virginite, lest she shulde be defiled, or gotten withchilde in her fathers house, and, when she is with her housbād, lest she misbeaue her self: and when she is married, lest she continue vnfruteful.

Chap. 27, 28.

11 ¶ If thy daughter be vnshamefast, kepe her straitly, lest she cause thine enemies to laugh thee to scorne, and make thee a comune talke in the citie, and diffame thee among the people, and bring thee to publicke shame.

Gen. 2, 6.

- 12 ¶ Beholde not euerie bodies beautie, and companie not among women.
13 For as the moth cometh out of garmets: so doeth wickednes of the woman.
14 The wickednes of a man is better then the good intreatie of a woman, to wit, of a woman that is in shame, and reproche.
15 ¶ I wil remember the workes of the Lord, and declare the thing that I haue sene: by the worde of the Lord are his workes.

The sunne that shineth, loketh vpon all things, and all the worke thereof is ful of the glorie of the Lord.

17 Hathe not the Lord appointed that his Saints shulde declare all his wonderous workes, which the almightie Lord hathe stablished to confirme all things by in his maiestie?

18 He seeketh out the depth, and the heart, and he knoweth their practises: for y^e Lord knoweth all science, and he beholdeth the signes of the worlde.

19 He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, and discloseth the paths of things that are secret.

20 ¶ No thought may escape him, nether may anie worde be hid from him. Iob. 41, 4. Is. 29, 15.

21 He hathe garnished the excellent workes of his wisdom, and he is from euerlasting to euerlasting, and for euer: vnto him may nothing be added, nether can he be diminished: he hathe no nede of anie counseler.

22 Oh, how delectable are all his workes, & to be considered euē vnto y^e sparkes of fyre!

23 They liue all, and endure for euer: and when soeuer nede is, they are all obedient.

24 Thei are all double, one against another: he hathe made nothing y^e hathe anie faute.

25 The one commendeth the goodnes of the other, & who can be satisfied with beholding Gods glorie? Or, stablisheth.

CHAP. XLIII.

The summe of the creation of the workes of God.

1 THIS high ornament, the cleare firmament, the beautie of the heauē so glorious to beholde, The wonderfull workes of God.

2 The sunne also, a marueilous instrument when it appeareth, declareth, at his going out, the worke of the moste High.

3 At noone it burneth the cōuntrie, & who may abide for the heat thereof?

4 The sunne burneth the mountaines thre times more then he that kepeth a fornace with cōtinual heat: it casteth out the fyrie vapours, & with the shining beames blindeth the eyes.

5 Great is the Lord that made it, and by his commandement he causeth it to runne hastily.

6 ¶ The moone also hathe he made to appeare according to her season, that it shulde be a declaration of the time, and a signe for the worlde. Gen. 1, 16.

7 ¶ The feasts are appointed by the moone: the light thereof diminisheth vnto y^e end. Exod. 12, 1.

8 The moneth is called after y^e name thereof, & groweth wōdrously in her chāging.

9 It is a campe pitched on high, shining in the firmament of heauen: the beautie of heauē are the glorious starres, and the ornament that shineth in the high places of the Lord.

10 By the commandement of the holie one they

- they continue in their order, and faile not in their watche.
- Gen. 9. 14.* 11 ¶ Loke vpon the raine bowe, and praise him that made it: verie beautiful is it in the brightnes thereof.
- Isa. 40. 12.* 12 *It compasseth the heauen about with a glorious circle, and the hands of the moſte High haue bended it.
- 13 ¶ Thorowe his comādemēt he maketh the ſnowe to haſte, and ſendeth ſwiftly the lightning of his iudgement.
- 14 Therefore he openeth his treaſures, and the cloudes flie forth as the foules.
- 15 In his power hathe he ſtrengthened the cloudes, and broken the haile ſtones.
- 16 The mountaines leape at the ſight of him: the South winde bloweth according to his wil.
- 17 The ſounde of his thonder beareth the earth: ſo doeth the ſtorme of the North: y whirlewinde alſo, as birdes that flie, ſcattereth the ſnowe, and the falling downe thereof is as y greſhoppers y light downe.
- 18 The eye marueileth at the beautie of the whitenes thereof, & the heart is aſtoniſhed at the raine of it.
- 19 He alſo powreth out the froſt vpon the earth like ſalt, and when it is froſen, it ſticketh on the toppes of pales.
- 20 When the colde North winde bloweth, an yce is froſen of the water, it abideth vpon all the gatherings together of water, and clotheth the waters as w a breſt plate.
- 21 It deuoureth the mountaines, & burneth the wildernes, and deſtroyeth that that is grene, like fyre.
- 22 The remedie of all theſe is when a cloude cometh haſtely, & when a dewe cometh vpon the heat, it reſreſheth it.
- 23 [By his worde he ſtilleth the winde:] by his counſel he appeaſeth the depe, and plāceth ylands therein.
- 24 They that faile ouer the ſea, tel of the perils thereof, and when we heare it with our eares, we marueile thereat.
- 25 For there be ſtrange, & wonderous workes, diuers maner of beaſts, and the creation of whales.
- 26 Thorowe him are all things directed to a good end, & are ſtabliſhed by his worde.
- 27 And whē we haue ſpoken muche, we can not atteine vnto them: but this is y ſumme of all, that he is all.
- 28 What power haue we to praiſe him: for he is aboue all his workes?
- Pſal. 96. 4.* 29 The Lord is terrible, and verie great, * & marueilous is his power.
- 30 Praise y Lord, & magnifie him as muche as ye can, yet doeth he farre excede: exalt him with all your power, & be not wearie, yet can ye not atteine vnto it.
- Pſal. 106. 8.* 31 * Who hathe ſene him, that he might tel vs: and who can magnifie him as he is?
- 32 For there are hid yet greater things theſe be, & we haue ſene but a fewe of his workes.
- 33 For the Lord hathe made all things, and giuen wiſdome to ſuche as feare God.
- CHAP. XLIIII.
- The praiſe of certain holie men, Enoch, Noe, Abraham, Iſaac and Iacob.*
- 1 Et vs now comēde the famous men, and our fathers, of whome we are begotten.
- 2 The Lord hathe gotten great glorie by them, and that through his great power from the beginning.
- 3 Thei haue borne rule in their kingdomes, and were renoumed for their power, and were wiſe in counſel, and declared prophecies.
- 4 * They gouerned the people by counſel & by the knowledge of learning mete for the people, in whoſe doctrine were wiſe ſentences.
- 5 They inuented the melodie of muſicke, and expounded the verſes that were written.
- 6 They were riche and mightie in power, and liued quietly at home.
- 7 All theſe were honorable men in their generacions, & were wel reported of in their times.
- 8 There are of them that haue left a name behinde them, ſo that their praiſe ſhal be ſpoken of.
- 9 There are ſome alſo which haue no memorial, * and are periſhed, as thogh they had neuer bene, and are become as thogh they had neuer bene borne, and their children after them.
- 10 But the former were merciful men, whoſe righteousnes hathe not bene forgottē.
- 11 For whoſe poſteritie a good inheritance is reſerued, and their ſede is contained in the couenant.
- 12 Their ſtockes is contained in the couenant, and their poſteritie after them.
- 13 Their ſede ſhal remaine for euer, & their praiſe ſhal neuer be taken away.
- 14 Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name liueth for euermore.
- 15 * The people ſpeake of their wiſdome, & the congregacion talke of their praiſe.
- 16 ¶ Enoch pleaſed the Lord God: therefore was he tranſlated for an example of repentance to the generacions.
- 17 ¶ Noe was founde perſite, and in the time of wrath he had a rewarde: therefore was he left as a remnant vnto the earth, when the flood came.
- 18 An euerlaſting couenant was made with him, that all fleſh ſhulde * periſh no more by the flood.
- 19 ¶ Abrahā was a * great father of manie people: in glorie was there none like vnto him.

- 20 He kept the Law of the moste High, & was in couenant with him, and he set the couenant* in his flesh, and in tentation he was founde faithful.
- 21 Therefore he assured him by an*othe, y he wolde blesse the nacions in his sede, & that he wolde multiplie him as the dust of the earth, and exalte his sede as the starres, and cause them to inherite from sea to sea, and from the Riuer vnto the end of the worlde.
- 22 *With ¶ Isaac did he confirme likewise for Abraham his fathers sake, the blessing of all men, and the couenant,
- 23 And caused it to rest vpon the head of ¶ Jacob, and made him self knowne by his blessings, and gaue him an heritage and deuided his porcions, * and parted them among the twelue tribes.
- 24 And he brought out of him a ¶ merciful man, which founde fauour in the sight of all flesh.

- The praise of Moyse, Aaron, and Phinees.*
- 1 AND ¶ Moyse, the *beloued of God & men, brought he forth, whose remembrance is blessed.
- 2 He made him like to the glorious Saints, and magnified him by the feare of his enemies.
- 3 By his wordes he caused the wonders to cease, and he made him *glorious in the sight of Kings, and gaue him commandements for his people, and shewed him his glorie.
- 4 *He sanctified him with faithfulness, and mekenes, and chose him out of all men.
- 5 He caused him to heare his voyce, and brought him into the darke cloude, * and there he gaue him the commandements before his face, euen the Law of life and knowledge, that he might teache Jacob y couenant, and Israel his iudgements.
- 6 He exalted ¶ Aaron an holie man like vnto him, euē his *brother of y tribe of Leui.
- 7 An euerlasting couenant made he with him, and gaue him the priesthode among the people, and made him blessed through his comelie ornament, & clothed him with the garment of honour.
- 8 He put persure ioye vpo him, and girded him with ornaments of strength, as with breches, and a tunicle, and an ephod.
- 9 He compassed him about with belles of golde, & with manie belles round about, *that when he went in, the sound might be heard, and might make a noyce in the Sanctuary, for a remembrance to the childre of Israel his people,
- 10 And with an holie garment, with golde also, and blewe silke, and purple, & diuers kindes of workes, and with a brestlappe of iudgemēt, & with the ¶ signes of trueth,
- 11 And with worke of skarlet conningly wrought, and with precious stones grauen like seales, & set in golde by golde smithes worke for a memorial with a writing grauen after the number of the tribes of Israel.
- 12 And with a crowne of golde vpon the mitre, bearing the forme and marke of holines, an ornamēt of honour, a noble worke garnished, and pleasant to loke vpon.
- 13 Before him were there no suche faire ornaments: there might no strāger put them on, but onely his children, and his childres children perpetually.
- 14 Their sacrifices were wholly consumed euerie day twise continually.
- 15 *Moyse filled his hands, and anointed him with holie oyle: this was appointed vnto him by an euerlasting couenant, & to his sede, so long as the heauens shulde remaine, that he shulde minister before him, & also to execute the office of the priesthode, and blesse his people in his name.
- 16 Before all men liuing the Lord chose him that he shulde present offrings before him, and a swete saueur for a remembrance to make reconciliation for his people.
- 17 *He gaue him also his commandements and autoritie according to the Lawes appointed, that he shulde teache Jacob the testimonies, and giue light vnto Israel by his Law.
- 18 *Strangers stode vp against him, & enuied him in the wilderness, euen the men that toke Dathans and Abirams parte, & the companie of Core in furie and rage.
- 19 This the Lord sawe, and it displeased him, and in his wrathful indignacion were they consumed: he did wonders vpon them, and consumed them with the fyrie flame.
- 20 *But he made Aaron more honorable, and gaue him an heritage, and parted the first frutes of the first borne vnto him: vnto him specially he appointed bread in abundance.
- 21 For the Priests did eat of the sacrifices of the Lord, which he gaue vnto him and to his sede.
- 22 *Els had he none heritage in the land of his people, nether had he any porcion among the people: for the Lord is the porcion of his inheritance.
- 23 The third in glorie is ¶ Phinees the sonne of Eleazar, because he had zeale in the feare of the Lord, & stode vp with good courage of heart, when the people were turned backe, and made reconciliation for Israel.
- 24 Therefore was there a couenant of peace made with him, that he shulde be the chief of the Sanctuary and of his people, and that he and his posteritie shulde haue

CHAP. XLVI.

The praise of Iosue, Caleb, and Samuel.

- 1 Iesus ¶ the sonne of Naue was valiāt in the warres, & was ¶ successeur of Moyse in prophecies, who according vnto his name, was a great sauiour of the elect of God, to take vengeance of ¶ enemies that rose vp against them, and to set Israel in their inheritance.
- 2 *What glorie gate he, when he lift vp his hand, and drew out his sworde against the cities?
- 3 Who was there before him, like to him? for he fought the battels of the Lord.
- 4 *Srode not the sunne stil by his meanes, & one day was as long as two?
- 5 He called vnto ¶ molte high Gouvernour when the enemies preased vpon him on euerie side, & the mightie Lord heard him with the haile stones, and with mightie power.
- 6 He rushed in vpō the nacions in battel, & in the ¶ going downe of Bethorō he destroyed the aduersaries, that they might knowe his weapons, and that he fought in the sight of the Lord: for he ¶ followed the Almighty.
- 7 *In ¶ time of Moyse also he did a good worke: he and ¶ Caleb the sonne of Iephune stode against the enemye, and withheld the people from sinne, & appeased the wicked murmuring.
- 8 *And of six hundred thousand people of fore, they two were preferred to bring the into the heritage, euen into the land that floweth with milke and honey.
- 9 *The Lord gaue strength also vnto Caleb, which remained with him vnto his olde age, so that he went vp into the high places of the land and his sede obtained it for an heritage,
- 10 That all the children of Israel might se, that it is good to follow the Lord.
- 11 Concerning the ¶ Iudges, euerie one by name, whose heart went not a whoring, nor departed from the Lord, their memorie be blessed.

- 18 So he discomfited the princes of ¶ Tyrians, and all the rulers of the Philistims.
- 19 *And before his long slepe he made protestacion in the sight of the Lord, and his anointed, that he toke no substance of any man, no, not so muche as a shooe, and no man colde accuse him.

The praise of Nathan, Dauid and Salomon.

- 1 After him rose vp ¶ Nathā to prophesie in the time of Dauid.
- 2 For as the fat is taken away from the peace offering, so was ¶ Dauid chosen out of the children of Israel.
- 3 *He plaied with the lions, as with kiddes, and with beares, as with lambes.
- 4 *Slewe he not a gyante when he was yet but yong, and toke away the rebuke from the people, when he lift vp his hand with the stone in the sling, to beat downe the pride of Goliath.
- 5 For he called vpon the moste high Lord, which gaue him strength in his right hād, to slay that mightie warriour, and that he might set vp the horne of his people againe.
- 6 *So he gaue him ¶ praise of ten thousand and honored him with ¶ great praises, and gaue him a crowne of glorie.
- 7 *For he destroyed the enemies on euerie side, and rooted out the Philistims his aduersaries, and brake their horne in sunder vnto this day.
- 8 In all his workes he praised the Holy one, and the moste High with honorable wordes, and with his whole heart he sung songs, and loued him that made him.
- 9 *He set fingers also before the altar, and according to their tune he made swete songs, that they might praise God daily, with their songs.

- 23 Thus rested Salomon with his fathers, & of his sede he left behinde him ¶ Roboam, euen the foolishnes of the people, and one that had no vnderstanding, who turned away the people thorow his counsel, & ¶ Ieroboam the sonne of Nabat, who caused Israel to sinne, & shewed Ephraim the way of sinne,

Of Simon the sonne of Onias. 22 An exhortacion to praise the Lord. 27 The autor of this booke.

1 || Simon * the sonne of Onias the hie Priest, which in his life set vp the house againe, and in his dayes established the " Temple,

2 Vnder him was the fundaciō of the double height laied, and the hie walles that compasseth the Temple.

3 In his daies the places, to receiue water that were decayed, were restored & the brasfe was about in measure as the * sea.

4 He toke care for his people, that they shulde not fall, & fortified the cite against the siege.

5 How honorable was his conuersation among the people, and when he came out of the house couered with the vaile!

6 He was as the morning starre in the middes of a cloude, and as the moone when it is ful,

7 And as the sunne shining vpon the Temple of the moiste High, and as the rainebowe that is bright in the faire cloudes,

8 And as the floure of the roses in y spring of the yere, and as lilies by the springs of waters, and as the branches of the frankincense tre in the time of somer,

9 As a fyre & incense in the censer, and as a vessel of masse golde, set with all manner of precious stones,

10 And as a faire oliue tre that is fruteful, and as a cypresse tre, which groweth vp to the cloudes.

11 When he put on the garment of honour and was clothed with all beautie, he went vp to the holy altar, and made the garmēt of holines honorable.

12 When he toke the porcions out of the Priests hands, he him self stode by the herth of the altar, compassed with his brethren rounde about, as the branches do the cedre tre in Libanus, & they compassed him as the branches of the palme trees.

13 So were all the sonnes of Aaron in their glorie, and the oblacions of the Lord in their hands before all the cōgregation of Israel.

- 14 And that he might accomplish his ministerie vpon the altar, and garnish the offering of the moste High, and almightie,
- 15 He stretched out his hand to the drinke offering, and powred of the blood of the grape, and he powred at the fote of the altar a perfume of good sauour vnto the moste high King of all.
- 16 Then shewted the sonnes of Aaron, and blowed with brazen trumpets, and made a great noyce to be heard, for a remembrance before the moste High.
- 17 Then all the people together hasted, & fell downe to the earth vpon their faces to worship their Lord God almightie, and moste high.
- 18 The singers also sang with their voyces, so that the sounde was great, and the melodye swete.
- 19 And the people prayed vnto the Lord moste high with prayer before him that is merciful, til the honour of the Lord were performed, and they had accomplished his seruice.
- 20 Then went he downe, and stretched out his hands ouer the whole congregacion of the children of Israel, that they shulde giue praise with their lippes vnto the Lord, and reioyce in his Name.
- 21 He began againe to worship, & he might receiue the blessing of the moste High.
- 22 Now therefore giue praise all ye vnto God, that worketh great things euerie where, which hath increased our dayes from the wombe, and delte with vs according to his mercie,
- 23 That he wolde giue vs ioyfulness of heart, & peace in our dayes in Israel, as in olde time,
- 24 That he wolde confirme his mercie with vs, and deliuer vs at his time.
- 25 ¶ There be two maner of people, & mine heart abhorreth, & the third is no people:
- 26 They that sit vpon the mountaine of Samaria, the Philistims, and the foolish people that dwell in Sicrus.
- 27 ¶ Iesus the sonne of Sirach, the sonne of Eleazarus, of Ierusalem, hath written the doctrine of vnderstanding and knowledge in this booke, and hath powred out the wisdom of his heart.
- 28 Blessed is he that exerciseth him self therein: and he that layeth vp these in his heart, shal be wise.
- 29 For if he do these things, he shal be strong in all things: for he setteth his steppes in the light of the Lord, which giueth wisdom to the godlie. The Lord be praised for euer more: so be it, so be it.

CHAP. II.

A prayer of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

- 1 I Wil confesse thee, O Lord and King, and praise thee, O God, my Sauour: I giue thanks vnto thy Name.

- 2 For thou art my defender and helper, and hast preserved my bodie from destruction, and from the snare of the scanderous tongue, and from the lippes that are occupied with lies: thou hast holpen me against mine aduersaries,
- 3 And hast deliuered me according to the multitude of thy mercie, and for thy Names sake, from the roaring of them that were readie to deuoure me, and out of the hands of such as sought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions, which I had,
- 4 And from the fyre that choked me rounde about, and from the middes of the fyre that I burned not,
- 5 And from the botome of the belie of hel, from an vncleane tongue, from lying wordes, from false accusation to the King, & from the slander of an vnrighteous tongue.
- 6 [My soule shal praise the Lord vnto death:] for my soule drewe nere vnto death: my life was nere to the hel beneath.
- 7 They compassed me on euerie side, & there was no man to helpe me: I looked for the succour of men, but there was none.
- 8 Then thought I vpon thy mercie, O Lord, and vpon thine actes of olde, how thou deliuerest such as waite for thee, and sauest them out of the hands of the enemies.
- 9 Then lift I vp my prayer from the earth, and praied for deliuerance from death.
- 10 I called vpon the Lord the father of my Lord, that he wolde not leaue me in the daye of my trouble, and in the time of the proude without helpe.
- 11 I wil praise thy Name continually, and wil sing praise with thanksgiving: & my prayer was heard.
- 12 Thou sauedst me from destruction, and deliueredst me from the euil time: therefore wil I giue thanks and praise thee, & blesse the Name of the Lord.
- 13 Whē I was yet yong, or euer I wēt abroad, I desired wisdom opely in my prayer.
- 14 I praied for her before the Temple, and sought after her vnto farre countreys, and she was as a grape that waxeth ripe out of the floure.
- 15 Mine heart reioyced in her: my foote walked in the right way, & from my youth vp sought I after her.
- 16 I bowed somewhat downe mine eare, & receiued her, & gate me muche wisdom:
- 17 And I profited by her: therefore wil I ascribe the glorie vnto him, that giueth me wisdom.
- 18 For I am aduised to do thereafter: I wil be ielous of that that is good: so shal I not be confounded.
- 19 My soule hath wrestled with her, and I haue examined my workes: I lifted vp mine

- 20 I directed my soule vnto her, and I founde her in purenes: I haue had mine heart ioyned with her from the beginning: therefore shal I not be forsaken.
- 21 My bowels are troubled in seeking her: therefore haue I gotten a good possession.
- 22 The Lord hath giue me a tongue for my rewarde, wherewith I wil praise him.
- 23 Drawe nere vnto me, ye vnlearned, and dwell in the house of learning.
- 24 Wherefore are ye slowe, and what say you of these things, seeing your soules are very thurstie?
- 25 I opened my mouth, and said, * Bye her Isa. 55.1. for you without money.
- 26 Bowe downe your necke vnder the yoke, & your soule shal receiue instruction: she is ready that ye may finde her.
- 27 Beholde with your eyes, * how that I haue had but litle labour, & haue gotten vnto me muche rest. Chap. 5. 20.
- 28 Get learning with a great some of money: for by her ye shal possesse muche golde.
- 29 Let your soule reioyce in the mercie of the Lord, and be not ashamed of his praise.
- 30 Do your duetie betimes, and he wil giue you a rewarde at his time.

CHAP. I.

Baruch wrote a booke during the captiuitie of Babylon, which he red before Iechonias and all the people so The Iewes sent the booke with money vnto Ierusalem to their other brethren, to the intent that they shoulde pray for them.

And these are the wordes of the booke, which Baruch the sonne of Nerias, the sonne of Maasias, the sonne of Sedecias, the sonne of Asadias, the sonne of Helcias wrote in at Babylon,

- 1 In the fift yere, and in the seventh day of the moneth, what time as the Chaldeans toke Ierusalem, and burnt it with fyre.
- 2 And Baruch did read the wordes of this booke, that Iechonias the sonne of Ioachim King of Iuda might heare, & all the people that were come to heare the booke,
- 3 And in the audience of the gouernour, & of the Kings sonnnes, & before the Elders, & before the whole people, fro the lowest vnto the hiest, before all them that dwelt at Babylon by the river Sud.
- 4 Which when they heard it, wept, fasted and made prayers before the Lord.
- 5 They made a collection also of money, according to euerie mans power,
- 6 And sent it to Ierusalem vnto Ioachim the sonne of Helcias the sonne of Salom Priest, and vnto the other Priests, and to all the people, which were with him at Ierusalem,
- 7 When he had receiued the vessels of the Temple of the Lord, that were taken away out of the Temple, to bring the againe into the land of Iuda, the tenth day of the moneth Sivan, to wit, siluer vessels, which Sedecias the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda had made,
- 8 After that Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon had led away Iechonias from Ierusalem, and his princes, & his nobles, prisoners, and the people, and caryed them to Babylon.

And they said, Beholde, we haue sent you money, wherewith ye shal bye burnt offerings for sinne, and incense, and prepare a meat offering, & offre vpon the altar of the Lord our God,

10 And pray for the life of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and for the life of Baltasar his sonne, that their daies may be vpon earth, as the daies of heauen, 11 And that God wolde giue vs strength & lighten our eyes, that we may liue vnder the shadowe of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and vnder the shadowe of Baltasar his sonne, that we may long do the seruice, and finde fauour in their sight.

12 Pray for vs also vnto the Lord our God (for we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and vnto this day the furie of the Lord and his wrath is not turned from vs)

13 And rede this booke (which we haue sent to you to be rehearsed in the Temple of the Lord) vpon the feast daies, and at time conuenient.

14 Thus shal ye say, * To the Lord our God Chap. 2. 6. belongeth righteousness, but vnto vs y confusion of our faces, as it is come to passe this day vnto them of Iuda, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem,

15 And to our Kings, and to our princes, & to our Priests, and to our Prophetes, and to our fathers,

16 Because we haue sinned before the Lord our God,

17 And haue not obeyed him, nether hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, to walke in the commandements that he gaue vs openly.

18 From the day that the Lord broght our fathers out of the land of Egypt, euen vnto this day, we haue bene disobedient vnto this day, to the Lord our God, and we haue bene negligent to heare his voyce.

20 *Wherefore these plagues are come vpon vs, and the curse which the Lord appointed by Moyses his seruant at the time that he brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to giue vs a land that floweth with milke and honic, as appeareth this day.

21 Neuertheles, we haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, according to all the wordes of the Prophetes, whome he sent vnto vs.

22 But euerie one of vs followed the wicked imagination of his owne heart, to serue strange gods, and to do euil in the sight of the Lord our God.

CHAP. II.

8 The Iewes confesse that they suffer iustely for their sinnes. The true confession of the Christiāns 11 The Iewes desire to haue the wrath of God turned from them 32 He promisseth that he wil call agasne the people from captiuitie, and giue them a newe and euerlasting testament.

1 Therefore the Lord our God hathe performed his worde, which he pronounced against vs, & against our iudges that gouerned Israel, and against our Kings, and against our princes, & against the men of Israel and Iuda,

Deu. 28. 25.

2 To bring vpon vs great plagues, suche as neuer came to passe vnder y whole heauē, as they that were done in Ierusalem, according to things, that were written in the Lawe of Moyses,

3 That some among vs shulde eat the flesh of his owne sonne, & some the flesh of his owne daughter.

4 Moreouer, he hathe deliuered them to be in subiection to all the kingdomes, that are rounde about vs, to be as a reprocche and desolation among all the people rounde about where the Lord hathe scattred them.

5 Thus they are brought beneth and not aboue, because we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and haue not heard his voyce.

Chap. 1. 15.

6 *To the Lord our God apperteineth righteousness, but vnto vs & to our fathers open shame, as appeareth this day.

7 For all these plagues are come vpon vs, which the Lord hathe pronounced against vs.

8 Yet haue we not prayed before the Lord, that we might turne euerie one from the imaginations of his owne wicked heart.

9 So the Lord hathe watched ouer the plagues, and the Lord hathe brought them vpon vs. for the Lord is righteous in all his workes, which he hathe commanded vs.

10 Yet we haue not hearkened vnto his voyce, to walke in the commandements of the Lord that he hathe giuen vnto vs.

11 *And now, o Lord God of Israel, that Dan 9. 15. hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mightie hand, and an hie arme, and with signes, and with wonders, and with great power, and hast gotten thy self a Name, as appeareth this day, 12 O Lord our God, we haue sinned: we haue done wickedly: we haue offended in all thine ordinances.

13 Let thy wrath turne from vs: for we are but a fewe left among the heathen, where thou hast scattred vs.

14 Heare our praiers, o Lord, and our petitions, and deliuer vs for thine owne sake, and giue vs fauour in the sight of the, which haue led vs away, 15 That all the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, and that thy Name is called vpon Israel and vpon their posteritie.

16 Therefore loke downe from thine holy Temple, and thinke vpon vs: encline thine eare, o Lord, and heare vs.

17 *Open thine eyes, and beholde: for the Deu. 28. 25. isa 63. 15. dead that are in the graues, and whose soules are out of their bodies, *giue vnto the Lord, nether "praise, nor righteousness.

18 But the soule that is vexed for the greatness of sune, and he that goeth crokedy, and weake, and the eyes that faile, and the hungrie soule wil giue thee praise & righteousness, o Lord.

19 For we do not require mercie in thy sight, o Lord our God, for the righteousness of our fathers, or of our Kings,

20 But because thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignacion vpon vs, as thou hast spoken by "thy seruants the Prophetes, saying,

21 *Thus saith the Lord, Bowe downe your shoulders, and serue the King of Babylon: so shal ye remaine in the land, that I gaue vnto your fathers.

22 But if ye wil not heare the voyce of the Lord, to serue the King of Babylon, 23 I wil cause to cease in the cities of Iuda, and in Ierusalem, I wil cause to cease the voyce of mirth, and the voyce of ioye, & the voyce of the bridegrome, and the voyce of the bride, & the land shal be desolate of inhabitants.

24 But we wolde no hearken vnto thy voyce, to serue the King of Babylon: therefore hast thou performed the wordes that thou spakest by thy seruants the Prophetes: namely, that the bones of our Kings, and the bones of our fathers shulde be caryed out of their places.

25 And lo, they are cast out to the heat of the day, and to the colde of the night, and are dead in great miserie with famine, & with 26 And the Temple wherein thy Name was called vpon, thou hast broght to the state, as appeareth this day, for the wickednes of the house of Israel, and the house of Iuda.

27 O Lord our God, thou hast intreated vs according to equitie, and according to all thy great mercie.

28 As thou spakest by thy seruant Moyfes, in the day when thou didest cōmand him to write thy Lawe before the childre of Israel, saying,

*Leu 26. 14.
deu. 28. 15.*

29 *If ye wil not obey my voyce, then shal this great swarme and multitude be turned into a verie fewe among the nacions where I wil scatter them.

30 For I knowe that they wil not heare me: for it is a stifnecked people: but in the land of their captiuitie they shal remember them selues, 31 And knowe that I am y Lord their God: then wil I giue them an heart to vnderstand, and eares.

32 And they shal heare, and praise me in the land of their captiuitie, & thinke vpon my Name.

33 Then shal they turne them from their hardebackes, and from their euil workes: for they shal remember the way of their fathers, which sinned before the Lord.

34 And I wil bring them againe into the land, which I promised with an othe vnto their fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob, and they shal be lords of it: and I wil increase them, and they shal not be diminished.

35 And I wil make an euerlasting couenant with them, that I wil be their God, & they shalbe my people: and I wil no more driue my people of Israel out of the land that I haue giuen them.

CHAP. III.

1 The people continueth in their praier begon for their deliuerance. 9 He praiseth wisdom vnto the people, shewing that so great aduersities came vnto them for the despising thereof 36 Onely God was the finder of wisdom. 37 Of the incarnation of Christ.

1 O Lord almightie, ô God of Israel, the soule that is in trouble, and the spirit that is vexed, cryeth vnto thee.

2 Heare, ô Lord, and haue mercie: for thou art merciful, and haue pitie vpon vs, because we haue sinned before thee.

3 For thou endurest for euer, and we vtterly perish.

4 O Lord almightie, the God of Israel, heare now the praier of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which haue sinned before thee, and not hearkened vnto the voyce of thee their God, wherefore these plagues hang vpon vs.

5 Remember not the wickednes of our fathers, but thinke vpon thy power, and thy Name at this time.

6 For thou art the Lord our God, & thee, ô Lord, wil we praise.

7 And for this cause hast thou put thy feare in our hearts, that we shulde call vpon thy Name, and praise thee in our captiuitie: for we haue considered in our mindes all the wickednes of our fathers, that sinned before thee.

8 Beholde, we are yet this day in our captiuitie, where thou hast scattered vs, to be a reproche, and a curse, and subiect to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which are departed from the Lord their God.

9 O Israel, heare the commandements of life: hearken vnto them, that thou maiest learne wisdom.

10 What is the cause, ô Israel, that thou art in thine enemies land, and art waxen olde in a strange countrey?

11 And art defiled with the dead: and art counted with them, that go downe to the graues?

12 Thou hast forsaken the fountaine of wisdom.

13 For if thou hadest walked in the way of God, thou shuldest haue remained safe for euer.

14 Learne where is wisdom, where is strength, where is vnderstanding, that thou maist knowe also from whence cometh long continuance, and life, and where the light of the eyes, and peace is.

15 Who hath found out her place? or who hath come into her treasures?

16 Where are the princes of the heathen, & suche as ruled the beasts vpon the earth?

17 They that had their pastime with the foules of the heauen, that hoorded vp siluer, and golde, wherein men trust, & made none end of their gathering?

18 For they that coyned siluer, and were so carful of their worke, and whose inuention had none end, 19 Are come to naught, and gone downe to hel, and other men are come vp in their steades.

20 Whē thei were yong, they sawe y light, and dwelt vpon the earth: but they vnderstode not the way of knowledge, 21 Nether perceiued the paths thereof, nether haue their children receiued it: but they were farre of from that way.

22 It hath not bene heard of in the land of Chanaan, nether hath it bene sene in Theman, 23 Nor the Agarines that sought after wisdom vpon the earth, nor the marchants of Nertan, and of Theman, nor the expounders of fables, nor the searchers out of wisdom haue knownen the way of wisdom.

dome, nether do they thinke vpon the pathe thereof.

24 O Israel, how great is the House of God! and how large is the place of his possession!

25 It is great, and hath none end: it is hie, and vnmeasurable.

26 There were the gyants, famous from the beginning, that were of so great stature, and so expert in warre.

27 Those did not the Lord chose, nether gaue he the way of knowledge vnto them.

28 But they were destroyed, because they had no wisdom, and perished through their owne foolishnes.

29 Who hath gone vp into heauen, to take her, and brought her downe fro the cloudes?

30 Who hath gone ouer the sea, to finde her, and hath brought her, rather then fine golde?

31 No man knoweth her waies, nether considereth her paths.

32 But he that knoweth all things, knoweth her, and he hath founde her out with his vnderstanding: this same is he which hath prepared the earth for euermore, and hath filled it with foure footed beastes.

33 When he sendeth out the light, it goeth: and when he calleth it againe, it obeyeth him with feare.

34 And the starres shine in their watch, and reioyce. When he calleth them, they say, Here we be: and so with cherefulness they shewe light vnto him that made them.

35 This is our God, and there shal none other be compared vnto him.

36 He hath founde out all way of knowledge, and hath giuen it vnto Iacob his seruant, and to Israel his beloued.

37 Afterwarde he was sene vpon cart h, and dwelt among men.

CHAP. IIII.

The reward of them that kepe the Law, and the punishment of them that despise it. 12 A comforting of the people being in captiuitie. 19 A complaint of Ierusalem & vnder the figure thereof the Church. 25 A consolacion and comforting of the same.

1 THis is the boke of the comandements of God, and the Law that endureth for euer: all they that kepe it, shal come to life: but suche as forsake it, shal dye.

2 Turne thee, O Iacob, and take holde of it: walke by this brightnes before the light thereof.

3 Giue not thine honour to another, nor the things that are profitable vnto thee, to a strange nacion.

4 O Israel, we are blessed: for the things that are acceptable vnto God, are declared vnto vs.

5 Be of good comfort, O my people, which art the memorial of Israel.

6 Ye are sold to the nations, not for your destruction: but because ye prouoked God to wrath, ye were deliuered vnto the enemies.

7 For ye haue displeased him that made you, offering vnto deuils and not to God.

8 Ye haue forgotten him that created you, euen the euerlasting God, & ye haue grieved Ierusalem, that nourished you.

9 When she sawe the wrath comming vpo you from God, she said, Hearken, ye that dwell about Sion: for God hath brought me into great heauines.

10 I see the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the Euerlasting wil bring vpon them.

11 With ioye did I nourish the, but I must leaue them with weping and mourning.

12 Let no man reioyce ouer me a widdowe, and forsaken of manie, which for the sinnes of my children am desolate, because they departed from the Law of God.

13 They wolde not knowe his righteousness, nor walke in the wayes of his commandements: nether did they enter into the paths of discipline, through his righteousness.

14 Come, ye that dwell about Sion, and call to remembrance the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the Euerlasting hath brought vpon them.

15 For he hath brought vpon them a nation from farre, an impudent nacion, and of a strange language, 16 Which nether reuerence the aged, nor pitie the yong: these haue caried away the dere beloued of the widdowes, leauing me alone, and destitute of my daughters.

17 But what can I helpe you?

18 Surely he that hath brought these plagues vpon you, can deliuer you from the hands of your enemies.

19 Go your way, O children, go your way: for I am left desolate.

20 I haue put of the clothing of peace, and put vpon me the sackcloth of prayer, and so long as I liue, I wil call vpon the Euerlasting.

21 Be of good comfort, O children: crye vnto God, and he wil deliuer you from the power, and hand of the enemies.

22 For I haue hope of your saluatio through the Euerlasting, and ioye is come vpon me fro the Holy one, because of the mercie, which shal quickly come vnto you fro our euerlasting Saviour.

23 For I sent you away with weping, and mourning: but with ioye and perpetual gladnes wil God bring you againe vnto me.

24 Like as now the neighbours of Sion saw your captiuitie, so shal they also see shortly your saluatio from God, which shal come vnto you with great glorie, and brightnes from from the Euerlasting.

- 25 My children, suffer patiently the wrath that is come vpon you from God: for thine enemy hath persecuted thee, but shortly thou shalt see his destruction, and shalt tread vpon his necke.
- 26 My darlings haue gone by rough wayes, and were led away as a flocke that is scattered by the enemies.
- 27 Be of good comfort, my children, and crye vnto God: for he that led you away, hath you in remembrance.
- 28 And as it came into your minde to go astray from your God, so endeouore your selues ten times more, to turne againe and to seeke him.
- 29 For he that hath brought these plagues vpon you, wil bring you euerlasting ioye againe, with your saluation.
- 30 Take a good heart, O Ierusalem: for he which gaue thee that name, wil comfort thee.
- 31 They are miserable that afflict thee, and suche as reioyce at thy fall.
- 32 The cities are miserable whome thy children serue: miserable is she that hath taken thy sonnes.
- 33 For as she reioyced at thy decay, and was glad of thy fall, so shall she be sorie for her owne desolation.
- 34 For I wil take away the reioycing of her great multitude, and her ioye shall be turned into mourning.
- 35 For a fyre shall come vpon her from the Euerlasting, long to endure, & she shall be inhabited of deuils for a great season.
- 36 O Ierusalem, loke towards the East, and beholde the ioye that cometh vnto thee from thy God.
- 37 Lo, thy sonnes (whome thou hast let go) come gathered together from the East vnto the West, reioycing in the worde of the Holy one vnto the honour of God.

CHAP. V.

Ierusalem is moued vnto gladnes for the returne of her people, and vnder the figure thereof the Church.

- 1 PVt of thy mourning clothes, O Ierusalem and thine affliction, and decke thee with the worshippe and honour, that cometh vnto thee from God, for euermore.
- 2 Put on the garment of righteousness, that cometh from God, and set a crowne vpon thine head of the glorie of the Euerlasting.
- 3 For God wil declare thy brightness to euerie countrey vnder the heauen.
- 4 And God wil name thee by this name for euer, The Peace of righteousness, and the glorie of the worship of God.
- 5 Arise, O Ierusalem, & stand vpon hie, and loke about thee towards the East, and beholde thy children gathered from the East vnto the West by the worde of the Holie one, reioycing in the remembrance of God.

- 6 For they departed from thee on foote, and were led away of their enemies: but God wil bring thee againe vnto thee, exalted in glorie, as children of the kingdome.
- 7 For God hath determined to bring downe euerie high mountaine, and the long enduring rockes, and to fill the valleys, to make the grounde plaine, that Israel may walke safely vnto the honour of God.
- 8 The woods and all swete smelling trees shall ouershadowe Israel at the commandement of God.
- 9 For God shall bring Israel with ioye in the light of his maiestie, with the mercie and righteousness that cometh of him.

CHAP. VI.

A COPIE OF THE PISTLE, that Ieremias sent vnto them that were led away captiues into Babylon by the King of the Babylonians, to certifie the of the thing that was commanded him of God.

- 1 BEcause of the sinnes, that ye haue committed against God, ye shall be led away captiues vnto Babylon, by Nabuchodonosor, King of the Babylonians.
- 2 So when ye be come into Babylon, ye shall remaine there manie yeres, and a long season, euen seuen generacions, and after that wil I bring you away peaceably from thence.
- 3 Now shall ye see in Babylon gods of siluer, and of golde, and of wood, borne vpon mens shulders, to cause the people to feare.
- 4 *Beware therefore that ye in no wise be like the strangers, neither be ye afraid of them, when ye see the multitude before thee and behinde them worshipping them,
- 5 But say ye in your hearts, O Lord, we must worshippe thee.
- 6 For mine Angel shall be with you, & shall care for your soules.
- 7 As for their tongue, it is polished by the carpenter, and they them selues are gilded, and laied ouer with siluer: yet are they but lyes, and can not speake.
- 8 And as they take golde for a maide that loueth to be deckt,
- 9 So make they crownes for the heads of their gods: some times also the Priests them selues conuey away the golde, and siluer from their gods, and bestowe it vpon them selues.
- 10 Yea, they giue of the same vnto the harlots, that are in their houses: againe, they decke these gods of siluer, and gods of golde, and of wood with garments like men,
- 11 Yet can not they be preserued from rust and wormes,

*Isa 44. 18.
psal 115. 8.
wis. 13. 14.*

- 12 Thogh they haue couered the with clothing of purple, and wipe their faces because of the dust of the Temple, whereof there is much vpon them.
- 13 One holderh a scepter, as thogh he were a certeine iudge of the countrey: yet can he not slay suche as offende him.
- 14 Another hathe a dagger or an axe in his right hand: yet is he not able to defende him self from battel, nor from theues: so then it is euident, that they be no gods.
- 15 Therefore feare them not: for as a vessel that a man vseth, is nothing worthe when it is broken,
- 16 Suche are their gods: when they be set vp in their temples, their eyes be ful of dust by reason of the fete of those y come in:
- 17 And as the gates are shut in round about vpon him that hathe offended the King:
or as one that shulde be led to be put to death, so the Priests kepe their temples with doores, and with lockes, & with barres, lest their gods shulde be spoyled by robbers.
- 18 They light vp candels before them: yea, more the for them selues whereof they ca not se one: for they are but as one of the postes of the temple.
- 19 They confesse, that euen their hearts are gnawen vpon: but when the things, that crepe out of the earth, eat them and their clothes, they feele it not.
- 20 Their faces are blacke thorow the smoke that is in the temple.
- 21 The owles, swalowes and birdes flie vpo their bodies, and vpon their heads, yea, & the cates also.
- 22 By this ye may be sure, that they are not gods: therefore feare them not.
- 23 Notwithstanding the golde, that is about them to make them beautiful, except one wipe of the rust, they can not shine: nether when they were molten, did they fele it.
- 24 The things wherein is no breth, are bought for a molte high price.
- 25 *They are borne vpon mens sholders, because they haue no feete, whereby they declare vnto men, that they be nothing worthe: yea, & they that worship them, are ashamed.
- 26 For if they fall to the ground at anie time, they can not rise vp againe of them selues, nether if one set them vp right, can they moue of them selues, nether if they be bowed downe, can they make them selues straight: but they set giftes before them, as vnto dead men.
- 27 As for the things y are offred vnto them, their Priests sell them, and abuse them: likewise also the women lay vp of the same:
but vnto the poore and sicke they giue nothing.
- 28 The menstruous women, and they that are in childebed, touche their sacrifices:
- by these things ye may knowe that they are no gods: feare them not.
- 29 From whence cometh it then, that they are called gods: because the women bring giftes to the gods of siluer, and golde, and wood.
- 30 And the Priests sit in their temples, hauing their clothes rent, whose heades and beardes are shauen, & being bare headed,
- 31 Thei roare, & crye before their gods, as men do at the fast of one that is dead.
- 32 The Priests also take away of their garments, and clothe their wiues and childre.
- 33 Whether it be euil that one doth vnto the, or good, they are not able to recompense it: they can nether set vp a King nor put him downe.
- 34 In like maner they can nether giue riches, nor money: thogh a man make a vowe vnto them and kepe it not, they wil no require it.
- 35 They can saue no mā from death, nether deliuer the weake from the mightie.
- 36 They can not restore a blinde man to his sight, nor helpe anie man at his nede.
- 37 They can shewe no mercie to the wid-dowe, nor do good to the fatherles.
- 38 Their gods of wood, golde and siluer, are as stones, that be hewen out of the mountaine, and they that worship them, shal be confounded.
- 39 How shulde a man the thinke or say that they are gods?
- 40 Morcouer the Chaldeas them selues dishonor them: for when thei se a dome man, that can not speake, thei present him to Bel,
- 41 And desire that he wolde make him to speake, as thogh he had anie felig: yet thei that vnderstand these things, can not leaue them: for they also haue no sense.
- 42 Furthermore the women, girded with coards, sit in the stietes, and burne strawe. ^{Or, brauns.}
- 43 And if one of them be drawen away, and lie with anie suche as come by, she casteth her neighbour in the teeth, because she was not so worthely reputed, nor her coard broken.
- 44 Whatsoeuer is done amōg them, is lies:
how may it then be thought or said, that they are gods?
- 45 Carpenters and goldefsmithes make the,
nether be they anie other thing, but euen what the workeman wil make them.
- 46 Yea, they that make them, are of no lōg continuance: how shulde then the things that are made of them, be gods?
- 47 Therefore they leaue lies, and shame for their posteritie.
- 48 For when there cometh anie warre or plague vpo the, the Priests imagine with them selues, where they may hide the sel-ues with them.
- 49 How then can men not perceiue, that they

*Gr. countes.

Isa. 48. 7.

*Psal 115.3.
Wisd. 13.10.*

- they be no gods, which can nether defend them selues from warre, nor from plagues?
- 50 For* seing they be but of wood, and of siluer, and of golde, men shal knowe hereafter that they are but lies, and it shalbe manifest to all nacions & Kings, that they be no gods, but the workes of mens hands, and that there is no worke of God in the.
- 51 Whereby it maye be knowen, that they are no gods.
- 52 They can set vp no King in the lād, nor giue iaine vnto men.
- 53 They can giue no sentence of a matter, nether preferue from iniurie: they haue no power, but are as crows betwene the heauen and the earth.
- 54 When there falleth a fyre vpo the house of those gods of wood, and of siluer, & of golde, the Priests wile scape & saue the selues, but thei buine as y balkes therein.
- 55 Thei can not withstand anie King or enemies: how can it then be thought or said that they be gods?
- 56 Moreouer these gods of wood, of golde, and of siluer can nether defend them selues from theues nor robbers.
- 57 For they that are strongest, take awaye their golde and siluer, and apparel, wherewith they be clothed: and when they haue it, they get them awaye: yet can they not helpe them selues.
- 58 Therefore it is better to be a King, & so to shewe his power, or els a profitable vessel in an house, wherby he that oweth it, might haue profite, then suche false gods: or to be a dore in an house, to kepe suche things safe as be therein, then suche false gods: or a pillar of wood in a palace, then suche false gods.
- 59 For the sunne, and the moone, and the starres that shine, when thei are sent downe for necessaie vses, obey.
- 60 Likewise also the lightning when it shineth, it is euident: and the winde bloweth in euerie countrey.
- 61 And when God comandeth the cloudes to go about the whole worlde, they do as thei are bidden.
- 62 Whē the fyre is sent downe from aboue to destroye hilles and woods, it doeth that which is commanded: but these are not like anie of these things, nether in forme, nor power.
- 63 Wherefore men shulde not thinke, nor say that they be gods, seing thei can nether giue sentence in iudgement, nor do men good.
- 64 For so muche now as ye are sure, that they be no gods, feare them not.
- 65 For they can nether curse, nor blesse Kings:
- 66 Nether can thei shewe signes in the heauen among the heathē, nether shine as the moone.
- 67 The beastes are better thei: for thei can get them vnder a couert, and do them selues good.
- 68 So ye may be certified that by no maner of meanes, they are gods: therefore feare them not.
- 69 For as a skarcrowe in a garden of cucumbers kepeth nothing, so are their gods of wood, and of siluer, and of golde:
- 70 And likewise their gods of wood, and golde and siluer are like to a white thorne in an orcharde, that euerie birde sitteth vpon, and as a dead bodie that is cast in the darke.
- 71 By the purple also and brightnes, which fadeth vpon them, ye may vnderstād, that they be no gods: yea, they them selues shal be consumed at the last, and they shalbe a shame to the countrey.
- 72 Better therefore is the iuste man, that hath none idoles: for he shalbe farre fro reprofe.

THE SONG OF THE

thre holie children, which follōweth in the third chapter of Daniel after this place, Thei fell downe bound into the middes of the hote fyrie fornace.

CHAP. I.

25 The prayer of Azarias. 46 The crueltie of the King. 48 The flame deuoureth the Chaldeans. 49 The Angel of the Lord was in the furnace. 51 The thre children praise the Lord and prouoke all creatures to the same.

24 And they walked in the middes of the flame, praising God, & magnified the Lord.

25 Then Azarias stode vp, and praied on this maner, and opening his mouth in the middes of the fyre, said,

26 Blessed be thou, o Lord God of our fathers: thy Name is worthie to be praised and honored for euermore.

27 For thou art righteous in all the things, that thou hast done vnto vs, and all thy workes are true, and thy waies are right, & all thy iudgements certaine.

28 In all the things that thou hast broght vpon vs, & vpon Ierusalem, the holie citie of our fathers, thou hast executed true iudgements: for by right and equitie hast thou brought all these things vpon vs, because of our sinnes.

29 For we haue sinned and done wickedly, departing from thee: in all things haue we trespassed,

30 And not obeyed thy commandements, nor kept them, nether done as thou hadest commanded vs, that we might prosper.

31 Wherefore in all that thou hast brought vpon vs, & in euerie thing that thou hast done to vs, thou hast done them in true iudgement:

32 As in deliuering vs into the hands of our wicked enemies, & moste hateful traitors, and to an vnrighteous King, and the moste wicked in all the worlde.

33 And now we may not open our mouthes: we are become a shame and reprove vnto thy seruants, and to them that worshippe thee.

34 Yet for thy Names sake, we beseeche thee, giue vs not vp for euer, nether breake thy couenant,

35 Nether take away thy mercie from vs, for thy beloued Abrahams sake, and for thy seruant Isaaks sake, & for thine holy Israels sake, 36 To whome thou hast spoken and promised, that thou woldest multiplie their seede as the starres of heauen, and as the sand, that is vpon the seashore.

37 For we, O Lord, are become lesse then a nie nation, and be kept vnder this daye in all the worlde, because of our sinnes:

38 So that now we haue nether prince, nor Prophet, nor gouernour, nor burnt offing, nor sacrifice, nor oblation, nor incense, nor place to offer y^e first frutes before thee, that we might finde mercie.

39 Neuertheles in a contrite heart, and an humble spirit, let vs be receiued.

40 As in the burnt offering of rams and bullockes, & as in ten thousand of fat lambs, so let our offering be in thy sight this day, that it may please thee: for there is no confusion vnto the that put their trust in thee.

41 And now we followe thee with all our heart, and feare thee, and seeke thy face.

42 Put vs not to shame, but deale with vs after thy louing kindenes, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.

43 Deliuer vs also by thy miracles, & giue thy Name the glorie, O Lord,

44 That all they which do thy seruants euil, may be confounded: euen let them be confounded by thy great force and power, and let their strength be broken, 45 That they maye knowe, that thou one-ly art the Lord God, and glorious ouer the whole worlde.

46 ¶ Now the Kings seruants that had cast them in, ceased not to make the ouen hote with^a naphtha, and with pitche, and with towes, and with fagotes, 47 So that the flame went out of the furnace fortie and nine cubites.

48 And it brake forth, & burnt those Chaldeans, that it founde by the furnace.

49 But the Angel of the Lord went downe into the furnace with the that were with Azarias, and smote the flame of the fyre out of the furnace,

50 And made in the middes of the furnace like a moyste hissing winde, so that the fyre touched the not at all, nether grieved, nor troubled them.

51 Then these thre (as out of one mouth) praised, and glorified, and blessed God in the furnace, saying,

52 Blessed be thou, O Lord God of our fathers, and praised, and exalted aboute all things for euer, & blessed be thy glorious & holie Name, & praised aboute all things, and magnified for euer.

53 Blessed be thou in the Temple of thine holy glorie, and praised aboute all things, and exalted for euer.

54 Blessed be thou that beholdest y^e depths, & sittest vpon the Cherubims, & praised aboute all things, and exalted for euer.

55 Blessed be thou in the glorious Throne of thy kingdome, and praised aboute all things, and exalted for euer.

56 Blessed be thou in the firmament of heauen, and praised aboute all things, & glorified for euer.

57 All ye workes of the Lord, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboute all things for euer.

58 O^a heauens, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboute all things for euer. Psal. 148. 4.

59 O Angels of the Lord, blesse ye y^e Lord: praise him, & exalte him aboute all things for euer.

60 All ye waters that be aboute the heauen, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboute all things for euer.

61 All ye powers of the Lord, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboute all things for euer.

62 O sunne and moone, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, & exalte him aboute all things for euer.

63 O starres of heauē, blesse ye y^e Lord: praise him, & exalte him aboute all things for euer.

64 Euerie shower, & dewe, blesse ye y^e Lord: praise him, & exalte him aboute all things for euer.

65 All ye windes, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, and exalte him aboute all things for euer.

66 O fyre & heat, blesse ye the Lord: praise him, & exalte hī aboute all things for euer.

THE HISTORIE OF

Or, Susanna.

"Susanna, which some ioyneth to the end of Daniel, and make it the 13. chap.

- 8 The two gouerners are taken with the loue of Susanna.
19 They take her alone in the garden 20 They sollicit her to wickednes 23 She choseth rather to obey God, though it be to the danger of her life 34 She is accused 41 Daniel doeth deliuer her. 62 The gouerners are put to death.

- 1 HERE dwelt a mā in Babylon called Ioacim,
2 And he toke a wife, whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Helcias, a verie faire woman, and one that feared God.
3 Her father and her mother also were godlie people, & raught their daughter according to the Law of Moses.
4 Now Ioacim was a great riche man; and had a faire garden ioyning vnto his house, and to him resorted the Lewes, because he was more honorable then all others.

- 5 The same yere were appointed two of the anciēts of the people to be iudges, such as the Lord speaketh of, that the iniquitie came from Babylon, & frō the anciēt iudges, which seemed to rule y people.
6 These hanted Ioacims house, & all suche as had anie thing to do in the Law, came thither vnto them.
7 Now when the people departed away at noone, Susanna went into her housbands garden to walke.
8 And the two Elders sawe her that she wēt in dailie and walked, so that their lust was inflamed toward her.
9 Therefore thei turned away their a mīde, ^{a To wit, from God.} & cast downe their eyes, y thei shulde not se heauen, nor remēbre iuste iudgements.

Ttt.ii.

- 10 And albeit thei bothe were wouled with her loue, yet durst not one shewe another his grief.
- 11 For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to haue to dow her.
- 12 Yet they watched diligently from day to day to se her.
- 13 And the one said to the other, Let vs go now home, for it is diner time.
- 14 So they went their way, and departed, one from another: yet they returned againe, and came into the same place, and after that they had asked one another the cause, thei acknowledged their lust: the apointed they a time bothe together whe they might finde her alone.
- 15 Now when they had spied out a conuenient time, that she went in, as her maner was, with two maides onely, and thought to wash her self in the garden (for it was an hote season)
- 16 And there was no bodie there, saue the two Elders that had hid them selues, and watched for her:
- 17 She said to her maides, Bring me oyle & sope, and shut the gardē dores, that I may wash me.
- 18 And they did as she bade them, and shut the garden dores, and went out them selues at a backe dore, to fet the thing that she had commanded them: but they sawe not the Elders, because they were hid.
- 19 Now whe the maides were gone forth, the two Elders rose vp & ranne vnto her, saying,
- 20 Beholde, the garden dores are shut, that no man can se vs, & we burne in loue with thee: therefore consent vnto vs, and lye with vs.
- 21 If thou wilt not, we wil beare witnes against thee, that a yong mā was with thee, and therefore thou didest send away thy maides from thee.
- 22 Then Sufanna fighed, and said, I am in trouble on euerie side: for if I do this thig, it is death vnto me: & if I do it not, I can not escape your hands.
- 23 It is better for me to fall into your hāds, and not do it, then to sinne in the sight of the Lord.
- 24 With that Sufanna cryed with a loude voyce, and the two Elders cryed out against her.
- 25 Then ranne the one, and opened the garden dore.
- 26 ¶ So whe the seruants of the house heard the crye in the garden, they rushed in at the backe dore, to se what was done vnto her.
- 27 But when the Elders had declared their matter, the seruants were greatly ashamed: for there was neuer suche a reporte made of Sufanna.
- 28 On the morow after, came the people to Ioachim her housband, & the two Elders came also, ful of mischicuous imaginaciō against Sufanna, to put her to death,
- 29 And said before the people, Send for Sufanna the daughter of Helcias Ioachims wife. And immediatly they sent.
- 30 So she came with her father & mother, her children and all her kinred.
- 31 Now Sufanna was very tender, and faire of face.
- 32 And these wicked mé cōmanded to vncover her face (for she was couered) that thei might so be satisfied with her beautie.
- 33 Therefore they that were about her, and all they that knewe her, wept.
- 34 The two Elders stode vp in the middes of the people, and layed their hands vpon her head,
- 35 Which wept and loked vp towarde heauen: for her heart trusted in the Lord.
- 36 And the Elders said, As we walked in the garden alone, she came in with two maides, whome she sent away from her, and shut the garden dores.
- 37 Then a yong man, which there was hid, came vnto her, and lay with her.
- 38 Then we which stode in a corner of the gardē, seing this wickednes, rāne vnto the, and we sawe them as they were together,
- 39 But we colde not holde him: for he was stronger then we, and opened the dore, and leaped out.
- 40 Now when we had taken this woman, we asked her what yong man this was, but she wolde not tel vs: of these things are we witnesses.
- 41 Then the assemblie beleued them, as those that were the Elders and iudges of the people: so thei condēned her to death.
- 42 Then Sufanna cryed out with a loude voyce, and said, O euerlasting God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things afore they come to passe,
- 43 Thou knowest, that they haue borne false witnes against me, and beholde, I must dye, where as I neuer did suche thigs as these men haue maliciously inuented against me.
- 44 And the Lord heard her voyce.
- 45 ¶ Therefore when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised vp y holie spirit of a yong childe, whose name was Daniel.
- 46 Who cryed with a loude voyce, I am cleane from the blood of this woman.
- 47 The all the people turned them toward him, and said, What meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken?
- 48 The Daniel stode in the middes of the, and said, Are ye suche fooles, o Israelites, that without examination, or knowledge of the trueth, ye haue condemned a daughter of Israel?
- 49 Returne againe to iudgement: for they haue haue borne false witness against her.

50 Wherefore the people turned againe in all haste, & the Elders said vnto him, Come, sit downe among vs, & shew it vs, seeing God hath giuen thee the office of an Elder.

51 Then said Daniel vnto them, Put these two aside, one farre from another, and I will examine them.

52 So when they were put a sonder, one from another, he called one of them & said vnto him, O thou that art olde in a wicked life, now thy sinnes which thou hast committed afore time, are come to light.

53 For thou hast pronounced false iudgements, and hast condemned the innocent, and hast let the guiltie go free, albeit the Lord saith, * The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay.

Exod. 22, 7.

54 Now then, if thou hast sene her, tel me, vnder what tree sawest thou them companying together? Who answered, Vnder a lentiſke tree.

Or, life.

55 The said Daniel, Verely thou hast lyed against thine owne head: for lo, the Angel of God hath receiued the sentence of God, to cut thee in two.

56 So put he him aside, & commanded to bring the other, & said vnto him, O thou sede of Chanaan, and not of Iuda, beautilie hath disceiued thee, and lust hath subuerted thine heart.

57 Thus haue ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for feare companied with you: but the daughter of Iuda wolde not abide your wickednes.

58 Now therefore tel me vnder what tree didst thou take them companying together? Who answered, Vnder a prime tree.

 Or, mirrle tree.*

59 Then said Daniel vnto him, Verely thou hast also lyed against thine head: for the Angel of God waiteth with the sword to cut thee in two, & so to destroye you bothe.

60 ¶ With that all the whole assemblie cryed with a loude voyce, and praised God, which saueſh them that trust in him.

61 And they arose against the two Elders, (for Daniel had conuict them of false witness by their owne mouth)

62 * And according to the Law of Moyses Deu 19, 19, 19, 19 they delt with them, as they delt wickedly against their neighbour, and put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was saued the same day.

63 Therefore Helcias, and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, with Iocim her housband, and all the kindred, that there was no dishonestie founde in her.

64 From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputacion in the sight of the people.

65 And King Astyages was laide with his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia reigned in his steade.

THE HISTORIE OF Bel and of the dragon, which is the fourteenth chapter of Daniel after the Laten.

Now when King Astyages was laide with his fathers, Cyrus the Persian receiued his kingdom. And Daniel did eat at the Kings table, & was honored aboue all his friends.

3 Now the Babylonians had an idole, called Bel, and there were spent vpon him euerie day, twelue great measures of fine floure, and fortie shepe, and six great botes of wine.

4 And the King worshipped it, and went daily to honour it: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the King said vnto him, Why doest not thou worship Bel? Who answered, and said, Because I may not worship idoles made with hands, but the liuing God, which hath created the heauen & the earth, and hath power vpo all flesh.

6 Then said the King vnto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a liuing God? seeſt thou not how much he eateth and drinketh euerie day?

7 Then Daniel smiled and said, O King, be not deceiued: for this is but claye within, and brasse without, and did neuer eat any thing.

8 So the King was wroth, and called for his Priests, and said vnto them, If ye tell me not, who this is that eateth vp these expenses, ye shal dye:

9 But if ye can certifie me that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shal dye: for he hath spokē blasphemie against Bel. And Daniel said vnto the King, Let it be according to thy worde.

10 (Now the Priests of Bel were thre score and ten beside their wiues and childre:) and the King went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

11 So Bels Priests said, Beholde, we wil go out, and set thou the meat there, O King, & let the wine be filled: then shut the dore

- fast, and seale it with thine owne signet.
- 12 And to morowe when thou comest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten vp all, we wil suffer death, or els Daniel that hath lied vpon vs.
- 13 Now thei thought the selues sure ynough: for vnder the table thei had made a priue entrance, and there went they in cuer, and toke away the things.
- 14 So whē they were gone forth, the King set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his seruants to bring ashes, and these they strowed thorowout all the temple, in the presence of the King alone: then went they out, and shut the dore, & sealed it with the Kings signet, and so departed.
- 15 Now in the night came the Priests, with their wiues and children, (as they were wont to do) and did eat and drinke vp all.
- 16 In the morning betimes, the King arose and Daniel with him.
- 17 And the King said, Daniel, are the scales whole? Who answered, Yea, o King, thei be whole.
- 18 And assone as he had opened the dore, the King looked vpon the table, and cryed with a loude voyce, Great art thou, o Bel, and with thee is no disceite.
- 19 Then laughed Daniel, and helde the King that he shulde not go in, & said, Beholde now the pauement, and make wel whose footesteppes are these.
- 20 And the King said, I se the footesteppes of men, women, and children: therefore the King was angrie,
- 21 And toke the Priests, with their wiues, and children, and they shewed him the priue dores, where they came in, and consumed suche things as were vpon the table.
- 22 Therefore the King slew them, and deliuered Bel into Daniels power, who destroyed him and his temple.
- 23 ¶ Moreouer in that same place there was a great dragon, which the Babylonians worshipped.
- 24 And the King said vnto Daniel, Sayest thou, that this is of brasse also? lo, he liueth and eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say, that he is no liuing god: therefore worshipping him.
- 25 Then said Daniel vnto the King, I wil worshippinge the Lord my God: for he is the liuing God.
- 26 But giue me leaue, o King, and I wil slay this dragon without sworde or staffe. And the King said, I giue thee leaue.
- 27 Then Daniel toke pitche, and fatte, & heere, and did seeth them together, & made lompes thereof; this he put in the dragons mouthe, and so the dragon burst in sunder. And Daniel said, Beholde, whome ye worshippinge.
- 28 When the Babylonians heard it, they were wonderful wroth, and gathered them together against the King, saying, The King is become a Iewe: for he hath destroyed Bel, and hath slaine the dragon, and put the Priests to death.
- 29 So they came to the King, and said, Deliuer vs Daniel, or els we wil destroy thee and thine house.
- 30 Now whē the King sawe, that thei pressed sore vpon him, and that necessitie constrained him, he deliuered Daniel vnto them:
- 31 Who cast him into the lions denne, where he was six daies.
- 32 In the denne there were seuen lions, and they had giuen them euerie day two bodies and two shepe, which then were not giuen them, to the intent that they might deuour Daniel.
- 33 ¶ Now there was in Iewrie a Prophet called Abbacuc, which had made potage, and broken bread into a bowle, and was going into the field for to bring it to the reapers.
- 34 But y Angel of the Lord said vnto Abbacuc, Go, carye the meat y thou hast, into Babylon vnto Daniel, which is in the lions denne.
- 35 And Abbacuc said, Lord, I neuer sawe Babylon, nether do I knowe where the denne is.
- 36 Then the Angel toke him by the crowne of the head, and bare him by the heere of the head, and through a mightie winde set him in Babylon vpon the denne.
- 37 And Abbacuc cryed, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner that God hath sent thee.
- 38 Then said Daniel, O God, thou hast thought vpon me, and thou neuer failest the that seke thee and loue thee.
- 39 So Daniel arose, and did eat, and the Angel of the Lord set Abbacuc in his owne place againe immediatly.
- 40 Vpon the seuenth day, the King went to bewaile Daniel: and when he came to the denne, he looked in, and beholde, Daniel sat in the middes of the lions.
- 41 Then cryed the King with a loude voyce, saying, Great art thou, o Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other besides thee.
- 42 And he drew him out of the denne, and cast the that were the cause of his destruction into the denne, & they were deuoured in a momente before his face.

THE FIRST BOKE OF

the Maccabees.

CHAP. I.

The death of Alexander the King of Macedonia. 11 Antiochus taketh the kyngdome. 12 Many of the children of Israel make couenant with the Gentiles. 21 Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Ierusalem vnto his dominion. 30 Antiochus setteth vp idoles.

After that Alexander the Macedonian, y^e sonne of Philippe, went forthe of the land of Chettiim, & slewe Darius King of the Persiās and Medes, and reigned for him, as he had before in Grecia,

2 He toke great warres in hand, and wan strong holdes, and slewe the Kings of the earth.

3 So went he thorow to y^e ends of the worlde, and toke spoiles of many nations, in so muche that y^e worlde stode in awe of him: therefore his heart was puffed vp and was hawtie.

4 Now when he had gathered a mightie strong hoste,

5 And had reigned ouer regions, nations and kingdomes, they became tributaries vnto him.

6 After these things he fel sicke, and knewe that he shulde dye.

7 Then he called for the chief of his seruātes, which had bene broght vp with him of children, and parted his kingdome among them, while he was yet aliue.

8 So Alexander had reigned twelue yeres when he dyed.

9 And his seruants reigned euerie one in his roume.

10 And they all caused the selues to be crowned after his death, and so did their children after the many yeres, and muche wickednes increased in the worlde.

11 For out of these came the wicked roote, even Antiochus Epiphanes the sonne of King Antiochus, which had bene an hostage at Rome, and he reigned in the hundredth and thirtieth yere of the kingdome of the Grekes.

12 In those daies wēt there out of Israel wicked men, which entyced many, saying, Let vs go, and make a couenant with the heathen, that are rounde about vs: for since we departed frō them, we haue had muche sorowe.

13 So this deuice pleased them wel.

14 And certeine of the people were readie, & went to y^e King which gaue the licence to do after the ordinances of the heathen.

15 The he set thei vp a place of exercise at Ierusalē, according to the faciōs of y^e heathē,

16 And made them a selues vncircūcised, & forsoke the holy couenant, & ioyned them selues to the heathen, and were solde to do mischief.

17 So whē Antiochus kingdome was set in order, he wēt about to reigne ouer Egypt, that he might haue the dominion of two realmes.

18 Therefore he entred into Egypt with a mightie cōpanie, with charrets, & elephants, & with horsemē, & with a great nauie, 19 And moued warre against Ptolemeus King of Egypt: but Ptolemeus was afraid of him, and fled, and manie were wounded to death.

20 Thus Antiochus wanne many strong cities in the land of Egypt, and toke away the spoiles of the land of Egypt.

21 And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, he turned againe in the hundredth, fortie and thre yere, 22 And went vp towarde Israel and Ierusalē with a mightie people.

23 And entred proudly into the Sanctuarie, and toke away the golden altar, and the candlestick for the light, & all the instruments thereof, & the table of y^e shewbread, and the powring vessels, and the bowles, & the golden basins, and the vaile, and the crownes, & the golden apparel, which was before the Temple, and brake all in pieces.

24 He toke also the siluer and golde, & the precious iewels, & he toke the secret treasures that he founde, & when he had taken away all, he departed into his owne land, 25 After he had murdered many men, and spoken verie proudly.

26 Therefore there was a great lamētacion in euerie place of Israel.

27 For the princes & the Elders mourned: the yong women, and the yong men were made feble, & the beautie of the women was changed.

28 Euerie bridegrome toke him to mourning, and she that sate in the marriage chamber, was in heauines.

29 The land also was moued for the inhabitants thereof: for all the house of Iacob was couered with confusion.

30 After two yeres the King sent his chief taxe master into y^e citie of Iuda, which came to Ierusalem with a great multitude.

31 Who spake peaceable wordes vnto them in disceite, & they gaue credit vnto him.

32 Then he fell suddenly vpon the citie, & smote it with a great plague, & destroyed muche people of Israel.

a By drawing y^e skinne ouer the parte that was circūcised, as Cels. 7. chap. 25. Epiph. lib. de pōderib. & mem-sur.

Or, noble.

*Ioseph Antiq
12, chap. 6.*

33 And when he had spoiled the citie, he set fyre on it, casting downe the houses thereof, and walles thereof on euerie side.

34 The womē and their children toke they captiue, and led away the cattel.

35 Then fortified they the citie of Dauid with a great & thicke wall, & with mightie towres, and made it a strong holde for them.

36 Moreouer they set wicked people there, and vngodlie persones, and fortified them selues therein.

37 And they stored it with weapons and vitayles, and gathered the spoile of Ierusalē, and laied it vp there.

38 Thus became they a sore snare & were in ambushment for y^e Sanctuarie, and were wicked enemies euermore vnto Israel.

39 For thei shed innocēt blood on euerie side of the Sanctuarie & defiled the Sāctuarie, 40 In so much that the citizens of Ierusalem fled away because of them, and it became an habitation of strāgers, being desolate of them whome she had borne: for her owne children did leaue her.

41 Her Sāctuarie was left waste as a wilderness: her holie daies were turned into mourning, her Sabbaths into reproche, and her honour brought to naught.

42 As her glorie had bene great, so was her dishonour, and her excellencie was turned into sorowe.

Ioseph. Anti. 12. cha. 6. & 7

43 Also the King wrote vnto all his kingdomes, that all the people shulde be as one, and that euerie mā shulde leaue his lawes.

44 And all the heathen agreed to the commandement of the King.

45 Yea, many of the Israelites consented to his religion, offering vnto idoles, & defiling the Sabbath.

46 So the King sent letters by the messengers vnto Ierusalem, and to the cities of Iuda, that they shulde followe the strange lawes of the countrey,

For, ariue of bring.

47 And that they shulde forbid the burnt offrings and sacrifices, and the offrings in the Sanctuarie,

48 And that they shulde defile the Sabbaths and the feasts,

49 And pollute the Sanctuarie and the holie men,

50 And to set vp altars, & groues, & chapels of idoles, & offer vp swines flesh, and vncleane beasts,

51 And that they shulde leaue their childre vncircumcised, & defile their soules with vncleannes, and pollute them selues, that they might forget the Law, & change all the ordinances, 52 And that whosoever wolde not do according to the commandement of the King, shulde suffer death.

53 In like maner wrote he thorow out all his kingdomes, and set ouerseers ouer all the people, for to compell them to do these things.

54 And he commanded the cities of Iuda to do sacrifice, citie by citie.

55 Then went many of the people vnto thē by heapes, euerie one that forsake y^e Law, and so they committed euil in the land.

56 And they droue the Israelites into secret places, euen whereofocuer they colde flee for succour.

57 The fiftenth day of Casleu, in the hundredth and fife and fortieth yere, they set vp the abomination of desolacion vpon the altar, & thei buylded altars thorow out the cities of Iuda on euerie side.

58 And before the dores of the houses, and in the stretes they burnt incense.

59 And the bokes of the Law, which they founde, they burnt in the fyre, and cutte in pieces.

60 Whosoever had a boke of the Testament founde by him, or whosoever consented vnto the Law, the Kings commandement was, that they shulde put him to death by their autoritie, 61 And they executed these things euerie moneth vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cities.

62 And in the fife and twentieth day of the moneth, they did sacrifice vpon the altar, which was in the stead of the altar of sacrifices.

63 And according to the commandement, they put certeine woman to death, which had caused their children to be circumcised, 64 And they hāged vp the children at their neckes, and they spoiled their houses, and slewe the circumcisers of them.

65 Yet were there many in Israel, which were of courage, and determined in them selues, that they wolde not eat vncleane things, 66 But chose rather to suffer death, then to be defiled with those meats: so because thei wolde not breake the holie couenant, they were put to death.

67 And this tyrannie was verie sore vpon the people of Israel.

CHAP. II.

1 The mourning of Mattathias and his sonnes for the destruction of the holy citie. 19 They refuse to do sacrifice vnto idoles. 24 The zeale of Mattathias for the Law of God. 33 They are slaine and wil not fight againe because of the Sabbath day. 49 Mattathias dying commandeth his sonnes to sticke by the worde of God, after the example of the fathers.

IN those dayes stode vp Mattathias the Priest, the sonne of Ioannes, the sonne of Simeon, of the sonnes of Ioarib of Ierusalem, and dwelt in Modan.

2 And he had fife sonnes, Ioanan called Gaddis,

3 Simon

- 3 Simon called Thassi,
4 Iudas which was called Maccabeus, 5 Eleazar called Abaron, & Ionathā, whose name was Apphus.
6 Now he sawe the blasphemies, which were committed in Iuda and Ierusalem:
7 And he said, Wo is me: wherefore was I borne, to se this destruction of my people, and the destruction of the holy citie, and thus to sit still: it is deliuered into the hands of the enemies, 8 And the Sanctuarie is in the hands of strangers: her Temple is, as a man that hathe no renoume.
9 Her glorious vessels are caryed away into captiuitie: her infants are slayne in the stretes, and her yong men are fallen by the sworde of the enemies.
10 What people is it, that hathe not some possession in her kingdome, or hathe not gotten of her spoyle?
11 All her glorie is taken away: of a fre woman, she is become an handmaid.
12 Beholde, our Sanctuarie & our beautie, and honor is desolate, and the Gentiles
haue defiled it.
13 What helpeth it vs then to liue anie longer?
14 And Mattathias rent his clothes, he, and his sonnes, and put sackecloth vpon them, and mourned verie fore.
15 ¶ Then came men from the King to the citie of Modin to compell them to forsake
God, and to sacrifice.
16 So manie of the Israelites consented vnto them: but Mattathias and his sonnes assembled together.
17 Then spake the commissioners of the King, and said vnto Mattathias, Thou art the chief and an honorable man, & great in this citie, and hast many children and brethren.
18 Come thou therefore first, and fulfil the Kings commandement, as all the heathen haue done, and also the men of Iuda, and suche as remaine at Ierusalem: so shalt thou and thy familie be in the Kings fauour & thou and thy children shalbe enriched with siluer & golde, & wth manie rewards.
19 Then Mattathias answered & said with a loude voyce, Though all nacions that are vnder the Kings dominion, obey him, and fall away euerie man from the religion of their fathers, and consent to his commandements,
20 Yet wil I and my sonnes, and my brethren, walke in y^e couenant of our fathers.
21 God be merciful vnto vs, that we forsake not the Law and the ordinances.
22 We wil not hearken vnto the Kings wordes to transgresse our religion, nether on the right side, nor on the left.
23 And when he had left of speaking these wordes, there came one of the Iewes, in the sight of all to sacrifice vpon the altar which was at Modin, according to the Kings commandement.
24 Now when Mattathias sawe it, he was so inflamed with zeale, that his raines shoke, and his wrath was kindled according to the ordinance of the Law: therefore he ran vnto him, and killed him by the altar:
25 And at the same time he slewe y^e Kings commissioner, that compelled him to do sacrifice, and destroyed the altar.
26 Thus bare he a zeale to y^e Law of God,
* doing, as Phinees did vnto Zambri the sonne of Salom.
27 ¶ Then cryed Mattathias with a loude voyce in the citie, saying, Whosoever is zealous of the Law, and wil stand by the couenant, let him come forth after me.
28 So he, and his sonnes fled into the moun-taines, & left all that thei had in the citie.
29 Then manie that sought after iustice &
iudgement,
30 Went downe into y^e wildernes to dwell there, bothe they, and their children, and their wiues, and their cattel: for the afflictions increased sore vpon them.
31 ¶ Now whē it was tolde vnto the Kings seruants, and to the garisons, which were in Ierusalem in the citie of Dauid, that men had broken the Kings commandement, & were gone downe into the secret places in the wildernes, 32 Then many pursued after them: and bauing ouertaken them, thei camped against them, and set the battel in array against them on the Sabbath day, 33 And said vnto them, Let this now be suf-ficiēt: come forth & do according to the commandement of the King, and ye shal
liue.
34 But they answered, We wil not go for-the, nether wil we do the Kings commandement, to defile the Sabbath day.
35 Then they gaue them the battel.
36 But the other answered them nothing, nether cast anie one stone at the, nor stopped the priue places, 37 But said, We wil dye all in our innocencie: the heauen and earth shal testifie for vs, that ye destroy vs wrongfully.
38 Thus thei gaue them the battel vpon the Sabbath, and slewe bothe men and cattel, their wiues and their children to the number of a thousand people.
39 ¶ When Mattathias & his friends vnder-stode this, thei mourned for them greatly, 40 And said one to another, If we all do as our brethren haue done, and fight not against the heathen for our liues, & for our Lawes, then shal thei incōtinently destroy vs out of the earth.
41 Therefore they concluded at the same time, say ſig, Whoſoeuer ſhal come to make battel with vs. vpon the Sabbath daye, we wil fight againſt him, that we dye not all, as our brethren that were murdered in the ſecret places.

42 Then came vnto them the aſſemblic of the Aſideans, which were of the ſtrongest men of Iſrael, all ſuche as were wel minded toward the Law.

43 And all they that were fled for perfecucion, ioyned them ſelues vnto them, and were an helpe vnto them.

44 So they gathered a power, and ſmote the wicked men in their wrath, & the vngodlie in their angre: but the reſt fled vnto the hearthen, and eſcaped.

45 Then Mattathias and his friends went about, and deſtroyed the altars,

46 And circumciſed the children by force that were vncircumciſed, as manie as they founde within the coaſts of Iſrael, 47 And they purſued after the proude mẽ: and this acte prospered in their hands.

48 So they recouered the Law out of the hand of the Gentiles, & out of the hand of Kings, and gaue not place to y wicked.

49 Now when the time drewe nere, that Mattathias ſhulde dye, he ſaid vnto his ſonnes, Now is pride and perfecucion increased, and the time of deſtruction, and the wrath of indignacion.

50 Now therefore, my ſonnes, be ye zealous of the Law, & giue your liues for the couenant of our fathers.

51 Call to remembrance what actes our fathers did in their time: ſo ſhal ye receiue great honour and an euerlaſting name.

Gen. 22. 9.

52 * Was not Abraham founde faithful in tentacion, and it was imputed vnto him for rightcouſneſe?

53 * Ioseph in the time of his trouble kept the commandement, & was made the lord of Egypt.

60 * Daniel, becauſe of his innocencie, was deliuered from the mouth of the lions.

61 And thus ye may conſider thorowe out all ages, that whoſoeuer put their truſt in him, ſhal not want ſtrength.

62 Feare not ye then the wordes of a ſinful mã: for his glorie is but dongue and wormes.

63 To day is he ſet vp, & to morowe he ſhal not be founde: for he is turned into his duſt, and his purpoſe periſheth.

64 Wherefore, my ſonnes, take good hearts, and ſhewe your ſelues men for the Law: for by it ſhal you obtaine glorie.

65 And beholde, I knowe that your brother Simon is a man of counſel: giue eare vnto him alway: he ſhal be a father vnto you.

66 And Iudas Maccabeus hath bene mightie and ſtrong, euen from his youth vp: let him be your captaine and fight you the battel for the people.

67 Thus ſhal ye bring vnto you all thoſe that obſerue the Law, & ſhal aduenge the iniuries of your people.

68 Recompence fully the heathen, and giue your ſelues to the commandement of the Law.

69 So he bleſſed them, and was laied with his fathers,

70 And dyed in the hundreth, fortie & ſix yere, and his ſonnes buryed him in his fathers ſepulchre at Modin, & all Iſrael made great lamentacion for him.

CHAP. III.

1 Iudas is made ruler ouer the Iewes. 11 He killeth Apollonius & Seron the princes of Syria. 44 The confidence of Iudas towards God. 55 Iudas determineth to fight againſt Lyſias, whom Antiochus had made captaine ouer his hoſte.

1 Then Iudas his ſonne, called Maccabeus, roſe vp in his place.

2 And all his brethren helped him, and all they that helde with his father, and fought with courage the battel of Iſrael.

3 So he gave his people great honour: he put on a breſtplate as a gyant, and armed him ſelf, and ſet the battel in array, and defended the ſampe with the ſworde.

4 In his actes he was like a lyon, and as a lyons whelp roaring after the pray.

5 For he purſued the wicked, & fought them out, & burnt vp thoſe that vexed his people,

6 So that the wicked fled for feare of him, and all the workers of iniquitie were put to trouble: and ſaluacion prospered in his hand.

7 And he grieved diuers Kings, but Iacob reioyced by his actes, and his memorial is bleſſed for euer.

8 He went alſo thorowe the cities of Iudæ, and deſtroyed the wicked out of them, and turned away the wrath from Iſrael.

9 So was he renowned vnto the ends of the earth, and he aſſembled together thoſe that were readie to periſh.

10 ¶ But Apollonius gathered the Gentiles, and a great hoſte out of Samaria, to fight againſt Iſrael.

a Who was gouernour of Syria. Ioseph Antiq. 12. chap. 9.

11 Which

- 11 Which when Iudas perceiued, he went forth to mete him, and smote him, & slue him, so that many fel downe slaine, & the rest fled.
- 12 So Iudas toke their spoiles, and toke also Apollonius sworde, and fought with it all his life long.
- 13 ¶ Now whē Seron a prince of y^e armie of Syria, heard that Iudas had gathered vnto him the congregacion, and Church of the faithfull, and went forth to the warre,
- 14 He said, I wil get me a name, and wil be glorious in the realme: for I wil go fight with Iudas, & thē that are with him, which haue despised the Kings commandement.
- 15 So he made him readie to go vp, and ther went with him a mightie hoste of the vngodlie to helpe him, & to be aduenged of the children of Israel.
- 16 And when he came nere to the going vp of Bethhoron, Iudas went forth to mete him with a smale companie.
- 17 But when they sawe the armie coming against them, they said to Iudas, How are we able, being so fewe, to fight against so great a multitude, & so strong, seing we be so wearie, and haue fasted all this day?
- 18 Then said Iudas, It is an easie thing for many to be shut vp in the hands of fewe, and there is no difference before the God of heauen, to deliuer by a great multitude, or by a smale companie.
- 19 For the victorie of the battel stādeth not in the multitude of y^e hoste, but the strēgth cometh from heauen.
- 20 They come against vs with a cruel and proude multitude, to destroy vs, and our wiues, and our children, and to robbe vs.
- 21 But we do fight for our liues, and for our Lawes,
- 22 And God him self wil destroye thē before our face: therefore be not ye afraied of them.
- 23 And whē he had left off speaking, he leapt suddenly vpon them: so was Seron and his hoste destroyed before him.
- 24 And they pursued them from the going downe of Bethhoron vnto the plaine: where there were slaine eight hundred men of them, and the residue fled into the land of the Philistims.
- 25 Then the feare & terroure of Iudas & his brethre fel vpon the naciōs rounde about,
- 26 So that his fame came vnto the King: for all the Gentiles colde tell of the warres of Iudas.
- 27 ¶ But when King Antiochus heard these tidings, he was angrie in his minde: wherefore he sent forth, & gathered all y^e power of his realme a very strong armie,
- 28 And opened his treasure, and gaue his hoste a yeres wages in hand, commanding thē to be readie for a yere for all occasiōs.
- 29 Neuertheles, when he sawe that the money of his treasures failed, & that the tributes in the countrey were smale, because of the diffencion, & plagues y^e he had broght vpon the land, in taking away the lawes which had bene of olde time,
- 30 He feared lest he shulde not haue now at the seconde time, as at the first, for the charges & giftes that he had giuē with a liberal hand afore: for in liberalitie he farre passed the other Kings y^e were before him.
- 31 Wherefore he was heauie in his minde, and thought to go into Persia, for to take tributes of the countreis, and to gather muche money.
- 32 So he left Lyfias a noble man and of the Kings blood to ouerse the Kings busines, from the riuer of Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypt,
- 33 And to bring vp his sonne Antiochus, til he came againe.
- 34 Moreouer, he gaue him halfe of his hoste and elephantes, & gaue him the charge of all things that he wolde haue done,
- 35 And concerning those which dwelt in Iuda and Ierusalem, that he shulde send an armie against them, to destroy and roote out the power of Israel & the remnant of Ierusalem, and to put out their memoriall from that place,
- 36 And to set strangers for to inhabite all their quarters, & parte their lād amōg thē.
- 37 And the King toke the halfe of the hoste that remained, & departed from Antiochia his royal citie, in the yere an hūdreth fortie and seuen, and passed the riuer Euphrates, & went thorow the hie countreis.
- 38 Then Lyfias chose Ptolemeus the sonne of Doriminus, & Nicanor, and Gorgias, mightie men, and the Kings friends,
- 39 And sent with them fortie thousand fore men, & seuen thousand horsemen, to go into the land of Iuda, & to destroye it, as the King commanded.
- 40 So they wēt forth with all their power and came and pitched by ¶ Emmaus in the plaine countrey.
- 41 Now when the marchants of the countrey heard the rumour of them, they toke very muche siluer & golde, & seruants, & came into the campe to bye the childre of Israel for slaues, & the strength of Syria & of strange naciōs ioyned with them.
- 42 ¶ Now when Iudas & his brethren sawe that trouble increased, and that the hoste drewe nere vnto their borders, cōsidering the Kings wordes, whereby he had commanded to destroy the people, and vtterly abolishe them,
- 43 They said one to another, Let vs redresse the decay of our people, and let vs fight for our people, and for our Sanctuarie.
- 44 Then the cōgregaciō were sone readie gathered to fight, and to praye, and to desire mercie and compassion.

45 As for Ierusalem, it was not inhabited, but was as a wilderness. There went none that was borne in it, in or out at it, and the Sanctuarie was troden downe, and the strangers kept the fortresse, and it was the habitation of the heathen: & the mirth of Iacob was taken away: the pipe and the harpe ceased.

46 So they gathered themselves together, and came to Maspha before Ierusalem: for in Maspha was y place where they praied afore time in Israel.

47 And they fasted that day, and put sackcloth vpon them, and cast ashes vpon their heads, and rent their clothes,

48 And opened the booke of the Law, wherein the heathē sought to paint the likenes of their idoles, 49 And brought the Priests garments, and the first frutes, and the tithes, and set there the Nazarites, which accomplished their daies.

50 And they cryed with a loude voyce, towards heauen, saying, What shal we do with these? and whether shal we carye them away?

51 For thy Sanctuarie is troden downe and defiled, and thy Priests are in heauines, & brought downe.

52 And beholde, the heathē are come against vs to destroye vs: thou knowest what things they imagine against vs.

53 How can we stand before them, except thou helpe vs?

54 Then they blew the trumpets, & cryed with a loude voyce.

55 And after this Iudas ordeined captaines ouer the people, euen captaines ouer thousands, and captaines ouer hundredes, and captaines ouer fifties, and captaines ouer ten.

56 And they commanded them that buylded houses, or married wiues, or planted vineyardes, or were fearful, that they shulde returne euery one to his owne house, according* to the Law.

*Deut. 20. 5.
Jud. 7. 8.*

57 So the hoste remoued, and pitched vpon the Southside of Emmaus.

58 And Iudas said, Arme your selues, and be valiant men, & be readie against the morning to fight with these naciōs, which are gathered together against vs, to destroye vs and our Sanctuarie.

59 For it is better for vs to dye in battel, then to see the calamities of our people & of our Sanctuarie.

60 Neuertheles as the wil of God is in heauen, so be it.

CHAP. IIII.

Iudas goeth against Gorgias which lieth in wait. 14 He putteth Gorgias and his hoste to flight 28 Lyfias innueth Iudea, 29 But Iudas driueth him out. 43 Iudas purifieth the Temple and dedicateth the altar.

1 THen toke Gorgias fife thousand fole Joseph lib. 12. chap. 10. men, and a thousand of the best horsemen, and departed out of the campe by night,

2 To inuade the campe of the Iewes, and to slay the suddenly: and the men of the fortresse were his guides.

3 Now when Iudas heard it, he remoued, & they that were valiant men to smite the Kings armie which was at Emmaus,

4 Whiles yet the armie was dispersed fro the campe.

5 In the meane season came Gorgias by night into Iudas campe: & when he founde no man there, he sought the in the mountaines: for said he, They flee from vs.

6 But as sone as it was day, Iudas shewed him self in the field with thre thousand mē, which had nether harnes nor swordes to their mindes.

7 And they sawe that the armies of the heathen were strong, and wel armed, and their horsemen about them, and that these were experie men of warre.

8 Then said Iudas to the mē that were with him, Feare ye not their multitude, nether be afraied of their assault.

9 Remember, how our fathers were deliuered* in the red Sea, when Pharaο pursued them with an armie. Exod. 14. 9.

10 Therefore now let vs crye vnto heauen, and the Lord wil haue mercie vpon vs, & remember the couenant of our fathers, & wil destroye this hoste before our face this day:

11 So shal all the heathen knowe, that there is one, which deliuereth and saueth Israel.

12 Then the strangers lift vp their eyes, & sawe them coming against them,

13 And they went out of their rétes into the battel, and they that were with Iudas, blew the trumpets.

14 So they ioyned together, and the heathē were discomfited and fled by the plaine.

15 But the hinmoste of the fel by the sword, and they pursued them vnto " Gazerō, 10r. Afframb. and into the plaines of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Iamnia, so that there were slaine of them about thre thousand men.

16 So Iudas turned againe with his hoste fro pursuing them,

17 And said vnto the people, Be not griedie of the spoiles: for there is a battel before vs.

18 And Gorgias and the armie is here by vs in the mountaine: but stand ye now fast against your enemies, and ouercome them: then may ye safely take the spoiles.

19 As Iudas was speaking these wordes, there appeared one parte which looked from the

the mountaines.

20 But when Gorgias sawe that his were fled, and that Iudas soldiers burnt the tentes: (for the smoke that was sene, declared what was done.)

21 When they sawe these things, they were sore afraied, and when they sawe also that Iudas and his hoste were in the field readie to set them selues in array,

22 They fled euerie one into the land of strangers.

23 So Iudas turned againe to spoile the tentes, where he gate muche golde and siluer, and precious stones, and purple of the sea, and great riches.

24 Thus they went home, and sang psalmes, and praised towarde the heauen: for he is gracious, and his mercie endureth for euer.

25 And so Israel had a great victorie in that day.

26 ¶ Now all the strangers that escaped, came, & tolde Lysias all the things that were done.

27 Who when he heard these things, was sore afraied, and discouraged, because suche things came not vpon Israel as he wolde, nether suche things as the King had commanded him, came to passe.

28 Therefore the next yere following, gathered Lysias thre score thousande chosen fote men, and fife thousande horsemen to fight against Ierusalem.

^{10r, Iudea.}

^{10r, Bethhoron.}

29 So they came into ^{10r, Iudea.} Idumea, and pitched their tentes at ^{10r, Bethhoron.} Beth-sura, where Iudas came against them with ten thousand men.

30 And whē he sawe that mightie armie, he praied and said, Blessed be thou, o Sauour of Israel,* which didest destroe the assalte of y^e mightie man by the hād of thy seruāt Dauid, & gauest the hoste of the strāgers into the hād of Jonathan, y^e sonne of Saul, and of his armour bearer:

^{1 Sam. 17, 50.}

^{1 Sam. 14, 13.}

31 Shut vp this armie in y^e hand of thy people of Israel, & let thē be confounded with their power, and with their horsemen.

32 Make them afraied, and consume their boldenes & strength, that thei may be astonished at their destruction.

33 Cast them downe by the sworde of them that loue thee: thē shal all thei that knowe thy Name, praise thee with songs.

34 So they ioyned together, and there were slaine of Lysias hoste, fife thousand men, and they fell before them.

35 Thē Lysias, seing his armie put to flight and the manlines of Iudas soldiers, and that they were readie, either to liue or dye valiantly, he went into Antiochia, and gathered strangers, and when he had furnished his armie, he thought againe (being prepared) to come against Iudea.

36 Then said Iudas & his brethré, Beholde, our enemies are discomfited: let vs now go vp to cense, and to reaire the Sanctuarie.

37 So all the hoste gathered them together, and went vp into the mountaine of Sion.

38 Now whē they sawe the Sanctuarie layed waste, and the altar defiled, and the dores burnt vp, and the shrubbes growing in the courtes, as in a forrest, or as on one of the mountaines, and that the Priests chambers were broken downe,

39 They rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and cast ashes vpon their heads, 40 And fel downe to the grounde on their faces, and blewe an alarme with the trumpets, and cryed towarde heauen.

41 Then Iudas commanded certeine of the men to fight against those which were in y^e castel, til he had censed the Sanctuarie.

42 So he chose Priests that were vndefiled, suche as delited in the Law,

43 And they censed the Sanctuarie, and bare out the defiled stones into an vnclane place, 44 And consulted what to do with the altar of burnt offrings, which was polluted.

45 So they thoght it was best to destroe it, lest it shulde be a reproche vnto them, because the heathen had defiled it: therefore they destroyed the altar, 46 And layed vp the stones vpon the mountaine of the Temple in a conuenient place, til there shulde come a Prophet, to shewe what shulde be done with them.

47 So they toke whole stones according to the Law, and buylded a new altar according to the former,

48 And made vp the Sanctuarie, and the things that were within the Temple, and the courtes, and all things.

49 They made also new holie vessels, and brought into the Temple the candellsticke, and the altar of burnt offrings, and of incense and the table.

50 And they burnt incense vpō the altar, & lighted the lampes which were vpon the candellsticke, that they might burne in the Temple.

51 Thei set also the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vp the vailles, and finished all the workes that they had begon to make.

52 And vpon the fife and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, which is called the moneth of Challu, in the hundreth and eight and fortieth yere they rose vp betimes in the morning, 53 And offred sacrifice according to the Law, vpō the new altar of burnt offrings, that they had made.

54 According to the time, and according to the day, that the heathen had defiled it, in the same day was it made new with songs, and harpes, and lutes, and cymbales.

55 And all the people fel vpon their faces, worshipping & praising towarde the heauen him that had giuen the good successe.

56 So they kept the dedication of the altar eight daies, offering burnt offerings with gladnes, & offered sacrifices of deliuerance and praise, 57 And dede the forefronte of the Temple with crownes of golde and shields, & dedicated the gates and chambers, & hanged dores vpon them.

58 Thus there was very great gladnes among the people, and the reproche of the heathen was put away.

59 So Iudas and his brethren with the whole cōgregation of Israel ordeined that the daies of dedicacion of the altar shulde be kept in their season from yere to yere, by the space of eight daies, from the fiue and twentie day of the moneth Chasleu, with mirth and gladnes.

60 And at the same time buylded they vpon mount Sion with hie walles and strong towers rounde about, lest the Gentiles shulde come, and treade it downe, as they had done afore.

61 Therefore they set a garison there to kepe it, & fortified Beth-sura to kepe it, that the people might haue a defense against Idumea.

CHAP. V.

3 Iudas vanquished the heathen that go about to destroye Israel, & is holpen of his brethren Simon and Jonathan so He ouerthroweth the citie of Ephron, because they denyed him passage thorowe it.

1 Now when the nations rounde about heard, that the altar was buylded, & the Sanctuarie renued, as afore, they were foregriued.

2 Therefore they thought to destroye the generation of Iacob that was among them, and begane to slaye and destroye the people.

3 Then Iudas fought against the children of Esau in Idumea at Arrabathene, because they besieged the Israelites, and he smote them with a great plague, and droue them to straites, and toke their spoiles.

4 He thought also vpon the malice of the children of Ben, which had bene a snare and a hinderance vnto the people, when they laye in waite for them in the hie way.

5 Wherefore he shut them vp in towers, and besieged them, and destroyed them utterly, and burnt their towers with fyre, with all that were in them.

6 Afterward, went he against the children of Ammon, where he founde a mightie power, and a great multitude with Timotheus their captaine.

7 So he had manie battels with them, but they were destroyed before him, and so he discomfited them,

8 And toke Gazer with the townes thereof, and so turned againe into Iudea.

9 ¶ Then the heathen that were in Galaad, gathered them together against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castel of Dathe-man,

10 And sent letters to Iudas, and to his brethren, saying, The heathen that are about vs, are gathered against vs, to destroye vs, 11 And they make them readie for to come, and to take the fortresse, whereunto we are fled, and Timotheus is captaine of their hoste.

12 Come now therefore, and deliuer vs out of their hands: for manie of vs are slaine:

13 And all our brethre that were at Tubin, are slaine, and they haue taken away their wiues, and their children, and their goods, and destroyed there almoste a thousand men.

14 While these letters were yet a reading, beholde, there came other messengers from Galile with their clothes red, which tolde the same tidings, 15 And said, that they of Ptolemais, and of Tyrus, and of Sidon, and of all Galile of the Gentiles were gathered against them to destroye them.

16 When Iudas, and the people heard these wordes, a great Congregation came together, to cōsulte what they might do for their brethre, that were in trouble, & whome they besieged.

17 Then said Iudas to Simon his brother, Chuse thee out men, and go & deliuer thy brethren in Galile, and I and my brother Jonathan, wil go into the countrey of Galaad.

18 ¶ So he left Iosephus the sonne of Zacharias, and Azarias to be captaines of the people, and to kepe the remnant of the hoste in Iudea, 19 And commanded them, saying, Take the ouersight of this people, and make no warre against the heathen, vntil we come againe.

20 And vnto Simon were giuen thre thousand men to go into Galile, and to Iudas eight thousand men for the countrey of Galaad.

21 Then went Simon into Galile, and gaue diuers battels to the heathen, and the heathen were discomfited by him.

22 And he pursued them vnto the gates of Ptolemais: & there were slaine of the heathen almoste thre thousand men: so he toke their spoiles.

23 Thus they rescued them that were in Galile

- hile and in Arbattis with their wiues, and their children, and all that they had, and brought them into Iudea with great ioye.
- 24 ¶ Iudas Maccabeus also, and his brother Ionathan went ouer Iorden, and trauailed thre dayes journey in the wilderness,
- 25 Where they met with the Nabathites, who receiued them louingly, & tolde the euerie thing that was done vnto their brethren in the countrey of Galaad,
- 26 And how that manie of them were besieged in Bosorra, & Bosor, in Atemis, Chasbon, Maged and Carnaim (all these cities are strong, and great)
- 27 And that they were kept in other cities of Galaad, and to morrow they are appointed to bring their hoste vnto these fortes, and to take them, and to destroye them all in one day.
- 28 So Iudas & his hoste turned in all haste by the way of the wilderness towards Bosorra, and wan the citie, and slewe all the males with the edge of the sworde, and toke all their spoile, and set fyre vpon the citie.
- 29 And in the night he remoued from thence, and went towards the fortresse.
- 30 And betimes in the morning when they looked vp, beholde, there was an innumerable people bearing ladders, and instruments of warre, to take the forte, and had assailed them.
- 31 When Iudas sawe that the battell was begon, and that the crye of the citie went vp to heauen with trumpets, and a great founde,
- 32 Then he said vnto the armie, Fight this day for your brethren.
- 33 So he wēt forth behinde them with thre companies, and they blew the trumpets, & cryed with prayer.
- 34 Then the hoste of Timotheus knewe, that it was Maccabeus, and they fled from him, & he smote them with a great slaughter, so that there was killed of them the same day, almoste eight thousand men.
- 35 ¶ Then departed Iudas vnto Maspha, & laid siege vnto it, and wanne it, and slewe all the males thereof, and spoiled it, and set fyre vpon it.
- 36 From thence went he and toke Chasbō, Maged, and Bosor, and the other cities in Galaad.
- 37 After these things gathered Timotheus another hoste, and he camped before Raphon beyonde the flood.
- 38 Now Iudas had sent to espie the hoste, & they brought him worde againe, saying, All the heathen that be rounde about vs, are gathered vnto him, and the hoste is verie great,
- 39 And he hath hyred the Arabians to helpe them, and they haue pitched their tentes beyonde the flood, & are readie to come and fight against thee. So Iudas went to meete them.
- 40 Then Timotheus said vnto the captaines of his hoste, When Iudas and his hoste come nere the flood, if he passe ouer first vnto vs, we shal not be able to withstand him: for he wil be to strong for vs.
- 41 But if he be afraid, and campe beyonde the flood, we wil go ouer vnto him, and shal preuaile against him.
- 42 Now whē Iudas came nere to the flood, he caused the gouernours of the people to remaine by the flood, and commāded the, saying, Suffer none to pitche a tent, but let euerie man come to the battell.
- 43 So he went first ouer towards them, and all people after him: and all the heathen were discomfited before him, & cast away their weapons, and fled into the temple that was at Carnaim.
- 44 Which citie Iudas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that were in it: so was Carnaim subdued, and might not withstand Iudas.
- 45 ¶ Then Iudas gathered all the Israelites that were in the countrey of Galaad, from the least vnto the most, with their wiues and their children, and their baggage, a verie great hoste, to come into the land of Iuda.
- 46 So they came vnto Ephron, which was a great citie by the way, and strongly defended: they colde not passe, nether at the right hand nor at the left, but must go thorowe it.
- 47 But they that were in the citie, shut the selues in, and stopped vp the gates with stones: and Iudas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes, saying,
- 48 Let vs passe thorowe your land, that we may go into our owne countrey, and none shal hurt you: we wil but onely go thorowe on fote: but they wolde not open vnto him.
- 49 Wherefore Iudas commanded a proclamation to be made thorowe out the hoste, that euerie man shulde assault it according to his standing.
- 50 So the valiant men set vpon it, and assailed the citie all that day, and all that night, and the citie was giuen ouer into his hands:
- 51 Who slewe all the males with the edge of the sworde, and destroyed it, and toke the spoile thereof, and went thorowe the citie ouer them that were slaine.
- 52 Then went they ouer Iorden into the great plaine before Bethsan.
- 53 And Iudas gathered together those that were behinde, and gaue the people good exhortation all the way thorowe, til they were come into the land of Iuda.
- 54 Thus they went vp with ioye, and glad-nes vnto mount Sion, where they offred burnt offrings, because there were none of them slaine, but came home againe in safetie.

55 ¶ Now whiles Iudas and Jonathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simon their brother in Galile before Ptolemais, 56 Ioseph the sonne of Zacharias, and Azarias the captaines, hearing of the valiant actes, and battels which they had achieved, said, 57 Let vs get vs a name also, and go fight against the heathen that are round about vs.

58 So they gaue their hoste a commandement and went towarde Iamnia.

59 But Gorgias and his men came out of the citie to fight against them.

60 And Ioseph and Azarias were put to flight and pursued vnto the borders of Iudea: and there were slaine that day of the people of Israel about two thousand men: so y there was a great ouerthrowe among the people of Israel, 61 Because they were not obedient vnto Iudas, and his brethre, but thought to do some valiant thing.

62 Also they came not of the stocke of these men, by whose hands deliuerace was giuen to Israel.

63 But the man Iudas, and his brethren were greatly commended in the sight of all Israel, and of all the heathen, wheresoeuer their name was heard of.

64 And the people came vnto them, bidding them welcome.

Ioseph Ant. 12. chap. 11 & 12.
65 Afterwarde went Iudas forthe with his brethren, and fought against the children of Esau in the lād toward the South, where he wanne Hebron, and the townes thereof, & he destroyed the castel thereof, & burnt the towres thereof round about.

Or, Philistims.
66 Then remoued he to go into the land of the strangers, and went thorow Samaria.

67 At the same time were the Priests of the cities slaine in y battel, which wolde shewe their valiantnes, and went forthe to battel without counsel: and when Iudas came to Azotus in the strangers lād, he brake downe their altars, and burnt with fyre the images of their gods, and toke away the spoiles of the cities, and came againe into the land of Iuda.

CHAP. VI.

1 Antiochus, willing to take the citie of Elimaïs, is driuen away of the citizens. 8 He falleth into sickness, and dyeth. 17 His sonne Antiochus is made King. 34 The manner to prouoke elephants to fight. 43 Cleazarus valiant acte. 49 The siege of Sion.

Ioseph Anti. 12. chap. 13.

NOW when King Antiochus trauailed thorow the high countreis, he heard that Elimaïs in the countrey of Persia was a citie greatly renoumed for riches, siluer and golde,

2 And that there was in it a verie riche temple, where as were couerings of golde, cote armoures, and harnes, which Alexandre King of Macedonia the sonne of Philippe (y reigned first in Grecia) had left there.

3 Wherefore he went about to take the citie, and to spoile it, but he was not able: for y citizens were warned of the matter,

4 And rose vp against him in battel, & he fled and departed thence with great hauiues, and came againe into Babylon.

5 Moreouer, there came one which broght him tidings in the countrey of Persia, that the armies that went against the land of Iuda, were driuen away,

6 And that Lysias, which went forthe first with a great power, was driuen away of the Iewes, and that they were made strong by the armour, and power, and diuers spoiles which they had gotten of the armies whome they had destroyed,

7 And that they had pulled downe the abomination, which he had set vp vpon the altar at Ierusalem, and fensed the Sanctuarie with high walles, as it was afore, and Beth-sura his citie.

8 So when the King had heard these wordes, he was astonished, and fore moued: therefore he laid him downe vpon his bed, & fel sicke for verie sorowe, because it was not come to passe, as he had thought.

9 And there continued he manie dayes: for his grief was euer more & more, so that he sawe he must nedes dye.

10 Therefore he sent for all his friends, & said vnto them, The slepe is gone from mine eyes, and mine heart faileth for verie care.

11 And I thinke with my self, Into what aduersitie am I come? & into what floods of miserie am I fallen now, where as aforetime I was in prosperitie, and greatly set by, by reason of my power?

12 And now do I remember the euils that I haue done at Ierusalem: for I toke all the vessels of golde & of siluer that were in it, and sent to destroye the inhabitants of Iuda without cause.

13 I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause, and beholde, I must dye with great sorowe in a strange land.

14 Then called he for Philippe, one of his friends, whome he made ruler of all his realme, 15 And gaue him the crowne, and his robe, and the ring, that he shulde instruct his sonne Antiochus, and bring him vp, til he might reigne him self.

16 So King Antiochus dyed there in the hundreth, and fortie and ninth yere.

17 ¶ When Lysias knewe, that the King was

- was dead, he ordeined Antiochus his sonne (whome he had broght vp) to reigne in his fathers stead, and called him Eupator.
- 18 Now they that were in the castle at Ierusalem, kept in the Israelites rounde about the Sanctuarie, and fought alwaies their hurt, and the strengthening of y^e heathen.
- 19 Therefore Iudas thoght to destroy the, & called all the people together to besiege them.
- 20 So they came together, and besieged the in the hundreth and fiftie yere, and made instruments to shoote and other engins of warre.
- 21 But certeine of them that were besieged, gate forthe, (vnto whome some vngodlie men of Israel ioyned them selues.)
- 22 And they went vnto the King, saying, How long wilt thou cease from executing iudgement, and aduenge our brethren?
- 23 We haue bene readie to serue thy father, & to go forward in those things, that he appointed, & to obey his commandemets.
- 24 Therefore they of ournacions fel from vs for this cause, and wheresoeuer they founde anie of vs, they slewe them, and spoyled our inheritance.
- 25 And thei haue not onely laied hand vpon vs, but vpon all about their borders.
- 26 And beholde, this day are they besiegig the castle at Ierusalem to take it, and haue fortified the Sanctuarie, and Beth-sura.
- 27 And if thou doe st not preuent the quickly, thei wil do greater things then these, and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.
- 28 When the King heard this, he was verie angrie, and called all his friends, the captaines of his armie, and his horsemen,
- 29 And bandes that were hired, came vnto him from the Kings, that were confederate, and from the yles of the sea.
- 30 So the number of his armie was an hundreth thousand fote men, & twentie thousand horsemen, and two and thirtie elephantes exercised in battel.
- 31 These came through Idumea and drewe nere to Beth-sura, and besieged it a long season, and made engins of warre: but thei came out, and burnt them with fyre, and fought valiantly.
- 32 Then departed Iudas from the castle, & remoued the hoste toward Beth-zacarias ouer against the Kings campe.
- 33 So the King arose verie earely, & broght the armie and his power toward the way of Beth-zacarias, where the armies set the selues in array to the battel, and blew the trumpets.
- 34 And to prouoke the elephantes for to fight, thei shewed the blood of grapes and mulberries,
- 35 And they set the beafts according to the ranges: so that by euerie elephant there stode a thousand men armed with coates of maile and helmets of brasse vpon their heads, and vnto euerie beaft were ordeined fife hundreth horsemen of the best,
- 36 Which were readie at all times wheresoeuer the beaft was: and wheresoeuer the beaft went, they went also, and departed not from him.
- 37 And vpon them were strong towres of wood that couered euerie beaft, which were fastened thereon with instruments, & vpon euerie one was two and thirtie men, that fought in them, and the Indian that ruled him.
- 38 They sit also the remnant of the horsemen vpon bothe the sides in two wings of the hoste to stirre them vp, and to kepe them in the valleis.
- 39 And when the sunne shone vpon the golden shields, the mountaines glistered therewith, and gaue light as lapses of fyre.
- 40 Thus parte of the Kings armie was spred vpon the hie mountaines, and parte beneth: so they marched forward warely and in order.
- 41 And all they that heard the noyce of their multitude, and the marching of the companie, and the ratteling of the harness, were astonished: for the armie was verie great and mightie.
- 42 Then Iudas and his hoste entred into the battel, & thei slewe six hundreth men of the Kings armie.
- 43 ¶ Now when Eleazar, the sonne of Abaron, sawe one of the elephantes armed with royal harness, and was more excellent then all y^e other beafts, he thoght that the King shulde be vpon him.
- 44 Wherefore he icoparded him self to deliuer his people, and to get him a perpetual name,
- 45 And ranne boldely vnto him through the middes of the hoste, slaying on the right hand, and on the left, so that thei departed away on bothe sides.
- 46 So went he to the elephantes fete, and gate him vnder him, and slewe him: then fel the elephant downe vpon him, & there he dyed.
- 47 But the other, seing the power of y^e King and the fiercenes of his armie, departed from them.
- 48 ¶ And the Kings armie went vp to mete them toward Ierusalem, and the King pitched his tents in Iudea toward mount Sion.
- 49 Moreouer, the King toke truce with the that were in Beth-sura: but when they came out of the citie, because they had no vitailles there, and were shut vp therein, & the land had rested,
- 50 The King toke Beth-sura, and set there

2 garison to kepe it,

51 And besieged the Sanctuarie many dayes, & made instruments to shoote, & other engins of warre, and instruments to cast fyre and stones, and pieces to cast dartes and slings.

For the Tower. 52 Thei also made engins against their engins, and fought a long season.

53 But in the garners there were no vitayles: for it was the seuenth yere, and then they that were in Iudea, & were deliuered from the Gentiles, had eaten vp the residue of the store,

54 So that in the Sanctuarie were fewe men left: for the famine came so vpon the, that they were scattered euerie mā to his owne place.

55 ¶ Now when Lysias heard that Philippe (whome Antiochus the King, whiles he liued, had ordeined to bring vp Antiochus his sonne, that he might be King)

56 Was come againe out of Persia, & Media, and the Kings hoste with him, and thoght to take vnto him the rule of thigs, 57 He and his halted, and were stirred forward by them in the castel to go and tell the King, and the captaines of the hoste, and to others, saying, We decrease dayly, & our vitayles are but smale: and the place that we laye siege vnto, is strong, and the affaires of the realme depende vpon vs.

For, give bands. 58 Now therefore let vs agre with these men, & take truce with them, and with all their nacion, 59 And grāte them to liue after their Law, as they did afore: for they be griued, and do all these things, because we haue broken their Lawes.

60 So the King and the princes were content, and sent vnto them to make peacc, & they receiued it.

61 When the King & the princes had made an othe vnto them, they came vpō this out of the fortresse.

62 And the King went vp to mount Sion: but when he sawe that the place was wel defended, he brake his othe that he had made, and commanded to breake downe the wall rounde about.

63 Then departed he in all haste, and returned vnto Antiochia where he founde Philippe hauing dominion of the citie: so he fought against him, and toke the citie by force.

CHAP. VII.

Demetrius reigned, after he had killed Antiochus and Lysias. 5 He troubleth the children of Israel thowre the counsell of certaine wicked persones. 37 The praiser of the Priests against Nicanor. 41 Iudas killeth Nicanor, after he had made his praiser.

Ioseph Ant. 11.9.12, chap. 5

1 IN the hundreth and one and fiftieth yere, departed Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from Rome, and came vp with a fewe men vnto a citie of the sea coast, and reigned there.

2 And when he came into the possession of his fathers kigdome, his soldiers toke Antiochus and Lysias, and broght them vnto him.

3 But when it was tolde him, he said, Shewe me not their faces.

4 So thei put the to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kigdome,

5 There came vnto him all the wicked and vngodlie men of Israel, whose captaine was Alcimus, that wolde haue bene the hie Priest.

6 These men accused the people vnto the King, saying, Iudas and his brethren haue slayne all thy friends, and driuen vs out of our owne land.

7 Wherefore send now some man, whome thou trustest, that he maye go and se all the destruction, which he hathe done vnto vs, and to the Kings land, and let him punish them with all their partakers.

8 Then the King chose Bacchides a friēd of his, which was a great man in the realme, and ruled beyonde the flood, and was faithfull vnto the King, and sent him,

9 And that wicked Alcimus, whome he made hie Priest, and commanded him to be aduenged of the children of Israel.

10 So they departed, and came with a great hoste into the land of Iuda, and sent messengers to Iudas and his brethren, deceitfully with peaceable wordes.

11 But they beleued not their saying: for thei sawe that they were come with a great hoste.

12 Then a companie of the gouernours assembled vnto Alcimus and Bacchides to intreat of reasonable points.

13 And the "Asideans were the first that Or, Asidians. required peace among the children of Israel.

14 For said they, He that is a Priest of the sede of Aarō, is come with this armie: therefore he wil not hurt vs.

15 Then he spake vnto them peaceably, and swore vnto them, and said, We wil do you no harme, nether your friends:

16 And they beleued him: but he toke of the thre score men, and slewe them in one day according to the wordes that were written.

17 *Thei haue cast y bodies of thy Saintes, Tsal. 79. 2. and their blood rounde about Ierusalem, and there was no man that wolde burye them.

18 So there came a feare and trembling among all the people: for they said, There is nether trueth nor righteousnes in them: for they haue broken the appointment & othe that they made.

19 The Bacchides remoued frō Ierusalem, and

*Or, Beth-zeth,

- & pitched his tente at Beth-zecha, where he sent forthe & toke manie of the me that had forsaken him, & certeine of the people whome he slewe & cast into the great pit.
- 20 Then committed he the countrey vnto Alcimus, & left men of warre with him to helpe him: so Bacchides wet vnto y King.
- 21 Thus Alcimus stroue for y priesthode.
- 22 And all suche as troubled the people resorted vnto him: in somuche, that they obtained the land of Iuda, and did muche hurt in Israel.
- 23 Now when Iudas sawe all the mischief, that Alcimus and his companie had done amog the Israelites more then the heathē,
- 24 He went forthe rounde about all the borders of Iudea, and punished those, that were fallen away, so that they came no more abroade in the countrey.
- 25 But when Alcimus sawe that Iudas & his people had gotten the vpper had, & knewe that he was not able to abide them, he went againe to the King, and accused the of wicked things.
- 26 Then the King sent Nicanor one of his chief princes, which hated Israel deadly, & commanded him, that he shulde destroye the people.
- 27 So Nicanor came to Ierusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Iudas, and his brethren deceitfully with friendlie wordes, saying,
- 28 Let there be no warre betwene me, and you: I wil come with fewe men, to se how ye do, friendly.
- 29 So he came vnto Iudas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemies were prepared to take away Iudas.
- 30 Neuertheles, it was tolde Iudas, that he came vnto him vnder disceit: therefore he feared him, and woldenot se his face no more.
- 31 When Nicanor perceiued that his counfel was betrayed, he went out to fight against Iudas, beside Carphasalama.
- 32 Where there were flaine of Nicanors hoste about fise thousand men: so they fled vnto the cite of Dauid.
- 33 After this came Nicanor vp vnto mouit Sion, and some of the Priests with the Elders of the people went forthe of the Sanctuarie to salute him peaceably, & to shew him the burnt offering that was offered for the King.
- 34 But he laughed at them, and mocked the and counted them prophane, and spake proudly,
- 35 And swore in his wrath, saying, If Iudas and his hoste be not deliuered now into mine hands, if euer I come againe in safetie, I wil burne vp this house. With that, went he out in a great anger.
- 36 Then the Priests came in, and stode before the altar in the Temple, weping, and saying,

- 37 For so muche as thou, o Lord, hast chosen this House, that thy Name might be called vpon therein, and that it shulde be an house of prayer, and petition for thy people,
- 38 Be aduenged of this man and his hoste, and let them be flaine by the sworde: remember their blasphemies, & suffre them not to continue.
- 39 ¶ When Nicanor was gone from Ierusalem, he pitched his tent at Beth-horon, & there an hoste met him out of Syria.
- 40 And Iudas pitched in Adafa with three thousand me where Iudas prayed, saying,
- 41 O Lord, * because the messengers of King Sēnacherib blasphemed thee, thine Angel went forthe, and slewe an hundreth, foure score, and fise thousand of them.
- 42 So destroye thou this hoste before vs to day, that all othe may knowe that he hath spokē wickedly against thy Sanctuarie, & punish him according to his malice.
- 43 So the armies ioyned together in battel, the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar: but Nicanors hoste was discomfited, and he him self was first flaine in the battel.
- 44 Now when his armie sawe that Nicanor was flaine, they cast away their weapons and fled.
- 45 But they pursued after the a dayes iourney from Adafa vnto Gasera, blowing an alarme with the trumpets after them.
- 46 So they came forthe of all the townes of Iudea rounde about, and rushed vpon them, and threwe them from one to another, so that they all fel by the sworde, & there was not one of them lefte.
- 47 Then they toke the spoyle, and the pray and smote of Nicanors head, and his right hand, which he helde vp so proudly, and broght it with them, and hanged them vp afore Ierusalem.
- 48 So the people reioyced greatly, and kept that day as a day of great gladnes.
- 49 And they ordeined, to kepe ycerely that day on the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar.
- 50 Thus the land of Iuda was in rest a litle while.

the Galatiās whome they had conquered, and made to paye tribute,

3 And what they had done in the countrey of Spaine: how that they had wonne there the mines of siluer and golde,

4 And that by their counsell, and gentle behaviour they were rulers in euerie place, though the place was farre from them, and that they had discomfited, and giuen great overthrowes to y^e Kings that came against them, from the vitermost parte of y^e earth, and that others gaue them tribute euerie yere,

Or, Cities.

5 How they had also discomfited by battel Philippe and Perles Kings of the Macedonias, and others, that rose against the, and how they ouercame them,

6 And how great Antiochus King of Asia that came against the in battel, hauing an hundreth and twentie elephāts, with horsemen, & charretts, and a verie great armie, was discomfited by them,

7 And how they toke him aliue, and ordeined him, with such as shulde reigne after him, to paye a great tribute, & to giue hostages, and a separat portion,

8 Euen the countrey of India, and Media, and Lydia, and of his best countreys, which they toke of him and gaue them to King Eumenes.

9 Againe when it was tolde them that the Greciās were comming to destroye them,

10 They sent against the a captaine, which gaue them battel, & slewe manie of the, & toke manie prifoners with their wiues, and children, and spoyled them, and conquered their land, and destroyed their strong holdes, and subdued them to be their bōdmen, vnto this day:

11 Moreouer, how they destroyed, & broght into subiection other kingdomes & yles, whosoever had withstand them:

12 But that thei kept amitie with their owne friends, and those that stayed vpon them: finally, that conquered kingdomes, bothe farre and nere, in so muche that whosoever heard of their renoume, was afraied of them.

13 For whome they wolde helpe to their kingdomes, those reigned, and whome they wolde, they put downe: thus were thei in moste high autoritie.

14 Yet for all this that none of them ware a crowne, nether was clothed in purple, to be magnified thereby,

15 But that thei had ordeined them selues a counsell, wherein thre hundreth and twētie men consulted dailey, and provided for the commune affaires, to gouerne them wel,

16 And that they committed their gouernement to one man euerie yere, who did rule ouer all their countrey, to whome euerie man was obedient: and there was nether hatred nor enuie among them.

17 ¶ Then Iudas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Iohn, the sonne of Accus, and Iafon, the sonne of Eleazar, and sent them vnto Rome to make friēdship, & mutual fellowship with them,

18 That they might take from them the yoke (for they sawe that the kingdome of the Grecians wolde kepe Israel in bondage)

19 So they went vnto Rome, which was a verie great iourney, and came into the Senat where they spake and said,

Or, consil.

20 Iudas Maccabeus with his brethren, and the people of the Iewes harhe sent vs vnto you, to make a bonde of friendship, and peace with you, and ye to register vs as your partakers and friends.

21 And the matter pleased them.

22 And this is the copie of the epistle that they wrote in tables of brasse and sent to Ierusalem, that they might haue by them a memorial of the peace, and mutual fellowship.

23 Good successe be to the Romaines, and to the people of the Iewes, by sea, and by land for euer, and the sworde, and enemie be from them.

24 If there come first anie warre vpon the Romaines, or anie of their friēds throughout all their dominion,

25 The people of the Iewes shal helpe the, as the time shalbe appointed, with all their heart,

26 Also they shal giue nothing to the that come to fight for the, nor serue them with wheat nor weapōs, nor monei, nor shippes as it pleaseth the Romaines, but they shal kepe their couenantes without taking anie thing of them.

Or, the Iewes.

27 Likewise also if warre come first against the nacion of the Iewes, the Romaines shal helpe them with a good wil, according as the time shalbe appointed them.

28 Nether shal wheat be giuen vnto them, that take their parte, nor weapons, nor monei, nor shippes, as it pleaseth y^e Romaines, who wil kepe these couenants without deceite.

29 According to these articles y^e Romaines made the bonde with the people of the Iewes.

30 If after these pointes the one partie, or the other wil adde or diminish, they may do it, at their pleasures, & whatsoeuer they shal adde, or take away, shal be ratified.

31 And as touching the euil that Demetrius hath done vnto the Iewes, we haue written vnto him, saying, Wherefore layest thou thine heauie yoke vpon our friends, and confederates the Iewes?

32 If therefore they complaine anie more against against thee, we wil do them iustice, and fight with thee by sea and by land.

After the death of Nicanor Demetrius sendeth his armie against Iudas. 18 Iudas is slaine. 31 Jonathan is put in the head of his brother. 47 The battel betweene Jonathan, and Bacchides. 55 Alcimus is smitten with the palse, and dyeth. 63 He cometh vpon Jonathan by the counsell of certeine wicked persones, and is overcome. 70 The truce of Ionathā with Bacchides.

Ioseph. Anti. 12. chap. 18.

Or, the right borne.

Or, Laifa.

- 1 IN the meane season when Demetrius had heard how Nicanor, and his hoste had giuen the battel, he sent Bacchides, and Alcimus againe into Iudea, and his chief strength with them.
- 2 So they went forthe by the way that is towarde Galgala, and pitched their tentes before Mesaloth which is in Arbelis, and wanne it and slewe muche people.
- 3 And in the first moneth of the hundreth, fiftie and two yere, they layed their siege against Ierusalem.
- 4 But they raised their campe, and came to Berea, with twentie thousand fose men & two thousand horsemen.
- 5 Now Iudas had pitched his tent at Eleafa, & thre thousand chosen men with him.
- 6 And when they sawe, that the multitude of the armie was great, they were sore afraid, and manie conueied them selues out of the hoste, so that there abode no mo of them, but eight hundreth men.
- 7 When Iudas sawe that his hoste failed him, and that he must nedes fight, he was sore troubled in minde that he had no time to gather them together, and was discouraged.
- Neuertheles, he said vnto them that remained, Let vs rise, and go vp against our enemies, if peraduenture we may be able to fight with them.
- 9 But they wolde haue staied him, saying, We are not able: but let vs rather saue our liues: turne backe now, seing our brethren are departed: for shal we fight against the, that are so fewe?
- 10 Then Iudas said, God forbid, that we shulde do this thing, to fle from them: if our time be come, let vs dye manfully for our brethren, and let vs not staine our honour.
- 11 Then the hoste remoued out of the tentes, and stode against them, who had deuided their horsemen into two troupes, and they that threwe with slings, and the archers marched in the forewarde, and they that fought in the forewarde, were all valiant men.
- 12 And Bacchides was in the right wing. So the armie drewe nere on bothe sides, & blew the trumpets.
- 13 They of Iudas side blew the trumpets also, & the earth shoke at the noyce of the armies, and the battel continued from morning to night.

- 14 And when Iudas sawe that Bacchides and the strength of his armie was on the right side, he toke with him all the hardie men,
- 15 And brake the right wing, and followed vp on them vnto mount Azotus.
- 16 Now when they which were of the left wing, sawe that the right wing was discomfited, they followed Iudas behinde, and the that were with him hard at the heles.
- 17 Then was there a fore battel: for many were slaine of bothe the parties.
- 18 Iudas also him self was killed, and the remnant fled.
- 19 So Jonathan and Simon toke Iudas their brother, and buryed him in his fathers sepulchre in the citie of Modin.
- 20 And all the Israelites wept for him, and mourned greatly for him, and lameted many daies, saying,
- 21 How is the valiant man fallen which deliuered Israel!
- 22 Concerning the other things of Iudas, bothe the battels and the valiant actes that he did, & of his worthines, they are not written: for they were very many.
- 23 ¶ Now after the death of Iudas, wicked men came vp in all the coastes of Israel, & there arose all suche as gaue them selues to iniquitie.
- 24 In those daies was there a very great famine in the land, and all the countrey gaue ouer them selues with them.
- 25 And Bacchides did chuse wicked men, and made them lords in the land.
- 26 These soght out, and made searche for Iudas friends, and broght them vnto Bacchides, which aduéged him self vpon the, and mocked them.
- 27 And there came so great trouble in Israel, as was not since the time that no Prophet was sene among them.
- 28 Then came all Iudas friends together, & said vnto Jonathan,
- 29 Seing thy brother Iudas is dead, & there is none like him to go forthe against our enemies, even against Bacchides, and against the of our nacion that are enemies vnto vs,
- 30 Therefore, this day we chuse thee that thou maist be our prince and captaine in his place to order our battel.
- 31 So Jonathan toke the gouernance vpon him at the same time, and ruled in stead of his brother Iudas.
- 32 But when Bacchides knewe it, he soght for to slay him.
- 33 Then Jonathan and Simon his brother, perceiuing that, fled into the wildernes of Thecua with all their companie, and pitched their tentes by the water poole of Asphar.

Ioseph Anti. 13. cha. 1. & 8

Or, against the enemies of our nacion.

34 Which when Bacchides vnderstode, he came ouer Iorden with all his hoste vpon the Sabbath day.

35 (Now had Jonathan sent his brother John, a captaine of the people, to pray his friends the Nabathites, that they wolde kepe their baggage which was muche.

^{Or, Lambi.}

36 But the children of Ambri came out of Medaba, & toke John, and all that he had, & when they had taken it, went their way.

^{Or, Nababab.}

37 After this came worde vnto Jonathan, and to Simon his brother, that the children of Ambri made a great mariage, & broght the bride from Medaba with great pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan.

38 Therefore they remembred Iohn their brother, and went vp, and hid them selues vnder the couert of the mountaine.

39 So they lift vp their eyes, and looked, and beholde, there was a great noyce, & muche preparation: then the bridegrome came forth, and his friends and his brethren met them with tymbrels, and instruments of musike, and manie weapons.

40 Then Ionathans men that lay in ambush, rose vp against the, & slewe manie of them, and the remnant fled into the mountaines, so that they toke all their spoiles.

41 Thus the mariage was turned to mourning, and the noyce of their melodie into lamentacion.

42 And so when they had aduenged the blood of their brother, they turned againe vnto Iorden.

43 When Bacchides heard this, he came vnto the border of Iorden with a great power vpon the Sabbath day.)

44 Then Jonathan said vnto his companie, Let vs rise now, & fight against our enemies: for it is not to day as in time past.

45 Beholde, y battel is before vs, and behinde vs, and the water of Iorden on this side and that side, and the marise, and forest, so y there is no place for vs to turne aside.

46 Wherefore crye now vnto heaven, that ye may be deliuered from the power of your enemies: so they ioyned battel.

47 Then Jonathan stretched out his hand to smite Bacchides: but he turned aside fro him and reculed.

48 Then Jonathan, and they that were with him, leapt into Iorden, and swimmied ouer vnto the further bake: but the other wolde not passe through Iorden after them.

49 So in that day were slaine of Bacchides side about a thousand men.

50 Then he turned againe to Ierusalem, & buylt vp the strong cities in Iuda, as the castel of Iericho, and Emmaus, and Bethboron, and Bethel, and Thamnatha, Pharithoni, & Tephon, with high walles, with gates, and with barres, 51 And set garisons in the, that they might vse their malice vpon Israel.

52 He fortified also the citie Beth-sura, and Gazara, and the castel, & set a garison in them with prouision of vitayles.

53 He toke also the chiefe men's sonnes in the countrey for hostages, and put them in the castel at Ierusalem to be kept.

54 ¶ Afterwarde in the hundreth, fiftie and thre yere, in the seconde moneth, Alcimus commanded, that the walles of the inner court of the Sanctuarie shulde be destroyed, and he pulled downe the monumentes of the Prophetes, and began to destroy them.

55 But at the same time Alcimus was plagued, and his enterprises were hindred, & his mouth was stopped: for he was smitten with a palfie, & colde no more speake, nor giue order concerning his house.

56 Thus dyed Alcimus with great torment at the same time.

57 And when Bacchides sawe, that Alcimus was dead, he turned againe to the King, & so the land of Iuda was in rest two yeres.

58 Then all the yngodlie men helde a counsel, saying, Beholde, Jonathan and his companie dwell at ease, & without care: wherefore let vs bring Bacchides hither, and he wil take them all in one night.

59 So they went and consulted with him.

60 Who arose and came with a great hoste, and sent letters priuely to his adherentes, which were in Iudea, to take Jonathan and those that were with him: but they coulde not, for their counsel was knowen vnto them.

61 And they toke fiftie men of the countrey, which were the chief workers of this wickednes, and slewe them.

^{Or, Jonathan.}

62 ¶ Then Jonathan and Simon with their companie departed vnto Beth-basin which is in the wilderness, and repaired the decay thereof, and made it strong.

^{Or, Beth-bassan.}

63 When Bacchides knewe this, he gathered all his hoste, and sent worde to them that were of Iudea.

64 Then came he & laid siege to Beth-basin, and foght against it a long season, and made instruments of warre.

65 But Jonathan had left his brother Simon in the citie, & went forth into the countrey, and came with a certeine number, 66 And slewe Odomeras and his brethren and the children of Phasiron in their tentes: so he began to slaye, and increased in power.

^{Or, Odomer.}

67 Simon also and his companie went out of the citie, and burnt vp the instruments of warre, 68 And foght against Bacchides, and discomfited him, and vexed him sore, so that his counsel and iorney was in vaine.

69 Wherefore he was very wroth at y wicked

ked men, that gaue him counsel to come into the countrey, & slewe many of them, and purposed to returne into his owne countrey.

70 Whereof when Jonathan had knowledge, he sent ambassadours vnto him, to intreat of peace with him, & that the prisoners shulde be deliuered.

71 Which thing he accepted, and did according to his desire, and made an othe, that he wolde neuer do him harme all the daies of his life.

72 So he restored vnto him the prisoners that he had taken afore time out of the lād of Iuda, and so returned and went into his owne land, nether did he come any more into their borders.

73 Thus the sworde ceased from Israel, and Jonathan dwelt at Machmas, and began there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodlie men out of Israel.

CHAP. X.

Demetrius desireth to haue peace with Jonathan. 18 Alexander also desireth peace with the Iewes. 48 Alexander maketh warre against Demetrius. 50 Demetrius is slayne. 51 The friendship of Ptolemeus & Alexander.

Ioseph. Antiq. 13. chap. 2. 3.

IN the hundreth and thre score yere came Alexander the sonne of Antiochus Epiphanes, and toke Ptolemais, and they receiued him, and there he reigned.

2 Now when Demetrius the King heard it, he gathered an excedding great hoste, and went forthe against him to fight.

3 Also Demetrius sent letters vnto Ionathā, with louig wordes, as thogh he wolde prefferre him.

4 For he said, We wil first make peace with him, before he ioyne with Alexander against vs.

5 Els he wil remember all the euil that we haue done against him, & against his brethren and his nacion.

6 And so he gaue Jonathan leaue to gather an hoste, and to prepare weapons, and to be confederate with him, and commanded the hostages that were in the castel, to be deliuered vnto him.

7 ¶ Then came Jonathan to Ierusalem, and red the letters in the audience of all the people, & of them that were in the castel.

8 Therefore they were sore afrated, because they heard that the King had giue him licence to gather an armie.

9 So they that were of the castel, deliuered the hostages vnto Jonathan, who restored them to their parents.

10 Jonathan also dwelt at Ierusalem, & began to buyld, and repaire the citie.

11 And he commanded the workemen to buyld the walles, & the mount Sion rounde about with hewen stone, to fortifie it: & so they did.

12 Then the strangers that were in the castels which Bacchides had made, fled, so that euerie man left his place, & went into his owne countrey.

14 Onely at Beth-sura remained certeine which had forsaken the Law and the commandements: for it was their refuge.

15 ¶ Now when King Alexander had heard of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathan: and when it was tolde him of the battels and noble actes, which he and his brethren had done, and of the paines that they had indured, 16 He said, Might we finde suche a mā? now therefore we wil make him our friend and confederate.

17 Vpon this he wrote a letter, and sent it vnto him, with these wordes, saying,

18 KING ALEXANDER to his brother Jonathan sendeth salutation.

19 We haue heard of thee, that thou art a very valiant man, and worthie to be our friend.

20 Wherefore this day we ordeine thee to be the hie Priest of thy nacion, and to be called the Kings friend: and he sent him a purple robe, and a crowne of golde, that thou maist consider what is for our profite, and kepe friendship toward vs.

Or, mirre.

Or, take care.

21 So in the seuēth moneth of the hundreth and thre score yere, vpon the feast daye of the tabernacles, Jonathan put on the holie garment, & gathered an hoste, & prepared many weapons.

22 ¶ Which when Demetrius heard, he was marueilous sory, and said,

Ioseph. Antiq. 13. chap. 3.

23 What haue we done, that Alexander hath preuented vs in getting the friendship of the Iewes for his strength?

24 Yet wil I write and exhorde them, and promes them dignities and rewardes, that they may helpe me.

25 Whereupon he wrote vnto them these wordes, KING DEMETRIUS vnto the nations of the Iewes sendeth greting.

26 We haue heard that ye haue kept your couenant toward vs, and continued in our friendship, and haue not ioyned with our enemies, whereof we are glad.

27 Now therefore remaine stil, and kepe fidelitie toward vs, and we wil recompense you for the good things that ye haue done for vs,

28 And wil release you of many charges, & giue you rewardes.

29 And now I discharge for your sake all Iewes from tributes, & fre you from the customs of salte, and the crowne taxes, and from the thirde parte of the sede.

30 And fro the halfe of the frute of y trees which is mine owne duetie, I so release the a And of the cōurrey beyon de Iorden, as Iosephus writeth.

- that fro this day forth, none shal take any thing of the land of Iuda, or of the thre gouernements which are added therunto as of Samaria and of Galile, a from this daye forthe for euermore.
- 31 Ierusalem also with all things belonging thereto, shalbe holie and fre from the tenthes and tributes.
- 32 Also I release the power of the castel which is at Ierusalem, and giue it vnto the hie Priest, y he may set in it suche men, as he shal chuse to kepe it.
- 33 Moreouer I frely deliuer euerie one of the Iewes that were taken away prisoners out of the land of Iuda through out all my realme, and euerie one of them shalbe free from tributes, yea, euen their catel,
- 34 And all the feastes, and Sabbaths, & new moones, and the daies appointed and the thre daies before the feast, & the thre daies after the feast, shalbe daies of fredome & libertie for all the Iewes in my realme,
- 35 So that in them no man shal haue power to do any thing, or to vexe any of them in any maner of cause.
- 36 Also thirtie thousand of the Iewes shalbe writen vp in the Kings hoste, and haue their wages paid them as apperteineth to all them that are of the Kings armie: and of the shalbe ordeined certeine to kepe y Kings strong holdes.
- 37 And some of them shalbe set ouer the Kings moste secret affaires, and their gouernours and their princes shalbe of them selues, and they shal liue after their owne lawes, as the King hath commanded in the land of Iuda.
- 38 And the thre gouernements that are added vnto Iudea from the countrie of Samaria, shalbe ioyned vnto Iudea, and they shalbe as vnder one, and obey none other power, but the hie Priest.
- 39 And I giue Ptolemais & the borders thereof vnto the Sanctuarie at Ierusalem, for the necessarie expēses of the holie things.
- 40 Moreouer, I wil giue euerie yere fiftene thousand sicles of siluer of the Kings reuenues out of the places apperteining vnto me.
- 41 And all the ouerplus which they haue not paid for the things due, as they did in the former yeres, from hence forth they shal giue it towarde the workes of the Temple.
- 42 And besides this, the fise thousand sicles of siluer which they receiued yerely of the accounte appointed for the interteinemēt of the Sanctuarie, these yeres passed, euen these things shalbe released because they apperteine to the Priests that minister.
- 43 Item, whosoever they be that flee vnto the Temple at Ierusalem, or within the liberties thereof, and are indetted to y King for any maner of thing, they shalbe pardoned, and all that they haue in my realme.
- 44 For the buylding also and repairing of the workes of the Sanctuarie, expēses shal be giuen of the Kings reuenues.
- 45 And for the making of the walles of Ierusalem, and fortifying it rounde about that the holdes in Iudea may be buylt vp, shal also the cosles be giuen out of the Kings reuenues.
- 46 ¶ But when Jonathan & the people heard these wordes, they gaue no credit vnto the, nether receiued them: for they remembred the great wickednes that he had done in Israel, and how sore he had vexed them.
- 47 Wherefore they agreed vnto Alexander: for he was the first that had intreated of true peace with them, and so were confederat with him alway.
- 48 Then gathered King Alexander a great hoste, & camped ouer against Demetrius.
- 49 So the two Kings ioyned battel, but Demetrius hoste fled, and Alexander pursued him, and preuailed against them.
- 50 So that fore battel continued til the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slaine the same day.
- 51 ¶ Then Alexander sent ambassadours Ioseph. Antiq vnto Ptolemeus the King of Egypt with 13, chap. 5. these wordes, saying,
- 52 For so muche as I am come againe to my realme, and am set in the throne of my fathers, and haue gotten the dominion, and haue destroyed Demetrius, and enioye my countrey,
- 53 Seing that I haue euen giuen him the batel, and he and his armie is discomfited by me, & I sit in the throne of his kingdome,
- 54 Let vs now make friēdship together, and giue me now thy daughter to wife: so shal I be thy sonne in law, and giue thee rewardes, and vnto her things according to thy dignitie.
- 55 Then Ptolemeus the King gaue answer, saying, Happie be the day, wherein thou art come againe vnto the lande of thy fathers, and sittest in the throne of their kingdome.
- 56 Now therefore wil I fulfil thy writing: but mete me at Ptolemais that we may se one another, and that I may make thee my sonne in law, according to thy desire.
- 57 So Ptolemeus wēt out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, & came vnto Ptolemais in the hūdreth thre score & two yere,
- 58 Where King Alexander met him, and he gaue vnto him his daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolemais with great glorie, as the maner of Kings is.
- 59 ¶ Then wrote King Alexander vnto Jonathan, that he shulde come and mete him.
- 60 So he went honorably vnto Ptolemais, and there he met the two Kings, and gaue them

- them great presents of filuer and golde, and to their friends, and founde fauour in their fight.
- 61 And there assembled certeine pestilent felowes of Israel, & wicked men to accuse him: but the King wolde not heare them.
- 62 And the King commanded that they shulde take of the garments of Ionathan, & clothe him in purple: and so they did: & the King appointed him to sit by him.
- 63 And said vnto his princes, Go with him into the middes of the citie, and make a proclamacion, that no man complaine against him of anie matter, & that no man trouble him for anie maner of cause.
- 64 So when his accusers sawe his honour according as it was proclaimed, and that he was clothed in purple, they fled all away.
- 65 And the King preferred him to honour, and wrote him among his chief friends, and made him a duke, and partaker of his dominion.
- 66 Thus Ionathan returned to Ierusalem with peace and gladnes.
- 67 ¶ In the hundreth, thre score & fise yere came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Creta into his fathers land.
- 68 Whereof whē King Alexander heard, he was verie sorie, and returned vnto Antiochia.
- 69 Then Demetrius appointed Apollonius y^e gouernour of Celosyria, who gathered a great hoste, and camped in Iamnia, and sent vnto Ionathan the hie Priest, saying,
- 70 Darest thou, being but alone, lift vp thy self against vs? and I am laughed at, and reproched, because of thee: now therefore why doest thou vant thy self against vs in the mountaines?
- 71 Now then if thou trust in thine owne strength, come downe to vs into the plaine field & there let vs trye the matter together: for I haue the strength of cities.
- 72 Aske and learne who I am, and thei shal take my parte: and they shal tell thee that your fore is not able to stand before our face: for thy fathers haue bene twise chafed in their owne land.
- 73 And now how wilt thou be able to abide so great an hoste of horsemen and fote mē in the plaine, where is nether stone, nor rocke, nor place to flee vnto?
- 74 When Ionathan heard the wordes of Apollonius, he was moued in his mīde: wherefore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Ierusalem, & Simon his brother met him for to helpe him.
- 75 And he pitched his tents at Ioppe: but they shut him out of the citie: for Apollonius garison was in Ioppe.
- 76 Then they fought against it, and they that were in the citie, for verie feare let him in: so Ionathan wan Ioppe.
- 77 Apollonius hearing of this, toke thre thousand horse mē with a great hoste of fote men & went towarde Azotus, as thogh he wolde go forward, & came immediatly into y^e plaine field, because he had so manie horsemen, and put his trust in them.
- 78 So Ionathan followed vpon him to Azotus, and the armie skirmished with his arriere bande.
- 79 For Apollonius had left a thousand horsemen behinde them in ambush.
- 80 And Ionathan knewe that there was an ambushment behinde him, and thogh they had compassed in his hoste, & shot darter at the people from the morning to the evening,
- 81 Yet the people stode stil, as Ionathan had commanded them, til their horses were wearie.
- 82 Then broght Simon forthe his hoste, & set them against the bande: but the horses were wearie, and he discomfited them, & thei fled: so the horsemen were scattered in the field,
- 83 And they fled to Azotus, and came into the temple of Dagon their idole, that thei might there saue them selues.
- 84 But Ionathan set fyre vpon Azotus and all the cities rounde about it, & toke their spoiles, and burnt with fyre the temple of Dagon with all thē that were fled into it.
- 85 Thus were slayne and burnt about eight thousand men.
- 86 So Ionathan remoued the hoste from thence, and camped by Ascalon, where the men of the citie came forthe, & met him with great honour.
- 87 After this went Ionathan and his hoste againe to Ierusalem with great spoiles.
- 88 And when King Alexander heard these things, he begā to do Ionathan more honour,
- 89 And sent him a colar of golde, as the vse is to be giuen vnto suche as are of the Kings blood: he gaue him also Accaron, with the borders thereof in possession.

CHAP. XI.

3 The dissension betwene Ptolemus and Alexander his sonne in law. 17 The death of Alexander. 19 Demetrius reigneth after the death of Ptolemus. 22 Sion is besieged of Ionathan. 42 Demetrius seeing that no man resisted him, sendeth his armie againe. 54 Tryphon moueth Antiochus against Demetrius.

And the King of Egypt gathered a great hoste, like the sand that lyeth vpon the sea shore, and manie ships, and went about through deceit to obteine the kingdome of Alexander, and to ioine it vnto his owne realme.

Vpon this he went into Syria with friendly wordes, and was let into the cities, and men came forthe to mete him: for King Alexander had commanded them to mete him, because he was his father in Law.

- 3 Now when he entred into the citie of Ptolemais, he lefte bands and garisons in euerie citie.
- 4 And when he came nere to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagō that was burnt, and Azotus, and the suburbs thereof that were destroyed, and the bodies cast abroad, and them that he had burnt in the battel: for they had made heapes of them by the way where he shulde passe.
- 5 And thei tolde the King what Jonathan had done, to the intēt thei might get him euil wil: but the King helde his peace.
- 6 And Jonathan met the King with great honour at Ioppe, where they saluted one another, and laye there.
- 7 So when Jonathan had gone with y King vnto the water that was called Eleutherus, he turned againe to Ierusalem.
- 8 So King Ptolemeus gate the dominion of the cities by the sea vnto Seleucia vpon the sea coast, imagining wicked counsels against Alexander,
- 9 ¶ And sent ambassadours vnto King Demetrius, sayig, Come, let vs make a league betwene vs, and I wil giue thee my daughter, which Alexander hathe, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers kingdome.
- 10 For I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter: for he goeth about to slaye me.
- 11 Thus he sclandered Alexander, as one that shulde desire his realme.
- 12 And he toke his daughter from him, and gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsoke Alexander, so that their hatred was openly known.
- 13 Then Ptolemeus came to Antiochia, where he set two crownes vpon his owne head, of Asia and of Egypt.
- 14 In the meane season was King Alexander in Cilicia: for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled against him:
- 15 But when Alexander heard it, he came to warre against him, and Ptolemeus broght forth his hoste, and met him with a mightie power, and put him to flight.
- 16 Then fled Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended: so Ptolemeus was exalted.
- 17 And Zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders head, & sent it vnto Ptolemeus.
- 18 But the thirde day after, King Ptolemeus dyed: and thei that were in the holdes, were slayne one of another.
- 19 And Demetrius reigned in the hūdreth, thre score and seuenth yere.
- 20 ¶ At the same time gathered Jonathan them that were in Iudea, to laye siege vnto the castle, which was at Ierusalem, and they made manie instruments of warre against it.
- 21 Then went there certeine vngodlie persones (which hated their owne people) vnto King Demetrius, and tolde him that Ionathan besieged the castle.
- 22 So when he heard it, he was angrie, and immediatly came vnto Ptolemais, & wrote vnto Jonathan, that he shulde laye no more siege vnto it, but that he shulde mere him and speake with him at Ptolemais in all haste.
- 23 Neuertheles when Jonathan heard this, he commanded to besiege it: he chose also certeine of the Elders of Israel, and the Priests, and put him self in danger,
- 24 And toke with him siluer and golde, and apparel, and diuerse presents, and went to Ptolemais vnto the King, and founde fauour in his sight.
- 25 And thogh certeine vngodlie men of his owne nacion had made complaintes vpon him,
- 26 Yet the King intreated him as his predecessers had done, and promoted him in the sight of all his friends,
- 27 And confirmed him in the hie priesthode with all the honorable things, that he had afore, & made him his chief friēd.
- 28 Jonathan also desired the King, that he wolde make Iudea fre with the thre gouernemēts, & the countrey of Samaria, & Jonathan promised him thre hūdreth talents.
- 29 Whereunto the King consented, & gaue Jonathan writing of the same, containing these wordes,
- 30 KING DEMETRIUS vnto his brother Jonathan, and to the nation of the Iewes sendeth greting.
- 31 We send you here a copie of the letter, which we did write vnto our cousin Lasthenes concerning you, that ye shulde se it.
- 32 King Demetrius vnto Lasthenes his father sendeth greting.
- 33 For the faithfulness that our friends the nation of the Iewes kepe vnto vs, and for their good wil towardes vs we are determined to do them good.
- 34 Wherefore we assigne to the the coasts of Iudea with the thre gouernements Apherema, and Lydda, and Ramathe (which are added vnto Iudea from the countrey of Samaria) and all that apperteineth to all them that sacrifice in Ierusalem: bothe concerning the payments which the King toke yerely aforetime, bothe for the frutes of the earth, & for the frutes of the trees.
- 35 As for the other things appertaining vnto vs of the tenths & tributes, which were due vnto vs, and the customes of salte, & crowne taxes, which were payed vnto vs, we discharge the of all frō hence forth.
- 36 And nothing hereof shalbe reuoked frō this time forth and for euer.
- 37 Therefore se that ye make a copie of these things, and deliuer it vnto Ionathā, that it may be set vp vpon the holy mount in an open place.

- 38 After this when Demetrius the King sawe that his land was in rest, and that no resistance was made against him, he sent away all his hoste, euerie man to his owne place, except certeine bandes of strangers, whome he broght from the yles of the sea then: wherefore all his fathers hoste hated him.
- 39 Now was there one Tryphon, that had bene of Alexanders parte afore, which when he sawe that all his hoste murmured against Demetrius, he went to Simalcue the Arabian, that broght vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander,
- 40 And lay sore vpon him, to deliuer him this yong Antiochus, that he might reigne in his fathers stead: he tolde him also what great euil Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre hated him, and he remained there, a long season.
- 41 Also Jonathan sent vnto King Demetrius to driue them out which were in the castell at Ierusalem, and those that were in the fortresses; for they fought against Israel.
- 42 So Demetrius sent vnto Ionathā, saying, I wil not onely do these things for thee & thy nation, but if opportunitie serue, I wil honour thee and thy nation.
- 43 Now therefore thou shalt do me a pleasure, if thou wilt send me me to helpe me: for all mine armie is gone from me.
- 44 So Ionathā sent him thre thousand strong men vnto Antiochia, and they came vnto the King: wherefore the King was verie glad at their comming.
- 45 ¶ But they that were of the citie, euen an hundreth, and twentie thousand men, gathered them together in the middes of the citie, & wolde haue slaine the King.
- 46 But the King fled into the palace, & the citizens kept the stretes of the citie, and beganne to fight.
- 47 Then the King called to the Iewes for helpe, which came to him altogether, and went abroade through the citie,
- 48 And slewe the same day an hundreth thousand, and set fyre vpon the citie, and toke many spoiles in that day, & deliuered the King.
- 49 So when the citizens sawe that the Iewes had gotten the vpper hand of the citie, and that they them selues were disappointed of their purpose, they made their supplication vnto the King, saying,
- 50 ¶ Grant vs peace, and let the Iewes cease from vexing vs and the citie.
- 51 So they cast away their weapons, & made peace, and the Iewes were greatly honored before the King, and before all that were in his realme, and they came againe to Ierusalem with great pray.
- 52 Then King Demetrius sat in the throne of his kingdome, and had peace in his land.
- 53 Neuertheles he dissembled in all that euer he spake, and withdrew him self from Jonathan, nether did he rewarde him according to the benefices which he had done for him, but troubled him verie sore.
- 54 ¶ After this returned Tryphon with the yong childe Antiochus, which reigned, & was crowned.
- 55 Then there gathered vnto him all the me of warre, whome Demetrius had scattered, and they fought against him, who fled and turned his backe.
- 56 So Tryphon toke the beastes, and wan Antiochia.
- 57 And yong Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathan, saying, I appoint thee to be the chief Priest, and make thee ruler ouer the foure gouernements, that thou maist be a friend of the Kings.
- 58 Vpon this he sent him golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue him leaue to drinke in golde, and to weare purple, & to haue a colar of golde.
- 59 He made his brother Simon also capitaine fro the coastes of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypt.
- 60 Then Jonathan went forth and passed through the cities beyonde the flood, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to helpe him: so he came vnto Ascalon, & they of the citie receiued him honorably.
- 61 And from thence went he vnto Gaza: but they of Gaza shut him out: wherefore he laid siege vnto it, and burned the suburbs thereof with fyre, and spoiled them.
- 62 Then they of Gaza made supplication vnto Jonathan, and he made peace with them, and toke of the sonnes of the chief men for hostages, and sent them to Ierusalem, and went through the countrey vnto Damascus.
- 63 And when Jonathan heard that Demetrius priues were come into Cades, which is in Galile, with a great hoste, purposing to driue him out of the countrey,
- 64 He came against them, & left Simon his brother in the countrey.
- 65 And Simon besieged Beth-sura, and fought against it a long season, and shut it vp.
- 66 So they desired to haue peace with him, which he granted them, and afterwarde put them out from thence, and toke the citie, and set a garison in it.
- 67 Then Jonathan with his hoste came to the water of Genesar, and betimes in the morning came to the plaine of Azor.
- 68 And beholde the hostes of the strangers met him in the plaine, and had layed an ambushments for him in the mountaines.

69 So that when they came against them, the ambushments rose out of their places and skirmished.

70 So that all that were of Ionathans side, fled: and there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the sonne of " Absalomus, and Judas the sonne of Calphi the captaines of the hoste.

Or, Absalomus.

71 Then Jonathan rent his clothes, and cast earth vpon his head, and prayed, 72 And turned againe to them to fight, and put them to flight, so that they fled away.

73 Now when his owne men that were fled, sawe this, they turned againe vnto him, & helped him to followe after all vnto their tentes at Gades, and there they camped.

74 So there were slaine of the strangers the same day about thre thousand men, & Jonathan turned againe to Ierusalem.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jonathan sendeth ambassadours to Rome, 2 And to the people of Sparta, to renewe their couenāt of friendship. 30 Jonathan putteth to flight the princes of Demetrius. 40 Tryphon taketh Jonathan by disceite.

Ioseph. Anti. 13. chap. 3.

1 Jonathan now seeing that the time was mete for him, those certeine men, and sent them vnto Rome, to establish and renew the friendship with them.

Or, Lacedemonians.

2 He sent letters also vnto the Spartians and to other places, for the same purpose.

3 So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the Senate, and said, Jonathan the hie Priest and the nacion of the Iewes sent vs vnto you, for to renewe friendship with you, and the bonde of loue, as intimes past.

4 So the Romaines gaue them fre passports, that men shulde lead them home into the land of Iuda peaccably.

5 ¶ AND THIS is the copie of the letters that Jonathan wrote vnto the Spartians, 6 Jonathan the hie Priest with the Elders of the nacion, and the Priests, and the rest of the people of the Iewes, send greting vnto the Spartians their brethren.

Ioseph. Anti. 13. chap. 5.
Or, Darius.
7 Heretofore were letters sent vnto Onias the hie Priest, from Arius, which then reigned among you, that ye wolde be our brethren, as the copie here vnder written specifieth.

8 And Onias intreated the ambassadour honorably, and receiued the letters: wherein there was mencion made of the bonde of loue and friendship.

9 But as for vs, we nede no suche writings: for we haue the holy bokes in our hands for comfort.

10 Neuertheles we thought it good to send vnto you, for the renewing of the brotherhode and friendship, lest we shulde be strange vnto you: for it is long since the time that ye sent vnto vs.

11 Wherefore we remember you at all seasons continually, and in the feastes and other daies appointed when we offre sacrifices and prayers, as it is mete and conuenient to thinke vpon our brethren.

12 And we reioyce at your prosperous estate.

13 And thogh we haue bene enuironed with great troubles & warres, so that the Kings rounde about vs haue fought against vs, 14 Yet wolde we not be grieuous vnto you, nor to other of our cōfederates & friends in these warres.

15 For we haue had helpe from heauen, that hath soccoured vs, and we are deliuered from our enemies, and our enemies are subdued.

16 Yet haue we chosen Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iafon, and sent them vnto the Romaines, for to renewe the former friendship with them, and league.

17 We commanded them also to go vnto you, and to salute you, and to deliuer you our letters, cōcerning the renewing of our brotherhode.

18 And now ye shal do vs a pleasure to giue vs an answer of these things.

19 ¶ And this was the copie of the letters, which Arius the King of Sparta sent vnto Onias.

20 THE KING of the Spartians vnto Onias the hie Priest sendeth greting.

21 It is founde in writing, that the Spartiās and Iewes are brethren, and come out of the generation of Abraham.

22 And now for somuche as this is come to our knowledge, ye shal do wel, to write vnto vs of your prosperitie.

23 As for vs, we haue writen vnto you, that your cattel and goods are ours, and ours are yours: these things haue we commanded to be shewed vnto you.

24 ¶ Now when Jonathan heard, that Demetrius princes were come to fight against him, with a greater hoste then afore, 25 He went from Ierusalem, and met them in the land of Hamath: for he gaue the not space to come into his owne countrey.

26 And he sent spies vnto their tētes, which came againe, and tolde him, that they were appointed to come vpon him in the night.

27 Wherefore, whē the sunne was gone downe, Jonathan commanded his men to watche, and to be in armes ready to fight all the night, & sent watchmen rounde about the hoste.

28 But when the aduersaries heard that Jonathan was ready with his men to the battel, they feared, and trembled in their hearts,

- hearts, and kindled fyres in their tentes, and fled away.
- 39 Neuertheles Jonathan and his companie knewe it not til the morning: for thei sawe the fyres burning.
- 40 Then Jonathan followed vpon them, but he colde not ouertake them: for they were gone ouer the flood Eleutherus.
- 41 So Ionathā turned to the Arabiās, which were called Zabedei, and slewe them, and toke their spoile.
- 42 He proceded further also, and came vnto Damascus, and went through all the countrey.
- 43 But Simon his brother went forthe, and came to Ascalon and to the next holdes, departing vnto Ioppe, and wanne it.
- 44 For he heard that they wolde deliuer the holde to them that toke Demetrius parte: wherefore he set a garison there to kepe it.
- 45 ¶ After this came Jonathan home, and called the Elders of the people together, and deuised with them for to buyld vp the strong holdes in Iudea,
- 46 And to make the walles of Ierusalem hier, and to make a great mount betwixt the castell and the citie, for to separate it from the citie, that it might be alone, and that men shulde nether bye, nor sel in it.
- 47 So they came together to buyld vp the citie: for parte of the wall vpon the broke of the East side was fallen downe, and they repaired it, and called it Caphenatha.
- 48 Simon also set vp Adida in Sephela, & made it strong with gates and barres.
- 49 ¶ In the meane time Tryphon purposed to reigne in Asia, and to be crowned when he had slaine the King Antiochus.
- 50 But he was afraied that Jonathan wolde not suffer him, but fight against him: wherefore he went about to take Jonathan, and to kil him: so he departed, and came vnto Bethsan.
- 51 Then went Ionathā forthe against him to the battel with fortie thousand chosen men, and came vnto Bethsan.
- 52 But when Tryphon sawe that Jonathan came with so great an hoste, he durst not lay hand vpon him,
- 53 But receiued him honorably, and commended him vnto all his friends, and gaue him rewardes, and cōmanded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him as to him self,
- 54 And said vnto Jonathan, Why hast thou caused this people to take suche trauail, seing there is no warre betwene vs?
- 55 Therefore send them now home againe, and chuse certeine men to wait vpon thee, and come thou with me to Ptolemais: for I wil giue it thee, with the other strong holdes, and the other garisons, and all them that haue the charge of the cōmune affaires: so wil I returne, & departe: for this is the cause of my comming.
- 56 Jonathan beleued him, & did as he said, and sent away his hoste, which went into the land of Iuda,
- 57 And reteined but thre thousand with him, whereof he sent two thousand into Galile, & one thousand went with him self.
- 58 Now as Ionathā entred into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates, and toke him, and slewe all them with the sworde, that came in with him.
- 59 Then sent Tryphon an hoste of fote-men, & horsemen into Galile, & into the great plaine, to destroye all Ionathās companie.
- 60 But when they knewe that Ionathā was taken, and slaine, and those that were with him, they encouraged one another, and came forthe against them readie to the battel.
- 61 But when thei which followed vpon the, sawe that it was a matter of life, they turned backe againe.
- 62 By this meanes all they came into the land of Iuda peaceably, and bewailed Ionathan, and them that were with him, and feared greatly, and all Israel made great lamentacion.
- 63 For all the heathē that were round about them, soght to destroye them.
- 64 For they said, Nowe haue they no captaine, nor anie man to helpe them: therefore let vs now fight against them, and roote out their memorie from amōg men.

CHAP. XIII.

1 After Ionathan was taken, Simon is chosen captaine. 17 Tryphon, taking his children, and money for the redemption of Ionathan, killeth him and his children. 31 Tryphon killeth Antiochus, and possesseth the realme. 36 Demetrius taketh truce with Simon.
43 Simon winneth Gaz. 50 He possesseth the tower of Sion. 53 He maketh his sonne Iohn captaine.

1 NOW when Simō heard that Tryphō gathered a great hoste to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroye it,

2 And sawe that the people was in great trembling and feare, he came vp to Ierusalem, and gathered the people together,

3 And gaue them exhortacion, saying, Ye knowe what great things I, & my brethré, & my fathers house haue done for y^e Law, and the Sanctuarie, and the battels, & troubles that we haue sene.

4 By reason whereof all my brethren are slaine for Israels sake, and I am left alone.

5 Now therefore God forbidde, that I shulde spare mine owne life in anie time of trouble: for I am not better then my brethren.

6 But I wil aduenge my nacion, and the Sanctuarie, and our wiues, and our children: for all the heathen are gathered to-

- 7 In hearing these wordes the hearts of the people were kindled,
- 8 So that they cryed with a loude voyce, sayig, Thou shalt be our captaine in stead of Iudas and Ionathan thy brethren.
- 9 Fight thou our battels, and whatsoeuer thou commandest vs, we wil do it.
- 10 ¶ So he gathered all the men of warre, making haste to finish the walles of Ierusalem, and fortified it rounde about.
- 11 Then sent he Ionathan the sonne of Absalomus with a great hoste vnto Ioppe, which droue them out that were therein, & remained there him self.
- 12 Tryphon also remoued from Ptolemais with a great armie, to come into the lād of Iuda, & Ionathā was with him as prisoner.
- 13 And Simon pitched his tentes at "Addidis vpon the open plaine.
- 14 But when Tryphon knewe that Simon itode vp in stead of his brother Ionathan, & that he wolde fight against him, he sent messengers vnto him, saying,
- 15 Where as we haue kept Ionathā thy brother, it is for money that he is owing in the Kings account cōcerning the busines that he had in hand.
- 16 Wherefore send now an hūdreth talents of siluer, & his two sonnes for hostages, y when he is letten forthe, he wil not turne from vs, and we wil send him againe.
- 17 Neuertheles Simō knewe that he dissembled in his wordes, yet commanded he the money and children to be deliuered vnto him, lest he shulde be in greater hatred of the people of Israel.
- 18 Who might haue said, Because he sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Ionathan dead.
- 19 So he sent the children and an hundreth talents: but he dissembled, and wolde not let Ionathan go.
- 20 ¶ Afterwarde came Tryphon into the land to destroye it, & went rounde about by the way, that leadeth vnto Adora: but wheresoeuer thei went, thether went Simō and his hoste.
- 21 Now they that were in the castel, sent messengers vnto Tryphon, that he shulde make haste to come by the wildernes, & to send them vitailles.
- 22 So Tryphon made readie all his horsemen: but the same night fell a very great snowe, so that he came not, because of the snowe: but he remoued and went into the cōuntry of Galaad.
- 23 And when he came nere to Bascama, he slewe Ionathan and he was buried there.
- 24 So Tryphon returned, & went into his owne land.
- 25 ¶ Then sent Simon to take the bones of Ionathan his brother, & they buried him in Modin his fathers cities.
- 26 And all Israel bewailed him with great lamētacion, & mourned for him verie lōg.
- 27 And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father & his brethren, a buylding high to loke vnto, of hewen stone behinde and before,
- 28 And set vp seuen pillers vpon it, one against another, for his father, his mother, and foure brethren,
- 29 And set great pillers round about them, and set armes vpon the pillers for a perpetual memorie, and carued shippes beside the armes, that they might be sene of men sailing in the sea.
- 30 This sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.
- 31 ¶ Now as Tryphon wēt forthe with the yong King Antiochus, he slewe him traiterously,
- 32 And reigned in his stead, and crowned him self King of Asia, and broght a great plague vpon the land.
- 33 Simon also buylte vp the castels of Iudea, and compassed them about with high towers, & great walles, euen with towers, and gates and barres, and laid vp vitailles in the strong holdes.
- 34 Moreouer Simon chose certeine men and sent them to King Demetrius, that he wolde discharge the lād: for all Tryphons doings were robberies.
- 35 Whereupon Demetrius the King answered him, and wrote vnto him after this maner,
- 36 D E M E T R I V S the King vnto Simon the high Priest, and the friend of Kings, and to the Elders and to the nation of the Iewes sendeth greting.
- 37 The golden crowne, and precious stone that ye sent vnto vs, haue we receiued, and are readie to make a stedfast peace with you, and to write vnto the officers, to release you of the things wherein we made you fre.
- 38 So the things that we haue granted you, shalbe stable: the strong holdes which ye haue buylded, shalbe your owne.
- 39 Also we forgiue the ouersights, and fautes cōmitted vnto this day, and the crowne tax that ye ought vs: and where as was anie other tribute in Ierusalem, it shalbe now no tribute.
- 40 And they that are mete among you to be written with our men, let them be writē vp, that there may be peace betwene vs.
- 41 Thus the yoke of the heathē was takē frō Israel in the hundreth, & seuentie yere.
- 42 And the people of Israel began to write in their letters, & publike instruments, I N T H E F I R S T yere of Simō, the high and chief Priest, gouernour, and prince of the Iewes.

- 43 In those dayes Simon camped against Gaza, and besieged it rounde about, where he set vp an engine of warre, and approached nere the citie, and bet a towre, and toke it.
- 44 So thei that were in the engine, leapt into the citie, and there was great trouble in the citie,
- 45 In so muche that the people of the citie rent their clothes, and climed vp vpon the walles with their wiues, and children, and cried with a loude voyce, beseeching Simon to grant them peace, saying,
- 46 Deale not with vs according to our wickednes, but according to thy mercie.
- 47 Then Simon pitied them, and wolde fight no more against them, but put them out of the citie, and clenfed the houses, wherein the idoles were, and so entred the- reunto with psalmes and thankesgiuing.
- 48 So when he had cast all the filthines out, he set suche men in it as kept the Law, and fortified it, and buylded there a dwelling place for him self.
- 49 Now, when they in the castel at Ierusalem were kept, that they colde not come forth nor go into the countrey, nether bye nor sel, they were very hungrie, and manie of them were famished to death,
- 50 In so muche that they besoght Simon to make peace with them: which he granted them, and put them out from thence, and clenfed the castel from filthines.
- 51 And vpon the thre, and twentic day of the seconde moneth in the hundreth, seuentie and one yere, they entred into it with thankesgiuing, and branches of palme trees, and with harpes, and with cymbales, and with viols, and with psalmes, and songs, because the great enemy of Israel was overcome.
- 52 And he ordeined that the same day shulde be kept euerie yere with gladnes.
- 53 And he fortified the mount of the Temple that was beside the castel where he dwelt him self with his companie.
- 54 Simon also seing that Iohn his sonne was now a man, he made him capitaine of all the hostes, & caused him to dwell in Gazaris.
- Demetrius, and toke him, and broght him to Arsaces, which kept him in warde.
- 4 Thus all the land of Iuda was in rest, so long as Simon liued: for he soght the welth of his nacion: therefore were they glad to haue him for their ruler, and to do him worship alway.
- 5 Simon also wanne the citie of Ioppe to his great honour to be an haven towne, and made it an entrance vnto the yles of the sea.
- 6 He enlarged also the borders of his people, and conquered the countreis.
- 7 He gathered vp manie of their people that were prisoners, and he had the dominion of Gazaris, and Beth-sura, and the castel, which he clenfed from filthines, & there was no man that resisted him,
- 8 So that euerie man tilled his ground in peace, and the land gaue her frutes, & the trees gaue their frute.
- 9 The Elders sate in the open places, & consulted altogether for the commune welth, and the yong men were honorably clothed and armed.
- 10 He prouided vitayles for the cities, and all kinde of munition, so that his glorious fame was renoumed vnto the end of the worlde.
- 11 He made peace thorow out the land, and Israel had perfite mirth and ioye.
- 12 For euerie man sate vnder his vine, & the fig trees, & there was no man to fray them.
- 13 There was none in the land to fight against them: for then the Kings were overcome.
- 14 He helped all those that were in aduersitie among his people: he was diligent to see the Law kept, and he toke away the vngodlie, and wicked.
- 15 He beautified the Sanctuary, and encreased the vessels of the Temple.
- 16 When the Romans heard, and the Spartians had knowledge, that Jonathan was dead, they were very sorie.
- 17 But when they heard, that Simon his brother was made high Priest in his steade, & how he had wonne the land againe with the cities in it,
- 18 They wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renewe the friendship, and bonde of loue, which they had made with Iudas & Jonathan his brethren.
- 19 Which writings were red before the congregacion at Ierusalem, and this is the copie of the letters that the Spartians sent,

CHAP. XIII.

Demetrius is overcome of Arsaces. 11 Simon being capitaine, there is great quietnes in Israel. 18 The covenants of friendship with the Romans, and with the people of Sparta is renewed.

- 1 IN the hundreth, seuentie and two yere gathered King Demetrius his hoste, & departed vnto Media, to get him helpe for to fight against Tryphon.
- 2 But when Arsaces the King of Persia and Media heard, that Demetrius was entred within his borders, he sent one of his princes to take him aliue.
- 3 So he went, and overcame the armie of - & honour, we were glad of their coming,

- 21 And haue registred their ambassage in y^e publike recordes in this maner, Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason the Iewes ambassadours came vnto vs, to renewe amitie with vs.
- 22 And it pleased the people, that the men shulde be honorably intreated, and that the copie of their ambassage shulde be registred in the publike recordes, that it might be for a memorial vnto the people of Sparta: and a copie of the same was sent to Simon the chief Priest.
- 23 After this Simon sent Numenius to Rome, with a great shield of golde of a thousand pounde weight, to confirme the friendship with them.
- 24 Which when the people vnderstode, they said, What thanks shal we recompense againe vnto Simon and his children?
- 25 For he and his brethren, and the house of his father haue stablished Israel, and ouercome their enemies, and haue confirmed the libertie thereof: therefore they wrote this in tables of brasse, and set it vpon pillars in mount Sion.
- 26 The copie of the writing is this, In the eight and twentie day of the moneth Elul in the hundreth, seuentie and two yere, in the thirde yere of Simon the high Priest.
- 27 In Saramel in the great cōgregation of the Priests, and of the people, and of the gouernours of the nacion, and of the Elders of the countrei, we wolde signifie vnto you, y^e manie battels haue bene foughten in our countrey.
- 28 Wherein Simon the sonne of Mattathias (come of the children of Iareb) and his brethren put them selues in dāger, and resisted the enemies of their nacion, that their Sanctuarie, and Law might be maintained, & did their nacion great honour.
- 29 For Jonathan gathered his nacion together, and became their high Priest, and is laid with his people.
- 30 After that wolde their enemies haue invaded their countrey, and destroyed their land, and lay their hands on their Sanctuarie.
- 31 Then Simō resisted them, & fought for his nacion, and spent much of his owne substance, and armed the valiant men of his nacion, and gaue them wages.
- 32 He fortified also the cities of Iudea, and Beth-sura that lyeth vpon the borders of Iudea (where the ordinance of their enemies lay sometime) and set there a garison of the Iewes.
- 33 And he fortified Loppe, which lyeth vpon the sea, and Gazara that bordreth vpon Azotus (where the enemies dwelt afore) and there he placed Iewes, and furnished them with things necessarie for the reparation thereof.
- 34 Now when the people sawe the faithfulness of Simon, and to what glorie he thought to bring his nacion vnto, they made him their gouernour, and the chief Priest, because he had done all these things, and for the vprightnes, and fidelitie that he had kept to his nacion, and that fought by all meanes to exalte his people.
- 35 For in his time they prospered wel by him, so that the heathen were taken out of their countrey, and they also which were in the citie of Dauid at Ierusalem, where they had made them a castel, out of the which they wēt, and defiled all things that were about the Sanctuarie, and did great hurt vnto religion.
- 36 And he set Iewes in it, and fortified it, for the assurance of the land, and citie, and raised vpon the walles of Ierusalem.
- 37 And King Demetrius confirmed him in his high priesthode for these causes,
- 38 And made him one of his friends, and gaue him great honour.
- 39 For it was reported that the Romans called the Iewes their friends, and confederates, & that they honorably receiued Simons ambassadours,
- 40 And that the Iewes, & Priests cōsented, that Simon shulde be their prince, & high Priest perpetually, til God raised vpon the true Prophet,
- 41 And that he shulde be their captaine, and haue the charge of the Sanctuarie, and so set men ouer the workes, and ouer the countrey, and ouer the weapons, and ouer the fortresses, and that shulde make provision for the holie things,
- 42 And that he shulde be obeyed of euery man, and that all the writings in the countrey shulde be made in his name, and that he shulde be clothed in purple, and wear a golde,
- 43 And that it shulde not be lawful for anie of the people or Priests to breake anie of these things, or to withstand his wordes, or to call anie congregation in the countrey without him, or be clothed in purple, or wear a colar of gold:
- 44 And if anie did contrarie to these things or brake anie of them, he shulde be punished.
- 45 So it pleased all the people to agre that it shulde be done to Simon according vnto these wordes.
- 46 Simon also accepted it, and was content to be the high Priest, and the captaine, & the prince of the Iewes, and of the Priests, and to be the chief of all.
- 47 And they commanded to set vpon this writing in tables of brasse, and to fasten it to the wall that compassed the Sanctuarie in an open place, 49 And that a copie of the same shulde be laied vp in the treasure, that Simon and his sunnes might haue it.

CHAP. XV.

8 Antiochus maketh a covenant of friendship with Simon
11 Tryphon is pursued. 15 The Romans wrote letters vnto Kings and nations in the defence of the Iewes.
27 Antiochus refusing the helpe that Simon sent him, breaketh his covenant.

1 Moreouer King Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent letters from the yles of the sea vnto Simon the Priest, and prince of the Iewes, and to all the nation,

2 Concerning these wordes, ANTIOCHVS the King vnto Simon the great Priest, & to the nation of the Iewes sendeth greeting.

3 For so muche as certeine pestilent men haue vsurped y^e kingdome of our fathers, I am purposed to challenge the realme againe, and to restore it to the olde estate: wherefore I haue gathered a great hoste, and prepared shippes of warre,

4 That I may go thorowe the countrey, & be aduenged of them, which haue destroyed our countrey, and wasted manie cities in the realme.

5 Now therefore I do confirme vnto thee all the liberties, whereof all the Kings my progenitours haue discharged thee, and all the payments, whereof they haue released thee.

6 And I giue thee leaue to coyne money of thine owne stampe within thy countrey,

7 And that Ierusalem, and the Sanctuarie be free, and that all the weapons, that thou hast prepared, and the forteresses, which thou hast buylded, & kept in thine hâds, shalbe thine.

8 And all that is due vnto the King, and all that shalbe due vnto y^e King, I forgiue it thee, from this time forth for euermore.

9 And when we haue obtained our kingdome, we wil giue thee, & thy nation & the Temple great honour, so that your honor shalbe knowne thorowe out the worlde.

10 ¶ In the hundreth, seuentie & foure yere, went Antiochus into his fathers land, and all the bandes came together vnto him, so that fewe were left with Tryphon.

11 So the King Antiochus pursued him, but he fled and came to Dora, which lyeth by the sea side.

12 For he sawe that troubles were toward him, and that the armie had forsaken him.

13 Then camped Antiochus against Dora with an hundreth and twentie thousand fighting men, and eight thousand horsemen.

14 So he compassed the citie about, and the shippes came by the sea. Thus they pressed the citie by land, & by sea, in so muche that ther suffered no man to go in nor out.

Joseph Antiq. 13, chap. 21.

15 In the meane season came Numenius, and his companie from Rome, hauing letters written vnto the Kings and countreis, wherein were contened these wordes, 16 LVCIVS THE Consul of Rome vnto King Ptolemeus sendeth greeting.

17 The ambassadours of y^e Iewes are come vnto vs as our friends and confederates from Simon the hie Priest, and from the people of the Iewes to renew friendship, and the bonde of loue, 18 Who haue broght a shield of golde weighing a thousand pounce.

19 Wherefore we thought it good to write vnto the Kings and countreis, that they shulde not go about to hurt them, nor to fight against them, nor their cities, nor their countreie, nether to mainteine their enemies against them.

20 And we were content to receiue of them the shield.

21 If therefore there be anie pestilent felowes fled from their countrey vnto you, deliuer them vnto Simon the hie Priest, that he maye punish them according to their owne Law.

22 The same things were written to Demetrius the King, and to Attalus, and to Arrathes, and to Arsaces, 23 And to all countreis, as Samos, and to them of Sparta, and to Delus, and to Mindus and to Sicione, and to Caria, and to Samos, and to Pamphylia, and to Lycia, and to Halicarnassus, and to Rhodus, and to Phaselis, and to Cos, and to Siden, and to Cortyna, and to Gnidon, and to Cyprus, and to Cyrene.

24 And they sent a copie of them to Simon the hie Priest.

25 ¶ So Antiochus the King cāped against Dora the seconde time euer readie to take it, and made diuers engins of warre, and kept Tryphon in, that he colde nether go in nor out.

26 Thē Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to helpe him with siluer & golde, and muche furniture.

27 Neuertheles, he wolde not receiue thē, but brake all the covenant, which he had made with him afore, and withdrew him self from him,

28 And sent vnto him Athenobius one of his friends to commune with him, saying, Ye withhold Ioppe, and Gazara with the castle that is at Ierusalem, the citie of my realme, 29 Whose borders ye haue destroyed and done great hurt in the land, and haue the gouernement of manie places of my kingdome.

30 Wherefore now deliuer the cities, which ye haue taken, with the tribures of the places, that ye haue rule ouer without the borders of Iudea,

31 Or els giue me for them fīue hundreth talents of filuer, and for the harme that ye haue done, and for the tributes of the places other fīue hundreth talents: if not, we wil come, and fight against you.

32 So Athenobius the Kings friend came to Ierusalem, & when he sawe the honour of Simon, and the cubbert of golde and filuer plate, and so great preparacion, he was astonished, and tolde him the Kings message.

33 Then answered Simon, and said vnto him, We haue nether taken other mens lāds, nor withholden that which apperteineth to others: but our fathers heritage, which our enemies had vnrighteously in possession a certeine time.

34 But when we had occasion, we recouered the inheritance of our fathers.

35 Or, complainest concerning. And whereas thou requirest Ioppe and Gazara, they did great harme to our people, and through our countrey, yet wil we giue an hundreth talents for them. But Athenobius answered him not one worde, 36 But turned againe angrie vnto the King, and tolde him all these wordes, and the dignitie of Simon, with all that he had sene: and the King was verie angrie.

37 ¶ In the meane time fled Tryphon by shippe vnto Orthosias.

38 Then the King made Cendebeus capitaine of the sea coast, and gaue him bādes of foremen and horsemen, 39 And cōmanded him to remoue y^e hoste rowarde Iudea, and to buylde vp Cedron, & to fortifie the gates, & to warre against the people: but y^e King pursued Tryphon.

40 So Cendebeus came vnto Iamnia, and began to vex the people, and to inuade Iudea, and to take the people prisoners, & to slay them.

41 And he buylte vp Cedron, where he set horsemen and garisons, that they might make outrodes by the waies of Iudea, as the King had commanded him.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Cendebeus the capitaine of Antiochus hoste is put to flight by the sonnes of Simon. 11 Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus killeth Simon and his two sonnes at a banquet. 23 Iohn killeth them that lye in waite for his life.

Ioseph Antiq. 13. chap. 23.

1 Then came Iohn vp from Gazara, & tolde Simon his father, what Cendebeus had done.

2 So Simon called two of his eldest sonnes, Iudas and Iohn, and said vnto them, I, and my brethren, and my fathers house, haue euer from our youth vnto this day fought against y^e enemies of Israel, & the matters haue had good successe vnder our hands, & we haue deliuered Israel often times.

3 But I am now olde, & ye by Gods mercie are of a sufficient age: be ye therefore in stead of me, & my brother, & go forthe & fight for our nacion, & the helpe of heauen be with you.

4 So he chose twentie thousand fighting men of the countrey with the horsemen, which went forthe against Cendebeus, & rested at Modin.

5 In the morning thei arose, and went into the plaine field: & beholde, a mightie great hoste came against them bothe of foremē, & horsēmē: but there was a riuier betwixt them.

6 And Iohn ranged his armie ouer against him, and when he sawe that the people was afrayed to go ouer the riuier, he went ouer first him self, and the men seing him, passed through after him.

7 Then he deuided his men, & set the horsemen in the middes of the foremen.

8 For their enemies horsemen were verie manie: but when thei blew the trumpets, Cēdebeus fled with his hoste, whereof manie were slayne, & the remnant gate them to the forteresse.

9 Then was Iudas Iohns brother wounded: but Iohn followed after them, til he came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had buylt.

10 Also thei fled vnto the towres, that were in the fields of Azotus, and those did Iohn burne with fyre: thus were there slaine two thousand mē of them: so he returned peaceably into the land of Iuda.

11 ¶ Now in the field of Iericho was Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus made capitaine, and he had abundance of filuer and golde.

12 (For he had married the daughter of the hie Priest.)

13 Therefore he waxed proude in his minde, and thought to rule the land, & thought to slay Simon and his sonnes by deceit.

14 Now as Simon went about thorowe the cities of the countrey, & studied carefully for them, he came downe to Iericho with Mattathias, and Iudas his sonnes in the hundreth, seuentie & seuen yere, in the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Sabat.

15 Thē the sonne of Abubus receiued them by treason into a litle holde, called Dochus, which he had buylte, where he made them a great banquet, and had hid men there.

16 So when Simon and his sonnes had made good chere, Ptolemeus stode vp with his men, and toke their weapons, and entred in to Simon in the banquet house, and slewe him with his two sonnes, and certeine of his seruants.

17 Whereby he committed a great vilenie, and recompensed euil for good.

18 Then wrote Ptolemeus these things and sent to the King, that he might send him an hoste to helpe him, & so wolde deliuer him the countrey with the cities.

19 He

- 19 He sent other men also vnto Gazara, to take Iohn, and sent letters vnto the captaines to come to him, and he wolde giue the siluer, and golde and rewardes.
- 20 And to Ierusalem he sent other to take it, and the mountaine of the Temple.
- 21 But one ranne before, and tolde Iohn in Gazara, that his father, and his brethren were slaine, and that Ptolemus had sent to slay him.
- 22 When he heard this, he was sore astonished, & laid hands of them that were come to slay him, and slewe them: for he knewe that they went about to kill him.
- 23 Concerning other things of Iohn, bothe of his warres, and of his noble actes (wherein he behaued him self manfully) of the buylding of walles which he made, and other of his dedes,
- 24 Beholde, they are written in the chronicles of his priesthode, fro the time, that he was made high Priest after his father.

THE SECONDE BO

ke of the Maccabees.

CHAP. I.

1 An epistle of the Iewes that dwelt at Ierusalem, sent vnto them that dwelt in Egypt, wherein they exhorthe them to giue thanks for the death of Antiochus. 19 Of the fyre that was hid in the pitte. 24 The prayer of Neemias.

- THE brethren the Iewes, which be at Ierusalem, & they y are in the countrey of Iudea, vnto y brethren the Iewes, that are thoroughout Egypt, send salutation, and prosperitie.
- 2 God be gracious vnto you and remember his couenant made with Abraham, and Isaac, and Iacob his faithful seruants,
- 3 And giue you all an heart, to worship him, and to do his wil with a whole heart and with a willing minde,
- 4 And open your hearts in his Law, and commandements, and send you peace,
- 5 And heare your prayers, and be reconciled with you, and neuer forsake you in time of trouble.
- 6 Thus now we praye here for you.
- 7 When Demetrius reigned, in the hundredth, threscore and nine yere, we Iewes wrote vnto you in the trouble, and violence that came vnto vs in those yeres, after that Iason, and his companie departed out of the holie land and kingdome,
- 8 And burnt the porche, and shed innocent blood. Then we praid vnto the Lord, and were heard: we offred sacrifices and fine floure, and lighted the lampes, and set forth the bread.
- 9 Now therefore kepe ye the dayes of the feast of the Tabernacles in the moneth Challeu.
- 10 ¶ In the hundredth, fourescore and eight yere, the people that was at Ierusalem, and in Iudea, and the counsell and Iudas, vnto Aristobulus King Ptolemeus master, which is of the stocke of the annointed Priests, & to the Iewes that are in Egypt, sendeth greting and helth.

- 11 In so muche as God hath deliuered vs from great perils, we thanke him highly, as though we had ouercome the King.
- 12 For he broght them into Persia by heapes, that fought against the holie citie.
- 13 For albeit the captaine, and the armie, that was with him, seemed inuincible, yet they were slaine in the temple of Nanea, by the disceit of Naneas Priests.
- 14 For Antiochus, as though he wolde dwell with her, came thether, he, and his friends with him, to receiue money vnder the title of a dowrie.
- 15 But when the Priests of Nanea had laid it forthe, and he was entred with a smale companie within the Temple, they shut the Temple, when Antiochus was come in.
- 16 And by opening a priue dore of the vaute, they cast stones, as it were thunder, vpon the captaine & his, and hauing brused them in pieces, they cut of their heads & threwe the to those that were without.
- 17 God be blessed in all things, which hath deliuered vp the wicked.
- 18 Whereas we are now purposed to kepe y purification of the Tēple vpon the fise & twētie day of y moneth Challeu, we thought it necessarie to certifie you thereof, y ye also might kepe the feast of y Tabernacles, & of the fyre which was giuen vs when Neemias offred sacrifice, after y he had buylt the Temple, and the altar.
- 19 For whē as our fathers were led away vnto Persia, y Priests, which sought the honor of God, toke the fyre of the altar priuely, and hid it in an hollow pit, which was drie & in y bottom, & therein they kept it, so that the place was vnknown vnto euerie mā.
- 20 Now after manie yeres when it pleased God that Neemias shulde be sent from the King of Persia, he sent of y posteritie of those Priests, which had hid it to fetch the fyre, and as they tolde vs, they founde no fyre, but thicke water.

21 Then commanded he them to drawe it vp, and to bring it: and when the things appertaining to the sacrifices were brought, Neemias commanded the Priests to sprinkle the wood, and the things laid thereupō with water.

22 When this was done, and the time came that the sunne shone, which afore was hid in the cloude, there was a great fyre kindled, so that euerie man marueiled.

23 Now the Priests, and all prayed, while the sacrifice was consuming: Jonathan began, and the other answered thereunto.

24 And the prayer of Neemias was after this maner, O Lord, Lord God maker of all things, which art feareful, and strong, & righteous, and merciful, and the onelie and gracious King,

25 Onely liberal, onely iuste and almightie and euerlasting, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, and hast chosen the fathers, and sanctified them,

26 Receiue the sacrifice for thy whole people of Israel, and preserue thine owne portion, and sanctifie it.

27 Gather those together, that are scattered from vs: deliuer them that serue among the heathen: loke vpon them which are despised, and abhorred, that the heathen may knowe that thou art our God.

28 Punish them that oppresse vs, and with pride do vs wrong.

29 Plant thy people againe in thine holie place *as Moyses hath spoken. Deut. 30. 3.

30 And the Priests sang psalmes thereunto.

31 Now when the sacrifice was consumed, Neemias commanded the great stones to be sprinkled with the residue of the water.

32 Which whē it was done, there was kindled a flame, which was consumed by the light, that shined from the altar.

33 ¶ So when this matter was knowen, it was tolde the King of Persia; that in the place where the Priests, which were led away, had hid fyre, there appeared water, wherewith Neemias and his companie had purified the sacrifices.

34 The King tryed out the thing, and closed the place about, and made it holie.

35 And to them that the King fauoured, he gaue and bestowed manie giftes.

36 And Neemias called the same place Ephthar, which is to say, purification: but manie men call it Nephthar. 10r, Nephth.

CHAP. II.

¶ How Ieremias hid the tabernacle, the Arke, and the altar in the hill. 23 Of the five books of Iason contained in one.

¶ IT is founde also in the writings of Ieremias the Prophet, that he commanded them, which were caried away, to take fyre, as was declared, & as the Prophet commanded thē that were led into captiuitie,

2 * Giuing them a Law that they shulde Baruc. 6 not forget the commandemēts of y Lord, & that they shulde not erre in their mindes, when they sawe images of golde and siluer, with their ornaments.

3 These and suche other things commanded he them, and exhorted them that they shuld not let y Law go out of their hearts.

4 It is writen also, how the Prophet, by an oracle that he had, charged them to take the tabernacle and the arke, and follow him: & when he came vp into y mountaine where Moyses went vp, *and sawe the herirage of God, Deu. 34.

5 Ieremias went forthe, and founde an holowe caue, wherein he laid the Tabernacle, and the Arke, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the dore.

6 And there came certeine of those that followed him, to marke the place: but they colde not finde it.

7 Which when Ieremias perceiued, he reproued them, saying, As for that place, it shalbe vnknown, vntil the time that God gather his people together againe, & that mercie be shewed.

8 Thē shal the Lord shewe thē these things, and the maiestie of the Lord shal appeare and the cloude also, as it was shewed vnder Moyses, and as *when Salomō desired, that the place might be honorably sanctified. 1. King. 4 2 chro. 6.

9 For it is manifest that he, being a wise man, offred the sacrifice of dedication, and consecracion of the Temple.

10 *And as when Moyses prayed vnto the Lord, the fyre came downe from heauē, & consumed the sacrifice: so, when Salomon prayed, *the fyre came downe frō heauen, and consumed the burnt offering. Leu. 9. 2 2 chro. 6.

11 And Moyses said, Because the sinoffring was not eaten, therefore is it consumed.

12 So Salomon kept those eight dayes.

13 These thigs also are declared in the writings, and registers of Neemias, and how he made a librarie, and how he gathered the actes of the Kings, & of the Prophets, and the actes of Dauid, and the epistles of the Kings concerning the holie giftes.

14 Euen so Iudas also gathered all things that came to passe by the warres that were among vs, which things we haue.

15 Wherefore if ye haue nede thereof, send some to fetch them vnto you.

16 Where as we then are about to celebrate the purification, we haue writen vnto you, and ye shal do wel, if ye kepe the same dayes.

17 We hope also that the God, which deliuered all his people, and gaue an heritage to them all & the kingdome, & the priesthode,

Deu. 30, 5.

hode, and the Sanctuarie,

- 18 *As he promised in the Law, wil shortly haue mercy vpon vs, & gather vs together from vnder the heauen into his holie place: for he hath saued vs from great perils, and hath cleansed the place.
- 19 As concerning Iudas Maccabeus, & his brethren, the purification of the great Temple, and the dedicacion of the altar,
- 20 And the warres against Antiochus Epiphanes, and Eupator his sonne,
- 21 And the manifest signes, that came from heauen vnto those, which manfully stode for the Iewes religion: (for though they were but fewe, yet they ran through whole countries, and pursued the barbarous armies,
- 22 And repaired the Temple that was renowned thorow out all the worlde, and deliuered the citie, and established the Lawes, that were like to be abolished, because the Lord was merciful vnto the whole lenitie)
- 23 We wil assay to abridge in one volume those things, that Iason the Cyrenean hath declared in fise booke.
- 24 For considering the wonderful number, & the difficultie that they haue that wolde be occupied in the rehearsal of stories, because of the diuersitie of the matters,
- 25 We haue deuoured, that they that wolde read, might haue pleasure, and that they which are studious, might easily kepe them in memorie, & that whosoever read them, might haue profite.
- 26 Therefore to vs that haue taken in hand this great labour, it was no easie thing to make this abridgement, but required both the sweat, and watching.
- 27 Like as he that maketh a feast, & seeketh other mens commoditie, hath no small labour: so we also for manie mens sakes are verie wel content to vndertake this great labour.
- 28 Leauing to the autor the exact diligence of euery particular, we wil labour to go forward according to the prescript order of an abridgement.
- 29 For as he that wil buylde a newe house, must provide for the whole buylding, but he that setteth out the plat or goeth about to painte it, seeketh but onely what is comelie for the decking thereof:
- 30 Euen so I thinke for vs, that it appertaineth to the first writer of a storie to enter deeply into it, and to make mencion of all things, and to be curious in euery parte.
- 31 But it is permitted to him that wil shorten it, to vse fewe wordes, and to auoyde those things that are curious therein.
- 32 Here then wil we beginne the storie, adding thus muche to our former wordes, that it is but a foolish thing to abonde in wordes before the storie, and to be shorte in the storie.

CHAP. III.

Of the honour done vnto the Temple by the Kings of the Gentiles. 6 Simon uttereth what treasure is in the Temple. 7 Heliodorus is sente to take them away. 26 He is stricken of God and healed at the prayer of Onias.

- 1 WHat time as the holy citie was inhabited with all peace, and when the Lawes were very wel kept, because of the godlines of Onias the hie Priest, and hatred of wickednes,
- 2 It came to passe that euen the Kings did honour the place, and garnished the Temple with great giftes.
- 3 In so muche that Seleuchus King of Asia of his owne rentes, bare all the costes belonging to the seruice of the sacrifices.
- 4 But one Simon of the tribe of Benjamin being appointed ruler of the Temple, contended with the hie Priest concerning the iniquitie committed in the citie.
- 5 And when he colde not ouercome Onias, he gate him to Apollonius the sonne of Thraseas, which then was gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice,
- 6 And tolde him that the tresurie in Ierusalem was full of innumerable money, which did not belong to the prouision of the sacrifices, and that it were possible that these things might come into the Kings hands.
- 7 Now when Apollonius came to the King, and had shewed him of the money, as it was tolde him, the King chose out Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commandement, to bring him the foresaid money.
- 8 Immediately Heliodorus toke his iourney as though he wolde visite the cities of Coelosyria & Phenice, but in effect to fulfil the Kings purpose.
- 9 So when he came to Ierusalem, and was courteously receiued of the hie Priest into the citie, he declared what was determined concerning the money, & shewed the cause of his coming, and asked if these things were so in dede.
- 10 Then the hie Priest tolde him that there were suche things laide vp by the widdowes and fatherles,
- 11 And that a certeine of it belonged vnto Hircanus the sonne of Tobias a noble man, and not as that wicked Simon had reported, and that in all there were but foure hundred talents of siluer, and two hundred of golde,
- 12 And that it were altogether vnpossible to do this wrong to them that had committed it of trust to the holines of the place and Temple, which is honored thorow the whole worlde for holines & integritie.
- 13 But Heliodorus because of the Kings commandement giuen him, said that in any wise it must be brought into the Kings tresurie.

Or, the first of prouision.*

Zzzz. iii.

- 14 So he appointed a day, and went in to take order for these things: then there was no small grief thorough the whole citie.
- 15 For the Priests fell downe before the altar in the Priests garments, and called vnto heauen vpon him which had made a Law concerning things giuen to be kept, that they shoulde be safely preserved for such as had committed them to be kept.
- 16 Then thei that looked the high Priest in the face, were wounded in their heart: for his countenance, and the changing of his colour declared the sorowe of his minde.
- 17 The man was so wrapped in feare & trembling of the bodie, that it was manifest to thei that looked vpon him, what sorowe he had in his heart.
- 18 Others also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comune prayer, because the place was like to come vnto contempt.
- 19 And the women, girt with sackcloth vnder their breastes, filled the stretes, and the virgines that were kept in, ranne some to the gates and some to the walles, & others looked out of the windowes.
- 20 And all helde vp their hands toward heauen, and made prayer.
- 21 It was a lamentable thing to see the multitude that fell downe of all sortes, and the expectation of the high Priest being in such anguish.
- 22 Therefore thei called vpon the almighty Lord that he wolde keepe safe and sure the things, which were layed vp for those that had deliuered them.
- 23 Neuertheles, the thing which Heliodorus was determined to do, that did he performe.
- 24 And as he & his souldiers were now there present by the treasure, he that is the Lord of the spirits, & of all power, shewed a great vision, so that all thei which presumed to come with him, were astonished at the power of God, and fell into feare, and trembling.
- 25 For there appeared vnto them an horse with a terrible man sitting vpon him, most richely barbed, and he ranne fiercely, and smote at Heliodorus with his fore feete, & it seemed that he that sat vpon the horse, had harness of golde.
- 26 Moreover, there appeared two yong men, notable in strength, excellent in beautie, and comelie in apparel, which stood by him on either side, and scourged him continually, and gaue him manie sore stripes.
- 27 And Heliodorus fell suddenly vnto the ground, and was couered with great darkenes: but they that were with him, took him vp, and put him in a litter.
- 28 Thus he that came with so great company, & manie souldiers into the said treasure, was borne out: for he coulde not helpe him self with his weapons.
- 29 So they did knowe the power of God manifestly, but he was donne by the power of God, and lay destitute of all hope and helth.
- 30 And they praised the Lord that had honored his owne place: for the Temple which a litle afore was full of feare and trouble, when the almighty Lord appeared, was filled with ioye and gladnes.
- 31 Then straight wayes certaine of Heliodorus friends prayed Onias, that he wolde call vpon the moste High to grant him his life, which lay readie to giue vp the ghost.
- 32 So the high Priest, considering that the King might suspect that the Iewes had done Heliodorus some euil, he offered a sacrifice for the helth of the man.
- 33 Now when the high Priest had made his prayer, the same yong men in the same clothe appeared, and stood beside Heliodorus, saying, Giue Onias the high Priest great thanks: for his sake hath the Lord granted thee thy life.
- 34 And seeing that thou hast bene scourged from heauen, declare vnto all men the mighty power of God: & when they had spoken these wordes, they appeared no more.
- 35 So Heliodorus offered vnto the Lord sacrifice, and made great vowes vnto him, which had granted him his life, and thanked Onias, & went againe with his hoste to the King.
- 36 Then testified he vnto euery man of the great workes of God that he had sene with his eyes.
- 37 And when the King asked Heliodorus, who were mete to be sent yet once againe to Ierusalem, he said,
- 38 If thou hast any enemy or traitor, send him thither, & thou shalt receiue him well scourged, if he escape with his life: for in that place, no doubt, there is a special power of God.
- 39 For he that dwelleth in heauen, hath his eye on the place, and defendeth it, & he bea- teth & destroyeth thei that come to hurt it.
- 40 This came to passe concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasure.

CHAP. IIII.

Simon reporteth euil of Onias. 7 Iason obtaineth the office of the high Priest by corrupting the King, 27 And was by Menelaus defrauded by like bribing. 34 Onias is slayne traiterously by Andronicus.

THis Simon now, of whome we spake afore, being a bewraier of the money and of his owne natural countrey, reported euil of Onias, as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, and had bene the auenter of the euil.

2 Thus was he bolde to call him a traitour that was so beneficial to the citie, and a defender of his nacion, and so zealous of the Lawes.

3 But

- 3 But when his malice increased so farre, that thorow one that belonged to Simon, murthers were committed,
- 4 Onias considering the danger of this contention, & that Apollonius as he that was the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, did rage, and increased Simons malice,
- 5 He went to the King not as an accuser of the citzens, but as one that intended the commune welth bothe priuatly and publicly.
- 6 For he sawe it was not possible except the King toke order to quiet the matters, and that Simon wolde not leaue of his folie.
- 7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus, called Epiphanes, toke the kingdom, Iason the brother of Onias labored by vnlawful means to be hie Priest.
- 8 For he came vnto the King, and promised him thre hundredth and thre score talents of siluer, and of another rente, fourescore talents.
- 9 Besides this he promised him an hundredth and fiftie, if he might haue licence to set vp a place for exercise, and a place for the youth, and that they wolde name them of Ierusalem Antiochians.
- 10 The which thing when the King had granted, & he had gotten the superioritie, he began immediatly to drawe his kinisme to the customes of the Gentiles,
- 11 And abolished y^e friendlie priuiledges of the Kings, that the Iewes had set vp by Iohn, the father of Eupolemus, which was sent ambassadour vnto Rome, to become friends and confederates: he put downe their lawes & policies, & broght vp newe statutes, and contrarie to the Lawe.
- 12 For he presumed to buylde a place of exercise vnder the castel, & broght the chief yong men vnder his subiection, and made them weare hattes.
- 13 So there began a great desire to follow the maners of the Gentiles, and they toke vp the facions of strange nacions by the exceeding wickednes of Iason, not the hie Priest, but the vngodlie persone,
- 14 So that the Priestes were now no more diligent about the seruice of the altar, but despised the Temple, and regarded not the sacrifices, but made haste to be partakers of the wicked expenses at the playe after the casting of the stone.
- 15 For they did not set by the honour of their fathers, but liked the glorie of the Gentiles best of all.
- 16 By reason whereof great calamitie came vpon them: for they had them to be their enemies and punishers, whose custome they followed so earnestly, and desired to be like them in all things.
- 17 For it is not a light thing to transgress

- against the Lawes of God, but the time following shal declare these things.
- 18 ¶ Now when the games that were vsed euerie fure yere, were plaide at Tyrus, the King being present,
- 19 This wicked Iason sent from Ierusalem men to loke vpon them, as thogh they had bene Antiochians, & broght thre hundredth drachmes of siluer for a sacrifice to Hercules: albeit they that caryed them, desired they might not be bestowed on the sacrifice (because it was not comelie) but to be bestowed for other expenses.
- 20 So he that sent them, sent them for the sacrifice of Hercules: but because of thos that broght them, they were giuen to the making of galleis.
- 21 ¶ Now Apollonius the sonne of Menestheus was sent into Egypt because of the coronation of King Ptolemeus Philometor: but when Antiochus perceiued that he was euil affectioned toward his affaires, he soght his owne assurance, and departed from thence to Ioppe, and so came to Ierusalem,
- 22 Where he was honorably receiued of Iason, and of the cite, & was broght in with torchel light, & with great showtings, and so he went with his hoste vnto Phenice.
- 23 Thre yere afterwarde Iason sent Menelaus, the foresaid Simons brother, to beare the money vnto the King, and to bring to passe certeine necessarie affaires, whereof he had giuen him a memorial.
- 24 But he, being commended to the King, magnified him for the appearance of his power, & turned the priesthode vnto him self: for he gaue thre hundredth talents of siluer more then Iason.
- 25 So he gate the Kings letters patentes, albeit he had nothing in him self worthie of the hie priesthode, but bare the stomacke of a cruel tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beast.
- 26 The Iason, which had disceiued his owne brother, being deceiued by another, was compelled to flee into the countrey of the Ammonites.
- 27 So Menelaus gate the dominion: but as for the money that he had promised vnto the King, he toke none order for it, albeit Sostratus y^e ruler of the castel required it.
- 28 For vnto him appertained the gathering of y^e customes: wherefore they were bothe called before the King.
- 29 Now Menelaus left his brother Lyfimachus in his stead in the priesthode, and Sostratus left Crates which was gouernour of the Cyprians.
- 30 ¶ Whiles these things were in doing, the Tharsians and they of Mallot made insurrection, because they were giue to the Kings concubine called Antiochus.

- 31 Then came the King in all haste, to appease the busines, leauing Andronicus a man of autoritie to be his lieutenant.
- 32 Now Menelaus, supposing that he had gotten a couenient time, stole certeine vessels of golde out of the Temple, and gaue certeine of them to Andronicus: and some he solde at Tyrus & in the cities thereby.
- 33 Which when Onias knewe of a suretie, he reprobued him, and withdrewe him self into a Săctuarie at Daphne by Antiochia.
- 34 Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus a parte, prayed him to slay Onias: so whē he came to Onias, he couſeled him craftely, giuing him his right hand with an othe: (howbeit he suspect him, & perswaded him to come out of the Sanctuarie) so he slewe him incontinently without any regarde of righteousness.
- 35 For the which cause not onely the Iewes, but many other nacions also were grieved, and toke it heauily for the vnrighteous death of this man.
- 36 ¶ And when the King was come againe from the places about Cilicia, the Iewes that were in the citie, and certeine of the Grekes that abhorred the fact also, complained because Onias was slaine without cause.
- 37 Therefore Antiochus was sorie in his minde, and he had compassion, and wept because of the modestie and great discretion of him that was dead.
- 38 Wherefore being kindled with angre, he toke away Andronicus garment of purple, and rent his clothes, and commanded him to be led through out the citie, and in the same place where he had cōmited the wickednes against Onias, he was slaine as a murtherer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his punishment, as he had deserued.
- 39 ¶ Now when Lyſimachus had done many wicked dedes in the citie through the counſel of Menelaus, and the brute was ſpred abroad, y^e multitude gathered them together against Lyſimachus: for he had caryed out now muche vessel of golde.
- 40 And when the people arose, & were full of angre, Lyſimachus armed about thre thousand, & began to vse vnlaufull power, a certein tyrant being their captaine, who was no lesse decayed in wit then in age.
- 41 But whē they vnderſtoode the purpose of Lyſimachus, some gate stones, some great clubbes, and some cast handfulls of dust, which lay by, vpon Lyſimachus men, and those that inuaded them.
- 42 Whereby manie of them were wounded, some were slaine, and all the other chased away: but the wicked Churchrobber him self they killed besides the treasure.
- 43 For these causes an accusation was laide against Menelaus.
- 44 And when the King came to Tyrus, thre men sent from the Senat pleaded the cause before him.
- 45 But Menelaus, being now couinced, promised to Ptolemeus the sonne of Demetrius muche money, if he wolde perswade the King.
- 46 So Ptolemeus went to the King into a courte, where as he was to coule him self, & turned the Kings minde.
- 47 In so muche that he discharged Menelaus from the accusacions (notwithstanding he was the cause of all mischief) and condēned those poore men to death, which if they had tolde their cause, yea, before the Scythians, they shulde haue bene heard as innocent.
- 48 Thus were they sone punished vniustly, which followed vpon the matter for the citie, and for the people, and for the holie vessels.
- 49 Wherefore they of Tyrus hated that wickednes, and ministred all things liberally for their buryal.
- 50 And so through the couetousnes of the that were in power, Menelaus remained in autoritie, increasing in malice, and declared him selfe a great traitor to the citizēs.

CHAP. V.

a Of the signes and tokens sene in Ierusalem. 6 Of the end and wickednes of Iason. 11 The pursute of Antiochus against the Iewes. 13 The spoiling of the Temple 27 Maccabees fleeth into the wildernes.

1 ABout the same time Antiochus vnderooke his seconde voyage into Egypt.

2 And then were there sene through out all the citie of Ierusalem, fortie dayes long, horsemen running in the aire, with robes of golde, and as bandes of speare men,

3 And as troupes of horsemen set in array, incountering & courſing one against another with shaking of shields and multitude of dartes and drawing of swordes, and shooting of arrowes, and the glittering of the golden armour sene, and harnes of all sortes.

4 Therefore euerie man prayed, that those tokens might turne to good.

5 Now when there was gone forthe a false rumour, as though Antiochus had bene dead, Iason toke at y^e least a thousand mē, and came suddenly vpon the citie, & they that were vpon the walles, being put backe and the citie at length taken,

6 Menelaus fled into the castel, but Iason slewe his owne citizēs without mercie, not considering that to haue the aduantage against his kinsmē is greatest disaduantage, but thought that he had gotten the victorie of his enemies, & not of his owne nacion.

7 Yet he gate not the superioritie, but at the last receiued shame for the rewarde of his traifon,

Or, thus vp.

- traison, and went againe like a vagabound into the countrey of the Ammonites.
- 8 Finally he had this end of his wicked cōuersation, y^e he was accused before Areta, the King of the Arabians, and fled from citie to citie, being pursued of euerie mā, and hated as a forsaker of the Lawes, and was in abomination, as an enemy of his countrey and citizens, and was driuen into Egypt.
- 9 Thus he that had chased manie out of their owne countrey, perished as a banished man, after that he was gone to the Lacedemonians, thinking there to haue gotten succour by reason of kinred.
- 10 And he that had cast manie out vnburied, was throwen out him self, no man mourning for him, nor putting him in his graue: nether was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.
- 11 ¶ Now when these things that were done, were declared to the King, he thought that Iudea wolde haue fallen from him: wherefore he came with a furious minde out of Egypt, & toke the citie by violence.
- 12 He commanded his men of warre also, that they shulde kill, and not spare suche as they met, and to slay suche as went into their houses.
- 13 Thus was there a slaughter of yong mē, and olde men, and a destruction of men & women & children, and virgines, and infants were murdered:
- 14 So that within thre dayes were slayne foure score thousand, and fortie thousand taken prisoners, and there were as manie solde as were slayne.
- 15 Yet was he not content with this, but durst go into the moste holy Temple of all the worlde, hauing Menelaus that traitour to the Lawes, and to his owne countrey, to be his guide,
- 16 And with his wicked hāds toke the holie vessels, which other Kings had giuen for y^e garnishing, glorie and honour of that place, & handled them with his wicked hāds.
- 17 So haucie in his minde was Antiochus, that he considered not, that God was not a litle wrothe for the sinnes of them that dwelt in the citie, for the which suche cōtempt came vpon that place.
- 18 For if they had not bene wrapped in manie sinnes, he, as sone as he had come, had suddēly bene punished, & put backe from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whome Seleucus the King sent to vewe the treasure.
- 19 But God hath not chosen the nacion for the places sake, but the place for the nacion sake.
- 20 And therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterwarde shal it be partaker of the benefites of the Lord, and as it is now forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty, so when the great Lord shalbe reconciled, it shalbe set vp in great worship againe.
- 21 ¶ So when Antiochus had taken eighteen hundred talents out of the Temple, he gate him to Antiochia in all haste, thinking in his pride to make men sayle vpon the drye land, and to walke vpon the sea: suche an hie minde had he.
- 22 But he left deputies to vex the people: at Ierusalem Philippe a Phrygia by birth, in maners more cruel then he that set him there:
- 23 And at Garizin Andronicus, & with the Menelaus, which was more grieuous to the citizens then the other, and was despitel against the Iewes his citizens.
- 24 He sent also Apollonius a cruel prince, with an armie of two & twentie thousand, whome he commanded to slay those that were towarde mans age, and to sell the women, and the yonger sorte.
- 25 So when he came to Ierusalem, he fained peace, and kept him stil vntil the holy day of Sabbath: and then finding the Iewes keping the feast, he commanded his men to take their weapons.
- 26 And so he slewe all them that were gone forth to the shewe, and running through the citie with his men armed, he murdered a great number.
- 27 But Iudas Maccabeus, being as it were the tenth, fled into the wildernes, & liued there in the mountaines with his companie among the beastes, and dwelling there, and eating grasse, lest they shulde be partakers of the filthines.

CHAP. VI.

*1 The Iewes are compelled to leaue the Law of God.
4 The Temple is defiled. 10 The women cruelly punished. 25 The grieuous paine of Eleazarus.*

- 1 NOT long after this, sent the King an olde man of Athens, for to compel the Iewes, to transgresse the Lawes of the fathers, and not to be gouerned by the Law of God,
- 2 And to defile the Temple that was at Ierusalem, and to call it the temple of Iupiter Olympius, and that of Garizin, according as they did that dwelt at that place, Iupiter, that kepeth hospitalitie.
- 3 This wicked gouernement was sore and grieuous vnto the people.
- 4 For the Temple was ful of dissolucion, and glottome of the Gentiles, which dallied with harlots, & had to do with women within the circuit of the holie places, and brought in suche things as were not lawful.
- 5 The altar also was ful of suche things, as were abominable & forbidden by the Law.
- 6 Nether was it lawful to kepe y^e Sabbaths, nor to obserue their anciēt feasts, nor play-

Or, Antiochus

nely to confesse him self to be a Iewe.

7 In the day of the Kings birth they were grievously compelled perforce euerie moneth to banquet, and when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were constrained to go in the procession of Bacchus with garlandes of yuie.

8 Moreouer through the counsel of Ptolemeus, there went out a commandemēt vnto the next cities of the heathen against the Iewes, that the like custome, and banquetting shulde be kept.

Or, eating of the flesh that was sacrificed.

9 And who so wolde not conforme them selues to the maners of the Gentiles, shulde be put to death: then might a man haue sene the present miserie.

10 For there were two women brought forth, that had circumcised their sonnes, whome when they had led rounde about y^e citie (the babes hanging at their breasts) they cast them downe headlong ouer the walles.

11 Some that were runne together into dens to kepe the Sabbath day secretly, were discouered vnto Philippe, and were burnt together, because that for the reuerence of the honorable day they were afraied to helpe them selues.

12 ¶ Now I beseeche those which reade this booke, that they be not discouraged for these calamities, but that they iudge these afflictions, not to be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nacion.

13 For it is a token of his great goodnes not to suffer sinners long to continue, but straight waies to punish them.

14 For the Lord doeth not long waite for vs, as for other nacions, whome he punisheth when they are come to y^e fulnes of their sins.

15 But thus he dealeth with vs, that our finnes shulde not be heaped vp to the ful, so that afterwarde he shulde punish vs.

16 And therefore he neuer withdraweth his mercie from vs: & though he punish with aduersitie, yet doeth he neuer forsake his people.

17 But let this be spoken now for a warnig vnto vs: & now wil we come to the declaring of the matter in fewe wordes.

18 ¶ Eleazar then one of the principal scribes, an aged man, & of a wel fauoured countenance, was constrained to open his mouth, and to eat swines flesh.

19 But he desiring rather to dye gloriously than to liue with hatred, offered him self willingly to the torment, and spit it out.

20 As they ought to go to death which suffer punishment for suche things, as it is not lawful to taste of for the desire to liue.

21 But they that had the charge of this wicked banquet, for that olde friendship of the mā, toke him aside priuely, & prayed him, that he wolde take suche flesh, as was lauful for him to vse, & as he wolde prepare for him self, & dissemble as though he had eaten of the things appointed by y^e King, euen the flesh of the sacrifice, 22 That in so doing he might be deliuered from death, and that for the olde friendship that was among them, he wolde receiue this fauour.

23 But he began to consider discretely, & as became his age, and the excellencie of his ancient yeres, and the honour of his gray heeres, whereunto he was come, & his most honest conuersation from his childehode, but chiefly the holie Law made and giuen by God: therefore he answered consequently, and willed them straight waies to send him to the graue.

24 For it becometh not our age, said he, to dissemble, whereby manie yong persones might thinke, that Eleazar being foure score yere olde and ten were now gone to another religion,

Or, to another manner of life.

25 And so through mine hypocrisie (for a litle time of a transitorie life) they might be deceiued by me, and I shulde procure maledictiō, & reproche to mine olde age.

26 For though I were now deliuered fro the torments of me, yet colde I not escape the hand of the Almighty, nether aliuie nor dead.

27 Wherefore I wil now change this life manfully, and wil shewe my self suche as mine age requireth, 28 And so wil leaue a notable exāple for suche as be yong, to dye willingly & courageously for the honorable & holie Lawes. And when he had said these wordes, immediately he went to torment.

29 Now they that led him, changed y^e loue which they bare him before, into hatred, because of the wordes that he had spoken: for they thoght it had bene a rage.

30 And as he was readie to giue the gost because of the strokes, he sighed and said, The Lord that hath the holy knowledge, knoweth manifestly, that whereas I might haue bene deliuered fro death, I am scourged and suffer these fore paines of my bodie: but in my minde I suffer them gladly for his religion.

31 Euē now after this maner ended he his life, leauing his death for an exāple of a noble courage, and a memorial of vertue, not onely vnto yong mē, but vnto all his naciō.

CHAP. VII.

The punishment of the seuen brethren & of their mother.

1 It came to passe also that seuen brethren, with their mother, were taken to be compelled by the King against the Law, to taste swines flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whippes.

2 But one of them, which spake first, said thus, What sekest thou? and what woldest y^e knowe

Dent. 32. 34.

- knowe of vs: we are readie to dye, rather the to trasgresse the Lawes of our fathers.
- 3 Then was the King angrie, and commanded to heat pannes and cauldrons, which were incontinently made hote.
- 4 And he comanded the tōgue of him that spake first, to be cut out, and to slay him & to cut of the vmoost partes of his bodie in y fight of his other brethren & his mother.
- 5 Now when he was thus mangled in all his membres, he comanded him to be broght alieue to the fyre & to frye him in the panne: & while the smoke for a long time smoked out of the pānc, the other brethren with their mother, exhorted one another to dye courageously, saying in this maner,
- 6 The Lord God doeth regarde vs, & in detaketh pleasure in vs, as Moyse^s declared in the song wherein he testified openly, saying,
That God wil take pleasure in his seruāts.
- 7 ¶ So when the first was dead after this maner, they broght the seconde to make him a mocking stocke: and when they had pulled the skinne with y heere ouer his head, they asked him, if he wolde eat, or he were punished in all the members of the bodie.
- 8 But he answered in his owne langage, & said, No. Wherefore he was tormented forthewith like the first.
- 9 And when he was at y last breth, he said, Thou murderer takest this present life from vs, but the King of the worlde wil raise vs vp, which dye for his Lawes, in the resurrection of euerlasting life.
- 10 ¶ After him was the thirde had in derision, and when they demanded his tongue, he put it out incōtinently, & stretched forth the his hands boldly,
- 11 And spake manfully, These haue I had from the heauen, but now for the Law of God, I despise them, and trust that I shal receue them of him againe.
- 12 In so much that the King & they which were with him, marueiled at the yong mā's courage, as at one that nothing regarded y paines.
- 13 ¶ Now when he was dead also, they vexed and tormented the fourth in like maner.
- 14 And when he was now readie to dye, he said thus, It is better that we shulde chāge this which we might hope for of men, & wait for our hope from God, that we may be raised vp againe by him: as for thee, thou shalt haue no resurrection to life.
- 15 ¶ Afterwarde they broght the fift also & tormented him,
- 16 Who looked vpon the King, & said, Thou hast power among men, and thogh thou be a mortal man, thou doest what thou wilt: but thinke not, that God hathe forsaken our nacion.
- 17 But abide a while, and thou shalt se his great power, how he wil torment thee and thy fede.
- 18 After him also they broght the sixt, who being at the point of death, said, Deceue not thy self foolishly: for we suffer these things, which are worthie to be wōdred at for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God.
- 19 But thinke not thou, which vndertakest to fight against God, that thou shalt be vnpunished.
- 20 But the mother was marueilous aboue all other, & worthie of honorable memorie: for when she sawe her seuē sonnes slaine within y space of one day, she suffred it with a good wil, because of the hope that she had in the Lord.
- 21 Yea, she exhorted euerie one of them in her owne langage, and being ful of courage and wisdom, stirred vp her womanlie affections with a mālie stomacke, and said vnto them,
- 22 I can not tel how ye came into my wombe: for I nether gaue you breth nor life: it is not I that set in order the members of your bodie,
- 23 But douteles the Creator of the worlde, which formed the birth of man, & founde out the beginning of all things, wil also of his owne mercie giue you breth and life againe, as ye now regarde not your owne selues, for his Lawes sake.
- 24 Now Antiochus thinking him self despised, & considering the iniurious wordes, while the yongest was yet alieue, he did exhorte him not onely with wordes, but swore also vnto him by an othe y he wolde make him riche and welthic, if he wolde forsake y Lawes of his fathers, & that he wolde take him as a friēd, & giue him offices.
- 25 But when the yong mā wolde in no case hearken vnto him, the King called his mother, and exhorted that she wolde counsel the yong man to saue his life.
- 26 And when he had exhorted her with manie wordes, she promised him that she wolde counsel her sonne.
- 27 So she turned her vnto him, laughing the cruel tyrant to scorne, & spake in her owne langage, O my sonne, haue pitie vpon me, that bare thee nine moneths in my wombe, & gaue thee sucke thre yeres, & nourished thee, and toke care for thee vnto this age, and broght thee vp.
- 28 I beseeche thee, my sonne, loke vpon the heauen & the earth, and all that is therein, & consider that God made the of things y were not, & so was mākinde made likewise.
- 29 Feare not this hangman, but shewe thy self worthie suche brethren by suffering death, that I may receue thee in mercie with thy brethren.
- 30 While she was yet speaking these wor-des, the yong man said, Whome wait ye for? I wil not obey the Kings commandement: but I wil obey the commandement of the Lawe that was giuen vnto our fathers by Moyfes.

31 And thou that imaginest all mischief against the Hebrewes, shalt not escape the hand of God.

32 For we suffer these things, because of our sinnes,

33 But though the liuing Lord be angrie with vs a litle while for our chastening and correction, yet wil he be reconciled with his owne seruants.

34 But thou, o man without religion & most wicked of all men, list not thy self vp in vaine, which art puffed vp with vncertaine hope, and listest thine hands against the seruants of God.

35 For thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of almightie God, which seeth all things.

36 My brethré that haue suffered a litle paine, are now vnder the diuine couenant of euerlasting life: but thou through the iudgement of God, shalt suffer iust punishment for thy pride:

37 Therefore I, as my brethren haue done, offer my bodie and life for the Lawes of our fathers, beseeching God, that he wil some be merciful vnto our nacion, and that thou by torment and punishment mayest confesse, that he is the onelie God, 38 And that in me and my brethren y^e wrath of the Almighty, which is righteously fallen vpon all our nation, may cease.

39 Then the King being kindled with anger, raged more cruelly against him then the others, and toke it grieuously, that he was mocked.

40 So he also dyed holely, and put his whole trust in the Lord.

41 Last of all after the sonnes, was the mother put to death.

42 Let this now be ynough spoken concerning the bankets, and extreme cruelties.

CHAP. VIII.

5 Iudas gathereth together his hoste. 9 Nicanor is sent against Iudas. 16 Iudas exhorteth his souldiers to constancie. 20 Nicanor is ouercome. 27 The Iewes giue thanks, after they haue put their enemies to flight, diuiding parte of the spoiles vnto the fatherles and vnto the widowes. 30 Timotheus and Bacchides are discomforted. 35 Nicanor sleeth vnto Antiochus.

1 Then Iudas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went priuely into the townes, & called their kinsfolkes & frieds together, & toke vnto the all suche as continued in the Iewes religio, and assembled six thousand men.

2 So they called vpo the Lord, that he wolde haue an eye vnto his people, which was vexed of euerie mā, & haue pitie vpo the Temple that was defiled by wicked men,

And that he wolde haue compassion vpon the citie y^e was destroyed, & almost broght to the grounde, & that he wolde heare the voyce of the blood that cryed vnto him,

4 And that he wolde remember the wicked slaughter of the innocent children, & the blasphemies comitted against his Name, & that he wolde shewe this hatred against the wicked.

5 Now when Maccabeus had gathered this multitude, he colde not be withstand by the heathen: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercie.

6 Therefore he came at vnwares, & burnt vp the townes and cities: yet he toke the moste commodious places, and slewe many of the enemies.

7 But specially he vsed the nightes to make suche assaults, in so muche that the brute of his manlines was spred euerie where.

8 ¶ So when Philippe sawe that this mā increased by litle and litle, and that things prospered with him for the moste parte, he wrote vnto Ptolemeus the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, to helpe him in the Kings busines.

9 Then sent he spedely Nicanor the sonne of Patroclus, a special friend of his, & gaue him of all nacions of the heathē no lesse then twentie thousand men, to rote out the whole generacion of the Iewes, & ioyned with him Gorgias a captaine, which in matters of warre had great experience.

10 Nicanor ordeined also a tribute for the King of two thousand talents, which the Romaines shulde haue, to be taken of the Iewes that were taken prisoners.

11 Therefore immediatly he sent to the cities on the seacoast, prouoking them to bye Iewes to be their seruants, promising to sel fourescore & ten for one talent; but he considered not the vengeance of almightie God, that shulde come vpon him.

12 When Iudas then knewe of Nicanors coming, he tolde the that were with him, of the coming of the armie.

13 Now were there some of them fearful, which trusted not vnto y^e righteousness of God, but fled away, & abode not in y^e place.

14 But the other solde all that they had left, and besoght the Lord together, to deliuer them fro that wicked Nicanor, which had solde them, or euer he came nere them.

15 And though he wolde not do it for their sakes, yet for the couenant made with their fathers, and because they called vpon his holie and glorious Name.

16 And so Maccabeus called his men together, about six thousand, exhorting the not to be afrated of their enemies, nether to feare the great multitude of the Gentiles, which came against them vnrighteously, but to fight manly,

17 Setting

- 17 Setting before their eyes the iniurie that they had vnustly done to the holy place, and the crueltie done to the citie by derision, and the destruction of the orders established by their fathers.
- 18 For they, said he, trust in their weapons & boldenes: but our confidence is in the almightie God, which at a becke can bothe destroy them that come against vs, and all the worlde.
- 19 Moreouer he admonished them of the helpe that God shewed vnto their fathers, as when there perished an hundreth and foure score, and fise thousand vnder* Sen-nacherib,
- 20 And of the battel that they had in Babylon against the Galacians, how they came in all to y battel eight thousand, with foure thousand Macedonians: and when the Macedonians were astonished, the eight thousand slewe an hūdreth & twentic thousand through the helpe that was giuen the from heauen, whereby they had receued many benefites.
- 21 Thus when he had made the bolde with these wordes, & readie to dye for y Lawes and the countrey, he deuided his armie into foure partes,
- 22 And made his owne brethren captaines ouer y armie, to wit, Simō, & Ioseph & Iona than, giuing eche one fiftene hūdreth men.
- 23 And when Eleazarus had red the holie boke, & giuen them a token of the helpe of God, Iudas which led the forwarde, ioyned with Nicanor,
- 24 And because the Almighty helped the, they slewe aboue nine thousand men, and wounded and maimed the moste parte of Nicanors hoste, and so put all to flight,
- 25 And toke the money frō those that came to bye them, and pursued them farre: but lacking time they returned.
- 26 For it was the day before the Sabbath, & therefore they wold no longer pursue the.
- 27 So they toke their weapōs, & spoiled the enemies, & kept the Sabbath, giuing thākes and praising the Lord wonderfully, which had deliuered them that day, and powred vpon them the beginning of his mercie.
- 28 And after the Sabbath, * they distributed the spoiles to the sicke, & to the fatherles, & to the widdowes, & deuided the residue among them selues and their children.
- 29 When this was done, & they all had made a general prayer, they besoght the merciful Lord to be reconciled at the length with his seruants.
- 30 Afterwarde with one cōsent they fel vpo Timotheus and Bacchides, & slewe aboue twētie thousand, & wanne hie & strong holdes, & deuided great spoiles, & gaue an equal porciō vnto y sicke, & to y fatherles, & to y widdowes, & to aged persones also.
- 31 Moreouer they gathered their weapons together, and layed them vp diligently in conuenient places, and broght the remnāt of the spoiles to Ierusalem.
- 32 They slewe also Philarches a moste wicked persone, which was with Timotheus, and had vexed the Iewes manie wayes.
- 33 And when they kept the feast of victorie in their countrey, they burnt Callisthenes that had set fyre vpon the holie gates, which was fled into a litle house: so he receiued a rewarde mete for his wickednes.
- 34 And that moste wicked Nicanor, which had broght a thousand marchants to bye the Iewes,
- 35 He was through the helpe of the Lord broght downe of them whome he thoght as nothing, in so muche that he put of his glorious raiment, and fled ouerthwart the countrey like a fugitiue seruant, and came alone to Antiochia, with great dishonour through the destruction of his hoste.
- 36 Thus he that promised to pay tribute to the Romaines, by meanes of the prisoners of Ierusalem, broght newes, that the Iewes had a "defender, and for this cause none colde hurt y Iewes, because they followed the Lawes appointed by him.

CHAP. IX.

1 Antiochus willing to spoyle Persopolis, is put to flight. 5 As he persecuteth the Iewes, he is stricken of the Lord. 13 The famed repentance of Antiochus. 28 He dyeth miserably.

1 AT the sametime, came Antiochus againe with dishonour out of the countrey of Persia.

2 For when he came to Persopolis, & went about to robbe the Temple, and to subdue the citie, the people ranne in a rage to defende them selues with their weapons, and put them to flight, and Antiochus was put to flight by the inhabitants, and returned with shame.

3 Now when he came to Ecbatana, he vnderstode the things that had come vnto Nicanor, and Timotheus.

4 And then being chafed in his fume, he thought to impute to y Iewes their faute, w had put him to flight, and therefore commanded his charer man to driue cōtinually, and to dispatche the iourney: for Gods iudgement compelled him: for he had said thus in his pride, I wil make Ierusalem a cōmune burying place of the Iewes, whē I come thether.

5 But the Lord almightie & God of Israel smote him with an incurable and inuisible plague: for assone as he had spoken these wordes, a paine of the bowels, that was remediles, came vpon him, & sore tormēts of the inner partes,

6 And that moste iustely: for he had tormēted other mens bowels with diuerse, and strange torments.

7 Howbeit he wolde in no wise cease from his arrogancie, but swelled the more with pride, breathing out fyre in his rage against the Iewes, and commanded to haste the iornay: but it came to passe that he fel downe from the charet that rāne swiftly, so that all the membres of his bodie were bruised with the great fall.

8 And thus he that a litle afore thoght he might commande the floods of the sea (so proude was he beyonde the condicion of man) & to weigh the hie mountaines in y balance, was now cast on the ground, and caried in an horselitter, declaring vnto all the manifest power of God,

AB. 12, 23.

9 *So that the wormes came out of the bodie of this wicked man in abundance: and whiles he was aliue, his flesh fel of for paine and torment, and all his armie was grieved at his smel.

Q. 4, 10, 11, 12, 13.

10 Thus no man colde beare because of his stinke, him y a litle afore thoght he might reach to the starres of heauen.

11 Then he began to leaue of his great pride, & self wil, when he was plagued & came to the knowledge of him self by the scourge of God, & by his paine which increased euerie moment.

12 And when he him self might not abide his owne stinke, he said these wordes, It is mete to be subiect vnto God, & that a man which is mortal, shulde not thinke him self equal vnto God through pride.

13 This wicked persone prayed also vnto y Lord, who wolde now haue no mercie on him,

14 And said thus y he wolde set at libertie y holie citie vnto y which he made haste to destroy it, & to make it a burying place.

15 And as touching the Iewes, whome he had iudged not worthe to be buried, but wolde haue cast them out with their children to be deuoured of the foules & wilde beastes, he wolde make the all like the citizens of Athenes.

16 And whereas he had spoiled y holie Tēple afore, he wolde garnish it with great giftes, and encrease the holie vessels, and of his owne rentes beare the charges belonging to the sacrifices.

17 Yea, & that he wolde also become a Iewe him self, & go through all the worlde that was inhabited, & preache y power of God.

18 But for all this his paines wolde not cease: for the iust iudgemēt of God was come vpō him: therefore despairing of his helth, he wrote vnto the Iewes this letter vnder writen, cōteining y forme of a supplicatiō.

19 ¶ THE KING & prince Antiochus vnto the Iewes his louing citizens wisheth muche ioye and helth and prosperitie.

20 If ye and your children fare wel, & if all things go after your minde, I giue great thākes vnto God hauing hope in y heauē.

21 Thogh I lie sicke, yet I am mindeful of your honour, & good wil for y loue I beare you: therefore when I returned frō the countrey of Persia, and fel into a sore disease, I thoght it necessarie to care for the commune safetie of all,

22 Not distrusting mine helth, but hauing great hope to escape this sickenes.

23 Therefore considering that when my father led an hoste against y high cōtreys, he appointed who shulde succede him:

24 That if anie controuersie happened cōtrary to his expectation, or if that anie tidings were broght that were grieuous, they in the lād might knowe to whome y affaires were committed, that they shulde not be troubled.

25 Againe, when I ponder how that the gouernours, y are borderers, and neighbours vnto my kingdome, waite for all occasiōs, & loke but for opportunitie, I haue ordeined that my sōne Antiochus shal be King whome I oft cōmēded & cōmitted to many of you, whē I went into y hie prouinces, & haue writē vnto hī as followeth hereafter.

26 Therefore, I pray you & require you, to remēber the benefites y I haue done vnto you generally, & particularly, and y euerie mā wil be faithful to me and to my sonne.

27 For I trust that he wil be gentle, & louing vnto you according to my minde.

28 ¶ Thus y murderer & blasphemēr suffered moste grieuouly, & as he had intreated other mē, so he dyed a miserable death in a strange countrey among the mountaines.

29 And Philippe that was broght vp with him, carryed away his bodie, who fearing the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

2 And destroyed the altars, and chapels that the heathē had buylded in the open places,

3 And clenfed the Tēple, & made another altar, & burned stones, & toke fyre of the, and offred sacrifices, & incense two yeres, and six monethes after, and set forth the lampes, and the shewbread.

4 When that was done, they fel downe flat vpon the ground, and besoght the Lord, that they might come no more into suche troubles: but if they sinned anie more against him, that he him self wolde chastē them with mercie, & that they might not

- be deliuered to the blasphemous, and barbarous nations.
- 5 Now vpon the same day, that the strangers polluted the Tēple, on the verie same day it was closed againe euen y^e five & twētieth day of the same moneth, which is Chasseu.
- 6 They kept eight dayes with gladnes as in the feast of the Tabernacles, remēbring, that not long afore they held the feast of the Tabernacles when they liued in the mountaines and dennes like beastes.
- 7 And for the same cause they bare grene bowes, and faire branches and palmes, and sang psalmes vnto him that had giuen the good successe in clenſing his place.
- 8 They ordeined also by a commune statute, and decre that euerie yere those dayes shulde be kept of y^e whole naciō of y^e Iewes.
- 9 And this was the end of Antiochus called Epiphanes.
- 10 ¶ Now wil we declare the actes of Antiochus Eupator, which was the sonne of this wicked man gathering briefly the calamities of the warres, that followed.
- 11 For when he had taken the kingdome, he made one Lysias, which had bene captaine of the hoste in Phenice, & Coclosyria, ruler ouer the affaires of the realme.
- 12 For Ptolemeus that was called Macron, purposed to do iustice vnto the Iewes for y^e wrong, y^e had bene done vnto the. & went about to behaue him self peaceably wth the.
- 13 For the which cause he was accused of his friends before Eupator, & was called oft times traitour, because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had comitted vnto him, and came to Antiochus Epiphanes: therefore seing that he was no more in estimation, he was discouraged, and poysonned him self, and dyed.
- 14 ¶ But when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places, he interteined strangers, & made warre oft times against the Iewes.
- 15 Moreouer the Idumeans that helde the strong holds, which were mere for their purpose, troubled the Iewes, and by receiuing them that were driuen fro Ierusalem, toke in hand to continue warre.
- 16 Then thei that were with Maccabeus made prayers, & besought God that he wolde be their helper, and so they fel vpon the strong holdes of the Idumeans,
- 17 And assailed them sore, that they wanne the places, & slewe all that fought against them on the wall, and killed al y^e they met with, & slewe no lesse the twētie thousand.
- 18 And because certeine (which were no lesse then nine thousand) were fled into two strong castels, hauing all manner of things conuenient to susteine the siege,
- 19 Maccabeus left Simō, & Ioseph, & Zacheus also, & those that were with the, w^{ch} were y^e now to besiege them, and departed to those places w^{ch} were more necessarie.
- 20 Now thei that were with Simon, being led with couetousnes, were intreated for monei, (thorowe certeine of those that were in y^e castel,) & toke seuentie thousand drachmes, and let some of them escape.
- 21 But when it was tolde Maccabeus what was done, he called the gouernours of the people together, & accused those mē, that they had solde their brethren for money, and let their enemies go.
- 22 So he slewe the when they were couict of traifon, & immediatly wā y^e two castels:
- 23 And hauing good successe, as in all the warres that he toke in hand, he slew in the two castels mo then twētie thousand.
- 24 Now Timotheus whome the Iewes had ouercome afore, gathered an armie of strangers of all sortes, and broght a great troupe of horsemen out of Asia to winne Iewrie by strength.
- 25 But when he drewe nere, Maccabeus, and thei y^e were with him, turned to praye vnto God, & sprinkled earth vpon their heads, & girded their reines with sackcloth,
- 26 And fel downe at the fote of the altar, & besought the Lord to be mercifull to them, & to be an enemy to their enemies, and to be an aduersarie to their aduersaries, * as the Law declareth.
- 27 So after the prayer, they toke their weapons, & went on further from the cite, & when they came nere to the enemies, they toke hede to them selues.
- 28 And whē y^e morning appeared, they bothe ioyned together: the one parte had y^e Lord for their refuge, & pledge of prosperitie, & noble victorie, and the other toke courage as a guide of the warre.
- 29 But when y^e battel waxed strong, there appeared vnto the enemies fro heauen siue comeliemen vpon horses with bridles of golde, and two of them led the Iewes,
- 30 And toke Maccabeus betwixt them, & couered him on euerie side with their weapons, & kept him safe, but shot dartes, & lightnings against the enemies, so y^e thei were cofounded with blindenes, and beate downe and ful of trouble.
- 31 There were slaine of fōtemēt wētē thousand & siue hūdreth & six hūdreth horsmē.
- 32 As for Timotheus him self, he fled vnto Gazara, w^{ch} was called a very strong holde, wherein Chereas was captaine.
- 33 But Maccabeus & his cōpanie laid siege against y^e fortress w^{ch} courage for foure daies.
- 34 And thei that were within, trusting to the height of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, and spake horrible wordes.
- 35 Neutrheles vpon the fifth day in y^e morning twētie yōg men of Maccabeus cōpanie, whose hearts were inflamed, because of y^e blasphemies, came vnto y^e war, & w^{ch} bolde stomackes smote downe those y they met.

36 Others also that climed vp vpon the engines of warre against the that were within, set fyre vpon the towers, & burnt those blasphemers quicke with the fyres that they had made, & others brake vp the gates, and receiued the rest of the armie, and toke the citie.

37 And hauing found Timotheus, that was crept into a caue, they killed him, & Chereas his brother with Apolophanes.

38 When this was done, they praised y Lord with psalmes, and thanksgiuing, which had done so great things for Israel, & giuen them the victorie.

CHAP. XI.

3 Lyfias goeth about to ouercome the Iewes.. 8 Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Iewes. 16 The letter of Lyfias vnto the Iewes. 20 The letter of King Antiochus vnto Lyfias. 27 A letter of the same vnto the Iewes. 34 A letter of the Romans to the Iewes.

Verie shortly after this, Lyfias the Kings stewarde, and a kinsma of his, which had the gouernance of the affaires, toke sore displeasure for the things that were done.

2 And when he had gathered about fourescore thousand, with all the horsmen he came against the Iewes, thinking to make the citie an habitation of the Gentiles.

3 And the Temple wolde he haue to get money by, like the other temples of the heathen: for he wolde sel the Priests office euerie yere.

4 And thus being puffed vp in his minde, because of the great number of fotemen, & thousands of horsmen, & in his fourescore elephants,

5 He came into Iudea, and drewe nere to Beth-sura, which was a castel of defence, fise furlongs from Ierusalem, and laid sore siege vnto it.

6 But when Maccabeus, and his companie knewe that he besieged the holdes, they, & all the people made prayers with weping, and teares before the Lord, that he wolde send a good Angel to deliuer Israel.

7 And Maccabeus him self first of all toke weapons, exhorting the other that they wolde leoparde them selues together with him to helpe their brethren: so they went forthe together w a courageous munde.

8 And as thei were there besides Ierusalem, there appeared before them vpon horsebacke a man in white clothing, shaking his harnes of golde.

9 Then they praised the merciful God all together, and toke heart, in so muche that they were ready, not onely to fight w me, but with the moste cruel beasts, & to breake downe walles of yron.

10 Thus they marched forward in array, hauing an helper from heauen: for the Lord was merciful vnto them.

11 And runing vpo their enemies like lions, they slewe eleuen thousand fotemen, and sixteen hundreth horsmen, & put all the other to flight.

12 Manie of them also being wounded, escaped naked, and Lyfias him self fled away shamefully, and so escaped,

13 Who as he was a man of vnderstanding cōsidering what losse he had had, & knowing, that the Hebrewes colde not be overcome because the almightie God helped them, sent vnto them,

14 And promised, that he wolde consent to all things which were reasonable, and persuaue the King, to be their friend.

15 Maccabeus agreed to Lyfias requestes, hauing respect in all things to y commune welth, and whatsoeuer Maccabeus wrote vnto Lyfias concerning the Iewes, the King granted it.

16 For there were letters written vnto the Iewes fro Lyfias cōteining these wordes, LYSIAS vnto the people of the Iewes sendeth greting.

17 Iohn & Abessalom, which were sent fro you, deliuered me the things that you demande by writing, and required me to fulfil the things that they had declared.

18 Therefore what things soeuer were mete to be reported to the King him self, I haue declared them, and he granted that that was possible.

19 Therefore if ye behaue your selues as friēds toward his affaires, hereafter also I wil indeuour my self to do you good.

20 As concerning these things, I haue giue commandement to these men, and to those whome I sent vnto you, to commune with you of the same particularly.

21 Fare ye wel, the hundreth and eight and fortie yere, the foure and twētieth day of the moneth Dioscorinthius.

22 ¶ Now the Kings letter contened these wordes, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto his brother Lyfias sendeth greting.

23 Since our father is translated vnto the gods, our wil is, that they which are in our realme, liue quietly, that euerie man may applie his owne affaires.

24 We vnderstand also that the Iewes wolde not consent to our father, for to be broght vnto the custome of the Gentiles, but wolde kepe their owne maner of liuing: for the which cause they require of vs, that we wolde suffer them to liue after their owne Lawes.

25 Wherefore our minde is that this naciō shalbe in rest, and haue determined to restore them their Temple, that thei may be gouerned according to the custome of their fathers.

26 Thou shalt do wel therefore to send vnto them.

them, and grante them peace, that when they are certified of our minde, they maie be of good comfort, and cherefully go about their owne affaires.

27 And this was the Kings letter vnto the nacion, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto the Elders of the Iewes, and to the rest of the Iewes sendeth greting.

28 If ye fare wel, we haue our desire: we are also in good helth.

29 Menelaus declared vnto vs that your desire was to returne home, & to applie your owne busines.

30 Wherefore, those that wil departe, we giue them fre libertie, vnto the thirtie daye of the moneth of Panthicus,

Or, April.

31 That the Iewes may vse their owne manner of liuing and Lawes, like as afort, and none of them by anie manner of waies to haue harme for things done by ignorance.

32 I haue sent also Menelaus to comfort you.

33 Fare ye wel: the hundreth and eight & fortie yere, the fiftenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

Or, Manlius.

34 ¶ The Romains also sent a letter containing thes ewordes, QVINTVS MEMMIVS and Titus Manilius embassadours of the Romains, vnto the people of the Iewes send greting.

35 The things that Lyfias the Kings kinsman hath granted you, we grant the same also.

36 But concerning that which he shal report vnto the King, send hether some with speede, when ye haue considered the matter diligently, that we may consult thereupō as shalbe best for you: for we must go vnto Antiochia.

37 And therefore make haste and send some men, that we may knowe your minde.

38 Fare wel: the hundreth and eight, and fortie yere, the fiftenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

CHAP. XII.

1 Timotheus troubleth the Iewes. 3 The wicked dede of the of Ioppe against the Iewes. 6 Iudas aduenged of the. 8 He setteth fyre in the hauē of Iamnia. 20 The pursute of the Iewes against Timotheus. 24 Timotheus is taken and let go unhurt. 32 Iudas pursueth Gorgias.

1 When these couenāts were made, Lyfias went vnto the King, and the Iewes tilled their grounde.

2 But the gouernours of the places, as Timotheus & Apollonius the sonne of Gennus, and Ieronimus, & also Demophon, and besides them Nicanor the gouernour of Cyprus, wolde not let them liue in rest and peace.

3 ¶ They of Ioppe also did suche a vile act: they prayed the Iewes that dwelt among them, to go with their wiues and children into the shippes, which they had prepared as thogh they had ought them none euil wil.

4 And so by the commune aduise of the citie, they obeyed them, and suspect nothing: but when they were gone forthe into the depe, they drowned no lesse then two hundreth of them.

5 Now when Iudas knewe of this crueltie shewed against his nacion, he commāded those men that were with him, to make them readie.

6 And hauing called vpon God the righteous Iudge, he went forthe against the murderers of his brethren, and set fyre in the hauen by night, & burnt the ships, and those that fled thence, he slewe.

7 And when the citie was shut vp, he departed as thogh he wolde come againe, and roote out all them of the citie of Ioppe.

8 ¶ But when he perceiued that the Iānites were minded to do in like manner vnto the Iewes, which dwelt among them,

9 He came vpon the Iamnites by night, & set fyre in the hauē with the nauie, so that the light of the fyre was sene at Ierusalē, vpon a two hundreth and fortie furlongs.

10 Now when they were gone from thence nine furlongs, in their iourney towarde Timotheus, about fise thousand me of fise and fise hundreth horsemen of the Arabians set vpon him.

11 So the battel was sharpe, but it prospered with Iudas thorowe the helpe of God: the Nomades of Arabia, being ouercome, bea so called because they were thepherds.

12 And Iudas thinking that they shulde inde be profitable cōcerning manre thigs, granted them peace: whereupō thei shoke hands, and so they departed to their tents.

13 ¶ Iudas also assaltd a citie called Cais, which was strong by reason of a bridge, and fenced rounde about with walles, and had diuers kindes of people dwelling therein.

14 So thei were within it, put suche trust in the strength of the walles, and in store of vitailles, that they were the slacker in their doings, reuiling the that were with Iudas, and reproching the: yea, they blasphemed & spake suche wordes as were not lawfull.

15 But Maccabeus souldiers, calling vpon the great Prince of y worlde (which without anie instruments, or engins of warre, did cast downe the walles of Iericho, in the time of Iesus) gaue a fierce assalt against the walles, and toke the citie by the wil of God, and made an exceding great slaughter, in so muche that a lake of two furlongs broad, which laye thereby, semed to flowe with blood.

Ios. 6. 20.

- 17 ¶ Then departed thei from thence, seuen hundred and fiftie furlongs, and came to Characa vnto the Iewes, that are called Tubieni.
- 18 But they founde not Timotheus there: for he was departed from thence, and had done nothing, and had left a garison in a verie strong holde.
- 19 But Dositheus, & Sosipater, which were captaines with Maccabeus, went forthe, & slewe those that Timotheus had left in the forteresse more the ten thousand men.
- 20 And Maccabeus prepared, & ranged his armie by bandes, & went courageously against Timotheus, which had with him an hundred and twentie thousand men of fore, and two thousand and fise hundredth horsemen.
- 21 Whē Timotheus had knowledge of Iudas comming, he sent the women, & children, and the other baggage afore vnto a forteresse called Carnion (for it was hard to besiege, & vneasie to come vnto because of the straites on all sides.)
- 22 But when Iudas first bade came in sight, the enemies were smiten with feare, and a trembling was among them thorow the presence of him that seeth all things, in so much that thei fleing one here, another there, were oft times hurt by their owne people, and wounded with the pointes of their owne swordes.
- 23 But Iudas was verie earnest in pursuing, and slewe those wicked men: yea, he slewe thirtie thousand men of them.
- 24 Timotheus also him self fell into the hands of Dositheus, & Sosipater, whome he besoght with muche crafte to let him go with his life, because he had manie of the Iewes parents & the brethren of some of them, which if they put him to death, shulde be despised.
- 25 So when he had assured the with manie wordes, & promised that he wolde restore them without hurt, thei let him go for the helth of their brethren.
- 26 ¶ Then went Maccabeus towarde Carnion, and Atargation, and slewe fise and twentie thousand persones.
- 27 And after that he had chased away and slayne the, Iudas remoued the hoste towarde Ebron a strong citie, wherein was Lyfias & a great multitude of all naciōs, & the strong yong men kept the walles defending the mightely: there was also great preparacion of engins of warre, & dartes.
- 28 But when they had called vpon the Lord, which with his power breaketh the strength of the enemies, they wan the citie, & slewe fise and twentie thousand of them that were within.
- 29 ¶ Fro thence went thei to Scythopolis, which lieth six hundred furlongs fro Ierusalē.
- 30 But when the Iewes which dwelt there, testified, that the Scythopolitans delt lovingly with them, & intreated them kindly in the time of their aduersitie,
- 31 They gaue them thanks, desiring them to be friendlie stil vnto them, and so thei came to Ierusalem, as the feast of the weekes approached.
- 32 ¶ And after the feast called Pentecost thei went forthe against Gorgias the gournour of Idumea.
- 33 Who came out with thre thousand men of fote and foure hundredth horsemen.
- 34 And when they ioyned together, a fewe of the Iewes were slayne,
- 35 And Dositheus one of the Baccenors, which was on horsebacke and a mightie man, toke Gorgias, and laied holde of his garment, and drewe him by force, because he wolde haue taken the wicked man aliue: but an horseman of Thracia fell vpon him, and smote of his shulder, so that Gorgias fled into Marisa.
- 36 And when they that were with Eserin, ^{Or, with Gorgias} had foughten long, and were wearie, Iudas called vpon the Lord, that he wolde shewe him self to be their helper, and captaine of the field.
- 37 And then he began in his owne langage, and sung psalmes with a loude voyce, in so much that straight wayes he made the that were about Gorgias, to take their flight.
- 38 ¶ So Iudas gathered his hoste, and came into the citie of Odolla. And when the seuenth day came, they clenfed them selues (as the custome was) and kept the Sabbath in the same place.
- 39 And vpon the daye following, as necessitie required, Iudas and his companie came to take vp the bodies of them that were slayne, and to burye them with their kinsmen in their fathers graues.
- 40 Now vnder the coates of euerie one, that was slayne, they founde jewels that had bene consecrate to the idoles of the ^{Deut. 7. 25.} ^{Josh. 7. 26.} Iammites, which thing is forbidden the Iewes by the Law. The euerie man sawe, that this was the cause wherefore thei were slayne.
- 41 And so euerie man gaue thanks vnto the Lord, the righteous Iudge, which had opened the things that were hid.
- 42 And they gaue them selues to prayer, & besoght him, that they shulde not viterly be destroyed for the faute committed. Besides that, noble Iudas exhorted the people to kepe them selues from sinne, for so much as they sawe before their eyes the things which came to passe by the sinne of these that were slayne,
- 43 And hauing made a gathering through the companie, sent to Ierusalē about two thousand thousand drachmes of siluer, to offer a sin-offering, doing very wel, and honestly that he thoght of the resurrection.

44 For if he had not hoped, that thei which were slaine, shulde rise againe, it had bene superfluous, and vaine, to pray for the dead.

45 And therefore he perceiued, that there was great fauour laid vp for those y^e dyed godly. (It was an holie, & a good thoght) So he made a reconciliation for the dead that they might be deliuered from sinne.

CHAP. XIII.

The coming of Eupator into Iudea. 4 The death of Menelaus. 10 Maccabeus going to fight against Eupator, moueth his souldiers vnto prayer. 15 He killeth fouretene thousand men in the tentes of Antiochus. 21 Rhodocus the betrayer of the Iewes is taken.

IN the hundreth, fortie and nine yere it was tolde Iudas, that Antiochus Eupator was comming with a great power into Iudea,

2 And Lyfias the stewarde and ruler of his affaires with him, hauing bothe in their armie an hundreth and tenthousand men of fote of the Grecians, and fise thousand horsemen, and two and twentie elephants, and thre hundreth charrets set with hookes.

3 Menelaus also ioyned him self with them and with great disceit encouraged Antiochus, not for the safegard of the countrei, but because he thoght to haue bene made the gouernour.

4 But the King of Kings moued Antiochus minde against this wicked man, and Lyfias informed the King that this man was the cause of all mischief, so that the King commanded to bring him to Berea to put him vnto death as the maner was in that place.

5 Now there was in that place a tower of fiftie cubites high, ful of ashes, and it had an instrument that turned rounde, and on euerie side it roured downe into the ashes.

6 And there whosoeuer was condemned of sacrilege, or of anie other grieuous crime, was cast of all men to the death.

7 And so it came to passe that this wicked man shulde dye suche a death, and it was a moste iuste thing that Menelaus shulde want buryal,

8 For because he had committed manie finnes by the altar, whose fyre and ashes were holie: he him self also dyed in the ashes.

9 ¶ Now the King raged in his minde, and came to shewe him self more cruel vnto the Iewes then his father.

10 Which things when Iudas perceiued, he commanded the people to call vpon the Lord night and day, that if euer he had holpen them, he wolde now helpe them, when they shulde be put from their Law, from their countrey and from the holie Temple:

11 And that he wolde not suffer the people, which a litle afore began to recouer, to be subdued vnto the blasphemous nations.

12 So when they had done this all together, and besoght the Lord for mercie with weping, and fasting, and falling downe thre daies together, Iudas exhorted them to make them selues readie.

13 And he being aparte with the Elders, toke counsel to go forthe, afore the King broght his hoste into Iudea, & shulde take the citie, & commit the matter to the helpe of the Lord.

14 So committing the charge to the Lord of the worlde, he exhorted his souldiers to fight manfully, euen vnto death for the Lawes, the Temple, the citie, their countrey, and the commune wealth, and camped by Modin.

15 And so giuing his souldiers for a watche worde, The victorie of God, he piked out the manliest yong men, and went by night into the Kings campe, and slewe of the hoste fouretene thousand men, & the greatest elephant with all that sate vpon him.

16 Thus when they had broght a great feare, and trouble in the campe, & all things went prosperously with them, they departed.

17 This was done in the breake of the day, because the protection of the Lord did helpe them.

18 ¶ Now when the King had tasted the manlines of the Iewes, he went about to take the holdes by policie, 19 And marched toward Beth-sura, which was a strong holde of the Iewes: but he was chased away, hurt and lost of his men.

20 For Iudas had sent vnto them that were in it, suche things as were necessarie.

21 But Rhodocus which was in the Iewes hoste, disclosed the secretes to y^e enemies: therefore he was soght out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in prison.

22 After this did the King commune with them that were in Beth-sura, and "toke truece with them, departed, and ioyned battel with Iudas, who ouercame him."

23 But when he vnderstode, that Philippe (whome he had left to be ouerseer of his busines at Antiochia) did rebell against him, he was astonished, so that he yelded him self to the Iewes, and made them an orhe to do all things that were right, and was appeased towarde them, & offered sacrifice and adorned the Temple, and shewed great gentlenes to the place.

- 24 And embraced Maccabeus, and made him captaine and gouernour from Ptolemais vnto the Gerreneans.
- 25 Neuertheles, whē he came to Ptolemais, the people of the citie were not content wth this agreement: and because they were grieued, they wolde that he shulde breake the couenants.
- 26 Then went Lyfias vp into the iudgemēt feat, and excused the fact as wel as he colde, & perswaded them, and pacified them, and made them wel affectioned, and came againe vnto Antiochia. This is the matter concerning the Kings iourney, and his returne.

CHAP. XIII.

Demetrius moued by Alcimus sendeth Nicanor to kill the Iewes. 18 Nicanor maketh a compasse with the Iewes. 29 Which he yet breaketh through the motion of the King. 37 Nicanor commandeth Razis to be taken, who slayeth him self.

- 1 After thre yeres was Iudas enformed that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a great power and name by the hauē of Tripolis,
- 2 When he had wonne the countrey, and slaine Antiochus and his lieutenant Lyfias.
- 3 Now Alcimus, which had bene the high Priest, and wilfully defiled him self in the time that all things were cōfounded, seing that by no meanes he colde saue him self, nor haue anie more entrance to the holie altar,
- 4 He came to King Demetrius in the hundredeth, fiftie and one yere, presenting vnto him a crowne of golde, and a palme, & of the boughes, which were vsed solemnely in the Temple, and that day he helde his tongue.
- 5 But when he had gotten opportunitie, & occasion for his rage, Demetrius called him to counsell, and asked him what deuises or counsels the Iewes leane vnto.
- 6 To the which he answered, the Iewes that be called Asideans whose captaine is Iudas Maccabeus, mainteine warres, and make insurrections, and wil not let the realme be in peace.
- 7 Therefore I, being depriued of my fathers honour (I meane the high priesthode) am now come hether,
- 8 Partely because I was wel affectioned vnto the Kings affaires, and secondly because I sought y^e profite of mine owne citizē: for all our people, thorowe their rashnes, are not a litle troubled.
- 9 Wherefore, o King, seing thou knowest all these things, make prouision for the countrey, and our nation which is abused, according to thine owne humanitie, that is readie to helpe all men.
- 10 For as long as Iudas liueth, it is not possible that the matter shulde be wel.
- 11 When he had spoken these wordes, other friends also hauing euil wil at Iudas, set Demetrius on fyre.
- 12 Who immediatly called for Nicanor, the ruler of the elephantes, and made him captaine ouer Iudea,
- 13 And sent him forthe, commanding him to slay Iudas, and to scatter thē that were with him, & to make Alcimus high Priest of the great Temple.
- 14 Then the heathen which fled out of Iudea from Iudas, came to Nicanor by flockes, thinking the harme and calamities of the Iewes to be their welfare.
- 15 Now whē the Iewes heard of Nicanors comming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they sprinkled them selues with earth, & prayed vnto him which had appointed him self a people foreuer, and did alway defende his owne porcion with euidēt tokens.
- 16 So at the commandement of the captaine, they remoued straight wayes from thence, and came to the towne of Dessan,
- 17 Where Simō Iudas brother had ioyned battel with Nicanor, and was somewhat astonished thorowe the sudden silence of the enemies.
- 18 Neuertheles Nicanor hearing the manlines of them that were with Iudas, & the bolde stomackes that they had for their countrey, durst not proue the matter with blood shedding.
- 19 Wherefore, he sent Posidonius, ^{Or, Theodoras.} "Theodocius, and ^{Or, Matthias} "Matthias before, to make peace.
- 20 So when they had taken long aduise mēt thereupō, and the captaine shewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one minde, and consented to the couenants.
- 21 And they appointed a day when they shulde particularly come together: so whē the day was come, they set for euerie man his stoole.
- 22 Neuertheles Iudas commanded certeine men of armes to waite in conuenient places, lest there shulde suddenly arise anie euil thorowe the enemies: and so they communed together of the things whereupon they had agreed.
- 23 Nicanor, while he abode at Ierusalem, did none hurt, but sent away the people that were gathered together.
- 24 He ^{Or, had Iudas before his eyes.} loued Iudas, and fauoured him in his heart.
- 25 He praid him also to take a wife, and to beget children: so he married, & they liued together.
- 26 But Alcimus perceiuing the loue that was betwene them, and vnderstanding the couenantes that were made, came to Demetrius, and tolde him that Nicanor had taken strange matters in hand, and ordeined Iudas a traitour to the realme, to be his successeur.

- 27 Then the King was displeased, and by the reportes of this wicked man, he wrote to Nicanor, saying, that he was very angry for the covenants, commanding him that he shulde send Maccabeus in all haste prisoner vnto Antiochia.
- 28 When these things came to Nicanor, he was astonished & sore grieved, y^e he shulde breake the things wherein they had agreed, seeing that that man had committed no wickednes.
- 29 But because it was not comodious to him to withstand the King, he sought craftely to accomplish it.
- 30 Notwithstanding when Maccabeus perceived that Nicanor beganne to be rough vnto him, and that he intreated him more rudely the he was wonte, he perceived that suche rigour came not of good, and therefore he gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrew him self from Nicanor.
- 31 But the other perceiuing that he was persecuted by Maccabeus worthe policie, came into the great & holie Temple, and commanded the Priests, which were offering their vsual sacrifices, to deliuer him the man.
- 32 And when they sware that they colde not tell where the man was, whome he sought,
- 33 He stretched out his right hand toward the Temple, and made an othe in this manner, If ye wil not deliuer me Iudas as a prisoner, I wil make this Temple of God a plaine field, and wil breake downe the altar, and wil erect a notable Temple vnto Bacchus.
- 34 After these wordes he departed: then the Priests lift vp their hands toward heauē, and besought him that was euer the defender of their nation, saying in this maner,
- 35 Thou, o Lord of all things, which hast nede of nothing, woldest that the Temple of thine habitation shulde be among vs.
- 36 Therefore now, o moste holie Lord, kepe this house euer vndefiled, which lately was clenfed, and stoppe all the mouths of the vnrighteous.
- 37 Now was there accused vnto Nicanor, Razis one of the Elders of Ierusalem, a louer of the citie, and a man of very good reporte, which for his loue was called a father of the Iewes.
- 38 For this man afore times when the Iewes were minded to kepe them selues vndefiled and pure, being accused to be of the religion of the Iewes, did offer to spend his bodie and life with all constancie for the religion of the Iewes.
- 39 So Nicanor willing to declare the hatred that he bare to the Iewes, sent about fife hundred men of warre to take him.

40 For he thought by taking him to do the Iewes much hurte.

41 But when this companie wolde haue taken his castel, and wolde haue broken the gates by violence, and commanded to bring fyre to burne the gates, so that he was ready to be taken on euery side, he ^a fell on his sworde,

42 Willing rather to dye manfully, the to giue him self into the hands of wicked men, and to suffer reproche vnworthie for his noble stocke.

43 Notwithstanding what time as he missed of his stroke for haste, and the multitude rushed in violently between the dores, he ran boldly to the wall, and cast him self downe manfully among the multitude.

44 Which conueyed them selues lightly away, and gaue place, so that he fell vpon his bellie.

45 Neuertheles while there was yet breth in him, being kindled in his minde, he rose vp, and thogh his blood gushed out like a fountaine, and he was verie sore wounded, yet he ran thorow the middes of the people,

46 And gate him to y^e toppe of an hie rocke: so when his blood was vtterly gone, he toke out his owne bowels with bothe his hands, and threwe them vpon the people, calling vpon the Lord of life and spirit, that he wolde restore them againe vnto him, and thus he dyed.

CHAP. XV.

^a Nicanor goeth about to come vpon Iudas on the Sabbath day. ^b The blasphemie of Nicanor. ^c 14 Maccabeus expounding vnto the Iewes the vision, incourageth them. ^d 21 The prayer of Maccabeus. ^e 30 Maccabeus commandeth Nicanors head and hands to be cut off, and his tongue to be giuen vnto the foules. ^f 39 The author excuseth him self.

1 Now when Nicanor knewe that Iudas and his companie were in the countrey of Samaria, he thought with all assurance to come vpon them, vpon the Sabbath day.

2 Neuertheles the Iewes that were compelled to go with him, said, O kill not so cruelly and barbarously, but honour and sanctifie the day, that is appointed by him that seeth all things.

3 But this moste wicked persone demaded, Is there a Lord in heauen, that commanded the Sabbath day to be kept?

4 And whē they said, There is a liuing Lord, which ruleth in the heauen, who commanded the seuenth day to be kept,

5 Thē he said, And I am mightie vpon earth to commande them for to arme them seiuces, and to performe the Kings busines. Notwithstanding, he colde not accomplish his wicked enterprife.

6 For Nicanor lifted vp with great pride, purposed to set vp a memorial of the victorie obtained of all them that were with Iudas.

- 7 But Maccabeus had euer sure confidence and a perfite hope that the Lord wolde helpe him, 8 And exhorted his people not to be afraid at the coming of the heathen, but alway to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, and to trust now also, that they shulde haue the victorie by the Almightye.
 9 Thus he encouraged them by the Law & Prophetes, putting them in remembrance of the battels that they had wone afore, & so made them more willing,
 10 And stirred vp their hearts, and shewed them also the disceitfulnes of the heathē, and how they had broken their othes.
 11 Thus he armed euerie one of them, not with the assurance of shields and speares, but with wholsome wordes and exhortations, and shewed them a dreame worthie to be beleued, and reioyed them greatly.
 12 And this was his vision, He thoght that he sawe Onias (which had bene the high Priest, a vertuous & a good man, reuerent in behauiour, and of sober conuersation, wel spoken, and one that had bene exercised in all pointes of godlines from a child) holding vp his hands toward heauen, and praying for the whole people of the Iewes.
 13 ¶ After this there appeared vnto him another man which was aged, honorable, and of a wonderful dignitie, and excellencie about him.
 14 And Onias spake, & said, This is a loue of the brethren, who prayeth muche for the people, and for the holie citie, to wit, Ieremias the Prophet of God.
 15 He thoght also that Ieremias helde out his right hand, and gaue vnto Iudas a sworde of golde: & as he gaue it, he spake thus,
 16 Take this holie sworde a gifte fro God, wherewith thou shalt wounde the aduersaries.
 17 And so being comforted by the wordes of Iudas, which were very swete and able to stirre them vp to valiantnes and to encourage the heartes of the yong men, they determined to pitch no campe, but courageously to set vpon them, and māfully to assaile them, and to trye the matter hand to hand, because the citie and the Sanctuarie, and the Temple were in danger.
 18 As for their wiues, and children, and brethren and kinfolkes, they set lesse by their danger: but their greatest and principal feare was for the holie Temple.
 19 Again they that were in the citie, were careful for the armie that was abroad.
 20 Now whiles they all waited for the tryal of the matter, and the enemies now mee with them, and the hoste was set in aray, and the beastes were separated into conuenient places, and the horsemen were placed in the wings,

- 21 Maccabeus considering the coming of the multitude and the diuers preparations of weapons, and the fiercenes of the beastes, helde vp his hands toward heauen, calling vpon the Lord that doeth wonders, and that looked vpon the, knowing that the victorie cometh not by the weapons, but that he giueth the victorie to them that are worthie, as semeth good vnto him.
 22 Therefore in his prayer he said after this maner, O Lord, * thou that didest send thine Angel in the time of Ezecias King of Iudea, who in the hoste of Sennacherib slewe an hundreth, fore score & fise thousand,
 23 Send now also thy good Angel before vs, O Lord of heauens, for a feare and dreade vnto them, 24 And let the be discōfited by the strength of thine arme, which come against thine holie people to blaspheme. Thus with these wordes he made an end.
 25 Then Nicanor and they that were with him, drewe nere with trumpets and shoutings for ioye.
 26 But Iudas and his companie praying and calling vpon God, incountered with the enemies, 27 So that with their hands they fought, but with their hearts they prayed vnto God, and slewe no lesse then fise & thirtie thousand mē: for thorowe the presence of God they were wonderously comforted.
 28 Now when they left of, & were turning againe with ioye, they vnderstode that Nicanor him self was slaine for all his armour.
 29 Then they made a great shoute and a crye, praising the Almightye in their owne langage.
 30 Therefore Iudas, which was euer y chief defender of his citizens bothe in bodie & minde, and which bare euer good affection towards them of his nacion, commanded to smite of Nicanors head, with his hand and shulder, and to bring it to Ierusalem.
 31 And when he came there, he called all the of his nacion, and set the Priests by the altar, and sent for them of the castel, 32 And shewed the wicked Nicanors head, & the hand of that blasphemour which he had holden vp against the holie Temple of the Almightye with proude bragges.
 33 He caused the tongue also of wicked Nicanor to be cut in litle pieces, & to be cast vnto the foules, and that the rewardes of his madnes shulde be hanged vp before the Temple.

THE HOLY GOSPEL

of Iesus Christ, ^b according to Matthewe.

THE ARGUMENT.

^a This worde signifieth good tidings, and is taken here for the storie which containeth the ioyful message of the coming of the Sonne of God promised from the beginning.

^b That is, written and taught by Matthewe.

IN this historie written by Matthewe, Marke, Luke, and Iohn, the Spirit of God so governed their hearts, that although they were foure in number, yet in effect and purpose they so consent, as though the whole had bene composed by any one of them. And albeit in stile and maner of writing they be diuers, and sometime one writeth more largely that which the other doeth abridge: neuertheles in matter and argument they all tend to one end: which is, to publish to the worlde the fauour of God towards mankind through Christ Iesus, whome the Father hath giuen as a pledge of his mercie & loue. And for this cause they intitle their storie, Gospel, which signifieth good tidings, forasmuche as God hath performed in dede that which the sinners hoped for. So that hereby we are admonished to forsake the worlde, and the vanities thereof, and with moste affectioned hearts embrace this incomparable treasure freely offered vnto vs: for there is no ioye nor consolacion, no peace nor quietnes, no felicitie nor saluacion, but in Iesus Christ, who is the very substance of this Gospel, and in whome all the promises are yea, and amen. And therefore vnder this worde is contained the whole Newe testament: but communely we vse this name for the historie, which the foure Euangelists write, containing Christs coming in the flesh, his death, and resurrection, which is the perfitte summe of our saluacion. Matthewe, Marke, and Luke are more copious in describing his life and death: but Iohn more labourerth to set forth his doctrine, wherein bothe Christs office, and also the vertue of his death and resurrection more fully appeare: for without this, to knowe that Christ was borne, dead, & risen againe, shoulde nothing profite vs. The which thing notwithstanding that the thre first touche partely, as he also sometime intermedleth the historical narration, yet Iohn chiefly is occupied herein. And therefore as a moste learned interpreter writeth, they describe, as it were, the bodie, and Iohn setteth before our eyes the soule. Wherefore the same aptely termeth the Gospel writ by Iohn, the keye which openeth the dore to the vnderstanding of the others: for whosoener doeth knowe the office, vertue and power of Christ, shal reade that which is written of the Sonne of God come to be the redeemer of the worlde, with moste profit. Now as concerning the writers of this historie, it is euident that Matthewe was a Publicane or custome gatherer, and was thence chosen of Christ to be an Apostle. Marke is thought to haue bene Peters disciple, and to haue plac'd the first Church at Alexandria, where he dyed the eight yere of the reigne of Nero. Luke was a phisition of Antiochia and became Pauls disciple, and fellowe in all his traueils: he liued foure score and foure yeres, and was buried at Constantinople. Iohn was that Apostle whome the Lord loued, the sonne of Zebedeus, and brother of James: he dyed thre score yeres after Christ, and was buried nere to the Citie of Ephesus.

18 ¶ Now the byrth of I E S V S Christ was thus, When as his mother Marie was * betrowthed to Ioseph, * before they came together, she was founde * with childe of the holie Gost.

19 Then Ioseph her housband being a iust man, and not willing to * make her a publike example, was minded to put her away secretly.

of Herode the King, beholde, there came

Wisemen from the East to Ierusalem,

26 Saying, Where is the King of the Iewes that is borne? for we haue sene his * starre in the East, and are come * to worship him.

27 When King Herode heard this, he was troubled, and all Ierusalem with him.

28 And gathering together all the chief Priests & Scribes of the people, he asked of them, where Christ shulde be borne.

29 And they said vnto him, At Beth-lehem in Iudea: for so it is written by the Prophet, 30 * And thou Beth-lehem in the land of Iuda, art not the least among the Princes of Iuda: for out of thee shal come the gouernour that shal fede my people Israel.

31 Then Herode priuely called the Wisemen, and diligently inquired of them the time of the starre that appeared,

32 And sent them to Beth-lehem, saying, Go, and searche diligently for the babe: and when ye haue founde him, bring me worde againe, that I may come also, and worship him.

33 ¶ So when they had heard the King, they departed: and lo, the * starre which they had sene in the East, went before them, til it came, and stode ouer the place where the babe was.

34 And when they sawe the starre, they reioyced with an exceeding great ioye,

35 And went into the house, and * founde the babe with Marie his mother, and felldowne, and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and presented vnto him giftes, * euen golde, and incense, and myrrhe.

36 And after they were warned of God in a dreame, that they shulde * not go againe to Herode, they returned into their countrey another way.

37 ¶ After their departure, beholde the Angel of the Lord appeareth to Ioseph in a dreame, saying, Arise, & take the babe and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there til I bring thee worde: for Herode wil seke the babe, to destroye him.

38 So he arose and toke the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt, 39 And was there vnto the death of Herode, * that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by the * Prophet, saying, Out of Egypt haue I called my Sonne.

40 ¶ The Herode, seing that he was mocked of y Wisemen, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, & slewe all the male children that were in Beth-lehem, and in all the coastes thercof, from two yere olde & vnder, according to the time which he had diligently searched out of the Wisemen.

m Ye haue heard that it was said vnto
the of the olde time, *Thou shalt not kil:
for whosoever killeth, shal be "culpable of
iudgement.
22 But I say vnto you, whosoever is angrie with his brother" a vnadvisedly, shal be culpable of iudgement. And whosoever saith vnto his brother, o Raca, shalbe worthie to be punished by the p Counsel.
And whosoever shal say, Foole, shalbe worthie to be punished with hel fyre.
23 If the thou bring thy gift to the altar, & there remembreth that thy brother hathe
oght aganst thee,
24 Leaueth thine offering before the altar, and go thy way: first be a reconciled to thy brother, & then come & offer thy gift.
25 *Agree with thine aduersarie quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him, lest thine aduersarie deliuer thee to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer thee to the sergear,
and thou be cast into prison.
26 Verely I say vnto thee, thou shalt not come out thence, til thou hast payed the vt-most farthing.
27 ¶ Ye haue heard that it was said to them of olde time, *Thou shalt not commit adulterie.
28 But I say vnto you, y whosoever loketh on a womā to lust after her, hathe comit-ted adulterie wher already in his heart.
29 *Wherefore if thy right eye cause thee to offend, plucke it out, and cast it fro thee:
for better it is for thee, that one of thy mebers perish, the that thy whole bodie shul de be cast into hel.
30 Also if thy right hand make thee to offend, cut it of, and cast it fro thee: for better it is for thee that one of thy members perish, the that thy whole bodie shulde be cast into hel.
31 It hathe bene said also, *Whosoever shal put away his wife, let him giue her a testimonial of diuorcement.
32 But I say vnto you, whosoever shal put away his wife (except it be for fornicatio) causeth her to commit adulterie: and whosoever shal marie her that is diuor-ced, committeth adulterie.
33 Againe, ye haue heard that it was said to them of olde time, *Thou shalt not for-swear thy self, but shalt performe thine othes to the Lord.
34 But I say vnto you, a Swear not at all,
nether by heauē, for it is y thronē of God:
35 Nor yet by the earth: for it is his fote, stole: nether by Ierusalem: for it is the citie
of the great King.
36 Nether shalt thou swear by thine head, because thou canst not make one heere
white or blacke.

*But let your communication be, *Yea, yea: Nay, nay. For whatsoeuer is more the these, commeth of y euil.
38 ¶ Ye haue heard that it hathe bene said,
An eye for an eye, & a tooth for a tooth.
39 But I say vnto you, *Resist not euil: but whosoever a shal smite thee on thy right cheke, turne to him the other also.
40 And if anie man wil sue thee at the law, and take away thy coate, let him haue thy cloke also.
41 And whosoever wil compell thee to go a mile, go with him twaine.
42 *Giue to him that asketh, and from him
y wolde borow of thee, turne not away.
Ye haue heard that it hathe bene said,
*Thou shalt loue thy neighbour, and bha-te thineemie.
44 But I say vnto you, *Loue your enemies:
blesse them that curse you: do good to the that hate you, *and praye for them which hurt you, and persecute you, 45 *That ye may be the childre of your Father that is in heauen: for he maketh his sunne to arise on the euil, and the good, and sendeth raine on the iuste, & vniuste.
46 For if ye loue them, which loue you, what rewarde shal you haue? Do not the c Publicanes euen the same?
47 And if ye be friendlie to your brethre onely, what singular thing do ye do not euen the Publicanes likewise?
48 Ye shal therefore be pperfite, as your Fa-

 7 Also when ye pray, ^{use} no vaine repetitions as the heathen: for they thinke to be heard for their muche babling.
 8 Be ye not like them therefore: for your Father knoweth whereof ye haue nede, before ye aske of him.
 9 After this ^h manner therefore pray ye, ^{*Our} Father which art in heauen, halowed be thy ⁱ Name.

 14 ^{*For} if ye do forgiue men their trespasses, your heauenlie Father wil also forgiue you.
 15 But if ye do not forgiue men their trespasses, no more wil your Father forgiue ^{you} your trespasses.
 16 Moreouer, when ye fast, loke not fowre as the hypocrites: for they ^a disfigure their faces, that they might seme vnto men to fast. Verely I say vnto you, that they haue their rewarde.
 17 But when thou fastest, ^o anoint thine head, and wash thy face, 19 Lay not vp treasures for your selues vpon the earth, where the mothe & canker corrupt, & where theues digge through, and steale.

 20 ^{*But} lay vp treasures for your selues in heauen, where nether the mothe nor canker corrupteth, and where theues nether digge through, nor steale.
 21 For where your treasure is, there wil your heart be also.
 22 ^{*The} light of the bodie is the eye: if the thine eye be ^p single, thy whole bodie shal be light.
 23 But if thine eye be ^q wicked, then all thy bodie shalbe darke. Wherefore if the ^r light ^y is in thee, be darkenes, how great is that darkenes!
 24 ^{*No} man can serue two masters: for either he shal hate the one, and loue the other, or els he shal leane to the one, and despise the other. Ye can not serue God and riches.
 25 ^{*Therefore} I say vnto you, be not ^s careful for your life, what ye shal eat, or what ye shal drinke: nor yet for your bodie, what ye shal put on. Is not the life more worth then meat: and the bodie then raiment?

 26 Beholde the fowles of the heauen: for they sowe not, neither reape, nor carie in to the barnes: yet your heauenlie Father feedeth them. Are ye not muche better then they?
 27 Which of you by taking care, is able to adde one cubit vnto his stature?
 28 And why care ye for raiment? Learne, how the lilies of ^t the field do growe: they ^u labour not, nether spinne:
 29 Yet I say vnto you, that euen Solomon in all his glorie was not arayed like one of these.
 30 Wherefore if God so clothe the grasse of the field which is to day, and to morowe is cast into the ouen, shal he not do muche more vnto you, ^v ye of litle faith?
 31 Therefore take no thoght, saying, What shal we eat, or what shal we drinke? or wherewith shal we be clothed?
 32 (For after all these things ^x seke the Gentiles) for your heauenlie Father knoweth, that ye haue nede of all these things.
 33 But seke ye first the kingdome of God, and his ^y righteoufnes, & all these things shalbe ministred vnto you.

23 And then wil I professe to them, * I neuer knewe you: * departe from me, ye that worke iniquitie.

24 Whosoever then heareth of me these wordes, * and doeth the same, I wil liken him to a wise man, which hath buylded his house on a rocke:

3 And Iesus putting forth his hand, touched him, saying, I wil, be thou cleane: and immediatly his leprosie was clenfed.

8 But the Centurio answered, saying, Master, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come vnder my rofe: but speake the worde onely, and my seruant shalbe healed.

9 For I am a man also vnder the autoritie of another, and haue souldiers vnder me: & I say to one, Go: and he goeth, and to another, Come: and he cometh, & to my seruant, Do this: and he doeth it.

10 When Iesus heard that, he marueiled, & said to them that followed him, Verely, I say vnto you, I haue not founde so great faith, euen in Israel.

8 So when the multitude sawe it, they marsuche autoritie to men.

9 ¶ And as Iesus passed forthe from then-

Followe me. And he arose, and followed him.

10 And it came to passe, as Iesus sate at me and sinners, that came thither, sate downe at the table with Iesus and his disciples.

11 And when the Pharises sawe that, they

12 Now when Iesus heard it, he said vnto them, The whole nede not a physicion, but thei that are sicke.

13 But go ye and learne what this is, * I am not come to call the righteous, but the 14 ¶ Then came the disciples of Iohn to him, saying, Why do we and the Pharises

20 ¶ * Then begā he to vpbraide the cities, wherein moste of his great workes were done, because they repented not:

21 Wo be to thee, Chorazin: Wo be to thee, Bethsaida: for if the great workes, which were done in you, had bene done in Tyrus & Sidon, they had repēted long ago in sackcloth and ashes.

22 ¶ But I say to you, It shalbe easier for Tyrus and Sidon at the day of iudgemēt, then for you.

23 And thou, Capernaum, which art lifted vp vnto heauen, shalt be brought downe to hel: for if § great workes, which haue bene done in thee, had bene done among them of Sodom, they had remained to this day.

24 But I say vnto you, that it shalbe easier for them of the land of Sodom in the day of iudgement, then for thee.

25 ¶ At that time Iesus answered, and said, I grieve thee thakes, o Father, Lord of heauē & earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and men of vnderstanding, and hast opened them vnto babes.

26 It is so, o Father, because thy good pleasure was such.

14 Then the Pharises went out, and consulted against him, how they might destroye him.

15 But whē Iesus knewe it, he departed thence, and great multitudes followed him, & he healed them all,

16 And charged them that they shulde not make him knowen,

17 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet, saying,

18 *Beholde my seruant whome I haue chosen, my beloued in whome my soule delighteth: I wil put my Spirit on him, & he shal shewe^d iudgement to the Gentiles.

20 A^f bruised reede shal he not breake, and smoking^g flaxe shal he not quenshe, til he bring forth the iudgements vnto victorie.

and he healed him, so that he which was blinde and domme, bothe spake and sawe.

23 And all the people were amased, & said, Is not this the sonne of Dauid?

24 But whē the Pharises heard it, they said, *This mā casteth the deuils no otherwise out, but through Beelzebub the prince of deuils.

25 But Iesus knewe their thoghtes, and said to them, Euerie kingdome deuided against it self, shalbe^b broght to naught: & euerie citie or house, deuided against it self, shal not stand.

26 So if Satan cast out Satan, he is deuided against him self: how shal then his kingdome endure?

27 Also if I through Beelzebub cast out deuils, by whome do your^b children cast them out? Therefore they shalbe your iudges.

28 But if I cast out deuils by the Spirit of God, then is the kingdome of God come vnto you.

31 ¶ Wherefore I say vnto you, euerie siane and blasphemie shalbe forgien vnto men: but the blasphemie against the holie Gost shal not be forgien vnto men.

32 And whosoever shal speake a worde against the Sōne of man, it shalbe forgien him: but whosoever shal speake against^y the holie Gost, it shal not be forgien him, neither in this world nor in^y worlde to come.

33 Eke^r make the tre good, and his frute good: or els make^r the tre euil, & his frute euil: for the tre is knowen by the frute.

35 A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth the good things: & an euil man out of an euil treasure, bringeth forth the euil things.

36 But I say vnto you, that of euerieⁱ idle worde that men shal speake, they shal giue accounte thereof at the day of iudgement.

39 But he answered, and said to them, An euil and^o adulterous generacion seketh a signe, but no signe shal be giuen vnto it, saue the signe of the Prophet Ionas.

- 1 THe^a same day went Iesus out of the house, and sate by the sea side.
- 2 And^a great multitudes resorted vnto hi, so that he went into a ship, and sate downe: and the whole multitude stode on the shore.

- 4 And as he sowed, some fel by the wayes side, and the foules came and deuoured them vp.
- 5 And some fel vpon stonie grounde, where they had not muche earth, and anone they sprong vp, because they had no depth of earth.

Luk 10.24.

- 9 He that^b hath eares to heare, let him heare.
- 10 ¶ Then the disciples came, and said to him, Why speakest thou to them in parables?
- 11 And he answered and said vnto them, Because it is giuen vnto you, to knowe the secrets of the kingdome of heauen, but to them it is not^c giuen.
- 12 ¶ d For whosoever hath, to him shal be giuen, and he shal haue abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shal be taken away, euen^e that he hath.
- 13 Therefore speake I to them in parables, because they seeing, do not se: and hearing, they heare not, nether vnderstand.
- 14 So in them is fulfilled the prophecie of Esaias, which prophecie saith, ¶ By hearing, ye shal heare, and shal not vnderstand, and seeing ye shal se, and shal not perceiue.
- 15 ¶ For this peoples heart is waxed fatte, and their eares are dul of hearing, and with their eyes they haue winked, lest they shulde se with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and shulde vnderstand with their hearts, and shulde returne, that I might heale them.
- 16 But blessed are your eyes, for they se: & your eares, for they heare.
- 17 ¶ For verely I say vnto you, that many Prophetes, & righteous men haue desired to se those things which ye se, & haue not seene them, and to heare those things which ye heare, & haue not heard them.

18 ¶ *Heare ye therefore the parable of the sower. *Mar 4.15.
Luk 8.11.*

19 Whensoeuer a man heareth the worde of the kingdome, and vnderstandeth it not, the euil one cometh, and catcheth away that which was sowed in his heart: & this is he which^f hath receiued the fede by the way side.

20 And he that receiued fede in the stonie grounde, is he which heareth the worde, & incontinently with ioye receiueh it.

21 Yet hath he no roote in him self, & dureth but a season: for asone as tribulation or persecution cometh because of the worde, by and by he is offended.

22 And he that receiueh the fede among thornes, is he that heareth the worde: but the care of this worlde, and the deceitfulness of riches choke the worde, and he is made vnfruteful.

23 But he that receiueh the fede in the good grounde, is he that heareth the worde, and vnderstandeth it, which also beareth frute, & bringeth forth, some an hundred folde, some sixtie folde, & some thirtie folde.

24 ¶ Another parable put he forth vnto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a man which sowed good seed in his field.

25 ¶ But while men slept, there came his enemy, and sowed tares among the wheat, & went his way. b He teacheth the good and the bad shal be mixt together in the Church to the end that the faithful may arme the felices with patience and confidence.

26 And when the blade was sprong vp, and broght forth the frute, then appeared the res also.

27 Then came the seruants of the householder, and said vnto him, Master, sowedst thou good fede in thy field? siō when- ce then hath it tares?

28 And he said to them, The enuious man hath done this. Then the seruants said vnto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them vp?

29 But he said, Nay, lest while ye go about to gather the tares, ye plucke vp also with them the wheat.

30 ¶ Let bothe growe together vntil the haruest, and in time of haruest I wil say to the reapers, Gather ye first the tares, and binde them in sheaues to burne them: but gather the wheat into my barne.

31 ¶ *Another parable he put forth vnto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a graine of mustard fede, which a man taketh and soweth in his field:

32 Which in dede is the least of all feds: but when it is growen, it is the greatest among herbes, and it is a tree, so that the birdes of heauen come and buylde in the branches thereof.

36 Then sent Iesus the multitude away, and went into the house. And his disciples came vnto him, saying, Declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the field.

37 Then answered he, and said to them, He that soweth the good sede, is the Sonne of man,

38 And the field is the worlde, & the good sede, they are the children of the kingdome, and the tares are the children of the wicked,

39 And the enemy that soweth them, is the deuil, * and the haruest is the end of the worlde, and the reapers, be the Angels.

14 He said vnto them, But whome say ye that I am?

o Which worde signifieth an aduersarie, who resisteth the wil of God, either of malice, as did Iudas, or of rashnes and arrogancie, as Peter did. p That is, whosoever thinketh to save him self by forsaking Iesus Christ.

16 And Iesus answered, & said to him, Blessed art thou, Simon, the sonne of Ionas: for as flesh & blood hath not reueiled it vnto thee, but my Father which is in heauen.

17 And I say also vnto thee, that thou art Peter, and vpon this rocke I wil buylde my Church: and the gates of hel shal not overcome it.

18 And I wil giue vnto thee the keyes of the kingdome of heauen, and whatsoever thou shalt binde vpon earth, shalbe bound in heauen: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth, shalbe loosed in heauen.

19 Then he charged his disciples, that they shulde tell no man that he was Iesus the Christ.

20 ¶ From that time forth Iesus began to shewe vnto his disciples, that he must go vnto Ierusalem, and suffer manie things of the Elders, and of the hie Priests, and Scribes, and be slaine, and rise againe the third day.

21 Then Peter toke him aside, and began to rebuke him, saying, Master, pitie thy self: this shal not be vnto thee.

22 Then he turned backe, and said vnto Peter, Get thee behinde me, Satan: thou art an offence vnto me, because thou vnderstandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

23 Iesus then said to his disciples, ¶ If any man wil followe me, let him forsake him self, & take vp his crosse, and followe me.

24 For whosoever wil save his life, shal lose it: and whosoever shal lose his life for my sake, shal finde it.

25 ¶ For what shal it profite a man though he shulde winne the whole worlde, if he lose his owne soule? or what shal a man giue for recompense of his soule?

26 For the Sonne of man shal come in the glorie of his Father with his Angels, and

2 The transfiguration of Christ vpon the mountaine of Thabor. 5 Christ ought to be heard. 11 Of Elias and Iohn Baptiste 15 He healeth the lunatike. 20 The power of faith. 21 Prayer & fasting. 22 Christ telleth the before of his passion. 27 He payeth tribute.

And after six dayes, Iesus toke Peter, and Iames, and Iohn his brother, and brought them vp into an hie mountaine aparte, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sunne, and his clothes were as white as the light.

3 And beholde, there appeared vnto them Moses, and Elias, talking with him.

4 Then answered Peter, and said to Iesus, Master, it is good for vs to be here: if thou wilt, let vs make here thre tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

5 While he yet spake, beholde, a bright cloude shadowed them: and beholde, there came a voyce out of the cloude, saying, This is my beloued Sonne, in whome I am wel pleased: heare him.

6 And when the disciples heard that, they fel on their faces and were sore affrayed.

7 Then Iesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid.

8 And when they lifted vp their eyes, they sawe no man, saue Iesus onely.

9 ¶ And as they came downe fro the mountaine, Iesus charged them, saying, Shewe the vision to no man, & until the Sonne of man rise againe from the dead.

10 ¶ And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the Scribes that Elias must first come?

11 And Iesus answered, and said vnto them, Certainely Elias must first come, & restore all things.

12 But I say vnto you, that Elias is come already, and they knewe him not, but haue done vnto him wharsoeuer they wolde: likewise shal also the Sonne of man suffer of them.

13 Then the disciples perceiued that he spake vnto them of Iohn Baptiste.

14 ¶ And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certeine man, and kneeled downe to him,

15 And said, Master, haue pitie on my sonne: for he is lunatike, and is sore vexed: for oft times he falleth into the fyre, and oft times into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they coulde not heale him.

CHAP. XX.

1 Christ teacheth by a similitude, that God is better vnto no man, and how he alway calleth men to his labour.

2 He admonisheth them of his passion. 30 He teacheth his to flee ambition. 28 Christ payeth our ransome. 30 He giueth two blinde men their sight.

1 For the kingdome of heauen is like vn to a certeine house holder, which wēt out at the dawning of the day to hier laborers into his vineyarde.

2 And he agreed with his laborers for a penie a day, and sent them into his vineyarde.

3 And he went out about the thirde houre, and sawe other standing ydle in the market place,

4 And said vnto them, Go ye also into my vineyarde, & whatsoeuer is right, I wil giue you: and they went their way.

5 Again he went out about the fixt and ninth houre, and did likewise.

6 And he went about the eleuenth houre, and founde other standing ydle, and said vnto them, Why stand ye here all the day ydle?

7 They said vnto him, Because no man hath hired vs. He said to them, Go ye also into my vineyarde, & whatsoeuer is right, that shal ye receiue.

8 ¶ And when euen was come, the master of the vineyard said vnto his steward, Call thy laborers, and giue them their hier, beginning at the last, til thou come to the first.

9 And they which were hired about the eleuenth houre, came and receiued euerie man a penie.

10 Now when the first came, they supposed that they shulde receiue more, but they likewise receiued euerie man a penie.

11 And when they had receiued it, they murmured against the master of the house, 12 Saying, These last haue wrought but one houre, and thou hast made them equal vnto vs, which haue borne the burden, & heat of the day.

13 And he answered one of them, saying, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didest thou not agree with me for a penie?

14 Take that which is thine owne, and go thy way: I wil giue vnto this last, as muche as to thee.

15 Is it not lawful for me to do as I wil with mine owne? Is thine eye euil because I am good?

16 ¶ So the last shalbe first, and the first last: for manie are called, but fewe chosen.

17 ¶ And Iesus went vp to Ierusalem, and toke the twelue disciples aparte in the way, and said vnto them,

18 Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, and the Sonne of man shalbe deliuered vnto the chief Priests, and vnto the Scribes, & they shal condemne him to death, 19 And shall deliuer him to the Gentiles, to mocke, and to scourge, and to crucifie him: but the thirde day he shal rise againe.

20 ¶ Then came to him the mother of Zebedeus children with her sonnes, worshipping him, & desiring a certeine thing of him.

21 And he said vnto her, What woldest thou? She said to him, Grante that these my two sonnes may sit, the one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy kingdome.

22 And Iesus answered and said, Ye knowe not what ye aske. Are ye able to drinke of the cup that I shal drinke of, and to be baptized with the baptism that I shal be baptized with? They said to him, We are able.

27 Then they answered Iesus, and said, We caⁿ not tel. And he said vnto them, Nether tel I you by what autoritie I do these things.

28 ¶ But what thinke ye? A certeine man had two sonnes, and came to the elder; & said, Sone, go & worke to day in my vineyard.

29 But he answered and said, I wil not: yet afterwarde he repented him self, and wet.

30 Then came he to the seconde, and said likewise. And he answered, and said, I wil, syr: yet he went not.

31 Whether of them twaine did the wil of the father? They said vnto him, The first. Iesus said vnto the, Verely I say vnto you, that the ^a Publicanes and the harlots shal go before you into the kingdome of God.

33 ¶ Heare another parable, There was a certeine housholder, * which planted a vineyarde, and hedged it round about, and made a winepresse therein, and buylt a tower, and let it out to houthand men, and went into a strange countrey.

34 And when the time of the frute drewe nere, he sent his seruants to the houshad men to receiue the frutes thereof.

35 And the housbandmeⁿ toke his ^f seruants and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Againe he sent other seruants, mo^{re} the first: and they did the like vnto them.

37 But last of all he sent vnto the his owne sonne, saying, They wil reuerence my sonne.

38 But when the housbandmen sawe the sonne, they said among them selues, * This is the heire: come, let vs kill him, & let vs take his inheritance.

39 So they toke him, and cast him out of the vineyarde, and slewe him.

40 When therefore the Lord of the vineyarde shal come, what wil he do to those housbandmen?

41 They said vnto him, He wil cruelly destroye those wicked men, and wil let out his vineyarde vnto other housbandmen, which shal deliuer him the frutes in their seasons.

42 Iesus said vnto them, Red ye neuer in the Scriptures, * The stone which y^e buylders refused, the same is made the head

43 Therefore say I vnto you, the kingdome of God shalbe taken from you, & shalbe giuen to a nacioⁿ, which shal bring forth the frutes thereof.

44 * And whosoever shal fall on this stone, Isa. 8. 14. he shalbe broken: but on whome soeuer it shal fall, it wil grinde him to powder.

45 And when the chief Priests and Pharises had heard his parables, they perceiued that he spake of them.

1 Then Iesus answered, and spake vnto them againe in parables, saying, Luk. 14. 16. reuel. 19. 9.

2 The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a certeine King which married his sonne, 3 And sent forth his seruants, to call the that were bid to the wedding, but they wolde not come.

4 Againe he sent forth the other seruants, saying, Tel the which are bidden, Beholde, I haue prepared my dinner: mine oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are readie: come vnto the mariage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their wayes, one to his ferme, & another about his marchandise.

6 And the remnant toke his seruants, & intreated them sharpely, and slewe them.

7 But when y^e King heard it, he was wroth, & sent forth his warriors, & destroyed those murtherers, and burnt vp their citie.

8 Then said he to his seruants, Truly the wedding is prepared: but they which were bidden, were not worthie.

9 Go ye therefore out into the high wayes, and as manie as ye finde, bid them to the mariage.

10 So those seruants went out into the high wayes and gathered together all that euer they founde, bothe ^d good and bad: so the wedding was furnished with ghestes.

11 The King came in, to se the ghestes, and saw there a man which had not on a wedding garment.

16 And they sent vnto him their disciples with the ^b Herodians, saying, Master, we knowe that thou art true, and teachest the way of God truely, neither careest for anie man: for thou considerest not the persone of men.

17 Tell vs therefore, how thinkest thou? Is it lawfull to giue tribute vnto Cesar, or not?

18 But Iesus perceiued their wickednes, & said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shewe me the tribute money. And they brought him a ^k penie.

20 And he said vnto them, Whose is this image and superscription?

21 They said vnto him, Cessars. Then said he vnto them, *Giue therefore to Cesar, the things which are Cessars, and giue vnto God, those which are Gods.

22 And when they heard it, they marueiled, and left him, and went their way.

23 ¶ * The same day the Sadduces came to him (which say that there is no resurrection) and asked him,

24 Saying, Master, * Moses said, If a man dye, hauing no children, let his brother marie his wife, and raise vp sede vnto his brother.

25 Now there were with vs seuen brethren, and the first married a wife, and deceased: and hauing none yssue, left his wife vnto his brother.

26 Likewise also the seconde, & the third, vnto the seuenth.

27 And last of all the woman dyed also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection, whose wife shal she be of the seuen? for all had her.

29 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto the, Ye are deceiued, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they neither marrie wiues, nor wiues are bestowed in marriage, but are as the ^a Angels of God in heauen.

31 And concerning the resurrection of the dead, haue ye not read what is spoken vnto you of God, saying,

32 * I am the God of Abraham, & the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the liuing.

33 And when the people heard it, they were astonished at his doctrine.

34 ¶ * But when the Pharises had heard, that he had put the Sadduces to silence, they assembled together.

35 And one of them, which was an expounder of the Law, asked him a question, repeating him, and saying,

36 Master, which is the great commandment in the Law?

37 Iesus said to him, * Thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy soule, and with all thy minde.

38 This is the first and the great commandment.

39 And the seconde is like vnto this, * Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy self.

40 On these two commandments hagerh the whole Law, and the Prophetes.

41 ¶ * While the Pharises were gathered together, Iesus asked them, 42 Saying, What thinke ye of Christ? whose sonne is he? They said vnto him, Dauids.

43 He said vnto them, How then doeth Dauid in spirit call him Lord, saying, 44 * The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, 'til I make thine enemies thy fote stoles?

45 If then Dauid call him Lord, how is he his sonne?

46 And none colde answer him a worde, nether durst anie from that daye forth aske him anie mo questions.

1 Christ sheweth his disciples the destruction of the Temple 2 The false Christs 3 To perseuere. 4 The preaching of the Gospel 5 The signes of the end of the worlde 6 He warneth them to wake 7 The sudden coming of Christ.

¶ And Iesus went out, & departed from the Temple, and his disciples came to him, to shewe him the buylding of the Temple.

2 And Iesus said vnto them, Se ye not all these things: Verely I say vnto you, there shal not be here left a stone vpon a stone, that shal not be cast downe.

3 And as he sate vpon the mount of Oliues, his disciples came vnto him aparte, saying, Tell vs when these things shalbe, and what signe shalbe of thy coming, & of the end of the worlde.

4 And Iesus answered, and said vnto them, Take hede that no man deceiue you.

5 For manie shal come in my Name, sayig, I am Christ, and shal deceiue manie.

6 And ye shal heare of warres, and rumors of warres: se that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to passe, but the end is not yet.

 m When God hath made an end of y^r troubles of his Church
 n He meaneth an horrible trebling of y^r world, & as it were, an alteration of y^r ore of nature,

7 For nacion shal rise against nacion, and realme against realme, & there shalbe pestilence, and famine, and earthquakes in diuers places.
 8 All these are but the beginning of sorowes.
 9 *Then shal they deliuer you vp to be afflicted, and shal kil you, and ye shalbe hated of all nacions for my Names sake.
 10 And then shal manie be offended, & shal betray one another, and shal hate one another.
 11 And manie false prophetes shal arise, & shal deceiue manie.
 12 And because iniquitie shal be increased, the loue of manie shalbe colde.
 13 *But he that endureth to the end, he shalbe saued.
 14 And this Gospell of the kingdome shalbe preached through the whole worlde for a witnes vnto all nacions, and the shal the end come.
 15 ¶ When ye therefore shal se the abomination of desolation spoken of by Daniel the Prophet, standing in the holie place, (let him that readeth consider it.)
 16 Then let them which be in Iudea, flee into the mountaines.
 17 Let him which is on the house top, not come downe to fetch any thing out of his house.
 18 And he that is in the field, let not him returne backe to fetch his clothes.
 19 And wo shalbe to them that are with child, and to them that giue sucke in those dayes.
 20 But pray that your flight be not in the winter, nether on the Sabbath day.
 21 For then shalbe great tribulation, such as was not fro the beginning of the worlde to this time, nor shalbe.
 22 And except those dayes shulde be shortened, there shulde no flesh be saued: but for the electes sake those dayes shalbe shortened.
 23 *Then if any shal say vnto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there, beleue it not.
 24 For there shal arise false Christs, & false prophetes, and shal shewe great signes and wonders, so that if it were possible, they shulde deceiue the verie elect.
 25 Beholde, I haue tolde you before.
 26 Wherefore if they shal say vnto you, Beholde, he is in the desert, go not thither: Beholde, he is in the secret places, beleue it not.
 27 For as the lightning cometh out of the East, and shineth in to the West, so shal also the comming of the Sonne of man be.
 28 *For where soeuer a dead carkeis is, thither wil the egles resort.
 29 *And immediatly after the tribulations of those dayes, shal the sunne be darkened, & the moone shal not giue her light, and the starres shal fall from heauen, & the powers of heauen shalbe shaken.

30 And then shal appeare the signe of the Sonne of man in heauen: and then shal all the kinreds of the earth mourne, and they shal se the Sonne of man come in y^e cloudes of heauen with power and great glorie.

31 *And he shal send his Angels with a great sounde of a trumpet, and they shal gather together his elect, from the foure windes & from the one end of the heauen vnto the other.

32 Now learne the parable of the figge tree: when her bough is yet tender, & it bringeth forth the leaues, ye knowe y^e sommer is nere.

33 So likewise ye, when ye se all these things, knowe that the kingdome of God is nere, euen at the dores.

34 Verely I say vnto you, this generation shal not passe, til all these things be done.

35 *Heauen and earth shal passe away: but my wordes shal not passe away.

36 But of that day and howe knoweth no man, no not the Angels of heauen, but my Father onely.

37 But as the dayes of Noe were, so likewise shal the comming of the Sonne of man be.

38 *For as in the dayes before the flood they did eat and drinke, marry, and giue in marriage, vnto the day that Noe entred into the Arke, 39 And knewe nothing, til the flood came and toke them all awaye, so shal also the comming of the Sonne of man be.

40 ¶ The two men shalbe in the fields, the one shalbe receiued, and the other shalbe refused.

41 Two women shalbe grinding at the mill: the one shalbe receiued, & the other shalbe refused.

42 *Wake therefore: for ye knowe not what houre your master wil come.

43 Of this be sure, that if the good man of the house knewe at what watche the thief wolde come, he wolde surely watche, and not suffer his house to be digged through.

44 Therefore be ye also readie: for in the houre that ye thinke not, wil the Sonne of man come.

45 *Who then is a faithful seruant & wife, whome his master hath made ruler ouer his householde, to giue the meat in season?

46 Blessed is that seruant whome his master, when he cometh, shal finde so doing.

47 Verely I say vnto you, he shal make him ruler ouer all his goods.

48 But if that euil seruant shal say in his heart, My master doeth deserue his coming,

49 And begin to smite his felowes, and to eat and to drinke with the drunken;

50 That seruants master wil come in a day, when he loketh not for him, & in an houre

CHAP. XXV.

1 By the similitude of the virgines Iesus teacheth euerie man to watche 14 And by the talents to be diligent. 31 The last iudgement. 33 The shepe and the goates. 35 The workes of the faithfull.

a This similitude teacheth vs, that it is not sufficient to haue once giuen our selues to follow Christ, but that we must continue b To do him honor, as the manner was.

1 THEN the ^akingdome of heauen shalbe likened vnto ten virgins, which toke their lampes, and went to ^bmete the bridegrome.

2 And fīue of the were wise, & fīue foolish.

3 The foolish toke their lāpes, but toke none oyle with them.

4 But ^fy wise toke oyle in their vessels with their lampes.

5 Now while the bridegrome taryed long, all slombred and slept.

6 And at midnight there was a crye made, Beholde, the bridegrome cometh: go out to mete him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, & trimmed their lampes.

e Marie feke that w they haue contemned, but it is so late 8 And the foolish said to the wise, ^cGiue vs of your oyle, for our lampes are ^eout.

Or, quenched d this was spoken in reproche, because they made not provision so tyme.
9 But the wise answered, saying, ^fWe feare lest there wil not be ynough for vs & you: but ^dgo ye rather to them that sel, and bīe for your selues.

10 And while they went to bīe, the bridegrome came: & they that were readie, wēt in with him to the wedding, and the gate was shut.

11 Afterwardes came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to vs.

12 But he answered, and said, Verely I say vnto you, ^eI knowe you not.

e. I wil not open to you because you haue failed in y mīde way 13 ^f*Watche therefore: for ye knowe nether the day, nor the houre, when the Sonne of man wil come.

14 ^f* ^fFor the ^fkingdome of heauen ^uis as a man that going into a strange countrey, called his seruants, and deliuered to them his goods.

f This similitude teacheth how we ought to continue in the knowledge of God, and do good with those graces y God hath giue vs.
15 And vnto one he gaue fīue ^ztalents, and to another two, & to another one, to euerie man after his owne habilitie, and straight way went from home.

16 Then he that had receiued the fīue talents, went and occupied with them, and ^ggained other fīue talents.

Or, made.
17 Likewise also, he that receiued two, he also gained other two.

18 But he that receiued that one, wēt & digged it in ^hy earth, & hid his masters money.

19 But after a long season, ^hy master of those seruants came, and rekened with them.

20 Then came he that had receiued fīue talents, and broght other fīue talents, saying, Master, thou deliueredst vnto me fīue talents: beholde, I haue gained with them other fīue talents.

21 Then his master said vnto him, It is wel done good seruāt and faithful, Thou hast bene faithful in litle, I wil make thee ruler ouer much: ^bentre in into thy masters ioy.

22 Also he that had receiued two talents, came & said, Master, thou deliueredst vnto me two talents: beholde, I haue gained two other talents with them.

23 His master said vnto him, It is wel done good seruāt, and faithful, Thou hast bene faithful in litle, I wil make thee ruler ouer much: enter in into thy masters ioye.

24 Then he which had receiued the one talent, came and said, Master, I knewe that thou wast an hard mā, which reapest where thou sowedst not, and gatherest where thou strawedst not:

25 I was therefore afraide, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: beholde, thou hast thine owne.

26 And his master answered, and said vnto him, Thou euil seruāt, & ^hslouthful, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I strawed not.

27 Thou oughtest therefore to haue put my money to the exchangers, and then at my cōming shulde I haue receiued mine owne with vantage.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and giue it vnto him which hath the ten talents.

29 ⁱ*For vnto euerie man that hath it, it shal be giuen, and he shal haue abundance, and ⁱfrom him that hath not, euē that he hath, shalbe taken away.

30 Cast therefore that vnprofitable seruāt into vtter ⁱdarkenes: there shalbe weeping, and gnashing of teeth.

31 ^k¶ And when the Sonne of man cometh in his glorie, and all the holie Angels w him, the ^kshal he sit vpon ^ly throne of his glorie.

32 And before him shalbe gathered all nations, and he shal separate them one from another, as a shepherde separateth the shepe from the goates.

33 And he shal set the shepe on his right hand, and the goates on the left.

34 Then shal the King say to them on his right hand, Come ye ^kblessed of my Father: inherit ye ^ly kingdome prepared for you frō the ^lfundations of the worlde.

36 ⁿI was naked, and ye clothed me, I was ⁿ* sicke, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came vnto me.

- 45 The shal he answer them, & say, Verely I sai vnto you, in as muche as ye did it not to one of y^e least of these, ye did it not to me.

- 1 AND * it came to passe, whē Iesus had finished all these sayings, he said vnto his disciples,
- 2 Ye knowe that within two dayes is the Pascheouer, and the Sonne of man shal be deliuered to be crucified.
- 3 * Then assembled together y^e chief Priests and the Scribes, and the Elders of the people into the hall of the high Priest, called Caiaphas,
- 4 And consulted how they might take Iesus by subtiltie, and kill him.
- 5 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest anie vpror be among the people.
- 6 * And when Iesus was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper,
- 7 There came vnto him a womā, which had a boxe of verie costlie ointment, & powred it on his head, as he sate at the table.
- 8 And whē his disciples sawe it, thei had indignation, saying, What neded this waste?
- 9 For this ointment might haue bene sold for muche, and bene giuen to the poore.
- 10 And Iesus knowing it, said vnto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good worke vpon me.
- 11 * For ye haue the poore alwayes with you, but me shal ye not see alwayes.
- 12 For in that she powred this ointment on my bodie, she did it to burye me.
- 13 Verely I say vnto you, Wheresoeuer this Gospel shal be preached throughout all y^e worlde, there shal also this that she hath done, be spoken of for a memorial of her.
- 14 * Then one of the twelue, called Iudas Iscariot, went vnto the chief Priests,
- 15 And said, What wil ye giue me, and I wil deliuer him vnto you? and they appointed vnto him thirtie pieces of siluer.
- 16 And from that time, he sought opportunitie to betraye him.
- 17 * Now on y^e first day of the feast of vneleauened bread y^e disciples came to Iesus, saying vnto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the Pascheouer?
- 18 And he said, Go into the citie to suche a man, & say to him, The master saith, My time is at hand: I wil kepe the Pascheouer at thine house with my disciples.
- 19 And the disciples did as Iesus had giuen them charge, and made ready the Pascheouer.
- 20 * So when the euen was come, he sate downe with the twelue.
- 21 And as they did eat, he said, Verely I say vnto you, that one of you shal betraye me.
- 22 And they were exceeding sorowful, and began euerie one of them to say vnto him, Is it I, Master?
- 23 And he answered and said, He that dippereth his hand with me in the dish, he shal betraye me.
- 24 Surely the Sonne of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but wo be to that man, by whome the Sonne of man is betrayed: it had bene good for that mā, if he had neuer bene borne.
- 25 Then Iudas which betrayed him, answered, and said, Is it I, Master? He said vnto him, Thou hast said it.
- 26 * And as they did eat, Iesus toke the bread: and when he had giuen thanks, he brake it, and gaue it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat: this is my bodie.
- 27 Also he toke y^e cup, & when he had giuen thanks, he gaue it them, saying, Drinke ye all of it.
- 28 For this is my blood of the Newe testament, that is shed for manie, for the remission of sinnes.
- 29 I say vnto you, that I wil not drinke hence forth of this frute of the vine vntil that day, when I shal drinke it newe with you in my Fathers kingdome.
- 30 And when they had sung a psalme, they went out into the mount of oliues.
- 31 * Then said Iesus vnto them, All ye shal be offended by me this night: for it is written, I wil smite the shepherd, and the shepe of the flocke shal be scattered.
- 32 But * after I am risen againe, I wil go before you into Galile.

Mar. 14, 32. Luk. 22, 39. 36 ¶ Then wēt Iesus with thē into a place which is called Gethsemane, and said vnto his disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

37 And he toke Peter, and the two sonnes of Zebedeus, and begā to waxe sorrowful, and grievously troubled.

38 Then said Iesus vnto them, My soul is verie heauie euen vnto the death: tarie ye here, and watche with me.

39 So he went a litle further, and fel on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup passe from me: neuertheles, not as I wil, but as thou wilt.

40 After he came vnto the disciples, and founde thē a slepe, & said to Peter, What colde ye not watche with me one houre?

41 Watch, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit in dede is readie, but the flesh is weake.

42 Againe he wēt away the secōde time & prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup cā not passe away from me, but that I must drinke it, thy wil be done.

43 And he came, and founde them a slepe againe: for their cyes were heauie.

44 So he left them and went away againe, and prayed the third time, saying the same wordes.

45 Then came he to his disciples, and said vnto them, Slepe henceforthe, and take your rest: beholde, the houre is at hand, and the Sonne of man is giuen into the hands of sinners.

46 ¶ Rise, let vs go: beholde, he is at hand that betrayeth me.

47 ¶ And while he yet spake, lo, Iudas, one of the twelue, came, and with him a great multitude with swordes and staues, from the high Priests and Elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him, had giuen them a token, saying, Whome soeuer I shal kille, that is he, lay holde on him.

49 And forthewith he came to Iesus, and said, God saue thee, Master, & kissed him.

50 Then Iesus said vnto him, Friend, wherefore art thou come? Thē came they, and laid hands on Iesus, and toke him.

51 And beholde, one of them which were with Iesus, stretched out his hand, & drewe his sworde, and stroke a seruant of the high Priest, and smote of his eare.

52 Then said Iesus vnto him, Put vp thy sworde into his place: *for all that take the sworde, shal perishe with the sworde.

6 He feared not death of self, but troubled for feare of Gods anger towards him, the burden whereof he bare for our sakes. For he sawe Gods anger kindled towards vs. That is, the anger of God for mans finnes. He knewe well what his Father had determined, and therefore was ready to obey but he prayeth as y^e faithfull do in their troubles without respect of the eternal command of God. And therefore we must continually fight against the flesh.

7 He speaketh this in a contrary sense, meaning they shulde anone be wel wakened.

54 How then shulde the Scriptures be fulfilled, which say, that it must be so?

55 The same houre said Iesus to the multitude, Ye be come out as it were against a thief, with swordes and staues, to take me: I sate daily teaching in the Temple among you, and ye toke me not.

56 But all this was done, that the Scriptures of y^e Prophetes might be fulfilled. ¶ Thē all the disciples forsoke him, and fled.

57 ¶ And they toke Iesus, and led him to Caiaphas the hie Priest, where the Scribes and the Elders were assembled.

58 And Peter followed him a farre of vnto the hie Priests hall, and went in, & sate with the seruants to se the end.

59 Now the chief Priests & the Elders, and all the whole council sought false witness against Iesus, to put him to death.

60 But they founde none, and thogh many false witnesses came, yet founde they none: but at the last came two false witnesses,

61 And said, This man said, *I can destroy the Temple of God, and buyld it in thre dayes.

62 Then the chief Priest arose, and said to him, Answerest thou nothing? What is the matter that these men witness against thee?

63 But Iesus helde his peace. Then the chief Priest answered, and said to him, I charge thee by the liuing God, that thou tell vs, if thou be the Christ the Sonne of God.

64 ¶ Iesus said to him, ¶ Thou hast said it: neuertheles I say vnto you, hereafter shal ye se the Sonne of man, sitting at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the cloudes of the heauen.

65 Then the hie Priest rent his clothes, saying, He hath blasphemed: what haue we any more nede of witnesses? beholde, now ye haue heard his blasphemie.

66 What thinke ye? They answered, & said, He is worthie to dye.

67 ¶ Then spat they in his face, and buffeted him: and other smote him with their roddes,

Iudas vaine repentance. Chap. XXVII. Barabbas quit. 16

- 73 So after a while, came vnto him thei that stode by, and said vnto Peter, Surely thou art also one of them: for cuen thy speache bewrayeth thee.
- 74 Then began he to curse him self, and to sweare, saying, I knowe not the man. And immediatly the cocke crowe.
- 75 Then Peter remembred the wordes of Iesus, which had said vnto him, Before the cocke crowe, thou shalt deny me thrise. So he went out, and wept bitterly.
- CHAP. XXVII.
- 2 Christ is deliuered vnto Pilate. 3 Iudas hangerh him self. 24 Christ is pronounced innocent by the iudge, and yet is condemned, and crucified among theues 46 He prayeth vpon the crosse 51 The vaile is rent 52 The dead bodies arise 57 Ioseph buryeth Christ. 64 Watchmen kepe the graue.
- 1 When* the morning was come, all the chief Priests, & the Elders of the people toke counsel against Iesus, to put him to death,
- 2 And led him away bounde, and ^adeliuered him vnto Pontius Pilate the gouernour.
- 3 ¶ Then when Iudas which betrayed him, sawe that he was condemned, ^bhe repented him self, and broght againe the thirtie pieces of siluer to the chief Priests, and Elders,
- 4 Saying, I haue ^csinned betraying the innocent blood. But they said, What is that to vs? ^dse thou to it.
- 5 And whē he had cast downe the siluer pieces in the Temple, he departed, and went, ^eand hanged him self.
- 6 And the chief Priests toke the siluer pieces, and said, It is not ^flawful for vs to put them into the ^gtreasure, because it is the price of blood.
- 7 And they toke counsel, and bought with them a potters field, for the buryal of ^hstrangers.
- 8 Wherefore that field is called, ⁱ* the field of blood, vntil this day.
- 9 (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Ieremias the Prophet, saying, *And they toke thirtie siluer pieces, the price of him that was valued, whome ^jthey of the children of Israel valued.
- 10 And thei gaue them for the potters field, as the Lord appointed me.)
- 11 ¶ And Iesus stode before the gouernour, and the gouernour asked him, saying, Art thou the King of ^k Jewes? Iesus said vnto him, Thou saist it.
- 12 And when he was accused of the chief Priests and Elders, he answered nothing.
- 13 Thē said Pilate vnto him, Hearest thou not how many things they laye against thee?
- 14 But he answered him not to one worde, in so muche that the gouernour marvelled greatly.
- 15 Now at the feast, ^lgouernour was wont to ^mdeliuer vnto the people a ⁿprisoner, whome they wolde.
- 16 And they had thē a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.
- 17 *When they were then gathered together, Pilate said vnto them, Whether wil ye that I let loose vnto you Barabbas, or Iesus which is called Christ?
- 18 (For he knewe wel, that for enuie they had deliuered him.)
- 19 Also whē he was set downe vpon the iudgemēt seat, his wife sent to him, saying, ^oHaue thou nothing to do with that iuste man: for I haue suffered many things this day in a dreame by reason of him.)
- 20 *But the chief Priests & the Elders had persuaded the people that thei shulde aske Barabbas, and shulde destroy Iesus.
- 21 Then the gouernour answered, and said vnto them, Whether of the twaine wil ye that I let loose vnto you? And they said, ^pBarabbas.
- 22 Pilate said vnto them, What shal I do then with Iesus which is called Christ? Ther all said to him, Let him be crucified.
- 23 Then said the gouernour, But what euil hath he done? Then thei cryed the more, saying, Let him be crucified.
- 24 When Pilate sawe that he auailed nothing, but that more tumulte was made, he toke water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this ^qiuste man: loke you to it.
- 25 Then answered all the people, and said, His ^rblood be on vs, and on our children.
- 26 Thus let he Barabbas loose vnto them, and scourged Iesus, and deliuered him to be crucified.
- 27 ¶ Thē the souldiours of the gouernour toke Iesus into the commune hall, and gathered about him the whole bande.
- 28 And thei stripped him, & put vpon him a ^sscarlet robe,
- 29 And platted a crowne of thornes, and put it vpon his head, and a rede in his right hand, and bowed their knees before him, and mocked him, saying, God saue thee King of the Iewes,
- 30 And spitted vpon him, and toke a rede, and smote him on the head.
- 31 Thus when they had mocked him, they toke the robe from him, and put his owne raiment on him, and led him away to crucifie him.
- 32 *And as they came out, they founde a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they compelled to beare his crosse.
- 33 *And when they came vnto the place called Golgotha, (that is to say, the place of ^tdead mens skulles.)

reof, he wolde not drinke.

35 ¶ And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, & did cast lottes, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, * They deuied my garments among them, and vpon my vesture did cast lottes.

36 And they sate, and watched him there.

37 ¶ Thei set vp also ouer his head his cause written, ° THIS IS IESVS THE KING OF THE IEWES.

38 ¶ And there were two thieues crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 And they that passed by, reuiled him, wagging their heads,

40 And saying, * Thou that destroyest the Temple, and buydest it in thre dayes, saue thy self: if thou be the Sonne of God, come downe from the crosse.

41 Likewise also the hie Priests mocking him, with the Scribes, and Elders, and Pharises, said, 42 He saued others, but he can not saue him self: if he be the King of Israel, let him now come downe from the crosse, and we wil beleue him.

43 * He trusteth in God, let him deliuer him now, if he wil haue him: for he said, I am the Sonne of God.

44 That same also the thieues which were crucified with him, cast in his teeth.

45 Now from the x fixt houre was there darkenes ouer all the land, vnto the ninth houre.

46 And about the ninth houre Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, sayig, * Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani: that is, * My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

47 And some of them that stode there, whē thei heard it, said, This man calleth Elias.

48 And straight way one of them ran, and toke * a sponge, and filled it with vineger, and put it on a rede, and gaue him to drinke.

49 Other said, Let be: let vs se, if Elias wil come and saue him.

50 Then Iesus cryed againe with a loude voyce, and yelded vp the * goft.

51 And beholde, * the * vaile of the Temple was rent in twayne, from the top to the bottome, and the earth did quake, and the stones were clouen,

52 And the graues did open them selues, & many bodies of the Sanctes which slept, arose, 53 And came out of the graues after his resurrection, and went into the holie Citie, and appeared vnto many.

54 When the Centurion, & they that were with him watching Iesus, sawe the earthquake, and the things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly: this was the Sonne of God.

55 ¶ And many women were there, beholding him a farre of, which had followed Iesus from Galile, ministring vnto him.

56 Among whome was Marie Magdalene, and Marie the mother of Iames & Ioses, and the mother of Zebedeus sonnes.

57 ¶ And when the euen was come, there came a riche man of Arimathea, named Ioseph, who had also him self bene Iesus disciple.

58 He went to Pilate, and asked the bodie of Iesus. Then Pilate commanded the bodie to be deliuered.

59 So Ioseph toke the bodie, and wrappd it in a cleane linnen cloth, 60 And put it in his newe stombe, which he had hewen out in a rocke, & rolled a great stone to the dore of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Marie Magdalene, and the other Marie sitting ouer against the sepulchre.

62 ¶ Now the next day that followed the Preparation of the Sabbath, the hie Priests and Pharises assembled to Pilate, 63 And said, Sir, we remember that that deceuer said, while he was yet aliue, Within thre dayes I wil rise.

64 Commande therefore, that the sepulchre be made sure vntil y thirde day, lest his disciples come by night, & steale him away, and say vnto the people, He is risen from the dead: so shal the last error be worse then the first.

65 Then Pilate said vnto them, Ye haue * a watche: go, and make it sure as ye knowe.

66 And they went, and made the sepulchre sure with the watche, and sealed the stone.

1 Now * in the end of the Sabbath, Mar. 16, 1. when the first day of the weke began to dawne, Marie Magdalene, and the other Marie came to se the sepulchre.

2 And beholde, there was a great earthquake: for the Angel of the Lord descended fro heauen, and came and rolled backe the stone from the dore, and saue vpon it.

3 And his countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snowe.

4 And for feare of him, the keepers were astonied, and became as dead men.

5 But the Angel answered, and said to the women, Feare ye not: for I knowe that ye feke Iesus which was crucified:

¶ Christ wolde not suffer the father of lyes to beare witness to the truth.

25 And Iesus rebuked him, saying, ^m Holde thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And the vncleane spirit rare him, and cryed with a loud voice, and came out of him.

27 And they were all amased, so that they demanded one of another, saying, What thing is this? what ⁿ new doctrine is this? for he commandeth the foule spirits with autoritie, and they obey him.

32 And when euen was come, and the sunne was downe, they broght to him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with deuils.

33 And the whole citie was gathered together at the dore.

34 And he healed manie that were sicke of diuers diseases: and he cast out manie deuils, & ^o suffred not the deuils to say that they knewe him.

¶ Christ wolde not haue suche witnesses to preache him & his Gospel. So Paule was offended that ^p Pythonesse shulde testifie of him, Act. 16. 18.

38 Then he said vnto them, Let vs go into the next townes, that I may preache there also: for I came out for that purpose.

39 And he preached in their Synagogues, throughout all Galile, and cast the deuils out.

Luk. 5. 12.

41 And Iesus had compassion, and put forth his hand, and touched him, and said to him, I wil: be thou cleane.

42 And as sone as he had spoken, immediatly the leprosie departed from him, and he was made cleane.

43 And after he had giuen him a streit ^p commandement, he sent him awaye forthewith, Whether is it easier to say to the sicke of the palfie, Thy sinnes are forgiven thee?

 or to say, Arise, and take vp thy bed, and walke?

10 And that ye may knowe, that the Sonne of man hath the autoritie in earth to forgie sinnes, (he said vnto y^e sicke of the palfie.)

11 I say vnto thee, Arise & take vp thy bed, and get thee hence into thine owne house.

12 And by and by he arose, and toke vp his bed, and went forth before them all, in-somuche that they were all amased, and glorified God, saying, We neuer sawe suche a thing.

13 ¶ Then he went againe toward the sea, and all the people resorted vnto him, and he taught them.

14 *And as Iesus passed by, he sawe Leuite sonne of Alpheus sit at the receite of cu-stomes, & said vnto him, Followe me. And he arose and followed him.

15 ¶ And it came to passe, as Iesus sate at table in his house, many Publicanes & sinners sate at table also wth Iesus, & his disciples: for there were many y^e followed him.

16 And when the Scribes and Pharises sawe him eat with y^e Publicanes & sinners, they said vnto his disciples, How is it, that he eateth and drinketh with Publicanes and sinners?

17 Now when Iesus heard it, he said vnto them, The whole haue no nede of the physicion, but the sicke. I came not to call the * righteous, but the sinners to repentance.

18 *And the disciples of Iohn, & the Phari-ses did fast, and came and said vnto him, Why do the disciples of Iohn and of the Pharises fast, and thy disciples fast not?

19 And Iesus said vnto them, Can the children of the mariage chamber fast, whiles the bridegrome is with them? as long as they haue the bridegrome with them, they can not fast.

20 But the dayes wil come, when the bridegrome shal be taken from them, and then shal they fast in those dayes.

21 Also no man soweth a piece of new cloth in an olde garment: for els the new piece taketh away the filling vp from the olde, and the breache is worse.

22 Likewise, no man putteth new wine into olde vessels: for els the new wine breaketh the vessels, and the wine runneth out, and the vessels are lost: but new wine must be put into new vessels.

23 ¶ And it came to passe as he wet through the corne on the Sabbath day, that his disciples, as they went on their way, began to plucke the eares of corne.

24 And the Pharises said vnto him, Beholde, why do they on the Sabbath day, that which is not lawful?

25 And he said to them, Haue ye neuer red what * Dauid did, when he had nede, and was an hungred, bothe he, and they that were with him?

26 How he went into the house of God, in the dayes of * Abiathar the hie Priest, and did eat the shewe bread, which were not lawful to eat, but for the * Priests, and gaue also to them which were with him?

27 And he said to them, The Sabbath was * made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

28 Wherefore the Sonne of man is Lord, euen of the Sabbath.

 gogue, and there was a man which had a withered hand.

30 And they watched him, whether he wolde heale him on the Sabbath day, that they might accuse him.

31 Then he said vnto the man which had the withered hand, Arise: stand forth in the middes.

32 And he said to them, Is it lawful to do a good dede on the Sabbath day, or to do euill? to saue y^e life, or to kil? But they helde their peace.

33 Then he looked rounde about on them bangerly, mourning also for the hardenes of their hearts, and said to the man, Stretch forth the thine had. And he stretched it out:
 and his hand was restored, as whole as the other.

34 ¶ And the Pharises departed, & straight waye gathered a councel with the * Herodians against him, that they might de-stroye him.

35 But Iesus auoyded with his disciples to him from Galilee, and from Iudea,

36 And from Ierusalem, and from Idumea, and beyonde Iordan: and they that dwelled about Tyrus and Sidon, when they had heard what great things he did, came vnto him in great number.

37 And he commanded his disciples, that multitude, lest they shulde throng him.

 they preassed vpon him, to touche him as

CHAP. IIII.

By the parables of the fede, and the mustarde corne, Christ sheweth the state of the kingdome of God. A special gift of God to knowe the mysteries of his kingdome. 37 He stilleth the tempeste of the sea which obeyed him.

And he begā againe to teache by the sea side, & there gathered vnto him a great multitude, so that he entred into a ship, and sate in the sea, and all the people was by the sea side on the land.

2 And he taught them many things in parables, and said vnto them in his doctrine.

3 Hearken: Beholde, there went out a sower to sowe.

4 And it came to passe as he sowed, that some fel by the way side, & the foules of the heauen came and deuoured it vp.

5 And some fel on stonie grounde, where it had not muche earth, & by and by sprang vp, because it had not depth of earth.

6 But as sone as the sunne was vp, it caught heate, and because it had not roote, it withered away.

7 And some fel among the thornes, and the thornes grewe vp and choked it, so that it gaue no frute.

8 Some againe fel in good grounde, and did yelde frute that sprong vp, and grew, and it brought forth, some thirtie folde, some sixtie folde, and some an hundredth folde.

9 Then he said vnto them, He that hathe beares to heare, let him heare.

10 And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelue, asked him of the parable.

11 And he said vnto them, To you it is giuen to knowe the mysterie of the kingdome of God: but vnto them that are without, all things be done in parables, 12 That they seing, may se, and not discern: and they hearing, may heare, and not vnderstand, lest at any time they shulde turne, and then sinnes shulde be forgiven them.

13 Againe he said vnto them, Perceiue ye not this parable? how the shulde ye vnderstand all other parables?

14 The sower soweth the worde.

15 And these are they that receiue the fede by the wayes side, in whome the worde is sown: but when they haue heard it, Satan cometh immediatly, and taketh away the worde that was sown in their hearts.

16 And likewise they that receiue the fede in stonie grounde, are they, which when they haue heard the worde, straight wayes receiue it with gladnes.

5 And alwayes bothe night & day he cryed in the mountaines, and in the graues, and stroke him self with stones.

6 And when he saw Iesus a farre off, he ranne, and worshipped him,

7 And cryed with a loude voyce, and said, a What haue I to do with thee, Iesus, the Sonne of the moste high God? I charge thee by^b God, that thou torment me not.

15 And they came to Iesus, and sawe him that had bene possessed with the deuill, and had the legion, sit bothe clothed, & in his right minde: & they were afraid.

16 And they that sawe it, tolde them, what was done to him that was possessed with the deuill, and concerning the swine.

17 Then they began to praye him, that he wolde departe from their coastes.

18 And when he was come into the ship, he that had bene possessed with the deuill, prayed him that he might be with him.

19 Howbeit, Iesus wolde not suffre him, but said vnto him, Go thy way home to thy friends, and shewe the what great things the Lord hath done vnto thee, and how he hath had compasion on thee.

20 So he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis, what great things Iesus had done vnto him: and all men did marueil.

21 And when Iesus was come ouer againe by ship vnto the other side, a great multitude gathered to him, and he was nere vnto the sea.

22 And beholde, there came one of the rulers of the Synagogue, whose name was Iairus: and when he sawe him, he fel downe at his fete, 24 Then he went with him, and a great multitude followed him, and thronged him.

25 (And there was a certeine woman, which was diseased with an yssue of blood twelue yerres, 26 And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and it auailed her nothing, but she became muche worse.

27 When she had heard of Iesus, she came in the preasse behinde, and touched his garment.

28 For she said, If I may but touche his clothes, I shal be whole, 29 And straight way the course of her blood was dryed vp, & she felt in her bodie, that she was healed of that plague.

30 And immediatly when Iesus did knowe in him self the vertue that wet out of him, he turned him roude about in the preasse, and said, Who hath touched my clothes?

31 And his disciples said vnto him, Thou seest the multitude throng thee, & sayest thou, Who did touche me?

32 And he looked rounde about, to se her that had done that.

33 And the woman feared and trembled: for she knewe what was done in her, & she came and fel downe before him, & tolde him the whole truth.

34 And he said to her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole: go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.)

35 While he yet spake, there came from the same ruler of the Synagogues house certeine which said, Thy daughter is dead: why distepest thou the Master ayme further?

36 As sone as Iesus heard that worde spoken, he said vnto the ruler of the Synagogue, Be not afraid: onely beleue.

37 And he suffered no man to followe him, saue Peter and Iames, and Iohn the brother of Iames.

38 So he came vnto the house of the ruler of the Synagogue, and sawe the tumulte, & them that wept and wailed greatly.

39 And he went in, & said vnto them, Why make ye this trouble, and wepe? the childe is not dead, but slepeth.

40 And they laughed him to scorne: but he put them all out, and toke the father, and the mother of the childe, and them that were with him, & entred in where the childe laye, 42 And straight way the maiden arose, and walked: for she was of the age of twelue yerres, and they were astonied out of measure.

43 And he charged them straitely that no man shoulde knowe of it, and commanded to giue her meat.

there were manie commers & goers, that they had not leasure to eat.

Christ walketh on the sea. S.Marke. Mens precepts.

- 44 And they that had eaten, were about five thousand men.
- 45 ¶ And straight way he caused his disciples to go into the ship, and to go before vnto the other side vnto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people.
- 46 Then assone as he had sent them away, he departed vnto a mountaine to pray.
- 47 *And when euen was come, the ship was in the middes of the sea, and he alone on the land.
- 48 And he sawe them troubled in rowing, (for the winde was cōtrarie vnto them) & about the fourth^x watche of the night, he came vnto them, walking vpon the sea, & wolde haue passed by them.
- 49 And when they sawe him walking vpon the sea, they supposed it had bene a spirit, and cryed out.
- 50 For they all sawe him, and were sore afraide: but anone he talked with them, and said vnto them, Be y of good comfort: it is I, be not afraide.
- 51 Then he went vp vnto them into the ship, and the winde ceased, and they were sore amased in them selues beyonde measure, and marueiled.
- 52 * For they had not considered the matter of the loaves, because their hearts were hardened.
- 53 ¶ And they came ouer, and wēt into the land of Gennefaret, and arriued.
- 54 So whē they were come out of the ship, straight way they knewe him,
- 55 And ranne about throughout all that region round about, & began to carye hither & thither in beddes all that were sicke, where they heard that he was.
- 56 And whither soeuer he entred into townes, or citres, or villages, they laid their sicke in the^u stretes, and prayed him that they might touche at the least the^a edge of his garment. And as manie as touched him, were made whole.
- CHAP. VII.
- 1 The disciples eat with vnwashed hands. 2 The commandement of God is transgressed by mans traditions. 22 What defileth man. 24 Of the woman of Syrophonissa. 32 The healing of the demme. 37 The people praise Christ.
- 1 ¶ Then *gathered vnto him the Pharises, and certeine of the Scribes which came from Ierusalem.
- 2 And when they sawe some of his disciples eat meat with^u cōmune^a hands, (that is to say vnwashed) they complained.
- 3 (For the Pharises, & all the Iewes, except they wash their hāds^b oft, eat not, holding the tradition of the Elders.
- 4 And when they come from the market, except they washe, they eat not: and manie other things there be, which they haue taken vpon them to obserue, as the washing of cuppes, and^c pottes, and of brasen vessels, and of tables.)
- 5 Then asked him the Pharises and Scribes, Why walke not thy disciples according to the tradition of the Elders, but eat^d meat with vnwashed hands?
- 6 Then he answered and said vnto them, Surely * Esai hathe prophesied wel of you, hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoreth me with their^d lippes, but their heart is farre away from me.
- 7 But they worship me in vaine, teaching for doctrines the^e cōmandements of men.
- 8 For ye laye the commandement of God aparte, and obserue the tradition of men, as the washing of pottes and of cuppes, & manie other suche like things ye do.
- 9 And he said vnto them, Wel, ye reiect the commandement of God that ye may obserue your owne tradition.
- 10 For Moses said, *Honour thy father, and thy mother: & *Whosoever shal curse father or mother, let him^f dye the death.
- 11 But ye say, If a man say to father or mother, Corban, that is, By the gift that is offered by me, thou maist haue profite, he shal be fre.
- 12 So ye suffre him no more to do anie thing for his father, or his mother,
- 13 Making the worde of God of none autoritie, by your tradition which ye haue ordeined: and ye do manie suche like things.
- 14 *Then he called the whole multitude vnto him, and said vnto them, Hearke ye all vnto me, and vnderstand.
- 15 There is nothing without a man, that can defile him, when it entreth into him: but the things which procede out of him, are they which defile the man.
- 16 If anie haue eares to heare, let hī heare.
- 17 And when he came into an house away from the people, his disciples asked him concerning the parable.
- 18 And he said vnto thē, What are ye without vnderstanding also? Do ye not knowe that whatsoeuer thing from without entreth into a man, can not defile him,
- 19 Because it entreth not into his heart, but into the bellie, and goeth out into the draught which is^g ypurging of all meates?
- 20 Then he said, That which cometh out of man, that defileth man.
- 21 *For frō within, euen out of the heart of men, procede euil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murthers,
- 22 Theftes, couetousnes, wickednes, disceite, vnclennes, a^h wicked eye, backebiting, pride, foolishnes.
- 23 All these euil things come from within, and defile a man.

28 Then she answered, and said vnto him, Trueth, Lord: yet in dede the whelpes eat vnder the table of the childrens crommes.

1 IN* those dayes, when there was a verie great multitude, and had nothing to eat, Iesus called his disciples to him, and said vnto them, a Christ groudeth for his when they seeme to be desolate and forsaken.

2 I have a compassiō on the multitude, because they haue now continued with me thre daies, and haue nothing to eat.

3 And if I send them away fasting to their owne houses, they wolde faint by the way:

for some of them came from farre.

4 Then his disciples answered him, *How can a man satisfie these ^b with bread here in the wildernes?

Or, where is it.

b If bread were so hard to come by, it seemed impossible to obtaine other meat.

5 And he asked them, How manie loaves haue ye? And they said, Seuen.

6 Then he commanded the multitude to sit downe on the ground: and he toke the seuen loaves, & gaue thanks, brake them, & gaue to his disciples to set before them, and they did set them before the people.

7 Thei had also a fewe smale fishes: & when he had giuen thanks, he commanded the also to be set before them.

8 So they did eat, and were sufficed, and they toke vp of the broken meat that was left, seuen baskets ful, d O hee incōprehensible loue of Christ! how long shal we abuse his great mercies! Christ goeth about by hardships of speache to saue the from wilful destruction.

12 Then he sighed deeply in his spirit, & said, Why doeth this generation seke a signe? Verely I say vnto you, ^ea signe shal not be giuen vnto this generation.

13 ¶ So he left them, & went into the ship againe, and departed to the other side.

15 And he charged them, saying, Take heed, and beware of the leauen of the Pharises, and of the leauen of Herode.

16 And they thought among them selues, saying, It is, because we haue no bread.

21 Then he said vnto them, ^hHow is it that ye vnderstand not?

h Christ reproveth them because their mindes are as yet vpon the material leaue notwithstanding they had prouen by diuers miracles y^e he gaue them their dauidic bread.

22 And he came to Bethsaida, & thei broght a blinde man vnto him, and desired him to touche him.

23 Then he toke the blinde by the hand, & led him out of the towne, and spit in his eyes, and put his hands vpon him, & asked him, if he sawe oght.

24 And he loked vp, and said, I se men: for I se them walking like trees.

25 After that, he put his hands againe vpon his eyes, & made him loke againe. And he was restored to his sight, & sawe euerie man a farre of clearly.

27 ¶ And Iesus went out, and his disciples into the townes of Cesarea Philippi. And by the waye he asked his disciples, saying vnto them, Whome do men say that I am?

28 And they answered, Some say Iohn Baptist: and some, Elias: and some, one of the Prophetes.

29 And he said vnto them, But whome say ye that I am? The Peter answered & said vnto him, Thou art the Christ.

30 And he sharply & charged them that concerning him they shulde tell no man.

31 Then he began to teache them that the Sonne of man must suffer manie things, and shulde be reprobued of the Elders, & of the hie Priests & of the Scribes, and be slayne, & within thre dayes rise againe.

32 And he spake that thing plainly. Then Peter toke him aside, and began to rebuke him.

33 Then he turned backe, and loked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying, Get thee behinde me, Satan: for thou vnderstandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

34 ¶ And he called the people vnto him with his disciples, and said vnto them, Whosoever wil followe me, let him forsake him self, and take vp his crosse, and followe me.

35 For whosoever wil saue his life, shal lose it: but whosoever shal lose his life for my sake and the Gospels, he shal saue it.

36 For what shal it profite a man, though he shulde winne the whole worlde, if he lose his soule?

37 Or what shal a man giue for recompense of his soule?

b Christ sheweth his maiestie so farre as their infirmities was able to comprehend it.

4 And there appeared vnto the Elias with Moses, and they were talking with Iesus.

5 Then Peter answered, and said to Iesus, Master, it is good for vs to be here: let vs make also thre tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 ¶ Yet he knewe not what he said: for they were affrayed.

Mat. 17.9 d Christ onely must be chief teacher & instructor of all them, & profess them selues to be his members, seeing that God the Father giueth him this autoritie & commandeth vs thus obedience.

9 ¶ And as thei came downe from the mountaine, he charged them that thei shulde tell no man what they had sene saue when the Sonne of man were risen from the dead againe.

10 So they kept that matter to them selues, and demanded one of another, what the rising from the dead againe shulde meane?

11 Also they asked him, saying, Why say the Scribes, that ¶ Elias must first come?

Malach. 4.3.

12 And he answered, and said vnto them, Elias verely shal first come and restore all things: and ¶ as it is written of the Sonne of man, he must suffer manie things, and be set at night.

e Their false opinion was y either Elias shulde rise againe from the dead, or that his soule shulde enter into some other bodie

Or, against him.

17 And one of the companie answered, & said, Master, I haue broght my sonne vnto thee, which hath a domme spirit:

h When the spirit cometh vpon him, he teareth him with inward sorrow & pangs as in a colike a man feeleth suche grief, as if his bowels were rent a sunder.

18 And wherefoever he taketh him, he teareth him, and he someth, and gnasheth his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples that they shulde cast him out, and they coulde not.

19 Then he answered him, and said, ¶ O faithles generacion, how long now shal I be with you! how long now shal I suffer you! Bring him vnto me.

21 Then he asked his father, How long time is it since he hath bene thus? And he said, Of a childe.

22 And oft times he casteth him into y^e fyre, and into the water to destroye him: but if thou canst do anie thing, helpe vs, and haue compassion vpon vs.

k The Lord is euer readie to helpe vs, so y^e we put him not backe through our incredulitie. 1 All things that are agreeable to the wil of God, shalbe graced to him that beleueth: for faith seeketh nothing, that is contrary to his wil, or that is not reuiled in his worde. m That is, the feblenes, and imperfeciō of my faith. n Meaning, y^e childe.

23 And Iesus said vnto him, If^k thou canst beleue it, all things are^l possible to him that beleueth.

24 And straight way the father of the childe crying with teares, said, Lord, I beleue: helpe my^m vnbelief.

25 When Iesus sawe that the people came running together, he rebuked the vncleane spirit, saying vnto him, Thou domme & deafe spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and entre no more into him.

26 Then the spirit cryed, and rent him fore, and came out, andⁿ he was as one dead, in so muche that manie said, He is dead.

27 But Iesus roke his hand and lift him vp and he rose.

28 And whē he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly, Why colde not we cast him out?

29 And he said vnto them, This kinde can by no other meanes come forth, but by^o prayer, and fasting.

o Meaning, y^e prayer which is surely grounded vpon faith and hath fasting ioyned vnto it as a profitable aide. Mat. 17, 21. Luk. 9, 28.

30 ¶ And they departed thence, and went through Galilee, & he wolde not that anie shulde haue knowen it.

31 For he taught his disciples, and said vnto them, The Sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the hands of men, and they shal kil him, but after that he is killed, he shal rise againe the third day.

p Because they imagined that Christ shulde reigne temporally, this matter of his death was so strange, that they colde perceiue nothing. Mat. 16, 1. Luk. 9, 45.

32 But^r they vnderstode not that saying, and were afraide to aske him.

33 ¶ After he came to Capernaum: and whē he was in the house, he asked them, What was it y^e ye disputed among you by the way?

35 And he sate downe, and called the twelue, and said to them, If anie man desire to be first, the same shalbe last of all, and seruant vnto all.

36 And he toke a litle childe and set him in the middes of them, and toke him in his armes, and said vnto them,

Of diuorcement 17 The riches man questioneth with Christ. 30 Their rewardes that are persecuted 35 Of the formes of Zebedous. 46 Bartimeus hath his eyes opened.

And he arose from thence and went into the coastes of Iudea by the farside of Iordan, and the people resorted vnto him againe, and as he was wont, he taught them againe.

2 Then the Pharisees came and asked him, if it were lawful for a mā to put away his wife, and temptred him.

3 And he answered, and said vnto them, What did^y Moses commande you?

4 And they said, Moses suffred to write a bil of diuorcement, and to put her away.

and mother, and cleave vnto his wife.
 8 And they twaine shalbe one^a flesh: so that thei are no more twaine, but one flesh.
 9 * Therefore, what God hath coupled together, let not man separate.
 10 And in the house his disciples asked him againe of that matter.
 11 And he said vnto the, * Whosoever shall put away his wife and marie another,^b committeth adulterie against her.
 12 And if a woman put away her husband, & be married to another, she committeth adulterie.
 13 * Then they brought litle childre to him that he shulde touche them: and his disciples rebuked those that brought them.
 14 But when Iesus sawe it, he was displeased, and said to them, Suffre the litle childre to come vnto me, & forbid them not: for of such is the kingdome of God.
 15 Verely I say vnto you, Whosoever shall not receiue the kingdome of God as ^c a litle childe, he shal not entre therein.
 16 And he toke them vp in his armes, & put his hands vpon them, and ^d blessed them.
 17 * And when he was gone out on the way, there came one * running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shal I do, that I may possesse eternal life?
 18 Iesus said to him, Why caliest thou me good? there is none ^e good but one, euen God.
 19 Thou knowest the commandements, * Thou shalt not commit adulterie. Thou shalt not kil. Thou shalt not steale. Thou shalt not beare false witness. Thou shalt hurt no man. Honour thy father and mother.
 20 Then he answered, and said to him, Master, all these things I haue obserued from my youth.
 21 And Iesus behelde him, and ^f loued him, and said vnto him, One thing is lacking vnto thee, Go ^g & sell all that thou hast, and giue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, followe me, and take vp the crosse.
 22 But he was sad at that saying, and went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.
 23 And Iesus looked rounde about, and said vnto his disciples, How hardely do they that haue riches, entre into the kingdome of God!
 24 And his disciples were astonied at his wordes. But Iesus answered againe, and said vnto them, Children, how hard is it for them that trust in riches, to entre into the kingdome of God!
 25 It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, then for a ^h riche man to entre into the kingdome of God.
 26 And they were muche more astonied, saying with them selues, Who then can be saved?

But Iesus looked vpon them, & said, With men ⁱ it is impossible, but not with God: for with God ^j all things are possible.
 28 * The Peter began to say vnto him, Lo, we haue forsake all, & haue followed thee.
 29 Iesus answered, and said, Verely I say vnto you, there is no man that hath forsaken house or brethren or sisters, or father or mother, or wife, or children, or lands for my sake and the Gospels, 30 But he shal receiue an hundredfold now at this present: houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands with ^k persecutions, & in the worlde to come, eternal life.
 31 * But manie ^l that are ^m first, shalbe last, and the last, first.
 32 * And they were in the way going vp to Ierusalem, and Iesus went before them, & they were amazed, and as they followed, they were afraide, & Iesus toke the twelue againe, and began to tel them what things shulde come vnto him, 33 saying, Beholde we go vp to Ierusalem, and the Sonne of man shalbe deliuered vnto the high Priests, & to the Scribes, and thei shal condemne him to death, and shal deliuer him to the Gentiles.
 34 And they shal mocke him, and scourge him, and spit vpon him, and kil him: but the thirde day he shal rise againe.
 35 * The Iames and Iohn the sonnes of Zebedeus came vnto him, saying, Master, we wolde that thou shuldest do for vs that that we desire.
 36 And he said vnto them, What wolde ye I shulde do for you?
 37 And they said to him, Grante vnto vs, that we may sit one at thy right hand, & the other at thy left hand in thy glorie.
 38 But Iesus said vnto them, Ye knowe not what ye aske. Can ye ⁿ drinke of the cup that I shal drinke of, and be baptized with the baptisme that I shalbe baptized with?
 39 And thei said vnto him, We can. But Iesus said vnto them, Ye shal drinke in dede of the cup that I shal drinke of, and be baptized with the baptisme wherewith I shalbe baptized:
 40 But to sit at my right hand & at my left, is not ^o mine to giue, but it shalbe giuen to them for whome it is prepared.
 41 And when the ten heard that, they began to disdaine at Iames and Iohn.
 42 But Iesus called them vnto him, and said to them, * Ye knowe that they which desire to beare rule among the Gentiles, haue domination ouer them, and they that be great among them, exercise autoritie ouer them.
 43 But it shal ^p not be so among you: but whosoever wil be great among you, shalbe your seruant.

51 And Iesus answered, and said vnto him, What wilt thou that I do vnto thee? And the blinde said vnto him, Lord, that I may receiue sight.

2 And he began to speake vnto them in parables, ¶ A certeine man planted a vineyarde, and compassed it with an hedge, and digged a pit for the winepresse, and buylt a towre in it, and let it out to housbandmen, and went into a strange country.

3 And at a time, he sent to the housband men a seruant, that he might receiue of the housband men of the frute of y vineyard.

4 But they toke him, and bet him, and sent him away emptie.

5 And againe, he sent vnto them another seruant, and at him they cast stones, and brake his head, and sent him away shamefully handled.

6 And againe he sent another, & him they slewe, and manie other, beating some, and killing some.

7 Yet had he one sonne, his derebeloued: him also he sent the last vnto the, saying, They wil reuerence my sonne.

8 But the housband men said among the selues, This is the heire: come, let vs kil him, and the inheritance shal be ours.

9 So they toke him, and killed him, and cast him out of the vineyarde.

10 What shal then the Lord of the vineyarde do? He wil come and destroye these housband men, and giue the vineyarde to others.

11 Haue ye not red so muche as this Scripture? ¶ The stone which y buylders did re-

12 This was done of the Lord, & it is marueilous in oure eyes.

13 Then they went about to take him, but they feared the people: for they perceiued that he spake that parable against them: therefore they left him, & went their way.

14 ¶ And they sent vnto him certeine of the Pharises, and of the Herodians that they might take him in his talke.

15 And whē they came, they said vnto him, Master, we knowe that thou art true, & carest for no man: for thou considerest not the persone of me, but teachest the way of God truly, Is it lawful to giue tribute to Cesar, or not?

16 Shulde we giue it, or shulde we not giue it? But he knewe their hypocrisie, and said vnto them, Why tempt ye me? Bring me a penie, that I may se it.

17 So they brought it, and he said vnto the, Whose is this image and superscription? and they said vnto him, Cefars.

18 ¶ Then Iesus answered, & said vnto them, Giue to Cesar the things that are Cefars, and to God, those that are Gods: and they marueiled at him.

19 ¶ Then came the Sadduces vnto him, (which say, there is no resurrection) and they asked him, saying,

20 Master, Moses wrote vnto vs, If any mā's brother dye, and leaue his wife, and leaue no children, that his brother shulde take his wife, and raise vp sede vnto his brother.

21 There were seuen brethren, and the first toke a wife, and when he dyed, left no yssue.

22 Then the seconde toke her, and he dyed, nether did he yet leaue yssue, & the thirde likewise.

23 So seuen had her, and left no yssue: last of all the wife dyed also.

24 In the resurrection then, when they shal rise againe, whose wife shal she be of them? for seuen had her to wife?

25 Then Iesus answered, & said vnto them, Are ye not therefore deceiued, because ye knowe not the Scriptures, nether y power of God?

26 For when they shal rise againe from the dead, nether men marry, nor wiues are married, but are as the Angels which are in heauen.

27 And as touching the dead, that they shal rise againe, haue ye not red in the booke of Moses, how in the bush God spake vnto him, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob?

The destracciō of Ierusalem. 10 The Gospel shalbe preached to all. 9. 22 The persecutions and false Prophetes which shal be before the comming of Christ, whose houre is uncerteine. 33 He exhorteth euery one to watch.

Mat. 24. 1. luk. 21. 5. And as he went out of the Temple, A one of his disciples said vnto him, Master, se what stones, and what buyldings are here.

Luk. 19. 48. 2 * Then Iesus answered and said vnto him, Seest thou these great buyldings? there shal not be left one stone vpō a stone, that shal not be throwen downe.

3 And as he sate on y mount of oliues, ouer against the Temple, Peter, and Iames, and Iohn, and Andrew asked him secretly,

4 Tel vs, when shal these things be? & what shalbe the signe when all these things shalbe fulfilled?

5 And Iesus answered them, and began to say, * Take hede lest any mā deceiue you.

6 For many shal come in my Name, sayig, I am Christ, and shal deceiue many.

7 Furthermore when ye shal heare of warres and rumors of warres, be ye not troubled: for suche things must nedes be: but the end shal not be yet.

8 For nation shal rise against nation, and kingdome against kingdome, and there shalbe earth quakes in diuers quarters, and there shalbe famine and troubles: these are the beginnings of sorowes.

9 But take ye hede to your selues: for they shal deliuer you vp to the Councils, and to the Synagogues: ye shalbe beaten, and broght before rulers and Kings for my sake for a testimonial vnto them.

10 And the Gospel must first be published among all nacions.

11 * But when they lead you, and deliuer you vp, take ye no thought afore, nether premeditate what ye shal say: but whatsoeuer is giuen you at the same time, that speake: for it is not ye that speake, but the holie Gost.

12 Yea, and the brother shal deliuer the brother to death, and the father the sonne, and the children shal rise against their parents, and shal cause them to dye.

13 And ye shalbe hated of all men for my Names sake: but whosoever shal endure vnto the end, he shalbe sauēd.

14 * Moreouer, when ye shal se the abominacion of desolacion (spoken of by * Daniel the Prophet) standing where it ought not, (let him that readeth, consider it) * then let the that be in Iudea, flee into the mountaynes,

15 And let him that is vpon the house, not come downe into the house, nether entre therein, to fetch any thing out of his house,

8 And the people cryed a loude, & began to desire that he wolde do as he had c euer done vnto them.

32 Let Christ the King of Israel now come downe from the crosse, that we may se, and beleue. h They also that were crucified with him, reuiled him.

33 ¶ Now when y^e sixt houre was come, darkenes arose ouer i all the land vntil the ninth houre.

34 And at the k ninth houre Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, saying, * Eloi, Eloi, lama-sabachthani? which is by interpreta-cion, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

35 And some of them that stode by, when they heard it, said, i Beholde, he calleth Elias.

36 And one ran, and filled a * sponge ful of vineger, and put it on a reede, and gaue him to drinke, saying, Let him alone: let vs se if Elias wil come and take him downe.

37 And Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, and gaue vp the goſt.

38 ¶ And the vaile of the Temple was rent in twaine, from the top to the bottome.

39 Now when the m Centurion, which stode ouer against him, sawe that he thus crying gaue vp the goſt, he said, Truly this man was the Sonne of God.

40 ¶ There were also women, which behelde a farre off, among whome was Marie Magdalene, and Marie (the mother of Iames the lesse, and of Ioses) and Salome, 41 Which also when he was in Galile, * fol-lowed him and ministred vnto him, and many other women which came vp with him vnto Ierusalem.

42 ¶ * And now whē night was come (becau-se it was the day of the preparacion that is before the Sabbath)

43 Ioseph of Arimathea, an n honorable Counsellour, which also looked for y^e king-dome of God, came, & went in o boldly vnto Pilate, and asked the bodie of Iesus.

44 And Pilate marueiled, if he were already dead, and called vnto him the Cen-turion, and asked of him whether he had bene any while dead.

45 And whē he knewe the trueth of the Cen-turion, he gaue the bodie to Ioseph,

46 Who bought a linnen cloth, and toke him downe, and wrapped him in the linnen cloth, and layd him in a tombe that was hewen out of a rocke, & rolled a stone vn-to the dore of the sepulchre:

47 And Marie Magdalene, and Marie Ioses mother behelde where he shulde be layd.

CHAP. I.

5 Of Zacharias, and Elisabet. 11 The Angel sheweth him of the natiuitie of Iohn Baptist. 20 His incredulitie is punished. 28 The talke of the Angel, and Marie. 46 Her song. 57 The birth, Circumcision, and grace of Iohn. 68 Zacharias giueth thanks to God, & prophesieth.

Or as muche as many haue takē in hand to set forth the y storie of those things, whereof we are fully perswaded,

* As they haue deliuered them vnto vs, which from the beginning sawe the their felues, and were ministers of the worde,

It seemed good also to me (moste noble Theophilus) as sone as I had searched out perfectly all things fro the beginning, to write vnto thee thereof from point to point,

That thou mightest acknowledge the certintie of those things, whereof thou hast bene instructed.

IN the time of Herode King of Iudea, there was a certaine Priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abia: & his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elisabet.

Bothe were iust before God, and walked in all the commandements and ordinances of the Lord, without reprove.

And thei had no childe, because that Elisabet was barren: & bothe were wel stricken in age.

And it came to passe, as he executed the Priests office before God, as his course came in order,

According to the custome of the Priests office, his lot was to burne incense, when he went into the Temple of the Lord.

Is meant the outwarde obseruation of the ceremonies commanded by God. h That is, y euening & morning sacrifice according to the Law. i The Temple was diuided into three partes: the first was y bodie of the Temple called Atriu, where the people was: the second called, Sanctu, where the Priests and Leuites were: and the third Sanctum Sanctorum, unto the which the hie Priest entred once a yere to sacrifice.

10 And the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, * while the incense was burning.

11 Then appeared vnto him an Angel of the Lord standing at the right side of the altar of incense.

12 And when Zacharias sawe him, he was troubled, and feare fel vpon him.

13 But the Angel said vnto him, Feare not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard, and thy wife Elisabet shal beare thee a sonne, and thou shalt call his name * Iohn.

14 And thou shalt haue ioye and gladnes, & many shal reioyce at his birth.

15 For he shalbe great in the sight of the Lord, & shal nether drinke wine, nor strong drinke: and he shalbe filled with the holie Ghost, euen from his mothers wombe.

16 * And many of the children of Israel shal he turne to their Lord God.

17 * For he shal go before him in the spirit & power of Elias, to turne the hearts of the fathers to y children, & the disobedient to the wisdom of the iust men, to make readie a people prepared for the Lord.

18 Then Zacharias said vnto the Angel, Whereby shal I knowe this: for I am an olde man, and my wife is of a great age.

19 And the Angel answered, and said vnto him, I am * Gabriel that stand in the presence of God, and am sent to speake vnto thee, & to shewe thee these good tidings.

20 And beholde, thou shalt be domme, and not be able to speake, vntil the day that these things be done, because thou beleuedst not my wordes, which shalbe fulfilled in their season.

21 Now the people waited for Zacharias, and marueiled that he taried so long in the Temple.

22 And when he came out, he colde not speake vnto them: then they perceiued that he [¶] Whiles their course endured to sacrifice, they might not lie with their wives, nor drinke any licour that might make one drunke. For the barren women enioyed not the promises which God made to them that were married, to haue yssue: but principally they were depriued of that promise which God made to Abraham, that he wolde increase his seed. [¶] Or gladnes be to thee. [¶] Or, receiued in to fauour. [¶] Not for her merites: but onely through Gods free mercie, who loued vs when we were sinners, that who soeuer reioyceth, shulde reioyce in the Lord. Isa 7.14. mat 1.21. chap 2.21. [¶] Because he is the true Sonne of God, begotten from before all beginning, and manifested in flesh at the determinat time. Dan 7.14. micah 4.7. [¶] She wolde be reioiced of all doutes to the end that she might more surely embrace the promises of God. [¶] It shalbe a secret operatio of the holie Gost. [¶] He must be pure and without sinne, w^{ch} must take away the sinnes of the worlde. [¶] Nor without ading that Elisabet was married to one of y^e tribe of Leui, yet she was Maries cousin which was of the stocke of Dauid. For the law which forbade marriage out of their owne tribe, was onely that y^e tribes shulde not be mixt and confounded, which coulde not be in marryig with y^e Leuites: for they had no portio assigned vnto the. [¶] Which was also called, Kirith-arba or Hebron, Iosh 14.15, & 21.11. [¶] This mouing was extraordinary and not natural, which was to commend the miracle had sene a vision in the Temple: for he made signes vnto them, and remained domme.

23 And it came to passe, when the dayes of his office were fulfilled, that he departed to his owne house.

24 And after those dayes, his wife Elisabet conceived, and hid herself fise moneths, saying,

25 Thus hathe the Lord dealt with me, in the dayes wherein he loked on me, to take from me my rebuke among men.

26 ¶ And in the sixt moneth, the Angel Gabriel was sent fro God vnto a cite of Galile, named Nazaret, 27 To a virgine affianced to a man whose name was Ioseph, of the house of Dauid, & the virgins name was Marie.

28 And the Angel went in vnto her, & said, Haile thou that art freely beloued: y^e Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among womē.

29 And when she sawe him, she was troubled at his saying, & thought what maner of salutation that shulde be.

30 Then y^e Angel said vnto her, Feare not, Marie: for thou hast founde fauour with God.

31 ¶ For lo, thou shalt conceive in thy wombe, and beare a sonne, and shalt call his name IESVS.

32 He shalbe great, & shalbe called the Sonne of the moste High, and the Lord God shal giue vnto him the throne of his father Dauid.

33 ¶ And he shal reigne ouer y^e house of Iacob for euer, & of his kingdome shalbe no end.

34 Then said Marie vnto the Angel, How shal this be, seing, I know no man?

35 And the Angel answered, and said vnto her, The holie Gost shal come vpon thee, & the power of the moste High shal ouersadowe thee: therefore also that y^e holie thing which shalbe borne of thee, shalbe called the Sonne of God.

36 And beholde, thy cousin Elisabet, she hath also conceived a sonne in her olde age: and this is her sixt moneth, which was called barren.

37 For with God shal nothing be vnpossible.

38 Then Marie said, Beholde, the seruant of the Lord: be it vnto me according to thy worde. So the Angel departed from her.

39 ¶ And Marie arose in those dayes, and went into the hill country with haste to a cite of Iuda, 40 And entred into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elisabet.

41 And it came to passe, as Elisabet heard the salutation of Marie, the babe sprang in her bellie, & Elisabet was filled with the holie Gost.

42 And she cryed with a loude voyce, and said, Blessed art thou among women, because the frute of thy wombe is blessed.

43 And whence cometh this to me, that the mother of my Lord shulde come to me?

44 For lo, as sone as the voyce of thy salutation sounded in mine eares, the babe sprang in my bellie for ioye.

45 And blessed is she that beleued: for those things shalbe performed, which were tolde her from the Lord.

46 Then Marie said, My soule magnifieth the Lord,

47 And my spirit reioyceth in God my Sauour.

48 For he hath loked on the poore degree of his seruant: for beholde, from hence forth the shal all ages call me blessed.

49 Because, he that is mightie, hath done for me great things, & holie is his Name.

50 And his mercie is from generacion to generacion on them that feare him.

51 ¶ He hath shewed strength with his arme: he hath scattered the proude in the imagination of their hearts.

52 He hath put downe the mightie from their seates, and exalted the of lowe degree.

53 ¶ He hath filled the hungrie with good things, and sent away the riche emptye.

54 ¶ He hath vpholden Israel his seruant, being mindeful of his mercie

55 (* As he hath spoken to our fathers, to wit, to Abraham and his seed) for euer.

56 ¶ And Marie abode with her about thre moneths: after, she returned to her owne house.

57 ¶ Now Elisabets time was fulfilled, that she shulde be deliuered, and she brought forth a sonne.

58 And her neighbours, & cousins heard tel how the Lord had shewed his great mercie vpon her, and they reioyced with her.

59 And it was so that on the eight day they came to circumcise the babe, & called him Zacharias, after the Name of his father.

60 But his mother answered, and said, Not so, but he shalbe called Iohn.

61 And they said vnto her, There is none of thy kined, y^e is named with this Name.

62 Then they made signes to his father, how he wolde haue him called.

63 So he asked for writing tables, & wrote, saying, His name is Iohn, and they marueiled all.

64 And his mouth was opened immediarly, and his tongue loosed, and he spake & praised God.

65 Then feare came on all them that dwelt nere vnto them, and all these wordes were noised abroad throughout all the hill country of Iudea.

CHAP. II.

7 The birth and circumcision of Christ 22 He was rescued into the Temple 28 Simeon and Anna prophesie of him. 40 H was founde among the doctors. 51 His obedience to father and mother.

And it came to passe in those dayes, that there came a comandement fro Augustus Cesar, that all the world shulde be taxed.

(This first taxing was made when Cyprianus was gouernour of Syria.)

Therefore went all to be taxed euerie mā to his owne citie.

And Ioseph also went vp from Galilee out of a citie called Nazaret, into Iudea, vnto the citie of Dauid, which is called Beth-lehem (because he was of the house and linage of Dauid,)

To be taxed with Marie that was giuen him to wife, which was with childe.

¶ And so it was, that while they were there, the daies were accomplished that she shulde be deliuered.

And she brought forth her first begotten sonne, & wrapped him in swadding clothes and laid him in a cratche, because there was no rowme for them in the ynne.

¶ And there were in the same countrey shepherds, abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night because of their flocke.

¶ And lo, the Angel of the Lord came vpon them, and the glorie of the Lord shone about them, and they were sore afraide.

¶ Then the Angel said vnto them, Be not afraide: for behold, I bring you tidings of great ioye, that shal be to all the people:

That is, that vnto you is borne this day in the citie of Dauid, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

¶ And this shal be a signe to you, Ye shal finde y^e childe swaddled, & laid in a cratche.

¶ And straight way there was with the Angel a multitude of heauenlie souldiers, praying God, and saying,

Glorie be to God in the high heauens, and peace in earth, & towards men a good wil.

¶ And it came to passe when the Angels were gone away from them into heauen, that y^e shepherds said one to another, Let vs go then vnto Beth-lehem, and see this thing that is come to passe, which the Lord hath shewed vnto vs.

¶ So they came with haste, & founde bothe Marie and Ioseph, and the babe laid in the cratche.

¶ And when they had sene it, they published abroad the thing, which was tolde them of that childe.

¶ And all that heard it, wondered at y^e things which were tolde them of the shepherds.

¶ But Marie kept all those sayings & pondered them in her heart.

¶ And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God, for all that they had heard & sene, as it was spoken vnto them.

¶ And when the eight daies were accomplished, that they shulde circumcise the childe, his name was then called IESVS, which was named of the Angel, before he was conueined in the wombe.

¶ And when the dayes of her purification after the Law of Moses were accomplished, they brought him to Ierusalem, to present him to the Lord.

(As it is written in the Law of the Lord, *Euerie man childe that first openeth the wombe, shal be called holie to the Lord:)

¶ And to giue an oblation, *as it is commanded in the Law of the Lord, a paire of turtle doves, or two yong pigeons.

virginitie.

37 And she was widowe about foure score,

38 She came at the same instant vpon them, confessed likewise the Lord, & spain Ierusalem.

39 And when thei had performed all things according to the Law of the Lord, they returned into Galile to their owne citie Nazaret.

40 And the childe grew, and waxed stròg

the grace of God was with him.

41 ¶ Now his parèts went to Ierusalé eue-

42 And when he was twelue yere olde, and they were come vp to Ierusalem, after the custome of the feast,

43 And had finished the dayes thereof, as they returned, the childe Iesus remained in Ierusalem, and Ioseph knewe not nor his mother,

44 But they supposing, that he had bene in the companie, went a dayes iorney, and foght him among their kinsfolke, and ac-

45 And whe they founde him not, they turned backe to Ierusalem, and foght him.

46 And it came to passe thre dayes after, that they founde him in the Temple, sitting in the middes of the doctours, bothe hearing them, and asking them questions.

47 And all that heard him, were astonied at his vnderstanding, and answers.

Or, Ioseph.

9 Now also is the axe laid vnto the roote of the trees: therefore euerie tre which bringeth not forth the good frute, shalbe hewen downe and cast into the fyre.

10 ¶ Then the people asked him, saying, What shal we do then?

11 And he answered, and said vnto them, * He f that hathe two coates, let him parte with him that hathe none: and he that hathe the meat, let him do likewise.

12 Then came there s Publicanes also to be baptized, and said vnto him, Master, what shal we do?

13 And he said vnto the, Require no more then that which is appointed vnto you.

14 The souldiers likewise demanded of him, saying, And what shal we do? And he said vnto them, Do violence to no man, nether accuse anie falsely, and be content with your wages.

15 As the people waited, and all men mused in their hearts of Iohn, if he were not the Christ,

16 Iohn answered, and said to them all, * In dede I h baptize you with water, but one stronger then I, cometh, whose shoes latchet I am not worthie to vnlose: he wil baptize you with the holie Gost, and i with fyre.

17 * Whose fanne is in his hand, and he wil make cleane his floore, and wil gather the wheat into his garner, but the chaff wil he burne vp with fyre that neuer shalbe quenched.

18 Thus then exhorting with manie other things, he preached vnto the people.

19 * But when h Herode the tetrarch was rebuked of him for Herodias his brother Philippes wife, and for all the euils which Herode had done, 20 He added yet this aboue all, that he shut vp Iohn in prison.

21 * Now it came to passe, as all the people were baptized, & that Iesus was baptized & did pray, that the heauen was opened:

15 But that which fel in good ground, ^a are they which with an honest & good heart heare the worde, and kepe it, & bring forth the frute with patience.

7 ¶ Now Herode the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he doutēd, because that it was said of some, that Iohn was risen againe from the dead:

8 And of some, that Elias had appeared: & of some, that one of the olde Prophetes was risen againe.

9 Then Herode said, Iohn haue I behead

10 ¶ And whē the Apostles returned, they tolde him what great things they had done.

Bethsaida.

healed them that had nede to be healed.

12 * And whē the day began to weare away, the twelue came, and said vnto him, Send the people away, that they may go into the townes and villages rounde about, & lodge, and get meat: for we are here in a desert place.

13 But he said vnto them, ^d Giue ye them to eat. And they said, We haue no mo but five loaves & two fishes, except we shulde go and bye meat for all this people.

14 For they were about five thousand men.
Then he said to his disciples, Cause them to sit downe by fifties in a companie.

15 And they did so, and caused all to sit downe.

16 Then he toke the five loaves, and the two fishes, and loked vp to heauen, and ^e bles sed them, and brake, and gaue to the disci

17 So they did all eat, and were satisfied: & there was takē vp of that remained to the,

18 ¶ And it came to passe as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him, and he asked the, saying, Whome say the peo ple that I am?

19 They answered, and said, Iohn Baptist: and others say, Elias: & some say, that one of the olde Prophetes is risen againe.

20 And he said vnto them, But whome say ye that I am? Peter answered, & said, The Christ of God.

21 And he warned, and commanded them, that they shulde tell ^f that to no man,

22 Saying, * The Sonne of man must suffre many things, and be reprobued of the El ders, & of the hie Priests and Scribes, and 23 ¶ And he said to them all, If any man wil come after me, let him denye him self, and take vp his crosse daily, and followe

me.

24 For whosoever wil saue his life, shal lose it: and whosoever shal lose his life for my sake, the same shal saue it.

25 For what auātageth it a man, if he winne the whole worlde, and destroye him self, or lose him self?

26 * For whosoever shalbe ashamed of me, and of my wordes, of him shal the Sonne of man be ashamed, when he shal come in his glorie, and in the glorie of the Father, and of the holie Angels.

27 * And I tell you of a suretie, there be so

God.

28 * And it came to passe about an eight dayes after those wordes, that he toke Pe ter, & Iohn, and Iames, and went vp into a mountaine to pray.

29 And as he prayed, the facion of his coun

42 And whiles he was yet comming, the deuill rent him, and tare him: and Iesus rebuked the vncleane spirit, and healed the childe, and deliuered him to his father.

43 ¶ And thei were all amased at the mighty power of God: & while thei all wondered at all things, which Iesus did, he said vnto his disciples, n Greke, put these words into your eares.

44 ¶ Marke these wordes diligently: for it shal come to passe, that the Sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the hands of men.

46 ¶ Then there arose a disputacion among them, which of them shulde be the greatest.

47 When Iesus sawe the thoughts of their hearts, he toke a litle childe, and set him by him,

48 And said vnto them, Whosoever recei- ueth this litle childe in my Name, I recei- ueth me: and whosoever shal receive me, receiue him that sent me: for he that is least among you all, he shalbe great.

Mat 23, 25. 19 *And the Lord said to him, In dede ye Pharises make cleane the outside of the cup, and of the platter: but the inwarde parte is ful of rauening and wickednes.

40 Ye fooles, did not he that made that which is without, make that which is within also?

41 Therefore, geiue almes of those things which are within, and beholde, all things shalbe cleane to you.

42 But wo be to you, Pharises: for ye tithe the mynt and the rewe, and all maner herbes, and passe ouer iudgement and the loue of God: these ought ye to haue done, and not to haue left the other vndone.

43 *Wo be to you, Pharises: for ye loue the vppermost seates in the Synagogues, and greetings in the markets.

44 Wo be to you, Scribes and Pharises, hypocrites: for ye are as graues which appere not, & the men that waike ouer the, perceiue not.

45 ¶ Then answered one of the expounders of the Lawe, and said vnto him, Master, thus saying thou puttest vs to rebuke also.

46 And he said, Wo be to you also, ye interpreters of the Lawe: for ye lade men with burdenes grievous to be borne, and ye your selues touche not the burdenes with one of your fingers.

47 Wo be to you: for ye buylde the sepulchres of the Prophetes, and your fathers killed them.

48 Truly ye beare witness, and allow the dedes of your fathers: for they killed the, and ye buylde their sepulchres.

49 Therefore said the wisdom of God, I wil send them Prophetes and Apostles, & of them they shal slay and persecute,

50 That the blood of all the Prophetes, shedd fro the fundacion of the worlde, may be required of this generation,

51 From the blood of Abel vnto the blood of Zacharias, which was slaine betwene the altar and the Temple: verely I say vnto you, it shalbe required of this generation.

52 Wo be to you, interpreters of the Law: for ye haue take away the keye of knowledge: ye entred not in your selues, and the that came in, ye forbade.

53 And as he said these things vnto them, the Scribes and Pharises began to vrgen him sore, and to prouoke him to speake of many things,

1 Christ commandeth to auoide hypocrisie. 4 That we shulde not feare man but God. 5 To confesse his Name. 10 Blasphemie against the Spirit. 14 Not to passe our vocacion. 15 Not to giue our selues to curious care of this life. 32 But to righteousnes, almes, watching, patience, wisdom and con corde.

IN the meane time, there gathered together an innumerable multitude of people, so that they trode one another: & he began to say vnto his disciples first, Take hede to your selues of the leauen of the Pharises, which is hypocrisie.

2 *For there is nothing couered, that shal not be reueiled: nether hid, that shal not be known.

3 Wherefore whatsoever ye haue spoken in darkenes, it shalbe heard in the light: and that which ye haue spoken in the eare, in secret places, shalbe preached on the houses.

4 *And I say vnto you, my friends, be not afraid of them that kil the bodie, and after that are not able to do any more.

5 But I wil forewarne you, whome ye shal feare: feare him which after he hath killed, hath the power to cast into hel: yea, I say vnto you, him feare.

7 Yea, and all the heeres of your head are nombred: feare not therefore: ye are more of value then many sparowes.

8 *Also I say vnto you, Whosoever shal confesse me before men, him shal the Sonne of man confesse also before the Angels of God.

9 But he that shal denye me before men, shalbe denyed before the Angels of God.

10 And whosoever shal speake a worde against the Sonne of man, it shalbe forgiven him: but vnto him that shal blaspheme the holie Gost, it shal not be forgiven.

11 *And when they shal bring you vnto the Synagogues, & vnto the rulers & princes, take no thought how, or what thing ye shal answer, or what ye shal speake.

12 For the holie Gost shal teache you in the same houre, what ye ought to say.

13 And one of the companie said vnto him, Master, bid my brother deuide the inheritance with me.

14 And he said vnto him, Man, who made me a iudge, or a deuider ouer you?

15 Wherefore he said vnto them, Take hede, and beware of couetousnes: for though a man haue abundance, yet his life ittadeth not in his riches.

- 18 And he said, This wil I do, I wil pul downe my baines, and buyde greater, & therein wil I gather all my frutes, and my goods.
- 19 And I wil say to my soule, Soule, thou hast muche goods laid vp for many yeres: liue at ease, eat, drinke, and take thy pastime.
- 20 But God said vnto him, O foole, this night wil they fetch away thy soule from thee: the whose shal those things be which thou hast prouided?
- 21 So is he that gathereth riches to him self, and is not riche in God.
- 22 And he spake vnto his disciples, Therefore I say vnto you, * Take no thought for your life, what ye shal eat: nether for your bodie, what ye shal put on.
- 23 The life is more then meat: and the bodie more then the raiment.
- 24 Consider the rauens: for they nether sowe nor reape: which nether haue store house nor barne, & yet God fedeth them: how muche more are ye better then foules?
- 25 And which of you with taking thought, can adde to his stature one cubit?
- 26 If ye then be not able to do the least thing, why take ye thought for the remnant?

40 Be ye also prepared therefore: for the Sonne of man wil come at an houre when ye thinke not.

41 Then Peter said vnto him, Master, telst thou this parable vnto vs, or euen to all?

42 And the Lord said, Who is a faithful stewarde, & wise, whome the master shal make ruler ouer his housholde, to giue them their^a portion of meat in season?

43 Blessed is that seruant, whome his master when he cometh, shal finde so doing.

CHAP. XIII.

- 1 The crueltie of Pilate. 2 We ought not to condemne all to be wicked men which suffer. 3 Christ exhorteth to repentance. 11 He healeth the crooked woman. 15 Answereth to the master of the Synagogue. 18 By diuers similitudes he declareth what the kingdome of God is. 23 Also that the number of them which shal be sau'd, is small. 33 Finally he sheweth that no worldlie policie or force can let the worke and counsil of God.

1 There were certeine men present at the same season, that shewed him of y^e Galileas, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their owne sacrifices.

2 And Iesus answered, and said vnto them, Suppose ye, y^e these Galileans were greater sinners then all the other Galileans, because they haue suffered suche things?

3 I tell you, nay: but except ye amende your liues, ye shal all likewise perish.

4 Or thinke you that those eightene, vpon whome the towre in^d Siloam fel, & slewe them, were sinners aboue all men that dwell in Ierusalem?

5 I tell you, nay: but except ye amede your liues, ye all shal likewise perish.

6 ¶ He spake also this parable, A certeine mā had a figge tre planted in his vineyard: and he came and soght frute thereon, and founde none.

7 Then said he to the dresser of his vineyarde, Beholde, this thre yeres haue I come and soght frute of this figge tre, and finde none: cut it downe: why kepeth it also the ground barren?

8 And he answered, & said vnto him, Lord, let it alone this yere also, til I digge round about it, and dongue it.

9 And if it beare frute, wel: if not, the after thou shalt cut it downe.

10 ¶ And he taught in one of the Synagogues on the Sabbath day.

11 And beholde, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmities eightene yeres, Whome Satan had broken with a disease, as the spirit of conuulsions is that spirit, that maketh a man conuuls.

& was bowed together, and colde not lift vp herself in anie wise.

12 When Iesus sawe her, he called her to him, and said to her, Woman, thou art loosed from thy disease.

13 And he laid his hands on her, and immediately she was made straight againe, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the Synagogue answered with indignation because that Iesus had healed on the Sabbath day, & said vnto the people, There are six dayes in which men ought to worke: in the therefore come and be healed, and not on the Sabbath day.

15 Then answered him the Lord, and said, Hypocrite, doeth not eithe one of you on the Sabbath day lose his ox or his asse frō the stall, & lead him away to y^e water?

16 And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whome Satā had bounde, lo, eightene yeres, be loosed from this bonde on the Sabbath day?

17 And when he said these things, all his aduersaries were ashamed: but all the people reioyced at all the excellent things, that were done by him.

18 ¶ Then said he, What is the kingdome of God like? or whereto shal I compare it?

19 It is like a graine of mustarde seed, which a man toke and sowed in his garden, and it grewe, and waxed a great tre, and the fowles of the heauen made nestes in the branches thereof.

20 ¶ And againe he said, Whereunto shal I liken the kingdome of God?

21 It is like leauen, which a womā toke, and hid in thre peckes of floure, til all was leauened.

22 ¶ And he went through all cities and townes, teaching, & journeying towards Ierusalem.

23 Then said one vnto him, Lord, are there fewe y^e shal be sau'd? And he said vnto the,

24 ¶ Striue to entre in at the straite gate: for manie, I say vnto you, wil seeke to enter in, and shal not be able.

26 ¶ Then shal ye beginne to say, We haue eaten and drunke in thy presence, & thou hast taught in our stretes.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Iesus eateth with the Pharise. 2 Mealeth the droppe upon the Sabbath 3 Teacheth to be lowlie & to bid the poore to our table. 15 He telleth of the great supper. 22 He warneth them that wil followe him, to lay their accounts before, what it wil cost them. 34 The sale of the earth.

1 And it came to passe that whē he was entred into the house of one of the chief Pharises on the Sabbath day, to eat bread, they watched him.

2 And beholde, there was a certeine mā before him, which had the droppe.

3 Then Iesus answering, spake vnto the expouers of the Law, and Pharises, saying, Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. Then he toke him, and healed him, and let him go,

5 And answered them, saying, Which of you shal haue an asse, or an ox fallen into a pit, and wil not straightway pul him out on the Sabbath day?

6 And they colde not answer him againe to those things.

7 He spake also a parable to the ghefts, when he marked how they chose out the chief rouses, and said vnto them,

8 * When thou shalt be bidden of anie mā to a weddig, set not thy self downe in the chiefe place, lest a more honorable man then thou, be bidden of him, a He repro- ueth their ambi- tion, which desire to sit in the chief pla- ces.

9 And he that bade bothe him and thee, come, and say to thee, Giue this man rouse, and thou then beginne with shame to take the lowest rouse.

10 * But whē y art bidden, go & sit downe in the lowest rouse, that when he that bade thee, cometh, he may say vnto thee, Friend, sit vp hier: the shalt thou haue worship in the presence of them that sit at table with thee.

11 * For whosoever exalteth him self, shalbe broght low, and he that humbleth him self, shalbe exalted.

12 ¶ The said he also to him that had bidden him, * When thou makest a dyner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor the riche neighbours, lest they also bid thee againe, and a recompense be made thee.

13 But when thou makest a feast, call the poore, the maimed, the lame, & the blind,

14 And thou shalt be blessed, because they can not recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the iuste.

15 ¶ Now whē one of them that sat at table, heard these things, he said vnto him, Blessed is he that eateth bread in the kingdome of God.

16 Then said he to him, * A certeine man made a great supper, and bade manie, 17 And sent his seruant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come: for all things are now ready.

18 But they all with one minde begā to make excuse: The first said vnto him, I haue bought a serme, and I must nedes go out & se it: I pray thee haue me excused.

19 And another said, I haue bought fiue yoke of oxen, and I go to proue them: I pray thee, haue me excused.

20 And another said, I haue married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.

21 So y seruant returned, & shewed his master these things. The was the good mā of the house angrie, & said to his seruāt, Go out quickly into y places & stretes of the citie, and bring in hither the poore, & the maimed, and the halt, and the blinde.

22 And the seruant said, Lord, it is done as thou halt comāded, & yet there is rouse.

23 Then the master said to the seruant, Go out into the hie wayes, and hedges, and compel them to come in, that mine house may be filled.

24 For I say vnto you, that none of those men which were bidden, shal taste of my supper.

25 Now there went great multitudes with him, and he turned and said vnto them,

26 If anie man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, & wife, & children, and brethren, and sisters: yea, and his owne life also, he cannot be my discipule.

CHAP. XV.

2 The Phariseis murmure because Christ receiue sinners. 4 The louing mercie of God is openly set forth in the parable of the hundred shepe. 7 Ioye in heauen for one sinner. 12 Of the prodigal sonne.

- 1 Then resorted vnto him all the Publicanes, and sinners, to heare him.
2 Therefore the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying, He receiue sinners, & eat-teth with them.
3 Then spake he this parable to them, saying,
4 *What man of you hauing an hundred shepe, if he loose one of them, doeth not leave ninetie and nine in the wilderness, & go after that which is lost, vntill he finde it?
5 And when he hath founde it, he laieth it on his shoulders with ioye.
6 And whē he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying vnto them, Reioyce with me: for I haue founde my shepe, which was lost.
7 I say vnto you, that likewise ioye shal be in heauen for one sinner that conuerteth, more then for ninetie and nine iuste men, which nede none amendement of life.
8 Either what woman hauing ten pieces of silver, if she loose one piece, doeth not light a candel, & sweepe the house, and seke diligently til she finde it?
9 And when she hath founde it, she calleth her friends, and neighbours, saying, Re-ioyce with me: for I haue founde the piece which I had lost.
10 Likewise I say vnto you, there is ioye in the presence of the Angels of God, for one sinner that conuerteth.

- 11 ¶ He said moreover, A certaine man had two sonnes.
12 And the yonger of the said to his father, Father, giue me the portion of the goods that falleth to me. So he deuided vnto them his substance.
13 So not long after, when the yonger son ne had gathered all together, he toke his iourney into a faire country, and there he wasted his goods with riotous liuing.
14 Now when he had spent all, there arose a great dearth throughout that land, and he began to be in necessitie.
15 Then he went and claue to a citizen of that country, and he sent him to his farme, to feede swine.
16 And he wolde faine haue filled his bellie with huskes, that the swine ate: but no man gaue them him.
17 Then he came to him self, and said, How manie hired seruants at my fathers haue bread ynough, and I dye for hunger?
18 I wil rise and go to my father, and say vnto him, Father, I haue sinned against heauen, and before thee, 19 And am no more worthie to be called thy sonne: make me as one of thy hired seruants.
20 So he arose and came to his father, and whē he was yet a great way off, his father sawe him, and had compassion, and ran & fel on his necke, and kissed him.
21 And the sonne said vnto him, Father,
I haue sinned against heauen, and before thee, and am no more worthie to be called thy sonne.
22 Then the father said to his seruants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feete, 23 And bring the fat calf, and kil him, and let vs eat, and be merie.
24 For this my sonne was dead, and is aliue again: and he was lost, but he is founde.
And they began to be merie.
25 Now the Elder brother was in the field, and when he came and drewe nere to the house, he heard melodie, and dancing, 26 And called one of his seruants, & asked what those things ment.
27 And he said vnto him, Thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fatted calfe, because he hath receiued him safe and sounde.
28 Thē he was angrie, & wolde not go in:
therefore came his father out and entreated him.
29 But he answered & said to his father, Lo these manie yeres haue I done thee serui-ce, nether brake I at any time thy comā-dement, & yet thou neuer gauest me a kid that I might make merie with my friends.

The riches of iniquitie. Chap.XVI. Abrahams bosome. 37

30 But whē this thy sonne was come, which hath deuoured thy goods with harlots, thou hast for his sake killed the fat calfe.

31 And he said vnto him, ^k Sonne, thou art euer with me, and all that I haue, is thine. It was mete that we shulde make mery, & be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alieue againe: and he was lost, but he is founde.

^k Thy parte, & art a Iewe, is nothing diminished by that ^j Christ was also killed for the Gentiles: for he accepteth not ^j person but feedeth indifferently all the that beleue in him with his bodie and blood to life euertlasting.

CHAP. XVI.

ⁱ Christ exhorteth vs to wisdome and liberalitie by the example of the steward ¹³ None can serue two masters: ¹⁴ He reproveth the couetousnes and hypocrisie of the Pharisees ¹⁶ Of the end and force of the Law. ¹⁸ Of the boile state of marriage. ¹⁹ Of the riche and Lazarus.

^a Christ teacheth hereby, ^j likewise as he ^j is in autoritie & hath riches, if he get friends in his ^j spirit, may be relieved in his aduersities: so our liberalitie towards ^j neighbour shall stand vs in such a steade at ^j daye of iudgement that God will accept it as done vnto him

^b God, who doeth here represent ^j master of the house, doeth rather commend the prodigal waste of his goods, & the liberal gaing of the same to ^j poore, then ^j strait keeping & harding of them. ^c That is, either wickedly gotten, or wickedly kept, or wickedly spent: & hereby we be warned to suspect riches which for the most parte are an occasion to their possessors of great wickednes.

^d They which can not well bestowe worldly goods, will bestowe euil spiritual treasures: & therefore they ought not to be committed vnto them

^e As are riches and such like things, which God hath giuen not for our selues only, but to bestowe vpon others.

And he said also vnto his disciples, ^a There was a certeine riche man, which had a steward, and he was accused vnto him, that he wasted his goods.

2 And he called him, and said vnto him, How is it that I heare this of thee? Giue an accounts of thy stewardship: for thou maiest be no longer steward.

3 Then the steward said within him self, What shal I do: for my master wil take away from me the stewardship: I can not digge, & to begge I am ashamed.

4 I knowe what I wil do, that when I am put out of the stewardship they may receiue me into their houses.

5 Then called he euerie one of his masters debtors, & said vnto the first, How muche owest thou vnto my master?

6 And he said, An hundred measures of oyle. And he said to him, Take thy writing, and sit downe quickly, and write fiftie.

7 Then said he to another, How muche owest thou? And he said, An hundred measures of wheat. Then he said to him, Take thy writing, and write foure score.

8 And the Lord commended ^b the vniust steward, because he had done wisely. Wherefore the children of this worlde are in their generacion wiser then the children of light.

9 And I saye vnto you, Make you friends with the riches of iniquitie, that when ye shal want, they may receiue you into euertlasting habitacions.

10 He that is faithful in the least, he is also faithful in muche: and he that is vniust in the least, is vniust also in muche.

11 If the ye haue not bene faithful in ^d the wicked riches, who wil trust you in ^j true treasure?

12 And if ye haue not bene faithful in ^e another mans goods, who shal giue you that which is ^f yours?

13 No seruant can serue two masters: for either he shal hate the one, and loue the other: or els he shal leane to the one, & despise the other. Ye can not serue God and riches.

14 All these things heard the Pharisees also which were couetous, and they mocked him.

15 Then he said vnto them, Ye are they, which ^a iustifie your selues before men: but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly esteemed among men, is abomination in the sight of God.

16 The Law and the Prophetes endured vntil Iohn: and since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and euerie man ipeaseth into it.

17 Now it is more easie that heauen and earth shulde passe away, then that one tittle of the Law shulde fall.

18 Whosoever putteth away his wife, & marieth another, committeth adulterie: & whosoever marieth her that ^a is put away from her housband, committeth adulterie.

19 There was a certeine riche man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared wel and delicately euerie day.

20 Also there was a certeine begger named Lazarus, which was laied at his gate full of sores, 21 And desired to be refreshed with the crommes that fell from the riche mans table: yea, and the dogs came and licked his sores.

22 And it was so that the begger dyed, and was caryed by the Angels into ^m Abrahams bosome. The riche man also dyed and was buried.

23 And being in hel in torment, he lift vp his eyes, and sawe Abraham a farre of, & Lazarus in his bosome.

24 Then he cryed, and said, Father Abraham, haue mercie on me, and send Lazarus that he may dippe ^j typ of his finger in water, and coole my tongue: for I am tormented in this flame.

25 But Abraham said, Sonne, remember that thou in thy life time receiuedst thy pleasures, and likewise Lazarus paines: now therefore is he comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 Besides all this, betwene you and vs there is a great gulfe set, so that they which wolde go from hence to you, can not, neither can they come from thence to vs.

27 Then he said, I pray thee therefore father, that thou woldest send him to my fathers house, 28 (For I haue fise brethre) that he may testify vnto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham said vnto him, They haue Moses & the Prophetes: let them heare them.

30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham:

^q Which declareth that it is to late to be instructed by the dead, if in their life time they can not profite by the liuely wordes of God. ^r As faith cometh by Gods wordes, so it is maintained by the same. ⁿ Whereby is signified that most blessed life, ^j they ^j dye in the faith that Abraham did, that enioye after this worlde.

^o Christ describeth spiritual things by such a manner of speache, as is most propre to our vnderstanding: for our soules haue neither fingers nor eyes, neither are they thurstie or speake: but ^j Lord as it were in a table, painteth forth the state of the liue to come, as our capacite is able to comprehend it

² By the example of the widowe, and the Publicane Christ teacheth how to pray. 15 By the example of children he exhorteth to humilitie. 18 Of the way to be saued, and what things let. 19 The rewardes promised to vs. 31 And of the crosse.

ANd he spake also a parable vnto the,
to this end, that they ought alwayes to pray, and not to waxe fainte,

2 Saying, There was a iudge in a certeine citie, which feared not God, nether reuerēced man.

3 And there was a widowe in y citie, which came vnto him, saying, " Do me iustice against mine aduersarie.

4 And he wolde not for a time: but afterwarde he said with him self, Though I feare not God, not reuerence man,

5 Yet because this widowe troubleth me,
I wil do her right, lest at the last she come and make me wearie.

6 And the Lord said, Heare what the vn-righteous iudge saith.

7 Now shal not God aduenge his elect, w crye day and night vnto him, yea, though he suffer long for them?

8 I tel you he wil aduenge the quickly: but when the Sonne of man cometh, shal he finde faith on the earth?

9 ¶ He spake also this parable vnto certei-ne which trusted in them selues that they were iuste, and despised other,

10 Two men wet vp into y Tēple to pray:
the one a Pharise, and the other a Publicā.

11 The Pharise stood & prayed thus with him self, O God, I thanke thee that I am not as other mē, extortioners, vniust, adulterers, or euen as this Publican.

12 I fast twise in the weke: I giue tithe of all that euer I possesse.

13 But the Publicane standing a farre of, wolde not lift vp so muche as his eyes to heauen, but smote his brest, saying, O God, be merciful to me a sinner.

14 I tel you, this man departed to his house iustified, rather then the other: * foreuerie man that exalteth him self, shalbe brought low, & he that humbleth him self, shalbe exalted.

15 ¶ They brought vnto him also babes, that he shulde touche them. And when his disciples sawe it, they rebuked them.

16 But Iesus called s them vnto him and said, Suffie the babes to come vnto me, & forbid them not: for of h suche is the kingdome of God.

17 Verely I say vnto you, whosoever recei-ueth not the kingdome of God as a babe, he shal not enter therein.

18 * Thē a certeine ruler asked him, saying,
Good master, what ought I to do, to inheri-te eternal life?

19 And Iesus said vnto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, saue one, euen God.

20 Thou knowest the commandements,

* Thou shalt not commit adulterie: Thou shalt not kil: Thou shalt not steale: Thou shalt not beare false witnes: Honour thy father and thy mother.

21 And he said, All these haue I kept from my youth.

22 Now whē Iesus heard that, he said vnto him, Yet lackest thou one thing. Sel all y euer thou hast, & distribute vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, folowe me.

23 But when he heard those things, he was verie heauie: for he was marueilous riche.

24 And when Iesus sawe him sorowful, he said, With what difficultie shal they that haue riches, entre into the kingdome of God?

25 Surely it is easier for a camel to go through a nedles eye, then for a riche man to entre into the kingdome of God.

26 Then said they that heard it, And who then can be saued?

27 And he said, The things which are vn-possible with mē, are possible with God.

28 ¶ Then Peter said, Lo, we haue left all,
and haue followed thee.

29 And he said vnto the, Verely I say vnto you, there is no man that hath left housie, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or childre for the kingdome of Gods sake,

30 Which shal not receiue muche more in this worlde, and in the worlde to come life euerlasting.

31 ¶ Then Iesus toke vnto him the twelue, and said vnto them, Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, and all things shalbe fulfilled to the Sonne of man, that are written by the Prophetes.

32 For he shalbe deliuered vnto the Gētiles and shalbe mocked, and shalbe spitefully entreated, and shalbe spitted on.

33 And when they haue scourged him, they wil put him to death: but the third day he shal rise againe.

34 But thei vnderstode none of these thigs, and this saying was hid from them, nether perceiued they the things, which were spoken.

35 ¶ And it came to passe, that as he was come nere vnto Iericho, a certeine blinde man sate by the way side begging.

Why Christ came.

S. Luke. The faithful seruant.

36 And when he heard the people passe by, he asked what it ment.

37 And thei said vnto him, that Iesus of Nazaret passed by.

38 Then he cryed, saying, Iesus the Sonne of Dauid, haue mercie on me.

39 And they which wet before, rebuked him, that he shulde holde his peace, but he cryed muche more, O Sonne of Dauid, haue mercie on me.

40 And Iesus stode stil, and commanded him to be broght vnto him. And when he was come nere, he asked him, 41 Saying, What wilt thou that I do vnto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receiue my sight.

42 And Iesus said vnto him, Receiue thy sight: thy faith hath saued thee.

43 Then immediatly he receiued his sight, and followed him, praising God: and all the people, when they sawe this, gaue praise to God.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Of Zaccheus. 12 The ten pieces of money 33 Christ rideth to Ierusalem, & wepeth for it. 45 He chafeth out the merchants, 47 And his enemies seke to destroy him.

1 Now when Iesus entred and passed through Iericho,

2 Beholde, there was a mā named Zaccheus, which was the chief receiuer of the tribute, and he was riche.

3 And he sought to se Iesus, who he shulde be, and colde not for the presse, because he was of a lowe stature.

4 Wherefore he ran before, and climed vp into a wilde figge tre, that he might se him: for he shulde come that way.

5 And when Iesus came to the place, he looked vp, and sawe him, and said vnto him, Zaccheus, come downe at once: for to day I must abide at thine house.

6 Then he came downe hastily, and receiued him ioyfully.

7 And when all they sawe it, they murmured, saying, that he was gone in to lodge with a sinneful man.

8 And Zaccheus stode forthe, & said vnto the Lord, Beholde, Lord, the halfe of my goods I giue to the poore: and if I haue taken fro anie man by forged cauillation, I restore him foure folde.

9 Then Iesus said to him, This day is saluation come vnto this house, forasmuch as he is also become the sonne of Abraham.

10 * For the Sonne of man is come to seke, and to saue that which was lost.

11 And whiles they heard these things, he continued and spake a parable, because he was nere to Ierusalem, and because also they thought that the kingdome of God shulde shortly appeare.

12 He said therefore, * A certeine noble mā went into a farre countrey, to receiue for him self a kingdome, and so to come againe.

13 And he called his ten seruants, and deliuered them ten^d pieces of money, and said vnto them, * Occupy til I come.

14 Now his citizēns hated him, and sent an ambassage after him, saying, We wil not haue this man to reigne ouer vs.

15 And it came to passe, when he was come againe, and had receiued his kingdome, y^e he comanded the seruants to be called to him, to whome he gaue his money, that he might knowe what euerie mā had gained.
